Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will find that Catarrh bothers them most then when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and Blood Purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

TWO INSPIRATIONAL ADDRESSES TO BE GIVEN AT CHAUTAUQUA.

The sort of lectures or addresses that inspire their hearers to wish to become of more account in life and to be better citizens have been classed as inspirational lectures and are always popular. Two such lectures will be given at Chautauqua, the first by William H. Stout, President of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association and a man of affairs who devoted a part of his time away from business delivering lectures. His theme when he speaks here will be "Seeing Life Whole", a very important matter to every individual in the world. There is much humor and entertainment in his address. The other inspirational speaker is a Canadian, Major Arthur Runnells, of Montreal, who will speak on "Sea Power and World Freedom". Major Runnells frequently crosses the line and tells large audiences in Boston or New York or Philadelphia that the sea power of Britain saved the freedom the world in 1914, and they cheer him! Major Runnells saw the surrender of the German Fleet and will tell briefly of that interesting event at the close of the Great War. He is a speaker of rare power and sweeps his audiences into the enthusiastic current of his oratory.

NOTABLE DEVELOPMENT IN POULTRY BREEDING

The Experimental Farms of the Dominion are doing some excellent work in poultry breeding. After four or five years, birds and strains have been produced of exceedingly high productive capacity. At Kentville, N.S., eleven breeding pens contain birds that in their pullet year laid an average of 197 eggs, the highest bird laying 270 eggs in 52 weeks. At this station a Barred Rock pullet laid 104 eggs in 104 days. In sections where a few years ago ten or a dozen eggs a year from a hen were a rarety, there are now hundreds that run to from 153 to 250. In the Eastern Townships, Quebec, 266 eggs have been reached and from 150 to 200 is a common record. In the Prairie Provinces the Experimental Farms have reached high record. At Indian Head, Sask., last year 105 pullets had an average of 183.7 eggs, the highest being 292. At Lethbridge, Alta., the average production has increased two or three times over what it was nine or ten years ago. New Brunswick has a similar tale to tell, one hen at Fredericton reaching 256 eggs in a year. British Columbia, however, takes the palm. At the Agassiz Experimental Farm, 200 eggs are common and from 250 to 270 are not rare. At the Vancouver Island station 200 pullets gave an average of 195.97, 82 going above 200. The high production of 300 eggs in a year has been reached for one pullet. Hens that cannot lay 200 in a twelve month are not wanted and no cockerel is retained unless his mother laid 250 eggs in her pullet year. It should be noted that high class breeding stocks and eggs are available to the public from the Experimental Farms. This opportunity is being well taken advantage of, the demand for pedigree cockerels, through which the best egg laying results are obtained, far exceeding the supply.

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are free from these pests. A vermifuge that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their lives.

The Comfort Costs You Nothing

Usually you pay for comfort and style.

But not in Goodyear Cord Tires.

The comfort from resiliency of these fine tires is a bonus. On the basis of mileage alone they cost less to use. The saving in car-depreciation, the saving in gasoline, the easier riding, are all clear profit to you.

Ask any motorist who uses Goodyear Cords if you want to know what real comfort is. Look over the cars which have been run thousands of miles on Goodyear Cords and note their good mechanical condition.

Inquire regarding Goodyear Cord Tire mileage for economy's sake. Note the tremendous increase in sales of these tires—because they cost less to use.

Certainly truck-owners are not much influenced by comfort or looks in buying tires. But Goodyear Cords dominate the pneumatic truck tire field. That's because both truck and tires cost less in the end.

ADOLPHUSTOWN.

(For last week).

A sad fatality occurred on Sunday morning last, when a bright young life was lost to our community, in the death of Reginald Beasley. Reggie, with a few companions, was bathing in the Napanee river, when suddenly he sank to the bottom, where his body was recovered some hours later. Reggie enlisted for overseas service in the early stages of the war, with the local corps, and his faithfulness and bravery were recognized by his winning the D. C. M. The funeral took place from S. Alban's Church on Tuesday afternoon, a large congregation being present to show their sympathy with the bereaved family. The bearers were Messrs. M. Anions, H. Smith, A. Hines, G. Gurney, F. Goddard and W. McCrudden, all being in soldier uniform. Interment was made in S. Alban's churchyard.—Judge Lavell, Kingston, gave an excellent address in the historic Hay Bay Methodist Chapel on Sunday last, which was greatly enjoyed by a large congregation.—The Girls' Altar Guild of S. Alban's Church scored another success on Tuesday evening, when they gave a strawberry festival on Mr. Marshall Mallory's lawn. The booths were artistically decorated in red and green, and were well patronized by the large number present. The Polymnia Male Quartette, Picton, furnished an attractive programme of vocal and instrumental music. The gross receipts amounted to over fifty-five dollars.—The Dramatic Club left Wednesday for Bath, where they are giving their two plays in the Masonic Hall.—A number of people from this vicinity are planning to go to Sandhurst next Tuesday evening to hear the inimitable Irishman, Canon F. W. Fitzgerald, give his humorous lecture on "Irish Wit and Humour".

Sores Flee Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

Kidney Trouble

Is quite common, gradually becoming more severe, and if prompt action is not taken, serious results will follow. The symptoms are headache and pain in the back, sleeplessness, ashen complexion, white coated tongue and frequent urination. If a puffy swelling is noted in the feet or ankles the disease is well established and you must give the kidneys all the help possible by stirring the liver and bowels into action. Take Henderson's Herb Tablets every night according to directions, watch the digestion carefully, drink plenty of cold water between meals.

Mrs. T. Bewington, 303 Wilton Ave., Toronto, Ont., says:

"I wish to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have received through Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. I suffered for a number of years with kidney and liver trouble and at times could scarcely do my work with the pain in my back, and cramps in my muscles. I am now 67 years of age and after using one box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment I feel like a new person.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment can be purchased at Hooper's Drug Store, Napanee, Ont., or The Henderson Herb Co., Toronto, Ont. Price 50c. and $1.00. 25b

SELBY

The June meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the Methodist Church on Wednesday, June 15th. After the opening hymn, the President, Mrs. Pringle, owing to the absence of the Evangelistic Superintendent, took charge of the Devotional Exercises, and gave an interesting paper on "Prayer". This was followed by prayer. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.—We then had a good report of the first day of the Convention at Camden East by our delegate, Mrs. Henry Martin. This was appreciated by all. A plan of work for the following year was discussed but nothing definite was decided. After a season of prayer the collection was taken up and the meeting closed with a hymn.—On Friday, June 17th, the regular monthly meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion was held in the school from 3 to 4 o'clock, the 1st Vice-President, D. Wense, presiding. After the usual opening, the roll was called, the members responding with the text for the day. Rev. Mr. Irish was present and addressed the children in a most interesting manner on the subject, "College and Character", the children showing their appreciation by their rapt attention. Helen Miles contributed to the pleasure of the afternoon by singing a solo, after which Miss Price spoke to the children on temperance. Following the benediction, the children were entertained by the Superintendent.

AND WE VOTED "YES"

'Twas a balmy summer's evening
And a goodly crowd was there;
Such dope we got in days gone by,
But now it seems threadbare.

No more gin rickys can we have,
Or highballs when we choose;
Since the old bartender's lost his job,
We've kissed them fond adieus.

The sawdust and the polished rail,
Departed with a shock;
And bums in back lanes whisper now
Do you want to buy a crock.

PLAIN TALK NO. 5

Dear People,—No doubt you will be a little surprised at us for our past methods of advertising; especially our old customers, for they know us well and expect something out of the ordinary. We must apologize for repetition, as business is always more than brisk at this season and calls for our efforts so urgently that we scarcely find time to eat. Now, there is a reason for our success, and let us briefly state we mean to stick to our ideals. Our leather and workmanship is, and always will be, of the very best. We work on a small margin and give satisfaction to all. As you are aware, there are several grades of leather and it is possible to have boots fixed at a very low cost, but, not so with us; we handle nothing inferior in quality, are best by far, so compare our work with others and be convinced. Our prompt service is also an item worthy of mention for we do everything same day as received. So all work left in the morning can be had that evening. We also carry the only unbreakable Shoe Laces in town. Don't ask for five cent laces for we would not handle them. Some good second-hand Boots for sale, cheap. Rubber Heels in a very few minutes. Yours for neatness and despatch.

McKINNON—PERRY.

The marriage of Miss Vyolet D. F. Perry, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perry, Camden East, to Mr. Kenneth J. McKinnon, Winnipeg, was solemnized at Westminster Church Manse, Winnipeg, on Saturday, June 11th, at 10 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Christie officiating. The bride wore her travelling suit of navy tricotine embroidered in grey, opening over a draped overblouse of grey canton crepe with navy taffeta pipings, and large grey georgette hat with grey ostrich trimmings and touches of French flowers. A corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley completed her costume. Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon left immediately after the ceremony for Banff. They will reside at 73 Canora St., Winnipeg.

COULTER—JACKSON.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jackson, Moscow, on Wednesday, at high noon, when their only daughter, Reta Mae, was united in marriage to Robert Wellesley, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coulter, of Marlbank. Rev. J. G. Robeson, of Enterprise, performed the ceremony.

Promptly to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Rosena Davey, of Enterprise, the bride, who looked very charming in a gown of white satin with silver lace and veil of filmy net caught with orange blossoms, and carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations and maiden hair fern, entered the parlor, leaning on the arm of her father, and took her place beneath an arch of evergreens and roses. She also wore the groom's gift, an onyx ring set with pearls.

Miss Florence Coulter, of Tweed, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a dress of white georgette crepe, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and maiden hair fern. Mr. Fred Bell, cousin of the bride, very ably supported the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold brooch set with pearls, to the groomsman gold cuff links, and to the pianist, a pearl necklace.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served, after which the happy couple amid showers of rice and confetti, motored to Yarker, and left on the 4.30 train for Toronto and other points. The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue serge with hat and veil to match.

The many useful and costly gifts received attest the high esteem in which the young couple are held. On their return they will reside near Moscow.

All the races are filled at Napanee for Dominion Day.

WHEN U. E. L. CAME TO BAY OF QUINTE.

W. S. HERRINGTON, NAPANEE, SPEAKS ON A SUBJECT ON WHICH HE IS AUTHORITY.

Echoes of the "good old days", when whiskey was thirty cents a gallon; when an "election day in Bath", which lasted a week, every one of the sixty-seven taverns were going full blast", were heard at the Lions' Club supper at the Quinte, Belleville, when W. S. Herrington, of Napanee, recounted in interesting fashion events of early days in this part of the world.

He is the outstanding authority on the early history of the Bay of Quinte and his books take the rank of text books.

The letters U.E.L. written after one's name, were originally a title, a mark of honor, signifying that the one in question had stood loyally behind the Royalist cause. The first complete list of U. E. Loyalists was prepared under the direction of Governor Simcoe and J. P.'s of that time were commissioned to make a list of Loyalists. Later these U. E. Loyalists were granted lands and their division of lots in front townships led to much controversy over who should be owner.

Mohawk Indians were the first U. E. Loyalists to move in, a band under its own chief reaching the Bay of Quinte three weeks before any Britishers marched in. Deseronto is named after its chief, the name being "Anglicised". There were about 33,000 Loyalists who came in from New York, many of them disbanded troops, under their old officers.

Deseronto, and especially the Village of Bath, were prominent places before Belleville was known, and Mr. Herrington dwelt on the glories of Bath in the old days.

The first mill in this part of Canada was at Napanee. Belleville was not then even surveyed and the Danforth highway went through Prince Edward County, skipping this section because there were no roads and no bridge.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST

to householders who have not done any papering in their walls this spring, but who have rooms that should be done. Our sales this season have broken all records, but we started with a stock of almost double the usual size, and in order to further reduce will offer for two weeks, bargains that cannot be surpassed anywhere. It is not because we are afraid that the prices will be lowered by the manufacturer before another season,—in fact, they are all agreed that there is no chance of a drop in wall papers; raw material and labor keeping just as high as at any time during the war. We have quite a number of lines, good stock, up-to-date patterns and coloring, that we will offer at prices lower than same goods can be bought for at the factory to-day. Handsome lines for kitchens, dining rooms and bed rooms at 15c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 25c. And so on, up to 60c. paper, now offered at 35c. If you think of doing any papering the present year, you will not regret it if you buy your paper from us, and do it now.

We will offer at actual cost every Boy's Wagon, Cart and Wheelbarrow in stock.

Base Balls from the cheapest for the boys up to the official League.

Window Shades, Room Mouldings, Picture Hooks, Push Pins, etc. If you paper a room and have it pleasing to the eye, do not spoil it by driving in nails on which to hang your pictures, but spend a few cents more and put up a picture moulding.

Bring in those Pictures you want framed, and have them done now before the fly season sets in.

A. F. Hamilton.

A Francis Hamilton, a well-known artist and designer, died at his home, Apartment 27, Bank of Hamilton Building, Queen St. and Spadina Ave., this morning. For the past six weeks he had been absent from business, suffering from hardening of the arteries. Deceased was born in Napanee, Ont., sixty-four years ago. He came to Toronto and had been employed with J. McCausland & Sons, painters and decorators, 11 Nelson Street, for the past twenty-six years, first as sign writer and later as designer. Canadian Orator and Poet to Close Program.

That the Chautauqua will close in a blaze of glory is assured by the presence on the last day of one of Canada's favorite sons, Dr. Robert Norwood, orator, poet and preacher. He will speak twice, in the afternoon on "Modern Canadian Poets", and in the evening on a theme of transcendent interest to all, "The Dominion and Its Destiny". When he has finished you'll be prouder of the fact that you are a Canadian, but not chestier.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST

to householders who have not done any papering to their walls this spring, but who have rooms that should be done. Our sale this season have broken all records, but we started with a stock of almost double the usual size, and in order to further reduce will offer for two weeks, bargains that cannot be surpassed anywhere. It is not because we are afraid that the prices will be lowered by the manufacturer before another season,—in fact, they are all agreed that there is no chance of a drop in wall papers; raw material and labor keeping just as high as at any time during the war. We have quite a number of lines, good stock, up-to-date patterns and colorings, that we will offer at prices lower than some goods can be bought for at the factory to-day. Handsome lines for kitchens, dining rooms and bed rooms at 18c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 25c. And so on, up to 60c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 75c. and so on, up to 60c. think-of doing any papering the present year, you will not regret it if you buy your paper from us, and do it now.

We will offer at actual cost every Boy's Wagon, Cart and Wheelbarrow in stock.

Base Balls from the cheapest for the boys up to the official League.

Window Shades, Room Mouldings, Picture Hooks, Push Pins, etc. If you paper a room and have it pleasing to the eye, do not spoil it by driving in nails on which to hang your pictures, but spend a few cents more and put up a picture moulding.

Bring in those Pictures you want framed, and have them done now before they get soiled.

On Tuesday evening, June 28th, a large number of the friends of Rev. and Mrs. H. P. L. Seymour met at the home of Mr. Thos. Mellroy, Sandhurst, and presented them with the following address and Mrs. Seymour with a purse of money:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Seymour:

Dear Friends.—The limited time at our disposal, before you leave Sandhurst to enter upon your new field of labor, affords us the opportunity of expressing our very great appreciation of your time and service with us.

But we are aware you that we were not aware of this thing.

Your sermons were always well prepared, well delivered and appropriate, and we shall miss them.

Mrs. Seymour, we have appreciated your well kept home and you have always been ready to open it for any public function of any kind.

Distance may intervene, between us, but the same God watches over all.

With this assurance and as a slight remembrance we ask you to accept this small gift.

From your friends at Sandhurst and Sillsville.

Mr. Seymour made a very feeling reply on behalf of Mrs. Seymour and himself, after which all joined in the Tie that Binds" was sung.

WILSON—EDMONDS.

At Trinity Church, on Thursday afternoon, June 23rd, 1921, at four o'clock, Miss Lorenia Wilson, B.A., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Wilson, was united in marriage to Ernest W. Edmonds, B.A., of St. Catharines. Rev. Dr. Shorey performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. They were unattended. The bride looked lovely in a travelling suit of taupe tricotine with hat to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of sweetheart roses and orchids. The wedding march was played by Prof. Baird. Following the ceremony a dainty buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents, and the young couple left for a short trip to Montreal. An unusual number of beautiful gifts were received by the bride, among them gifts from the Wilson High School, Sunday School and church. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds will return to Napanee to take up their residence. The groom is a missionary in China. Both bride and groom are graduates of Victoria College, Toronto. Mr. Edmonds left September they will sail from Vancouver for China to take up work in the Chinese University in West China. The out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mrs. W. C. McKay, St. Catharines, sister of the groom; Mrs. F. E. Todd, Hamilton, sister of the bride; Mr. Herbert Wilson, Adolphustown; Miss Florence Ribey, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forsyth, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wilson and daughter, Miss Toronto, and Mrs. C. H. Boyes, Kingston.

HEALEY—KILLORAN.

The Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, when Mary Myrtle, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Killoran, became the bride of Mr. Dennis Healey, son of Mr. John Healey, of Stone. Rev. Father Meagher performed the ceremony. The bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn wedding march played by Mrs. J. M. Breault, sister of the bride, and looked very charming in a gown of white Georgette draped over white satin, with silver lace trimmings, and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and white lilies of the valley. Miss Regis Killorin, youngest sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wore apple green organdie with white organdie hat and black trimmings. She carried pink and white carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Francis Healey.

Before the marriage ceremony, "Come Holy Ghost" was rendered by the Choir, and during the Holy Sacrifice of the mass O Salutaris, Lamblotte's Ave Marie, Eccevideo were rendered, the Choir being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. M. Breault and Mr. F. J. Morrow, of Tottenham.

After the reception the happy couple left for Belleville.

SWITZERVILLE.

The extreme heat of the past week has left its merciless trail behind it. It seemed as though Mr. Sun looked down upon this swiftly revolving earth with a broad scornful laugh and a heartless feeling towards the many perfections of nature which he is enerely destroying. The week little strawberry vines which once so proudly bore their many blossoms and promised such a bountiful harvest, have nearly withdrawn from the field of labour and lie feebly basking in the sun. The grass, which for many days lay as a soft green carpet under our tread, is no longer struggling to exist, but is giving way to a will stronger than its own. MARKETING THE SURPLUS STOCK.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Distribute the sale of market birds over as many of the twelve months as possible. Sell when the price is good and the birds ready. As far as possible, get out of the habit of marketing everything in the fall of the year. Watch the markets and have your birds ready when you can get the prices.

Hens.—The best prices are received for hens in the spring of the year. A good plan is to sell out all the hens you do not intend to keep over for breeding purposes another year and sell as soon as the egg yield drops. This will occur after the breeding season is over, and usually along about the 1st of July for the poorer ones, the better layers a little bit later.

Whether these birds should be killed before selling will depend upon the demand. In some large cities, a better price is paid for the live bird than for the dressed. The killing there-fore, will depend upon the prices paid.

Which Hens to Market.—When trap-nesting is followed the matter is simple, for the non-producers can be singled out at any time. Where trap-nests are not used the selection is made much more convenient if leg bands are used to distinguish the hens from the pullets, and the early-laying pullets from the later ones. With these marks the hens and the low-producing pullets can be disposed of. The aim should be to keep over the summer months only the birds that are paying well for their keep, and that are to be kept for breeding purposes the next spring.

In the case of Leghorns or other light breeds, it may pay to keep all pullets over the summer, but this must be determined by the number of eggs they are laying as soon after their egg production comes below their cost of keep even Leghorns should be disposed of.

Broilers.—Broilers are chickens weighing not over four to five pounds to the pair. In recent years the demand and the prices have risen for broilers and now for those who are close to a good broiler market, it pays to sell their cockerels as broilers rather than hold them until fall and sell them as roasters. It is a good plan, therefore, to get rid of as many cockerels as you intend to sell, during the broiler stage, if the price available at that time makes it worth while, and usually it does. The selling of broilers at this time of the year cuts down on the feed bill and leaves more room for the pullets to mature.

Ducks.—The only time to sell market ducks is when they are about ten weeks of age and can be marketed in the trade as "green ducks." Usually where there is a demand for this class of ducks they will bring a bigger price per bird at this stage than at any later stage, and the cost of production is materially less.

Roasters.—In spite of the number that can sell broilers, the bulk of the cockerels will be sold as roasters weighing from 4½ to 6 pounds in the fall. In discussing of feeding it pays to crate feed. The last pound of flesh is the cheapest part of the whole carcass and enhances the value of the entire bird. Do not dispose of any lot of poultry stock without special feeding, and for the larger cockerels, especially, the crate feeding system is best.

Turkeys and Geese.—Geese are becoming more popular each year and deserve more attention on the average farm than they have received. The grazing feeding habit of the goose is an added reason for goose flesh being one of the cheapest poultry meats produced.

Turkeys continue to be our highest priced poultry flesh and no doubt will maintain this position for some time. But the ravages of blackhead each year seem to make it harder to produce turkeys. In marketing turkeys about more than any other class of poultry meat, it is essential that they be well-fed. Turkeys cannot be too fat and in disposing of them keep in mind that turkeys are used for festival occasions. Have them ready, therefore, in plenty of time for Thanksgiving and Christmas, and do not leave the marketing of them too near the time at which they are required for eating.

ROD AND GUN.

The July number of Rod and Gun in Canada, the well known sportsmen's magazine, contains many interesting fishing stories and articles; including "Piscatorial Doubters", a tale of Timagami fishing by M. Parkinson. Pisciculture, by Leo Baker, describes the culture of game fishes at one of the fifteen government hatcheries. The hunter is well looked after in this issue with interesting accounts of hunting trips in Ontario and British Columbia. For the lover of firearms, there is the Guns and Ammunition department, conducted by C. S. Landis. The well known nature writers, Bonnycastle Dale, F. V. Williams and Robert Page Lincoln are represented in this issue. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, at Woodstock, Ontario.

An officer on board a warship was drilling his men. "I want every man to lie on his back, with his feet in the air and move them as if he were riding a bicycle," he explained. "Now commence."

After a short effort one of the men stopped.

"Why have you stopped, Murphy?" asked the officer.

"If ye please, sir," was the answer, "I'm coasting."

"Oh he secured the acquittal of a client to-day for the first time, and he was so rattled that he moved for a new trial."

Rub It In for Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

"Why do you always dine when there's an orchestra?"

"As a matter of precaution. Sometimes the music helps me to forget the food, and sometimes the food helps me to forget the music."

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment that they should derive from food, and mal-nutrition is the result. Mother's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the full nourishment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

"Ah'll tell you, missus," answered Sally, "Ah raise' dem boys with a barrel-stave, an' Ah raise' 'em free-dom."

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

How Organized and Conducted in This Province.

Over 900 Branches With 30,000 Members — Three Annual Conventions — Some Outstanding Varieties of Field Crops—Fresh Fruit For the Farm.

(National Crop Improvement Service.) Agriculture, Toronto.)

In Ontario there are 916 branch Institutes, with a membership of approximately 30,000. The province is divided into three divisions, eastern, central and western Ontario. Eastern Ontario contains three, central Ontario eleven, and western Ontario three subdivisions.

The delegates to the annual convention in each division name a representative from their respective subdivision to form a Board of Directors for the Provincial Federation. These directors, from among themselves, elect officers on the executive, and also name representatives to the Dominion Federation.

The principle and designation of the standing committees and the system of holding and financing their meetings is provided for in the constitution of the provincial organization and the following committees have been named: Health, Education and Better Schools; Immigration, Agriculture, Legislation, Home Economics and Publicity.

Annual conventions are held at Ottawa, London and Toronto; plans for the same being made in cooperation with representatives of the provincial committee and local committees chosen at the time of the conventions.

The Institutes are entirely independent of the Department, so far as their local meetings are concerned. The provincial organization is also quite independent of the department, but it is utilized in an advisory capacity. The superintendent of Institutes suggests lines of work for the Institutes from time to time, and places before them reports of what the Institutes are doing in various sections of the province, as well as other sections of the Dominion. The Department furnishes lecturers for single meetings, and instructors for short courses as outlined in circular No. 18.

The membership fee of twenty-five cents per member is wholly used for local purposes. The Government grant is $2 to each branch having a membership of fifteen and holding at least six meetings a year and furnishing the reports asked for by the Department, including a list of members, financial statement and brief reports of meetings. A grant of $10 is also given to the district organization, with an additional $5 on account of each branch in the district which makes a satisfactory report.—Geo. A. Putnam, Superintendent, Farmers' Institutes, Toronto.

Some Outstanding Varieties of Field Crops.

Rye.—Of the spring varieties of rye, the O. A. C. No. 61 has not only given the highest average yield of grain per acre at the college but has surpassed the common spring rye in the co-operative experiments throughout Ontario in each of the past nine years, the average being practically three bushels per acre in favor of the former.

Field Peas.—The Canadian Beauty variety of field peas is one of the best of the large, smooth, white kinds. The Arthur, originated at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, is coming into prominence. It is a medium late white pea of medium size. The Golden Vine is a small white field pea and one of the most suitable for mixing with oats in the production of green fodder or of hay by using one bushel of peas and two bushels of oats per acre. The Golden Vine peas and the O.A.C. No. 72 oats make an admirable combination.

Field Beans.—The Small White pea bean is the commercial variety of Ontario and is one which is grown extensively. The Pearce's Improved Tree bean is a medium late large yielding variety, producing large sized white beans of excellent quality. This variety has given excellent results in some localities.

Buckwheat.—The Silver Hull buckwheat produces a grain of excellent quality and is used considerably throughout the province. The Rough buckwheat is not so well known but it is an exceedingly heavy yielder producing about fifty per cent. larger yield of grain per acre than the Silver Hull. Although the last named variety is a high yielder, the grain possesses a thick hull and is not of an attractive appearance.—C. A. Zavitz, Professor of Field Husbandry, O. A. College, Guelph.

Dairying In June.

Cows in clover or good June-grass pasture require very little attention. This is the ideal month for dairy operations. More milk and better milk, are produced in the month of June, than at any other time of the year, in Ontario. If there are any hot days, be careful to cool both milk and cream, by setting in cool water, or cold well water. Sour milk and cream are too frequently sent to the factory. Don't forget to wash the cream separator and strainer daily, or after each time of using.

Fresh Fruit For the Farm.

For a very small sum any farmer may have a few rows of strawberries, two or three dozen of raspberries, currants, etc., which will give fresh fruit at cheapest cost. A few grapes will also pay. Selling strawberry plants and berry canes will also bring in an odd dollar or two for the widowaske man or woman, or boy or girl.

Learn what an easy, comfortable shave means with an Auto Strop Safety Razor. Try one out at our expense for a month. Wallace's Drug Store.

Barnet Refrigerators

Save Food Bills, Ice Bills, Doctor's Bills Worry and Work

Loss of food through souring, spoilage, decomposition, etc., amounts yearly to a sum more than sufficient to buy all the refrigerators made. Housewives who own a Barnet Refrigerator, however, do not contribute one cent to this awful waste, even in the most stifling days of summer, when it is hard to keep food fresh.

Easily perishable foods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their full, fresh flavor. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded securely from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that these refrigerators will pay for themselves in a short time through the saving in food alone!

The Barnet has eleven distinct walls! That means a slow consumption of ice—another saving. It also means lower temperature for the amount of ice consumed. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 39 degrees.

Disease germs cannot multiply in such a low temperature. And as there are no joints, crevices or cracks in which bits of food can hide away and spoil, the owner of a Barnet can rest happy in the knowledge that disease cannot attack her family through her refrigerator. She is thus free from the generally present worry about sickness, and is saved money in doctors' bills.

POINTS OF BARNET SUPERIORITY

Barnet is ventilated	Air circulates in Barnet
Foods do not taint or contaminate one another	Interior always bone dry
Has no Drain Pipe	Has eleven walls of insulation
No foul odors	Lowest temperature for ice consumed
No breeding place for germs	Has adjustable shelves
Easy to clean

Chinese Peanuts.

Shantung appears not only in peace treaties, but in peanuts. It is the biggest peanut raising district in China. It is estimated that it raises about 500,000,000 pounds of peanuts every year and that it exports about 266,000,000 pounds of shelled and unshelled nuts. Before the war some 60 per cent of the total export went to Europe. In 1918 the total exportations from China of peanut oil were 40,000 tons, worth $8,000,000. One-half of this was sent to America. The domestic consumption by China of peanuts and oil is enormous. In north and south China the people use peanuts for food and for cooking purposes. What is sent abroad is but a small percentage of the aggregate product. Peanut cake, which is the refuse after extracting oil, is used mainly for the feeding of animals.

In loving memory of S. S. Wakelin, who departed this life June 30th, 1920.

Oh what would we give to clasp his hand,
His dear kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
Which meant so much to us.

God knows how much we miss him,
And He counts the tears we shed;
And whispers, hush, he only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead.

FEED LAYING PULLETS

They Need Extra Food to Keep Laying.

Wheat and Corn Preferred by Poultry—Egg-Often Results of Green Food—Beet Growers Can Make Good Syrup.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

A pullet requires more feed than a hen, if it is intended that the pullet shall produce eggs. A bird to lay well must have a surplus of feed over and above body maintenance. The excess of feed above body maintenance goes either towards growth, fat, or egg production. Now the pullet requires more feed than the hen is because her growth is usually not complete when she begins laying.

Poultry prefer wheat and corn to almost any other grain, but a lot depends on what they were fed when growing. Certain feeds they never have seen they do not eat readily, when first fed. Hence one person's hens eat oats or barley much better than their neighbor's. The available grain feeds on the farm are corn, buckwheat, barley, and oats. Good wheat cannot be used. The non-milling wheat, such as that which is sprouted, or very small, may be used up to twenty-five per cent. of the ration.

Poultry feeds are divided into two classes: one, whole or cracked grains, commonly called scratch feed; and the other, ground grains, commonly called mash.

Scratch feeds are generally fed night and morning, and are scattered in straw in order to induce the birds to scratch or take exercise. A mixture of two or more kinds of grain usually gives better results than one single grain, largely because individual birds' appetites vary from day to day. A good mixture for the winter month might contain as much as fifty per cent. good corn, either whole or cracked; if corn could not be had, and the birds were accustomed to eating buckwheat, the buckwheat would answer nearly as well, or one could use twenty-five per cent. buckwheat and twenty-five per cent. corn. If the corn or buckwheat could be added twenty-five per cent. of barley, ten per cent. of wheat screenings, and fifteen per cent. of good oats. If one was obliged to do so, almost any of the grains could be fed alone with the exception of oats. There is too much hull or husk on oats to use entirely as a single feed.

At present, for a mash feed we are using the standard hog feed. If the ground grains are to be fed moist they are mixed with cooked potatoes or milk; when fed the mixture should be so that will run in a crumbly state, but if fed dry in an open hopper the above is not so important.

The mash feed is the one where the animal meals are generally fed. The meals may vary from one to twenty per cent. of the mixture. The animal meals used are condensed milk, grade milkage and beef scrap. Where one has plenty of skimmilk or buttermilk the other animal feeds are unnecessary. Some use green cut bone; cooked refuse fish, such as fish heads, beef heads, etc.

A very good mash can be made of one part each by measure of shorts, barley meal, and ground oats. Some prefer to mix the first the place of the barley or with it. Where a short of green food or roots, it would be well to add one part of bran. Perhaps the simplest mash to feed from an open hopper is rolled or crushed oats. We have used this, when the birds had milk to drink, for a number of years with excellent results.

Laying hens require plenty of green food. This green, succulent food is very important. Too much grain and no green food at times is very dangerous. Cabbage is one of the best green feeds. Roots are very good, but clover leaves should be within reach as well as the roots. Sprouted oats are used to a large extent on poultry farms. When the birds get accustomed to a green and succulent food it is generally wise to give them all they will eat. A pan of fifteen pullets will eat a fair-sized head of cabbage almost every day, or one hundred hens will eat a peck of sprouted oats day after day.

Where your grain sweet and clean, but not crafty. Give the hens plenty to eat and some variety to the feeds. If you are regular in feeding and kind in your manner, the hens usually respond with very fair egg production.

Early After-Harvest Cultivation.

"A stitch in time saves nine." In the case of weed control, a thorough after-harvest cultivation prevents many thousands of weeds from developing seeds, thus saving hours of tedious labor the succeeding season. Early after-harvest cultivation is one of the best ways to destroy annual and wither annual weeds, such as False Flax, Corn Cockle, Wild Buckwheat, Pigweed, Wild Mustard, Wormseed Mustard and Annual Sow Thistle. Plough shallow, not more than three or four inches deep, immediately after harvest, and narrow and cultivate frequently. By this shallow ploughing the weed seeds are kept near the surface and by the frequent stirring of the soil they are made to sprout, and having sprouted they are easily destroyed by further cultivation.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

One and a half ats. of formalin in 15½ ga. of water fed at the rate of one teaspoonful per pint of milk is a good remedy in the case of diarrhoea in calves.

WITH SHEEP IN SUMMER

Care of Weanlings and the Flock Generally.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

For best results lambs should be weaned at between four and five months. It has been found that under conditions prevailing during the hot dry months of mid-summer the ewes will drop off considerably in their milk flow. The lambs receive comparatively little nourishment, and it is better for both ewe and lamb for them to be separated. When the lambs are removed from the ewes they will miss little the small amount of milk they would receive, and will soon learn to depend upon pasture. They should receive the very best pasture available. Nothing else is better than a patch of rape sown at the proper time, so as to be ready for pasture when the lambs are weaned. Care should be exercised in turning the lambs on the fresh rape to avoid bloating and probable death. Turn them in during the middle of the day when the rape leaves are absolutely dry, and allow them to become accustomed to the change. A field of grass adjoining the rape pasture will give better results than the rape alone. If no rape is available fresh clover seeding or second growth clover will give satisfactory results. In addition to pasture a feed of grain once a day will make the lambs along to a good finish. At no time should it be necessary to feed over one-half pound of grain per day to each lamb while on pasture.

Frequent change of pasture is beneficial to, and relished by, all classes of stock, and this applies with special emphasis to the case of sheep. It is true for two reasons. Sheep are subject to parasitic diseases which may be prevented to a large extent by not pasturing on any one area for too great a length of time. In addition to this they are possibly more fastidious about their food than are some other farm animals. It is not practicable on every farm to arrange for a succession of pastures during the grazing season. However, the same area will sustain considerable more sheep if such an arrangement is possible. Rye sown early in the fall furnishes a good deal of pasture in the late fall and early spring. After the rye is eaten off in the spring rape may be sown on this land and will come along for pasture in June or July. Alfalfa and red clover are satisfactory pasture crops and will serve until the rape is ready. An annual pasture consisting of one bushel each of wheat, oats and barley together with eight pounds of red clover provides a good pasture for the early summer months, and the clover coming along in the autumn will give a nice pick-ing. This annual pasture may be sown any time early in May. Without a great deal of additional labor it is possible to have a succession of crops ready for seeding throughout the entire season.—J. P. Sackville, O. A. College, Guelph.

Forest Airmen's Records.

Forest fire patrol performed by the air service of the war department, with its personnel and equipment, and at the expense of that organization in three months uninterrupted service made 745 flights, covering 92,000 miles, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Many fires were discovered, located and reported. Six patrol routes, covering national forest areas of high value were followed. Regular flights each day of airplanes covered the better part of 9,000,000 acres of rough, mountainous, heavily timbered country. The average non-stop run was 160 miles; the average round trip, 220 miles.

Taft's Unique Walking Stick.

Former President Taft owns a walking stick that is 250,000 years old. When Prof. W. S. Foster of Spokane was investigating the geological history of southern Alberta a few years ago he discovered a stump in a peat bed amid glacial drift in the valley of Old Man river. The age of the stump was estimated by geologists at a quarter of a million years.

Professor Foster took the stump home to Seattle with other souvenirs of the glacial epoch and when the Spokane people on one of Mr. Taft's visits wanted to give him a unique present they had a cane fashioned from the wood.

TRUCK LOAD OF CHILDREN DITCHED.

Lockport, N.Y., June 24.—Several pupils of St. Patrick's School and two nuns of St. Mary's Convent were injured to-day shortly before noon when a truck loaded with school children in charge of sisters plunged through a fence and went into a ditch in the gulley just north of the village of Newfane.

They were members and teachers of the 7th and 8th grades, and were enroute to Olcott for a picnic. The truck was driven by John Delahunt of this city, who was pinned under the truck when it turned over. He was not injured. A loose nut on the steering gear is blamed for the accident. The nut came off allowing the truck to swerve sharply to the left of the road, where it plunged through the fence into a small gully. The passengers were thrown clear off the truck and suffered cuts, bruises and in two instances broken bones. They were brought to Lockport and attended, later being removed to their homes.

The wrecked truck was the third to leave the city bound for Olcott. It contained pupils of the 7th and 8th grades and Sisters Alexis and Bertchman. The first load of the picknickers left he city at 9.30, and was followed shortly afterward by the second. The third left here about 11.30. It was moving at a moderate pace when the accident happened.

The two sisters suffered bruises and minor cuts, but were not seriously injured.

The most seriously injured was Miss Madonna Quinn, age 16, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Quinn of 239 Niagara street. She suffered a compound fracture of the right arm. Dr. F. T. Carmer, of Newfane, gave first aid, and the girl was brought to this city, where she was attended at the City Hospital.

NO MORE 'GROUCH'

Why Mr. Parker Has Permanently Reformed.

Something Providential in the Fact That He Should Step on That Broken Needle and Draw His Own Conclusion.

A needle in the sole of a foot is painful, but in the following story written by a contributor in the Atlantic Monthly, it brought salvation to a man who was very much in need of it. Parker was a "sorehead"—sullen at breakfast, surly at dinner, quarrelsome in the office, crusty on the street, a bear at the party, a hog on the road, a fly in the ointment. His wife was afraid of him, his children were afraid of him, his clerks were afraid of him. He was a "grouch."

One night, about two in the morning, he rose, grumbling, to fasten a flapping shutter. On the way to the window he emitted a yelp of distress. When they turned on the lights, Parker was sitting on the floor, tugging at something embedded in the sole of his left foot. Presently he held up half of a needle! It was evident, they thought, that the other half had remained in his foot.

The family was drowsily sympathetic, but confident that the doctor would find the broken needle in the morning with a magnet. Parker, however, slept little during the remainder of the night; he feared blood poisoning.

Immediately after the breakfast he sought the family physician, who, after patient investigation, assured him that he must have stepped on an already broken needle, for there was no fragment of the steel to be found. But Parker knew that he was carrying in his body a deadly thing that undoubtedly had started upon its fatal mission. He left the office early that afternoon and went home to surprise Mrs. Parker with a display of more tenderness than she had ever observed in him since their honeymoon, which had long ago passed into total eclipse. At dinner he appeared greatly interested in the conversation of Bill and Susie about the high school party. He patted Rags, the dog, who surveyed him for some moments with an expression of undisguised incredulity before retiring to the hearth to reflect upon the relationship of humanity and caninity.

All that night Parker lay awake preparing for the speedy wind-up of his terrestrial affairs, and at breakfast he bewildered the household by encouraging a conversation concerning other interests than his own. At the office curiosity reigned supreme and unsated. The clerks asked one another what in the world had come over the old man; and when he went out for lunch, Parker gave a blind man a quarter and bought a War Cry of a Salvation army lassie.

The shadow never lifted. Every night when he went to sleep he bade himself good-by, for the chances of his being alive in the morning were just as remote as they would ever be. But it was not a morbid shadow. It forced him to generate more light.

Sometimes his eyes grew moist and his throat ached when he reflected upon the deeply sympathetic understanding of his wife, who studiously avoided any reference to the impending tragedy, and who, in spite of her secret sorrow, acted up to the situation in manner heroic.

The fact that Mrs. Parker, while moving the rug in her husband's room on the morning following the accident, discovered half a needle—the point driven firmly into the floor—may also have given her courage to see the terrible thing through with cheerful resignation.

Building Character.

The character of the building reflects the soul of the man. The general plan reveals the ideal of the builder. Strong characters can't be evolved from shallow natures. There must be the character stuff there to build on. No matter how rough this may be there are processes by which it may be made smooth. But you never can put a finish on things naturally inferior. The very process reveals the lack of worth on which to build. It's different with great souls. These, like great rivers, are not easily ruffled. Too currents of their thought, like deep waters, refuse to become choppy with every rippling wind that passes over them. Gales and freshets are not without their influence, but they can never change the nature of things.

Wanted to Help.

There was a disagreeable grind in the left rear wheel, and we drew up at the roadside to investigate. A neighbor who was along went to a nearby fence and started to drag a log toward the car. We watched open-mouthed as he dropped it beside the wheel we were going to take off. Being sensitive, we gently told him we had a jack for the car. "Oh, all right," said he, and reaching down with a mighty heave he lifted the car from the ground. "There," he panted, "can you get the jack under now?"—Exchange.

As it Goes.

"The first time I put a mortgage on the house it was to buy an automobile."

"Well?"

"And now I have to mortgage it to pay the cook."

"Why do you always dine where there's an orchestra?"

"As a matter of precaution. Sometimes the music helps me to forget the food, and sometimes the food helps me to forget the music."

DEAN'S DAIRY COLUMN

Three Big Questions Answered for Milk Dealers.

Shall I Sell Milk or Cream?—Should Cows Be Fed on Turnips?—How to Pack Butter for Keeping.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Shall I sell milk or cream? This will be determined to a large extent by the character of the farming operations. If the need for direct, quick cash in largest amount is great, then selling milk will best "fill the bill." On the other hand, if the dairy farmer can afford to wait for the slower returns from cream and live stock, and particularly if he desires to improve or maintain soil fertility, then selling cream is to be recommended.

Nearness to market is another factor. Where the dairyman is near a small town and has the time to "peddle" milk, he can make more money out of his cows than by any other system. At ten to twelve cents a quart, a good cow will return from $250 to $300 per year for her milk. When this is compared with $100 to $150 per cow, where cream is sold, or milk sent to a cheese factory or condensery, we see what a decided money advantage there is in selling milk to customers direct.

But this plan robs the young things on the farm—often the farmer's own children—of needed milk supply, hence many farmers are content with less ready cash in order to have better and more live stock, and consequently richer soil, which, after all, is the basis of good farming.—H. H. D.

Should Cows Be Fed Turnips?

This is an old question about which considerable difference of opinion exists. If my reader is Scotch, he or she will likely answer the question by saying, "Yes," as Scotchmen, turnips, and good farming are three things usually found together on farms in Ontario.

There was a time when butter buyers were not so particular about the flavor of butter as they are at present. It is common to hear women purchasers on city markets, say to farm butter-makers, "Your butter is turnipy," which is sufficient to cause a loss of the sale. Creamerymen object very strongly to "turnipy cream." While it is doubtless true that some careful feeders are able to feed quite large quantities of turnips to cows giving milk, without causing any serious trouble, there is always danger, which can best be avoided by not feeding these to milking cows. If they are grown on the dairy, farm they are best fed to dry cows, fattening cattle, young stock, pigs, etc. However, if they are fed in the stable where cows are to be milking, and more especially where the root house opens into the stable and where the turnips are pulped in the stable or in a feed-room adjoining, the odor of the turnipd fills the air, which is carried into the milk pail at the time of milking, and thus the milk, cream, and butter become tainted from the stable air, ever though the milk cows may not be fed any of the turnips.

The safest plan is not to grow turnips on a dairy farm. Grow mangels, or sugar beets, and corn for silage. These crops will give as good returns as turnips, are no more expensive to grow, and are much safer.

"Safety First" is a good motto on a dairy farm.—H. H. D.

How to Pack Butter for Keeping.

The first point to observe in the packing of butter, in order to have it keep well for winter use, is to have good butter. The best butter for packing is usually made in the months of June and September. It is preferably made from comparatively sweet cream which has been pasteurized. However, on the farm pasteurization is not commonly followed, hence the butter should be made when the weather is comparatively cool, and the cream should be churned before it becomes very sour. In fact, the sweeter the cream the more likely it is to produce good keeping quality in the butter, so long as there is sufficient acid on the cream to give good churning results.

The cream should be churned in the usual way, except that the butter may be washed once with brine, which is made by dissolving salt in water, instead of using water at both washings. Salt at the usual rate, but not over one ounce of salt per pound of butter, because salt does not preserve butter, as is commonly supposed, except in a minor degree for unpasteurized cream butter. It is a mistake, however, to do so much salt that the fine flavor of the butter is covered up.

Having worked the butter as usual, pack it firmly into crocks, tubs or boxes. For unparaffined wooden packages are used, these should be soaked several days in salt water to prevent "woody" flavor in the butter. A better plan is to coat the inside of the tub or box with hot wax, then line with heavy parchment paper, before packing the butter. Glazed crocks which are clean need no lining.

When the package is full, preferably all from one churning, smooth the top of the butter, cover with parchment paper or a clean cotton cloth, then tie heavy brown paper over the top and place in a cool cellar, or in cold-storage. Sometimes a salt paste is put on top of the cloth or paper, and this kept moist by sprinkling on water from time to time. This excludes the air and helps to keep the butter.

We recommend packing the butter in solid form which is to be kept for some time, rather than holding it in prints, even though these may be submerged in brine.—H. H. Dean, College, Guelph.

THE TRIALS OF A HOUSEWIFE

How They Have Been Endured and How Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Experience of a Providence Woman

Providence, R. I.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a female trouble and backache. It began just after my baby was born, and I did the best I could about getting my work done, but I had awful bearing-down pains so I could not stand on my feet. I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the good it was doing other women, and I have got dandy results from it and will always recommend it. You can use these facts as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HERBERT L. CASSEN, 18 Meni Court, Providence, R. I.

Ohio woman for three years could hardly keep about and do her housework; she was ill. Made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fayette, O.—"For about three years I was very nervous and had back ache, sideache, dragging-down pains, could not sleep at night, and had no appetite. At times I could hardly do my housework. I got medicine from the doctor but it did not help me. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and took it with good results, and am now able to do my housework. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. CLINTON A. HALL, R. 15, Fayette, Ohio.

An Illinois woman relates her experience:

Bloomington, Ill.—"I was never very strong and female trouble kept me so weak I had no interest in my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or sweep a room without raging with pain. Rubbing my back with alcohol sometimes eased the pain for a few hours, but did not stop it. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and six bottles of it have made me as strong and healthy a woman; and I give my thanks to it for my health."—Mrs. J. A. MCQUERRY, 610 W. Walnut St., Bloomington, Ill.

Tax positions deserve to be filled by women, Mrs. Cassen, Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. McQuirry will speak to many women who struggle on with their daily tasks in just such conditions—in fact, it is said that the tragedy in the lives of some women is almost beyond belief. Day in and day out they share in their homes the burdens—and bodily the daily routine of housework, often make clothes for themselves and for their children, or work in their gardens, all the while suffering from those awful bearing-down pains, backache, headaches, nervousness, the blues, and troubles which sap the very foundation of life until there comes a time when life gives out and an operation seems inevitable. If such women would only profit by the experience of these three women, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the natural restorative for such conditions it may save them years of suffering and unhappiness.

There is hardly a neighborhood in any town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been restored to health by this famous medicine. Therefore ask your neighbor, and you will find in a great many cases that at some time or other she, too, has been benefited by taking it, and will recommend it to you. For more than forty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring suffering women to health and strength.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to: The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Hog Tight Fences

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"A hog naturally is as clean as a dog or horse. While he loves to wallow when flies are bad and conditions are against him, he also loves to be clean and will bathe in clean water the same as any other animal," says Mr. R. S. Rider, president, Canadian Steel & Wire Co.

"Any farmer who is in the hog business, knows that it does not pay to be chambermaid to a hog any more than absolutely necessary and that a hog in order to be healthy, should harvest his own crops.

"So whether pasture of rape or corn is to be utilized, the foundational necessity is a fence which will hold the hog where you put him and not allow him to do damage to other crops.

"In every rotation the field should be so fenced that the hogs can do all of the harvesting possible.

"The cafeteria system of hog feeding is the most profitable and 'hogging down fields' is the most economical way to harvest."

FEEDING OF NEW GRAIN

Is Apt to Cause Trouble to Live Stock.

Horses More Susceptible Than Cattle —Pigs Do Better on It Than the Other Stock—Best Methods In Preservation of Hay.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Each year brings a certain amount of trouble through the feeding of new grain to live stock, and consequently greater care should be exercised to avoid digestive derangements.

The horse is generally considered a little more susceptible to digestive troubles following changes in feeding practice than are other classes of farm live stock. It is always well to make changes very gradually and carefully. The main grain feed of the horse in this country is oats, and new oats should always be fed with great care. Hard-worked horses should, if it is at all possible, be fed old oats, and the new grain left to dry and cure for a few weeks after threshing. At any rate to avoid colic, acute indigestion and inflammation new oats should at first form only a part of the grain ration, being mixed with old oats and possibly a little bran and the percentage of the new grain gradually increased until the horses are on full feed. Sudden changes from old to new grain are especially dangerous with the horse and particularly with the horse at heavy work and on a heavy concentrate ration. There is, of course, a difference due to the time of threshing. Grain which remains in stack or mow for several weeks and thus becomes dry and cured is not as dangerous as that threshed directly from the field or immediately after harvesting.

As a rule heavy feeding of grain is not practised with cattle and sheep on pasture. Where such is the case, however, changing from old to new grain should be done with care and the substitution should be, if possible, gradual. If the ration must, of necessity, be composed entirely of newly-threshed grain it should at first be comparatively light and increased very gradually.

Pigs usually handle newly-threshed grain without much trouble, although if on very heavy rations when finishing for market a little care should be taken that they be not thrown off their feed. Newly-threshed grain is difficult to grind fine and is not easily stored and large quantities of the present crop may not be stored in bulk as heating and musting will result, lowering the feeding value of the grain by rendering it unpalatable and less digestible. Musty grain is more dangerous than clean, new grain.

These points should be kept in mind. First make all changes from old to new grain gradually. Secondly, if no old grain is fed as part of the ration start the new grain in small quantities, gradually increasing until the desired quantity is reached. Feed no heated or musty grain.—Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph.

Best Methods In Preservation of Hay.

In a season of labor scarcity buying is a problem on the average farm. It is necessary to make use of all the modern machinery available in order to expedite the saving of this important crop. First, then, we must emphasize the use of machinery in curing and storing. Men are not to be had in plentiful supply, but in most cases some form of co-operation may be resorted to in order to obtain the use of tedders, hay loaders and horse forks to handle the bulk of the crop. By all means plan to use machinery in place of men this year or otherwise considerable of the crop will not be harvested in the best possible condition.

It is usually safe to cut after a rain when the weather appears to have cleared. Red clover should be cut when about one-third of the heads have turned brown. The tedder should then be used until the crop is dry enough to rake—a point which will vary according to the weight of the cutting, the weather and the amount of sap in the stalk. Gather with a side-delivery rake if possible, or in small windrows with an ordinary dump rake. The hay loader works best with a small windrow. By all means use a loader if possible and to facilitate matters a sliding rack may be used on which one-half the rack is loaded it may be pulled ahead and the remainder loaded. In a pinch this will save a man. The horse fork and slings save much time in unloading.

We mention red clover because it is the commonest and most satisfactory hay crop, and is used in all general farming hay mixtures.

Timothy should be cut right after it is out of the first blossom or after the second blossom has fallen—generally the latter. It will require a little tedding than clover, is more easily cured, and may be drawn in sooner after cutting. Do not let it get too ripe and woody.

Alfalfa should be cut when the young shoots are noticed starting out from the axils of the lower leaves on the stalks, and should be handled much like red clover, only greater care is necessary to preserve the leaves, a very valuable portion of the plants.—Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph.

Good seeds are uniformly bright colored, whereas seeds that have been exposed to moisture, or that are dead, are duller and darker in color.

Some good disinfectant such as creoline, sanoleum, or carbolic acid solution applied to the navel cord immediately they are born and each day for a week or more will often check the calf from navel ill.

For linoleum, floors and furniture use the hard drying and water resisting Copalline Varnish. Sold in Napanee only at Wallace's.

VETERINARY SPECIMENS

Submitting for Bacteriological Examination.

How to Prepare for Testing When Animals Die Suspected of Such Dangerous Disease as Rabies, Anthrax, Blackleg, Contagious Abortion, Etc.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The amount of care and judgment necessary in selecting and forwarding specimens for bacteriological examination is not generally realized, and as a result a good deal of material received is either in a state of putrefaction, or taken from an unsuitable part of the animal, and is consequently useless. Take, for example, blackleg. In this disease the bacteria producing the condition are localized in the black, gassy swellings, and are not found generally throughout the body. If a blood sample, or portion of muscle other than the blackened part, is sent to the laboratory the bacilli are not found in the specimen, whereas if a small piece of the black muscle had been sent they would have been present.

It is necessary to collect the specimens in a careful manner, using instruments that have been sterilized by boiling; and placing the material in a container that has been similarly sterilized. If this is not done, the harmless bacteria which are present everywhere, will gain entrance to the tissue, and will multiply very rapidly and completely overgrow the disease producing ones, which do not as a rule multiply as readily under the same conditions, and on examination at the laboratory nothing may be found but these harmless organisms.

A complete report should always accompany any material to be examined. The absence of definite information about the case causes delay, and makes it difficult to give reliable information, because there are a great many different kinds of disease producing bacteria, the isolation of which requires different technic, whereas specific information may assist the search for the probable causative agents.

Material intended for examination must not be placed in preservative fluids, which would destroy the bacteria. Large specimens, such as an entire organ, should be removed with sterile instruments, at once wrapped in several layers of cheesecloth moistened with a 10 per cent. formaldehyde solution, then in oiled or wax paper and packed in ice and sawdust. It is quite convenient to use ice, in which case the organ may be literally packed in with borax or boracic acid, wrapped in several folds of dry cheesecloth and, packed in shavings in a box. If borax is not available wrap in the formaldehyde moistened cheesecloth and pack in shavings. Material should never be placed in unsterile packing materials or bottles or fruit jars that have been boiled and cooled before using, as specimens of any kind should be used as it would penetrate small specimens and kill the bacteria.

Pus.—Pus for examination may be transferred in a sterile, previously sterilized by boiling. Care should be taken to avoid getting it on the outside of the bottle or stopper, as this is at least unpleasant, and may be dangerous, to handle.

Rabies.—The head of a dog suspected of rabies should be wrapped in a protective covering of cheesecloth or oiled paper, (packed in crushed ice and sawdust during hot weather), and sent as quickly as possible to the nearest laboratory doing this work—in Ontario the Provincial Board of Health Laboratories, at 5 Queen's Park, Toronto, or its branches at Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay, Kingston and London. Never kill a dog suspected of rabies, as in the early stages it may not be possible to find the Negri bodies in the brain cells; but remove the animal and properly look after it for ten days, before which time if rabid it will have died.

Hemorrhagic Septicemia. — The pneumonic lung, or liver or other organs showing lesions, should be forwarded, packed in one of the ways already described, but in addition to include the heart, the vessels having been tied before removal with string soaked in a disinfecting solution. Wrap each organ separately before placing in the box.

Anthrax.—If anthrax is suspected never open the carcass, as this permits the anthrax bacilli to form spores in the presence of the air, in which condition they will live for years, and form a centre of infection. Remove an ear and send to the laboratory in a sterile container, wrapped in disinfectant moistened cheesecloth, and packed as already described.

Blackleg.—In a case of suspected blackleg send a small bit of the blackened and gas-filled muscle in a sterile wide-mouthed bottle.

Contagious Abortion.—The most convenient method is to send a blood sample from the vein of the external jugular and complement fixation tests. The blood is collected from the jugular vein by means of a sterile hypodermic needle, and a small sterile bottle is used to hold the blood. As soon as the blood clots it should be mailed to the laboratory, where the serum is separated and the tests carried out.

Where the owner of animals wishes to send specimens for examination he will find it to his advantage to consult his veterinarian, as he is in a position to advise as to what material should be submitted and how best to send it.—Dr. Ronald Gratton, Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto.

You'll hardly believe it—until you try it. Just soak the clothes in the rich, pure, cleansing Rinso suds overnight (or for three hours) and then rinse them thoroughly either in warm or cold water. They will be as clean as though they had been boiled and rubbed.

RINSO—
Not a cake soap, or a chip soap, but new and better —fine granules so rich in soap that they loosen the dirt as the clothes soak.

If you have a washing machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

Reduce the Cost of Selling

—Use Long Distance

THINK of Long Distance in terms of time and money saved. "Use the 'Bell' to Sell." It is today the most effective form of approach to customers. Your personality, the convincing tones of your voice, will bring results when everything else fails.

"Many of our Long Distance calls are now Station-to-Station calls"—writes a subscriber. "We notified our customers that two of our most capable men had been designated to look after Long Distance business. As soon as Long Distance calls, our Private Branch Exchange operator switches the call instantly to one of these men, which gives our client the advantage of Station-to-Station rates.

"Increasing the efficiency of a sales force ten per-cent is well worth while. Our Sales Manager calls up our travellers by Long Distance, or they call him. He encourages them, advises them, helps them to secure orders. If competition has arisen he learns of it in time to meet it."

YOUR TEETH.

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S. Editor of Oral Hygiene

TOOTHACHE.

One of the most peculiar things about toothache is that in three out of four cases the tooth that seems to ache is innocent.

The teeth seem to act like a large family of children. When one of them raises Cain he blames it on the other.

So don't be surprised—when you go to the dentist and confidently tell him that the tooth upon which your finger is resting is the one that is causing the trouble—to have him make a few tests and tell you that it is another tooth, probably far distant from the one that you suspect.

There are so many different forms of toothache that each person probably has a different experience from anyone else. There are even times when it is very difficult really to say that the pain that is being suffered is a toothache, although almost everyone thinks that there would be no difficulty whatever in recognizing this particular form of pain.

In addition to pain directly about the teeth, an aching tooth can cause pain in the ear, or in the eye, or almost any form of headache, facial neuralgia or pains in the neck or arm —and there have been cases on record in which practically all pain of an aching tooth was felt in the sole of the foot.

The evil result of an aching tooth is not so much the pain inflicted on the patient at the time as it is the harm done to the general system by the absorption of pus from the infected root of the tooth.

It is quite true that not all aching teeth are abscessed, because the slightest exposure of the pulp will result in sharp pain.

But this exposure is bound to result in the death of the pulp, and so will have following in the train of this pain the certainty of infection, which means absorption.

There are other cases in which the pulp is not exposed, but, from some form of irritation—such as a tooth being bitten upon too hard, or being exposed unnaturally to extremes of heat and cold, or being ground down for crowns or bridges—the irritation will sometimes cause the pulp to die.

When the pulp dies it immediately begins decomposition.

This causes the formation of gas—which in turn makes very high pressure upon the nerve filaments that supply the pulp—and this pressure is carried back over the main branch of the fifth nerve where it may be relayed to many parts of the body, so that from the reflex pressure at the tip of the root of a tooth you can have pain in almost any part of the body.

This is in addition to the evils and the pains that result from the actual absorption either of pus or of pus products.

An aching tooth is not only uncomfortable, but it is also very dangerous.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, this reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

AND WE VOTED "YES"

'Twas a balmy summer's evening
And a goodly crowd was there;
Such dope we got in days gone by,
But now it seems threadbare.

No more gin rickys can we have,
Or highballs when we choose;
Since the old bartender lost his job,
We've kissed them fond adieus.

The sawdust and the polished rail,
Departed with a shock;
And bums in back lanes whisper now
Do you want to buy a crock.

PLAIN TALK NO. 5

Dear People,—No doubt you will be a little surprised at us for our past methods of advertising; especially our old customers, for they know us well and expect something out of the ordinary. We must apologize for repetition, as business is always more than brisk at this season and calls for our efforts so urgently that we scarcely find time to eat. Now, there is a reason for our success, and let us briefly state we mean to stick to our ideals. Our leather and workmanship is, and always will be, of the very best. We work on a small margin and give satisfaction to all. As you are aware, there are several grades of leather and it is possible to have boots fixed at a very low cost, but, not so with us; we handle nothing inferior in quality, are beat by far, so compare our work with others and be convinced. Our prompt service is also an item worthy of mention for we do everything same day as received. So all work left in the morning can be had that evening. We also carry the only unbreakable Shoe Laces in town. Don't ask for five cent laces for we would not handle them. Same good second-hand Boots for sale, cheap. Rubber Heels in a very few minutes. Yours for neatness and despatch.

WILSON'S CROSSING.

The weather continues hot and dry, and the farmers here are cutting their hay, which is a very short crop, and if we don't get rain soon the grain crop will not be better. This will be a hard year for the farmer if he does not have a good crop. Kidney Trouble

Is quite common, gradually becoming more severe, and if proper action is not taken, serious results will follow. The symptoms are headache and pain in the back, sleeplessness, sallow complexion, white coated tongue and frequent urination. If a puffy swelling is noted in the feet or ankles the disease is well established and you must give the kidneys all the help possible by stirring the liver and bowels into action. Take Henderson's Herb Tablets every night according to directions, watch the digestion carefully, drink plenty of cold water between meals.

Mrs. T. Bevington, 303 Wilton Ave., Toronto, Ont., says:

"I wish to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have received through Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. I suffered for a number of years with kidney and liver trouble and at times could scarcely do my work with the pain in my back, and cramps in my muscles. I am now 67 years of age and after using one box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment I feel like a new person.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment can be purchased at Hooper's Drug Store, Napanee, Ont., or The Henderson Herb Co., Toronto, Ont. Price 50c. and $1.00. 25b

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Selden Dryden, who departed this life on July 2nd, 1920.
A year has passed since that sad night.
God called the one we loved away;
Forget him, no we never will,
As years roll on we love him still.
It was hard to lose our father, dear,
But God who knoweth best,
Held wide his loving arms and said,
Come unto me and rest.
Sadly missed by his loving Wife and Daughter. 26ap

An English clergyman who was nailing up a refractory creeper observed a young lad watching him for a long time with obvious interest.
"Well, my young friend," he said, smilingly, "are you trying to get a hint or two on gardening?"
"No," said the youth.
"Are you surprised to see me working like this?"
"No! I do be waiting to see what a parson do say when he hammers his thumb!"

OF SPECIAL INTEREST

to householders who have not done any papering to their walls this spring, but who have rooms that should be done. Our sales this season have broken all records, but we started with a stock of almost double the usual size, and in order to further reduce will offer for two weeks, bargains that cannot be surpassed anywhere. It is not because we are afraid that the prices will be lowered by the manufacturer before another season,—in fact, they are all agreed that there is no chance of a drop in wall papers; raw material and labor keeping just as high as at any time during the war. We have quite a number of lines, good stock, up-to-date patterns and colorings, that we will offer at prices lower than same goods can be bought for at the factory to-day. Handsome lines for kitchens, dining rooms and bed rooms at 15c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 25c. And so on, up to 60c. paper, now offered at 38c. If you think of doing any papering the present year, you will not regret it if you buy your paper from us, and do it now.
We will offer at actual cost every Boy's Wagon, Cart and Wheelbarrow in stock.
Base Balls from the cheapest for the boys up to the official League ball.
Window Shades, Room Mouldings, Picture Hooks, Push Pins, etc. If you paper a room and have it pleasing to the eye, do not spoil it by driving in nails on which to hang your pictures, but spend a few cents more and put up a picture moulding.
Bring in those Pictures you want framed, and have them done now before they get soiled.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Josephine Cuthill.

Early in the morning of June 6th, a bright splendid life ceased from the sufferings and toil of earth. Mrs. Cuthill's maiden name was Josephine Howell. She was born in North Fredericksburgh in 1870, and lived all her life in this township. Thirty-two years ago December last she was married to Jas. Cuthill, who is left to mourn the loss of a noble and devoted wife. During her married life she lived in the neighborhood of Anderson Church. Of this union, there are left to mourn a loving mother, Mrs. Pearl Smith, Mrs. Nellie Robertson, J. P. Cuthill and Master Wilfred Cuthill. In early childhood she gave her heart and life to Christ and through all the years of her life she was a most faithful and loyal member of the Methodist Church, taking active interest in every activity and organization of the church. She was one of the very first members of the W. M. S., being for many years 1st Vice President. She was a very active member of the Ladies' Aid. Her counsel and advice was much cherished by the organizations. Very seldom was her place vacant in the regular services of the church on the Lord's Day. It was a great shock to all her friends when we heard that it was necessary to go to the hospital in Kingston. True, we all knew that for a long while she was ailing, but her indomitable ambition and cheerfulness deceived everyone. For days eagerly her friends anxiously sought for news of her recovery. But it was not the Lord's will and with profound sorrow we heard of her death. Her funeral was held at her late home, on Wednesday, June 8th. Her present Pastor, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, and former Pastor, Rev. Enos Farnsworth, officiated. The selection of hymns and text was her choice, "Casting all your care upon Him for He careth for you". Rev. Rev. Farnsworth and Rev. Anderson sang by her request the beautiful selection "Does Jesus Care". The very large gathering of friends from near and far testified to the esteem in which our lamented sister was held. Beautiful floral tributes were given by her many friends. The Women's Institute at Hawley, of which she was a member, were present in a body and gave tokens of their great esteem.

Besides the immediate family who have the sincere sympathy of their friends, there are left to mourn, two brothers, David and George, and two sisters, Mrs. Rendall and Mrs. Briggs.

All that was mortal we laid away to rest in the beautiful Eastern cemetery at Napanee. We sorrow not as those who have no hope but await the Resurrection Morn when we shall again greet those whom we have loved but lost awhile.

Sylvester M. Parks.

Mr. Sylvester M. Parks, one of the old citizens of Napanee, passed away on Tuesday, June 28th, 1921, aged 77 years. The deceased had been ill for the past few weeks. There are left to mourn four sons, Ira and Harry, Watertown, N.Y.; William, Syracuse, N.Y., and John, Rochester, N.Y., and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Rose, Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Charles Miller, Adams, N.Y.; one brother, George Parks, Michigan, and a sister, Miss Sarah Parks, Michigan. The funeral service was preached by Rev. Dr. Shorey, and interment in Riverside cemetery.

Dominion Day Races

The annual celebration in the Driving Park last Friday drew the largest number of people that has been in attendance for the past few years, over five thousand people paying admission to the grounds. The track was in excellent condition and the racing events were very interesting.

It is doubtful if there were ever Dominion Day races where there were so many horses entered as at Napanee this year, but certainly never a finer bunch of horses. As predicted the Free-for-all was a sensational race.

The first baseball game was played in the morning, the contesting teams being the Mohawks from the Tyendinaga Reserve, and Adolphustown, and resulted in a tie, both teams playing well.

At 1 p.m. the game between Tamworth and Napanee was opened before a large and ever increasing concourse of enthusiastic spectators and some fine play was made by both teams. At the close of the game the score stood Tamworth 6, Napanee 5.

At 4 p.m. the game between Kingston Juniors and Verona started, but the gentlemen from Verona were decidedly not in it in any sense of the word as at the conclusion of the contest the score was: Kingston Juniors 10, Verona 0.

A TOBACCO ARGUMENT.

Dr. Charles W. Elliott, at a recent tea was taken aside by a W. C. T. U. leader.

"Dr. Elliott", she said, "we want you to join us in our anti-tobacco crusade."

"Humph!" said the veteran teacher. "You know, Dr. Elliott," the lady went on, "man is the only animal, positively the only animal, that uses tobacco."

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, July 4th, 1921.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Graham presiding.

Members present — Reeve Boyes, Councillors Roblin, Wilson, Steacy, Ming and Hartman.

Minutes of the last session were read, and on motion were confirmed.

A communication was received from W. G. Wilson, County Clerk, advising the Council that the County Council at its June session had equalized the assessment of Napanee at $888,000.00, struck the rate at 13 mills, the total County rate for the town amounting to $11,544.00. Referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was received from Messrs. James, Proctor & Redfern, enclosing progress estimate No. 1 in favor of Standard Paving, Limited, for $3,688.00.

On motion Reeve Boyes and Councillor Roblin were authorized to give orders on the Treasurer for payment of progress estimates as issued from time to time to Standard Paving, Limited, by James, Proctor & Redfern, pursuant to the terms of the Dundas street paving contract.

Councillor Roblin reported that the Street Committee had interviewed Mr. Pearson with regards to the injury to his boy's arm from falling into the sewer on Dundas street east in April, and the least amount Mr. Pearson will settle for is $200.00.

An agreement between The Napanee Public Utilities Commission and The Gibbard Furniture Company for the purchase by the latter of the site upon which their present factory is located, together with additional land south of the canal, for $2,500.00, also to rent water from the canal for power purposes, under certain conditions, the yearly rental to be $350.00, for a term of ten years, was presented to the Council for ratification.

Considerable discussion took place on the above matter, and after a slight change in one of the clauses was made a by-law was passed ratifying and confirming the agreement.

A by-law appointing Mr. J. G. Fennell as Tax Collector for the ensuing year at a salary of $350.00, was passed.

On motion Mayor Graham and Reeve Boyes were appointed to secure necessary assistance for the Clerk and have the Local Improvement Rolls completed.

Moved by Councillor Steacy, seconded by Reeve Boyes, that Mr. Geo. A. Cliff, Assessor, be paid an additional sum of $50.00, providing the Roll is presently returned to the Clerk. Carried.

On motion the date set for Civic Holiday was Wednesday, August 10th.

Moved by Councillor Hartman, seconded by Councillor Steacy, that the services of Mr. Markle as caretaker of the Disposal Works be dispensed with and that Sam Smith be retained at the same salary as paid the present caretaker. Carried.

On motion the memorandum of agreement, dated Nov. 27th, 1920, between the County Council and the Town of Napanee, for an annual payment towards the paving of Dundas street, was cancelled.

KENT—LEEMAN.

On Monday, June 27th, 1921, a pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Powell, in St. Patrick's Church, Railton, when Margaret Estella, eldest daughter of Mrs. Wm. Leeman, Sydenham, was united in marriage to Joseph Kent, youngest son of John Kent, Napanee.

The bride was given away by her brother, William. She was beautifully attired in a white satin dress with hat to match and a large flowing veil. The only ornament worn was the groom's gift, a gold wish bone set with pearls. The bride was assisted by her sister, Agnes, who wore a navy blue satin dress and the gift of the groom, a gold cross and chain, while Joseph Mooney, Napanee, acted as best man and wore the groom's gift, a set of gold cuff links. Miss Kathleen Listen played the wedding march, and during the nuptial mass she sang a solo in a pleasing manner.

After the ceremony the bride and groom motored to the bride's home, where a sumptuous dinner was served to about twenty. Shortly after dinner the happy young couple left by motor, amid showers of good wishes and confetti for Toronto, Niagara, and other points, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit. The bride and groom were held in high esteem as was shown by the beautiful and costly presents which they received, among which were several cheques. On their return they will make their home near Napanee, where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

FARM COLD STORAGE

Have an Up-to-date Equipment for Family Purposes.

The Farm Refrigerator a Great Boon —You May Put the Heated Term Out of Bounds — Early After Harvest Cultivation.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Cold storage practice so far has been connected with the large produce warehouses in our towns and cities. These establishments could not do successful business if their plants were not provided with large storage chambers kept cool and in other particulars suitable for the long storage of perishable products of the farm, such as eggs, butter, cheese, fruit, and so forth. Some day, probably not so far distant after all, the farmers may become sufficiently well organized to build and equip mechanical cold storage warehouses of their own, whereby they will be able to have complete control over the products of their own labor until they are disposed of to the consuming public. The extent to which individual farmers may make use of such cold storage plants on their farms is necessarily limited because the quantities of products requiring to be stored at any one time are small. The exceptions are very large fruit or dairy farmers, and even in these special lines of farming it might not be a paying proposition in all cases to erect an expensive cold storage plant. Personally, I believe the problem of cold storage on the farms should be handled through co-operatively owned warehouses provided with adequate cold storage facilities.

Apart, however, from the question of a cold storage with up-to-date mechanical equipment for the farm or farmers' associations as suggested above, there is the problem on almost every farm pertaining to the storage for a few days of small quantities of various foods used on the table from day to day, such as butter, meat, milk, etc. It is certainly a great saving and matter of convenience to have on the farm a small cold storage chamber or refrigerator in which to keep these very perishable articles of food in a good fresh and wholesome condition for use on the table during the warm season of the year. This is made possible by the use of ice, and as it is procurable almost every district of this country at a reasonable cost, there is no excuse for farmers not laying by in the winter season a few tons of ice cheap form of ice-house. In the summer time this ice will be found most useful for cooling the milk and cream, supplying an ice-box or refrigerator in which the butter, for example, may be kept firm, the milk and cream sweet, and the foods in good condition for the table day by day. With ice always so handy and the best of cream available, it is possible for the housewife to make always delicious and wholesome delicacies as ice-cream, sherbets, and many delightful and cool drinks, all of which are most refreshing and stimulating to the folks on the farm in the hot and busy season of the year. In case of sickness, too, ice is sometimes a necessity. There is no doubt then about the fact that every farmer would find a supply of good ice a great advantage in many ways, whether it be stored in some bin from which it is removed as required or in some form of small ice-cold storage where it could automatically a small refrigerator room adjoining the ice storage room. There are several types of small ice-cold storages suitable for use on the farm. In using these small ice-cold storages, however, it must be kept in mind always that the temperature cannot be maintained lower than about 40 or 45 degrees Fahrenheit scale, which of course is not low enough to keep perishable products like fresh meat longer than a few days, and large quantities of perishable articles must not be stored in a small chamber, nor too many kinds at one time. In spite of this limitation it will pay any farmer to have a supply of ice, preferably stored in a small ice-cold storage that needs no care. In a subsequent article I will deal with a few of the most common and practicable forms of small ice-cold storages for the farm.—D. R. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Beet Growers Can Make Good Syrup.

Shortage of sugar need have no terrors for the sugar beet grower. A rich sweet syrup that can be used for all cooking purposes, serving as a substitute for sugar, can be made from sugar beets, according to the investigations of the Federal Department of Agriculture and chemists of the Minnesota College of Agriculture. A bushel of good beets will make from three to five quarts of syrup. The beets in the quantity mentioned should be cut into thin slices and put in a barrel or wash boiler and covered with boiling water and allowed to stand for about an hour. The water should then be drawn off and strained through a cloth into a kettle or wash boiler for evaporation. When the syrup has been sufficiently concentrated by the process of boiling it down it should be poured while hot into sterilized glass jars or tin cans and closed tight. Beets that have been stored several months can be converted into good syrup provided they were fully mature when harvested.

Why Not Start a Family Budget?

To Preserve the Fertility of Manure.

In fresh manure the plant food materials are not in as available condition for growing plants as in well rotted manure. In the storing of manure, however, to get it well rotted considerable losses of plant food occur unless the manure pile is properly packed.

If the quickest returns are not wanted following the application of the manure to the soil, then the manure may be added in the fresh condition. If this is done in warm weather the manure should be plowed in as soon as possible after application. The total plant food materials present in the manure will thus be added to the soil where they will be prepared by the soil bacteria for use by the growing crops.

The main objections to putting fresh manure on the land are: First, it is not always convenient to do so; second, weed seeds may be numerous in the fresh manure, consequently a heavy weed crop may be expected; third, its action is not so rapid as in the case of well-rotted manure, but it is active over a longer period.

Where manure is to be stored in piles or pits until it is ripened, or until it is convenient to use then the greatest care is required to prevent losses of plant food materials from it.

In the first place the bottom of the pile or pit should be impervious to water so that leachings from the pile will not occur. Second, it is well to have a layer of old well-rotted manure at the bottom. Third, the manure as it is piled up should be well compacted or trampled down to prevent excess of air from getting into it. Fourth, it should be kept moist but not wet. These precautions apply more particularly to horse manure, which is loose and comparatively dry. Unless this is kept well packed and moist, loss by fire fanging is certain. This is an oxidation process, or fermentation, set going by certain species of bacteria in the manure. If cow or pig manure is available it should be mixed with the horse manure in the pile, as these are very wet and compact and will give a good consistency to the whole mass. The main things to be remembered are: First, prevent leaching; second, keep it well packed down and moist.—D. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

Alsike clover is most at home in northern latitudes or at high altitudes. It thrives best in a cool, moist climate.

The English Shire Horse Society has appropriated $2,500 for publicity in the United States and Canada in 1921.

Rinso

Rinso can be used with cold water as well as with warm. Rinso is as harmless as pure water itself. Try this easy way of washing next Monday.

At Night—Soak the clothes in the rich Rinso suds.

Morning—Rinse them in either warm or cold water—that's all! They're ready for the line—clean and fresh.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

If you have a washing machine—Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleaning will be done by every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

MANY HAVE WRITTEN OF WAR

From Homer to the Present Day Correspondents Have Accompanied the Armies in the Field.

War correspondents, who have a distinguished place in the latest honors list, form an ancient tribe if we reckon Homer as one of them. remarks the Manchester Guardian. Sutherland Edwards maintained that the editor of a Greek paper entitled Chronos sent Homer out to Troy to describe the incidents of the siege, which really lasted only about seven weeks. But when it was at an end the Greek chiefs had no desire whatever to go home; and as Homer (or "O'Maker"—to give his name in its original an-Hellenized form) was a very good fellow and drew a large salary with an abundant allowance for expenses, he readily accepted the idea proposed by the wise Ulysses—to keep the war going in the columns of his paper as long as he could manage to write about it. His correspondence was too good not to publish; and meantime the Greek chiefs went about amusing themselves.

There were no newspaper correspondents in the peninsular war, nor in the Waterloo campaign—though Rothschild, in 1815, had a correspondent of his own who kept close to Wellington's army and supplied his employer with news of high financial value. After the peace of 1815 the first war of importance in Europe was the one between the Carlists and the Christinos in Spain, which, beginning in 1831, dragged on in desultory fashion until 1837, when, a British legion having been formed to assist the Christinos, it attracted much attention in this country. British opinion was divided, Queen Christina finding support among the whigs, Don Carlos among the tories. Both armies were accused of committing atrocities, so the Times and the Morning Post sent correspondents to the Carlist camp with instructions to find out how the war was really being carried on. Capt. Henningsen, who represented the Times, was an admirable writer and a professional soldier, whereas Charles Grunneisen, who went on behalf of the Post, possessed no military experience. Still, he proved the more successful of the two, for Henningsen's letters never reached the Times, Grunneisen's, on the other hand, appeared in the Morning Post, and on this rests the claim put forward, not by Grunneisen himself but by his friends, for classing him as the earliest of our war correspondents.

Now the "Flivver" Airplane.

The perfection of a small, simplified airplane with a purchase price and upkeep within the reach of the average man, has often been attempted in both Europe and America. One of the latest American attempts has resulted in the completion of a little monoplane, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, that measures only twenty-five feet eight inches in span, weighs only 350 pounds when empty, yet is very satisfactory in performance. The single-seat body is of the monocoque, shell type, with the four struts of the pylon rising in front of the cockpit. Bracing wires stretch from the pylon to eight points on the spars of the right and left wing. Alleron are of the wing tip, unbalanced variety. A twin cylinder, opposed engine drives the machine, giving it a maximum speed of seventy-five miles an hour with a load of 250 pounds.

The Unmistakable Cockney.

Lady Georgiana Peel tells some good stories in her "Irreuiterious." One concerns her father-in-law, General Peel.

He was at a banquet in Paris. Mistrusting his capability of conversing in French, he talked during most of the dinner to a neighbor who he knew liked airing his English; but after a time he made up his mind he must talk to the silent French gentleman on his left.

He gathered his French together, and hazarded a remark: "Quelle chamber magnifique!" he said, with many distinctly foreign gesticulations.

The man bent towards him confidentially. General Peel braced himself to understand. "Ain't a patch on our Guildhall," was the whisper that reached him with an unmistakable accent.

Woman Question Again.

One day Karl Edwin Harriman made a pilgrimage to General Weston's Connecticut farm and on the last lap of the journey took a jitney. The driver had his wife on the front seat with him and Harriman noticed later that it was the wife who collected the fare. As they traveled the editor spoke about the author.

"It's just like George Weston's impudence to write stories about women," said Mrs. Jehu. "What does he know about women? Ain't even married!"

"That ain't no argument," said the jitney driver, sadly, "maybe he knows too all about much about 'em to git married."

Thorough Job of Destruction.

William Funk, a truckman at Winsted, Conn., trying to sell at auction a wagon which cost him $200 several years ago, found that nobody would bid more than $5 for it. Rather than sell it to anybody at that price, he took the wagon to the city dump, pulled it to pieces, threw the bolts in various directions, made a pile of the wheels, placed the rest of the wagon on top, sprinkled kerosene all over the heap, set it afire, and left the dump, satisfied that no one would get his wagon for a song.

"Building the weather out is fully as important as maintaining a fire in the furnace. In the old days when we scorched our faces and froze our backs at the open fireplace, we went shivering to bed and breathed icicles on the coverlid.

"We have learned to plaster our houses inside and out, but in frame construction we have always had difficulty through expansion and contraction of preventing the plaster from cracking and scaling off.

"But the introduction of triangular steel reinforcement and the improvement of outside plasters has corrected this evil and a house now could be tumbled end over end and its plastered walls remain intact," says Mr. R. S. Rider, president, Canadian Steel & Wire Co.

"Another feature is that reinforced stucco never has to be painted, which is something every home owner will appreciate."

Killed by Lightning

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

In the summer time when the thunder caps appear in the sky and the storm sweeps down on the farm, the farmer thinks less of his safety than he does of his live stock.

When the stock is in the field during the storm it may happen that the animals drift against the wire fence, which may be heavily charged with electricity, and are shocked to death.

The ordinary fence built on wooden posts should be grounded every sixth post by means of a wire six or eight feet long twisted around all of the line wires of the fence and then secured in a hole in the ground. The hole should be dug deep enough so that the wire comes in contact with moist earth. A fence so grounded offers no danger to live stock during the thunderstorm.

The wire fence built on galvanized steel fence posts is already grounded at every post and no thunderstorm with its discharge of lightning can injure the cattle enclosed by such a fence.

Grain for Export

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"Duluth is the gateway for a large proportion of Canadian grain," says Mr. C. F. MacDonald, secretary, Duluth Board of Trade, "and at no other point does Canada come into such close contact with the United States.

"Millions of bushels of grain are shipped across the ocean, all of it being hedged to protect the operators as well as the banks. Banks generally refuse to lend money on grain which is not protected by hedging.

"The shipper does not desire to profit by a rise, but merely wishes to secure his ordinary profit of a few cents per bushel for handling.

"However, it takes time to get his shipment purchased and under way and as the price of the grain may decline enough in the meantime to wipe out all of his profit, he makes a practice when he buys the wheat from the country, to sell future delivery contracts against it in some grain exchange, thus one offsetting the other.

"This method of eliminating risk is not speculation, in fact it is the very opposite. There is always a speculator who is willing to undertake this contract, but the grain handler who hedges insures himself against any possible loss. The grain dealer, the flour miller and the exporter are not in a position to take chances and that is why they use this kind of insurance.

"I wonder," says he, "whether farmers realize in shipping grain abroad, that they are building up the fertility of European farms instead of their own? It would seem to me that this grain ought to be milled on this side of the water in our own behalf, shipping flour instead of whole grain."

LEADS IN MINERAL WEALTH

United States Easily First in Metals of Greatest Importance to the World's Industries.

This country of ours possesses more mineral wealth than any other nation, though Great Britain (including what she controls) is a close second.

We lead the world with 37 per cent of all the iron and 35 per cent of all the coal. These, of course, are most important. We own or control 72 per cent of all the petroleum.

Copper is the great American metal. We produce 69 per cent of the entire world's yield of that invaluable substance. Of lead we produce 46 per cent and of zinc 32 per cent.

England is away ahead of us where gold is concerned. We produce only 23 per cent of this precious stuff, whereas Great Britain's output amounts to 63 per cent.

On the other hand, we claim 52 per cent of the silver—the Mexican output being under our commercial control—and it is actually in the power of our government to make the market price of the white metal whatever Uncle Sam chooses.

Of the world's sulphur we produce 65 per cent. But we have no tin worth mentioning (a serious misfortune) and little potash. Now, however, the potash supply is no longer controlled by Germany, territory recently relinquished to France containing a large part of the deposits of that mineral salt.—Philadelphia Ledger.

ADOBE AS BUILDING MATERIAL

Experiments Have Shown, It Is Claimed, Durability of This Old and Inexpensive Material.

Adobe, the oldest known building material in southern California, is due for a revival, according to John W. Chard, Santa Barbara architect. He asserts that if properly prepared this native material can be used to very considerably cut the cost of building.

"Experiments," says Mr. Chard, "have shown that adobe is the least affected by changes of temperature among all the building materials. Tests show that adobe bricks register no more than six degrees difference between February cold and extreme September heat. As a building material it is far stronger than is generally supposed, and develops a compressive strength as high as 400 pounds to the square inch.

"The proper plaster protection will insure an adobe wall against deterioration. Hard, cement plaster thoroughly anchored into the walls and treated with an all-mineral water-proofing compound will give adobe walls great durability.

"Adobe is wet soil mixed with straw, cast into molds of required size and left to dry in the sun. As a building material adobe is everlasting, soundproof, noncombustive and fireproof, always of normal temperature, and is cool in summer and warm in winter."—Los Angeles Times.

Time's Changes in Bisbee.

Bisbee, Ariz., where is now heard the hum of the modern automobile, the tick of wrist watches and the wail of silk hose of all colors extending over the tops of $15 shoes, was entirely different 10 years ago, reminisces a writer in the Review of Bisbee. Then the hard-working miner had to struggle for hours to get a seat at a poker table or a "look in" at a faro game.

Main street was none one of the liveliest thoroughfares in the western hemisphere, saloons, gilded and otherwise, having been the honored business enterprises which lined both sides of the street. If anybody had predicted that a street railway would at some future time run through the center of Main street, or that it would some day become as dry and arid as the Sahara and Gobi deserts, he would immediately have been taken before a lunacy commission.

Too Much Ceremony.

The battalion was resting beside the road toward the end of its 30-mile hike. After the weary marchers had eased their packs and slipped from their nearby empty canteens, they watched disinterestedly the energetic setting-up exercises being gone through by a strange outfit in a nearby field.

"What's that there gang?" inquired Private Hanks of Oklahoma without enthusiasm.

"Infantry candidates' school," replied the corporal.

"Candidates! Infantry candidates?" exploded Hanks. "My good gosh! Do you have to make application and be initiated to get into this mess nowadays?"—The Home Sector.

Sculptors in the Doldrums.

According to American Art News the sculptors complain that there is little the work at present in their line of endeavor, and even the leading men are "waiting." The commemorative war statues and patriotic groups that were to decorate cities, towns and cemeteries have not thus far materialized. The unsettled conditions of the country, they contend, which are holding up building, are accountable for the present "doldrums."

No Wonder He's Crazy.

"This poor fellow is in a terrible condition," said the visitor.

"Yes," replied the asylum attendant. "He's the most violent patient we have in this ward."

"What caused him to lose his mind?"

"He tried to figure out some way to harness the energy that was going to waste in tango parlors."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

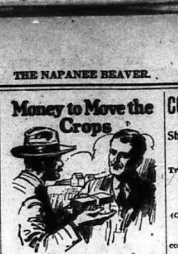
Money to Move the Crops



(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"Every year we see in financial news that the bankers are conserving money to move the crops.

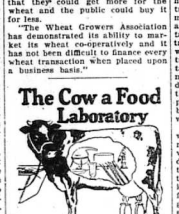
"How does the farmer get his money?" He has been carrying all of the risk and the sum total of this risk by all the farmers makes the risk carried by speculators fade into insignificance," says Mr. B. S. Rider, president, Canadian Steel & Wire Co.

"The farmer has always resented a fixed price because he considers that his wheat may be worth more than that at any time when he wants the full value for his property, but really the fixed price has very little to do with the selling price because at no time during the war period did wheat sell below the guarantee.

"Farmers have always said that if the middleman could be eliminated that they could get more for the wheat and the public could buy it for less.

"The Wheat Growers Association has demonstrated its ability to market its wheat co-operatively and it has not been difficult to finance every wheat transaction when placed upon a business basis."

The Cow a Food Laboratory



(National Crop Improvement Service.)

How can we build a new breed of men without we start with the babies? It is impossible to improve our race unless we nourish our infants that they may develop both physically and mentally.

The dairy cow is at the foundation of every industry. She is a most wonderful laboratory. She fills her stomach hopper with grain, grass and silage, then she lies down and by chewing her cud, converts this raw material into the most perfect food in the world.

Doctor McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, tells us that the "water soluble A" and the "fat soluble B," two mysterious somethings, are found in milk & nowhere else. Without these nourishing vitamines children will not grow, so milk-fed babies have the greatest possible advantage over the scarf-reared children raised without milk to drink.

How are the slum babies fed? Black coffee, pickles, imitation jams and molasses on their bread, consigned to the dirty rations of the worst of our poor families in the cities.

Without milk children famish, lack the vigor of the adult, decline and the vitality of the human race runs low.

Bread from Stones

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

Uncle Henry Wallace, father of the American Secretary of Agriculture, used to say that you cannot expect to remove fertility year after year from the soil without renewing it any more than you could keep on drawing money out of the bank without making a deposit. He used to rage up and down the land denouncing the man who mined his soil and called it farming.

The late Cyril G. Hopkins, of the University of Illinois, belonged to the same school and single-handed he crusaded against soil robbery by advocating building up of a permanent soil fertility by the use of rock phosphate.

He demonstrated on three hundred acres of very poor land in Southern Illinois, that he could by using manure, limestone and rock phosphate, produce 25½ bushels of wheat per acre, whereas on his check plots, where farm manure alone was used, he got but 11½ bushels.

He taught that our nitrogen supply can be taken from the air and that we generally have enough potash, but that we must replenish the phosphates.

The time will come when Canadian land must be reserved as they have farmers, especially in the West, have never used artificial fertilizers. It must be apparent that the economical time to restore fertility is before the soil is exhausted.

COWS IN HOT WEATHER

Shade and an Abundance of Water Are Necessary.

Trees In the Pasture a Boon—Some Cows Drink 20 Gallons of Water a Day at High Milk Flow — Fly Remedies—Lice on Hogs.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

During the extremely hot weather, cows and calves frequently suffer, sometimes needlessly, from three things—effects of high temperature, lack of water, and from torment by flies.

A great mistake was made in the older parts of Ontario when practically all the trees were cut down, thus leaving no shade for cattle and other live stock. This is being remedied to some extent by the planting of trees along roadsides, lanes, and line fences where the trees will not interfere with the crops. But it takes a long time for trees to grow into a size which will provide much shade.

When the late Prof. Brown was in charge of the O. A. College farm and live stock, he planted small groves of trees on various parts of the College farm, and no more pleasant sight may be seen than that of the College herd lying in the shade among these trees on a hot day. These groves make the fields where located rather awkward to work, but the cattle certainly enjoy themselves among the trees. On a live stock and dairy farm, while it may not be advisable to plant trees in the middle of a field, it certainly will pay to have them in as many places as possible, where they do not interfere with the working of the land. They, of course, must be protected when young, from injury by the stock, but this can be done without too much expense.

In the meantime, on dairy farms where no shade is available in the regular pasture field, sometimes a wood-lot can be utilized for the stock during the heat of the day, though they may damage the young trees to some extent. Another plan is to keep the cattle in a darkened stable for part of the day. This means a good deal of extra labor cleaning the stable, and keeping the cows clean, and under present labor conditions may not be practicable on many farms. However, where there is the necessary labor available and particularly where cows are receiving soiling or silage feed to supplement the pasture, the feeding in the stable may well take place during the day, and the cows be kept inside while it is very hot. This plan also reduces worry from flies, when the windows are covered to make the stable dark.

Cows frequently suffer from lack of sufficient water. As a boy, the writer remembers driving cattle to "Big Creek" in Brant County during dry spells. The cows were nearly famished when they reached the "Crick" and would drink until they looked like bursting. But, by the time they reached home, after walking for a mile-and-a-half over a dusty road, the cattle were nearly as thirsty as ever.

The only safe source of a sure water supply is a deep well, or bored, and having the water pumped by windmill or other source of power, with a storage tank for emergencies. There is no part of Ontario in which an abundance of water cannot be obtained, if we go deep enough to find the hidden sources of supply. In some districts, more particularly in the natural grass regions, the water may be salt or sulphur, in which cases, large tanks or cisterns for storing rainwater may be necessary, but this is unusual.

No matter how it is obtained, the owner of dairy stock, more especially of cows milking, must supply a large amount of water, else the stock will suffer, which means lessened milk supply, and small cheques from the creamery, cheese, condensery, or city dealer. Milk consists of about 87½ per cent. water, and this water must come from the drink and feed of the cow. A cow giving 100 lbs. (10 gallons) of milk daily, will drink over 200 lbs. (20 gallons) of water in a day. Cows giving less milk will drink in proportion. Give the cows plenty of water. Young cattle, calves, and hogs, also need plenty of clean water in hot weather.

There are several good fly remedies on the market. Where there is not time to make one, the purchase of a patent fly-killer or repellent, is advisable. These may be applied daily, or twice a day with a small hand sprayer. The expense is not great and the freedom from worry by both cow and milker is worth the money.

A home-made remedy may consist of one-half gallon fish oil, or any old grease, one-half pint coal oil, and four tablespoonfuls of crude carbolic acid, mixed, etc. Mix thoroughly. This will be sufficient for twenty-five cows and may be applied with a brush or cloth. If there is a mist it will keep the flies off for several days. Milkers must be careful not to get this on the hands, nor allow hairs to drop into the milk pail, as it will taint the milk. It is safer to apply after milking.—H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

Lice Add to Cost of Pork Production.

According to tests made by the Experimental Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md., lice add a cent a pound to the cost of pork production. Two lots of hogs of ten each as near alike as to the quality of the animals as possible were used in the tests. The two lots were managed and fed in the same way except that one lot was treated for the prevention of lice, in the other the lice were allowed to have their way. At the end of the fattening period it was found that the hogs infected with lice cost a cent a pound more to fatten than those which were not.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by a diseased condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation, and restoring normal conditions.

DENBIGH.

The Misses Gladys Stein, Mae Ball and Frieda Bolh and Mr. George Ball, who all taught schools in Renfrew County, are home now enjoying their vacations with their parents and other members of their families.—Mr. J. Topper, Principal of our village school during the school year just ended, also left for his home near Toronto, and does not intend to come back to resume his position.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lockwood and baby and Mrs. Guest, of Renfrew, were for part of this week welcome visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lockwood's, and Mrs. C. Lloyd, of Plevna, was also during a few days a welcome guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Warlick.—Miss Annie Fraser, of Ardock, presided as Examination Officer at the Entrance examinations held here this week, at which nine pupils tried their luck.—Rev. J. Reble, now of Linwood, in Waterloo County, who from 1908 till 1912 resided in the Lutheran Parsonage here, and administered to the spiritual needs of his congregations in Denbigh and Raglan, has obtained a well deserved vacation for five weeks, which he, with Mrs. Reble and their two sons and little daughter, enjoy visiting among his former Parishioners and other friends here, who are all glad to meet them again. — A very pretty and interesting wedding was solemnized in the Lutheran Church on Wednesday last, when Miss Louise Berndt, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Berndt, and Mr. Herman John, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. John were united in marriage by their former Pastor, Rev. J. Reble, of Linwood. After the ceremony in the Church, the wedding party assembled at the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty repast awaited them and a pleasant reception was held in the evening. Among the guests from other places were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Warlick, their son, Albert, and their daughter, Emilie, former Denbigh citizens, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kosmack and baby from Vanbrugh.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

There is no poisonous ingredient in Holloway's Corn Remover, and it can be used without danger or injury.

"Please, 'ave you a little cigarette 'older you don't want?" said a small Yorkshire lad to his father's friend.

"No, my boy, why?"

"Cos father said I could smoke a cigarette when I got a little older."

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A simple and effective remedy is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

"I was once prosperous, ma'am," said the tattered visitor.

"What did you do for a living?"

"I owned a cure for inebriates."

"And I suppose prohibition put you out of business?"

"Yes, ma'am, people who had been drinking hair tonic, benzine and varnish need the service of a regular doctor."

To safeguard the child from damage that worms cause, use Miller's Worm Powders, the medicine par excellence for children. These powders will clear the system entirely of worms, will regulate and stimulate the organs injuriously affected by the worms, and will encourage healthful operation of the digestive processes. As a vermifuge it can be relied on for its effectiveness.

"Do you know, Miss Biggal," said young Saphead, "I've got a great mind to twighten you by wocking the boat!"

"A young man like you tried that with me once and the boat upset," replied Miss Biggal, as athletic young woman.

"Did it, weally? What did you do?"

"I swam ashore and notified the coroner."

A Corrector of Pulmonary Troubles.—Many testimonials could be presented showing the great efficacy of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in curing disorders of the respiratory processes, but the best testimonial is experience and the Oil is recommended to all who suffer from these disorders with the certainty that they will find relief. It will allay inflammation in the bronchial tubes.

A colored soldier, returning to the southern town whence he had been whisked by Uncle Sam, and bearing a decoration on his manly chest, was the cynosure for all the dusky belles of the place.

"What dat you got pinned on you?" asked one.

"Dat aint' nothin' ut jes a little ol' crow de gurry."

"How come?"

"Ain't no how come. Dey jes' gives it me for lettin' a French ossifer kiss me."

It Has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself, and can be got for a quarter of a dollar.

FIND HOLINESS IN FOREST

Buddhist Seekers After High Knowledge Let Themselves Be Absorbed in World of Nature.

The gods we've believed to love the high forests on the mountain slopes and there doubtless they were worshiped, even as today; every traveler must be struck by the secluded beauty of the ancient groves wherein, in the far East, the most famous temples are reared. We may gather from a story in the Upanishads how Satyakama, the cowherd, learned from his solitary companioning with the wilds some lessons of the unity of man with nature. His Guru, struck by the luminous gaze of the lad, questioned him. "You shine like one who knows God; who, then, has taught you?" and was answered with a radiant smile: "Not man."

Even in those early days the seeker after knowledge withdrew into the forest or sought refuge in the mountain fastnesses, and in Brahmanic times we are told that contemplation was practiced "in a place apart, pure, delightful by its sounds, its waters and its bowers, full of shelters and caves." By this means man might himself be absorbed in the world of nature, and so in the divine.

Sakyamuni, the Buddha, trained in the Brahmanic school, adopted this discipline of meditation in the presence of nature into the practice of the religion he founded. All the important recorded events of his life are associated with the works of nature. He received the truth eternal under the Bodhi tree and under it he entered Nirvana; his favorite resorts were the Deer forest, the Bamboo grove, the Vulture peak, and he and his immediate followers savored nothing from convert rajahs of greater value than a grove or a garden plot wherein to set up their shelters of leaves. To them "the body itself was but a hut in the wilderness, a flimsy shelter made by tying together the grasses that grew around. When they fell apart, they were again resolved into the original waste." Their aim was to become at heart a wild creature "gifted by the forest sense of things," as one of them sang, and united with nature. This union, the Buddha taught, both by precept and practice, was to be obtained by meditation in solitude.—Hamilton Bell in Asia Magazine.

PAINS SO BAD STAYED IN BED

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and frequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends."—Mrs. EMILY BEECROFT, 269 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

Armed Bandits Hold Up Napanee Insurance Man.

Two armed bandits held up —and robbed Mr. Barker, Napanee agent of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, of $160 Monday night shortly after 8.30 o'clock, when he was returning from the west end of Deseronto, where he had been on business for his company. When he had gone a short distance past the smelting works two men rushed out from the side of the road, one on either side, covered him with revolvers and threatened to shoot him if he moved. Mr. Barker was forced to hand over the money which he carried, amounting to $160. No trace has yet been found of the bandits. Provincial Officer Miller, of Toronto, is working on the case.

Anniversary of Dedication of Monument.

On Dominion Day, 1920, the fine monument at the Court House was dedicated to the memory of the men from Lennox and Addington who had paid the supreme sacrifice in the war. Under the auspices of the local Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire the event was commemorated on its anniversary, Friday last, by a brief, simple, but impressive ceremony. Short addresses were given by Mrs. Harshaw, Regent of the Chapter, and Rev. J. H. H. Coleman. After appropriate prayers had been offered, a beautiful wreath of flowers from the I. O. D. E. was placed upon the monument, and other floral tributes were added, some of them in memory of individuals who had given their lives. The ceremony was brought to a close with the National Anthem. It is hoped that this will be made an annual event, and that as it becomes better known, it will be recognized and participated in by the whole community.

DO NOT WASTE WATER!

The Waterworks Pumping plant in Napanee is pumping at the present time approximately 205 gallons of water every 24 hours for each man, woman and child in the town. We ask every user to save all the water possible. We find people leaving their lawn taps running all night. We wish to draw your attention to the fact that lawn watering is only to be done between 5 and 8 in the morning and 7 to 9 in the evening.

Also we wish to warn against allowing your neighbours who have not water service, using your taps. Anyone doing so is liable to have his water service completely cut off. Please help out by being just as careful as possible.

GOOLD—RENNIE.

St. Mark's Church, Deseronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 22nd, at high noon, when Miss Marion Grossart, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rennie, of Braeside Farm, Napanee Road, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Ellison Goold, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Goold, of Kentucky. The church was tastefully decorated with pink roses, peonies and asparagus ferns. The guest pews were marked with white standards of peonies and wedding bells tied with ribbons. The Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe officiated. Miss Daisy Large presided at the organ. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very dainty in a becoming white kitten's ear taffeta gown. Her veil of embroidered Brussels net fell to the edge of her gown and was held with orange blossoms. She wore the groom's gift, a white gold pin set with diamonds and sapphires and carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart and Ophelia roses. The bride was attended by Miss Jean Griffith, of Toronto, who was prettily gowned in a frock of green organdy with hat to match, and carried a nosegay of sweet peas; and Miss Beatrice Rixen gowned in a frock of pink organdy with an organdy hat and carried a nosegay of sweet peas. Mr. Bruce Stoddart acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. W. Gault and P. VanBlack. During the signing of the register Mr. Bert Bowen sang "Until". The groom's gift to the bridesmaids and organist were gold pins set with pearls, to the best man and ushers gold tie pins set with pearls, and to Mr. Bowen a pair of gold cuff links. A reception was held afterwards at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and groom received in the reception hall amid a bower of syringa marguerites and ferns. Mrs. Rennie wore a very becoming gown of grey silk crepe trimmed with black and a large black hat trimmed with ospreys. In the large dining room a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. T. D. Gault and Mrs. D. Baird of Toronto, poured tea. The ices were cut by Mrs. (Dr.) Farley, of Trenton, and Mrs. (Dr.) Ferguson, of Belleville. The Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe proposed the health of the bride to which the bridegroom responded. The bride before her departure threw her bouquet which was caught by Miss V. Naylor. Mr. and Mrs. Goold left on a trip down the St. Lawrence to Boston, New York, Washington and other points in the United States. They will reside in Mount Pleasant, West Virginia. The bride travelled in a smart French suit of navy blue trimmed embroidered in gold with a French embroidered blouse of camel grey crepe de chine and a blue French hat. The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, among them a cabinet of silver from her uncle, Mr. T. Bowen, of Toronto.

to householders who have not done any papering to their walls this spring, but who have rooms that should be done. Our sales this season have broken all records, but we started with a stock of almost double the usual size, and in order to further reduce will offer for two weeks, bargains that cannot be surpassed anywhere. It is not because we are afraid that the prices will be lowered by the manufacturer before another season,—in fact, they are all agreed that there is no chance of a drop in wall papers; raw material and labor keeping just as high as at any time during the war. We have quite a number of linen, good stock, up-to-date patterns and coloring, that we will offer at prices lower than same goods can be bought for at the factory to-day. Handsome lines for kitchens, dining rooms and bed rooms at 15c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 25c. And so on, up to 60c. paper, now offered at 25c. If you think of doing any papering the present year, you will not regret it if you buy your paper from us, and do it now.

We will offer at actual cost every Boy's Wagon, Cart and Wheelbarrow in stock.

Base Balls from the cheapest for the boys up to the official League.

Window Shades, Blind Mouldings, Picture Hooks, Push Pins, etc. If you paper a room and have it pleasing to the eye, do not spoil it by driving in nails on which to hang your pictures, but spend a few cents more and put up a picture moulding.

Bring in those Pictures you want framed and have them done now before they get soiled.

Presentation and Address.

The members of the C. S. E. T. Camps and C. G. I. T. Groups met in Grace Church School Room on Tuesday evening to express their appreciation of the work done by Rev. Mr. Rogers and Mrs. Rogers among the young people of the church. After a social time, ice cream and cake were served. Then Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were called to the platform, when Miss Tena Richardson read the following address, and Miss Pearl Valastine presented on behalf of the classes, Mrs. Rogers with a Canadian Beauty electric grill.

Napanee, July 12th, 1921.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Rogers,—We, the teachers and members of the classes represented here, have learned with sincere regret of your departure, which of necessity will sever your relations as instructors and helpers in our work.

We have noted from time to time, with great appreciation, the willingness with which you gave up all for our benefit and the zeal with which you endeavoured to the interests which lay so near and which are so dear to our hearts.

We consider these relations to be severed without showing in some tangible form our appreciation of your cordial and efficient services. We therefore, beseech you to accept this small gift as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by those gathered here.

We hope that you will be able to carry to your new home, with you, pleasant memories of your association with us and may your groups of young people ever be as precious jewels in your crowns of reward.

Signed on behalf of the classes.

Steve arrived late at his work nearly every morning, and the warehouse-man took him before the manager, hoping by this means to help him.

"This is a serious case," said the manager, with assumed sternness. "What have you to say for yourself, my lad?"

"Aw'll say nowt abeawt it, sir, if yo' don't," replied Steve.

"Hmm, sir," replied Steve. "What time do yo' mostly get up?"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Dear Editor, or into whosoever hands this sketch may fall, I wish to say my only intention in writing this is, if I might induce if it were only one person even to abate the auto traffic on our country roads, where our houses, our lungs and even our food is polluted with road dust, especially the Belleville road, where all the ballast to pave Dundas St. is drawn by between 30 and 40 teams.

Napanee, July 12th, 1921.

It has been a matter of surprise that more of the citizens of both town and country do not take advantage of a pleasant trip on our river or bay. On a recent Saturday just before school closed a little girl and her grandmother took passage on the steamer Paradise to Picton, with no other passengers on board till we reached Deseronto. The trip up the river in the cool of the early morning, the boat leaving the dock promptly at 6 a.m., was delightful and refreshing. No words of mine could do it justice. Then in Deseronto harbor, a sea-plane in all its glory of scarlet paint, riding at anchor. After leaving Deseronto we passed quite close to camp San Souci, called at Huff's dock, then at Waller's dock, then at Davy's Island, for passengers; more at Thompson's Point, then at Adolphustown, where more passengers comfortably filled the boat. On past Glenora, where we passed the ferry, where a frightened horse attached to a buggy, an automobile and several people composed the ferry load. Finally we reached Picton about 11 o'clock; a friend to meet us at the dock, a delicious dinner in one of Picton's most cosy homes, and back to the boat at 2 p.m.; a delightful breeze on the water, no dust no smoke, the pleasant gliding motion, the lovely wooded shores, the many motor boats, the gulls and loons, and a great schooner with all sails spread, which our Captain vowed a little way up the river, were sources of joy and wonder to the little girl. The genial Captain, the obliging crew who did everything possible for the passengers' comfort, made a pleasant day long to be remembered, and home a little after 6 p.m., hungry and happy.

STELLA.

The heat of the past week has been very oppressive, some days registering as high as 99 degrees in the shade. Very few have started to hay owing to the extreme heat. The grain is rapidly throwing off its green costume and donning its mantle of gold. A refreshing shower of rain is eagerly anticipated.—Two very sudden and pathetic deaths occurred here last week. On Wednesday evening Mr. Wm. McGuiness, a farmer near Emerald, was stricken by the hand of death while busy at his daily labours. His funeral was conducted by Rev. Mr. McTeer, of Bath, on Friday, at 10 a.m. His remains were taken to Glenwood cemetery. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and eleven children. On Thursday morning a gloom was again cast over the community, when the word rapidly spread from place to place that Mr. Alex. McCormick, a prosperous young farmer, had also suddenly departed from this life while watering his cattle along the bay shore. His funeral was conducted by Rev. Mr. McCree, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains were transferred to Glenwood cemetery. He leaves behind his sorrowing wife and a little son of five summers. The sympathy of the friends and neighbours is extended to the bereaved members of both these families.—On Wednesday evening, July 6th, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cochrane, when their youngest daughter, Drusilla, was united in marriage to Bertram Cassadra, of Northbrook, Rev. Mr. McCree officiating at the service. The bridal couple were unattended, and only the immediate relatives were present.—The members of the L. O. L. No. 1455 held their glorious 12th in Gananoque. They are enjoying the soft breezes which are sighing through the pines and cedars, and their leisure time is spent in bathing and boating. — On Saturday evening a number of young people gathered at the home of Mr. H. Sandwith, where they indulged in dancing.—Mr. Percival Howard is spending a new car. BENEFICIAL EFFECTS OF SCHOOL FAIRS.

School fairs are to the boys and girls of the land what the larger fairs are to adults. By this time they should be thoroughly organized; prize lists published and circulated and programmes of proceedings prepared, the two indeed given in one publication. These fairs increase in number every year and are proving of inestimable value in the agricultural education of the young and even in beneficially influencing the more mature. Of course boys' and girls' clubs are the principal feeders of the fairs, but entries are usually accepted from children who are not members of any such organization. Agricultural representatives all testify to the splendid effect the fairs are having upon farm life and agricultural pursuits generally. One, for instance, writes "I do not know of any one thing which is a greater factor in improving the farm production and the farm industry of the country than the school fairs..... In addition to bringing direct, practical results, school fairs have had a very effective influence in encouraging teachers to take up the teaching of agriculture in the public schools." Another says: "The importance of the school fair cannot be over-emphasized. It teaches our future farmers how they can take the most out of the soil. It makes our rural people better and happier." In recognition of the truth of the old adage "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", a programme of sports is usually included in the days list of proceedings. YOUR TEETH.

GRANDPARENTS.

To get the best out of education and health, you should begin with your grandfather and grandmother. It is always a little difficult to go back and change the habits of the old folks, but you might start with your own grandchildren's grandparents; that is one set of ancestors that you can control. Why not begin right now?

Heredity is an important factor in the development of the body—every part of the body.

The tendency is for a perfectly healthy organism to reproduce a perfectly healthy organism. If you start out right, you have a good chance to travel along without much of a struggle for health. If your race has allowed itself to go to pieces, you will reap the punishment.

It is your duty so to care for yourself that your children and grandchildren will not have constitutional weaknesses that will make them susceptible to every infection that comes along.

If you allow your teeth to decay and allow the pulps to become exposed and die, you will start a line of systemic infection that is liable to undermine your health—not only your health but the health of those who should look back to you with pride as the one who transmitted rugged health and keen mind.

Do you wish your descendants to apologize for you as the weak link in their chain of ancestry? If you do not take care of every element of your health that is just what they will have to do.

Your mouth and your teeth are very important elements in your health.

Many of the factors of health are beyond your control, but the mouth is so open to inspection and so responsive to treatment and care that at least ninety per cent. of mouth diseases are somebody's fault.

Think of the future and take care of yourself.

REGINALD LEWIS INSTANTLY KILLED.

Reginald Lewis, G.T.R. telegraph operator at Colborne, was instantly killed about 4.30 p.m. Saturday, near Marysville, when his automobile turned turtle. Two others who were riding with him were seriously injured. Frank Marselle, Deserontto, one of them, was taken to the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, Sunday morning.

Mr. Lewis resided with his wife and two children, aged six years and one year, at 160 Queen St., Kingston, where Mrs. Lewis' mother, Mrs. Jamieson, also resided. Mr. Lewis had been home on a visit to his family, and left in his car at 1 p.m. for Colborne to take up his duties, and when the word of the accident was received it was a sad blow to his family and many friends, for the deceased was held in high esteem.

The late Mr. Lewis served in the 21st Battalion during the war, and he was one of the few taking the soldiers' vocational courses that made good. He took up telegraphy and his exceptional ability was shown in a very short time, as he became a proficient operator. For a time he did relief work as a despatcher on the G.T.R., and was looking forward to a station of his own.

He was very fond of motoring, and it is said he had a sixty h.p. motor put in his car, a small Ford runabout, and had registered eighty miles an hour on occasions. It is supposed that a blowout occurred and the car, going at high speed, became unmanageable. It was thrown against a telephone pole and the occupants were thrown out with great force, two of them being twelve feet away when found. Mr. Lewis, besides having many cuts, had the ribs of the left side crushed in on the heart, causing instant death.

The members of the party were found by Stanley Trotter, Stanley Smallridge and William Perry, all Kingston men, returning from the Peterboro'-Belleville baseball game. The coroner and magistrate from Deserontto were present, and the coroner's car was used to convey them to Deserontto. No inquest was deemed necessary.

The body of Mr. Lewis was taken to Kingston on Sunday morning and was received by S. S. Corbett, undertaker.

Deceased was a Mason. During the war he was wounded in the left forearm. His left hand was deformed and of little use to him.

WOMEN INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNED.

A bad accident occurred one mile east of Odessa, at 5.30 p.m., Friday, when a car containing two women and two girls, was overturned and toppled on to a fence at the roadside, pinning one of the young women underneath. The car had the two front wheels smashed to bits and the windshield broken. Two of the occupants were hurt.

It appears from what can be learned about the affair that there were two cars and they were racing along the road at very high speed, one car driven by the women and the other by a man, who had a load of huckleberries. When the car came to grief, the older was stopped and the occupant came to the assistance of the injured and conveyed them to Kingston. The wrecked car belonged to Mr. Hay, Ardendale, and VanLuven Bros., Kingston, sent out their service car, put on new wheels and made other repairs so that Mr. Hay was able to proceed to his home.

PLAIN TALK NO. 5

Dear People,—No doubt you will be a little surprised at us for our past methods of advertising; especially our old customers, for they know us well and expect something out of the ordinary. We must apologize for repetition, as busiss is always more than brisk at this season and calls for our efforts so urgently that we scarcely find time to eat. Now, there is a reason for our success, and let us briefly state we mean to stick to our ideals. Our leather and workmanship is, and always will be, of the very best. We work on a small margin and give satisfaction to all. As you are aware, there are several grades of leather and it is possible to have boots fixed at a very low cost, but, not so with us; we handle nothing inferior in quality, are best by far, so compare our work with others and be convinced. Our prompt service is also an item worthy of mention for we do everything same day as received. So all work left in the morning can be had that evening. We also carry the only unbreakable Shoe Laces in town. Don't ask for five cent laces for we would not handle them. Some good second-hand Boots for sale, cheap. Rubber Heels in a very few minutes. Yours for neatness and despatch.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Ethel—What kind of a fellow is he to go out with?
Mabel—Fine! A little nearsighted, but he can't see the prices on the menus.

As a vermicide an excellent preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It has saved the lives of countless children.

"Mother," sighed little Johnny, "I had such an awful dream last night! Does it mean anything?"
"Yes, it means that I know now what became of that apple cake that I couldn't find last night."

No matter how deep-rooted the corn may be, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Remover if used as directed.

Uncle Ed—Well, Johnny, how do you spell giraffe?
Johnny—G-i-r-a-f-e.
Uncle—The dictionary spells it with two fs.
Johnny—Well, you asked me how I spelled it, uncle.

Miller's Worm Powders work so effectively that no traces of worms can be found. The pests pass away in the stools without being perceptible. They make an entire and clean sweep of the intestines, and nothing in the shape of a worm can find lodgement there when these powders are in operation. Nothing could be more thorough or desirable than their action.

The stranger approached the Washington policeman outside the union station and observed: "Say, I want to go to the White House."
"Now, look here," the officer responded peevishly. "You're the ninth candidate that's come bothering me to-day, and it ain't a bit of use. I've always lived right here in the District of Columbia and haven't got a vote."

Externally or Internally, It Is Good.—When applied externally by brisk rubbing, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil opens the pores and penetrates the tissue, touching the seat of the trouble and immediately affording relief. Administered internally, it will still the irritation in the throat which induces coughing and will relieve affections of the bronchial tubes and respiratory organs. Try it and be convinced.

A minister spoke very strongly against betting. One of the wealthiest members of the congregation was a great rambler, and someone told the preacher about this.
After the service he went up to the gambler, and said: "I'm afraid I must have offended you to-day, but—"
"Oh, not at all, mention it," was the reply. "It's a mighty poor sermon that doesn't hit me somewhere."

A Household Medicine.—They that are acquainted with the sterling properties of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the treatment of many ailments would not be without it in the house. It is truly a household medicine and as it is effective in dealing with many ordinary complaints it is an inexpensive medicine. So, keep it at hand, as the call for it may come most unexpectedly.

"Ah, my poor friend, this is a sad world!" said Fuller Gloom to a dilapidated man who was wringing discordant melodies out of a shabby accordion.
"It is, indeed, sah!" replied the wretched one. "Also, sah, being the case, could you spare me a few pennies whorewith to buy a meal?"
"Oh, so you are but a beggar after all? I supposed you were a worthy music lover whose wife would not permit him to play that infernal thing in the house."

A shy young man had been calling on "the sweetest girl in the world" for many months, being bashful, his suit had progressed slowly.
Finally she decided she ought to set things going, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his coat and said, "I'll give you a kiss for that."
A crimson flush spread over his countenance, but the exchange was made. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.
"Where are you going?" she asked in surprise.
"To the—er—florist for more roses," he called back from the front door.

Rinso

The Modern, Easy Washing Way—

No need at all for wash day to be a work day. Let Rinso do away with the weary rub of the wash board. Let Rinso do away with the steamy labor of the boiler. Let Rinso wash your clothes beautifully clean and snowy white in a new way—just by soaking in either warm or cold water. You make a rich, bubbly, cleansing suds with Rinso, put the clothes in, let them soak a few hours and then rinse them thoroughly. For dirty spots it will be necessary to rub between the hands.

STOP RUBBING—USE RINSO

STOP BOILING—USE RINSO

Rinso is not a "Washing Powder"
The fine granules of Rinso look much like a washing powder, but make this test: Use a heaping teaspoonful to a glass of boiling water, let it cool and then "turn it out."

"Washing Powder"
—high in harsh chemicals
—low in soap

RINSO
—absolutely harmless.
—so rich in soap it "jells!"

If you have a washing machine—
Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

DIED TO ESCAPE SUFFERING

Crew of Crippled Hun Submarine Took the Easiest Way Out of a Hopeless Situation.

Admiral Sims in the World's Work tells of the efficiency of the submarine listening devices. Once when a submarine had been injured and was lying on the bottom in shallow water a grewsome thing was heard. They listened for hours, without hearing a sound; but about 3 o'clock in the afternoon a sharp piercing noise came ringing over the wires. It was a sound that made the listeners' blood run cold.

Only one thing in the world could make a sound like that. It was the crack of a revolver. The first report had hardly stilled when another shot was heard; and then there were more in rapid succession. The listeners on two different chasers heard these pistol cracks and counted them; the reports which these men independently made agreed in every detail. In all 25 shots came from the bottom of the sea. As there were from 25 to 30 men in the submarine crew the meaning was all too evident. The larger part of the officers and men, finding themselves shut tightly in their coffin of steel, had resorted to that escape which was not uncommonly availed of by German submarine crews in this hideous war. Nearly all of them had committed suicide.

Gen. Benjamin Butler's Wit.

General Butler was the leader of the house in 1875 and Samuel J. Randall leader of the Democratic side. As the Forty-third congress was about to close I was with Randall when Butler came up, and Randall asked him to hold a Sunday session. Butler said no, he would not consent to it; he never would do any work on Sunday that was not necessary.
Randall turned and chaffingly said: "Oh, that is your New England Puritanism, I suppose. That serves you to good purpose, and I expect to meet you some day, Butler, in another and better world."
Butler replied in a flash: "Oh, no Sam; you will be there, as you are here, a member of the lower house."—Melville R. Stone, in Collier's Weekly.

CLEAR CALL TO AMERICANS

Year 1920 Should Be Remembered by All as Anniversary of Establishment of Free Institutions.

Distinguished Americans, including William H. Taft, Charles Hughes and Cardinal Gibbons, have appealed to their fellow countrymen to remember and honor by local celebrations at any suitable time beginning June 4 the establishment of free institutions in America. A great year is 1920. Three hundred years ago beginning the 30th of last July, there was being held in Jamestown, colony of Virginia, the first American legislative assembly called by free men of lawful age and understanding. And during this time, with self-government at its birth hour, the Pilgrims from England after a twelve years' sojourn in Holland were making ready to establish in the new world a home of religious freedom. One year after the Virginians met, this Pilgrim band set sail for America, departing from Leyden, Holland, July 30, 1620. Furthermore let it not be forgotten that Nov. 11 is not only the anniversary day of signing of the Mayflower compact, second assumption by English colonies in America of the unalienable right of self-government, but it is also of the signing of the armistice closing the great war in which, as the above representative spokesmen point out, the descendants of the Pilgrims of New England and the cavaliers of Virginia and their kindred crossed the sea and won liberty together. A year with an imperative challenge to renew policies of Americanization and patriotic consecration is 1920, and no community should be without its religious and civic expression in acknowledgment of the past and in dedication to the future.

Landmark to Be Preserved.

The Mullan tree, landmark of the old Mullan trail, the first highway connecting Montana and Idaho with the coast, will be preserved to posterity through the creation of a national monument area by the president. On July 4, 1861, Captain John Mullan, leader of the party having in charge the survey and construction of the Mullan trail from Walla Walla, Wash., to Ft. Benton, Mont., closed his work at the connecting point of the roads from the east and west, at the head of the Fourth of July canyon, between Wallace, Idaho, and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. There he marked appropriately a huge white pine tree, which since that time has been known as the Mullan tree. Toothsome seeking souvenirs of their jaunt along the Yellowstone trail have damaged the ancient tree so much that forest service officers have found it necessary to take steps to protect it, and to accomplish this have submitted a petition proposing that a national monument area be created, which has been approved.—Kansas City Journal.

The Family Knew.

A certain thrifty young man often calls on a certain young woman, but never yet has he ever taken her to a picture show or out riding in his automobile or even to the corner drug store for ice cream. The family has noticed and often commented on what they term his "stinginess," and all before the young woman's ten-year-old brother.

Now, the other night the ten-year-old youngster was in the living room while the young man was calling. The caller, who was sitting close to the fireplace and stretching forth his hands to the cheerful blaze, suddenly said, "Oh, how I do love to sit before your fireplace and think, think——"

Like a flash came a quick interruption from the ten-year-older. "Think—think of how you are saving money by sitting here," he said.—Indianapolis News.

Wireless Experiments.

Valuable experiments in wireless telegraphy are being conducted by the French war sloop Alsacienne, which has been cruising in the Pacific near the Chatham and Bounty islands, Lieutenant Geierre, wireless expert, will probably submit the result of his experiments to the international wireless conference in Washington shortly. He states that the wireless "reception" in New Zealand from French instruments is of special interest to continental experts, as New Zealand is practically the antipode of France. It is claimed that the Alsacienne is carrying out for the first time a truly comprehensive system of measuring the strength of "receptions," although an American had pioneered the way in this respect.

Philippine Sugar Industry.

Five modern sugar mills are projected in Negros, P. I., with a total capacity of 5,000 tons of cane daily. Ten mills with a capacity of 3,000 tons of cane daily are already in operation in this district. The movement for better equipment and organization in sugar centrals is likely to continue until every sugar district capable of supporting a central is supplied with modern mills. The general rate of payment now by the centrals to the farmers for their cane is 55 per cent of the value of the sugar obtained.

The Doughnut Band.

Twenty young Salvation Army lassies who cooked doughnuts for the soldiers in France have organized a brass band in Philadelphia.

DOG'S GREAT LOVE

Death Could Not Separate Rags From His Master.

With the Man He Worshiped Gone, Life Had No Charms for His Dumb Companion, and He Quickly Followed.

A professional man in a New Jersey town was the owner of a Skye terrier named Rags, which was regarded as an unusually intelligent dog. The New York Times states. His master commuted regularly to the city. Rags, no matter how bad the weather might be, always accompanied him to the station, saw him safely aboard the train, and waited until it was out of sight before he could be persuaded to return home. Rags was then quite disconsolate for the rest of the day, but late in the afternoon when his master's homebound train was due his spirits revived and he was sure to be at the station to meet him.

When the train lumbered into the town and came to a stop, Rags would run along the platform from car to car, scanning the passengers eagerly as they alighted. At sight of his master he would bark delightedly, wag his tail and jump about with joy. His pleasure was sometimes dimmed by his master missing the train. When this happened the little dog remained at the station long enough to convince himself that his owner was not there, and then, tucking his tail between his legs, he repaired to a nearby cafe, which his master customarily visited before returning home. If necessary, Rags would remain in the bar room for an hour or more, knowing well that in the natural course of events his master would call for him. On such occasions he rebuked his master by exhibiting toward him a certain shy canine indifference, which he maintained until he was regaled with dainties from the free-lunch counter.

For years the dog accompanied his master to and from the station, and their loyalty and devotion to each other was the talk of the town. Then one day the master was taken ill and died, and was duly laid to rest in the town's quiet and peaceful little cemetery. Rags never recovered from the shock of his death. Although neighbors did their best to make life pleasant for him, he refused to be comforted. He began to visit the cemetery and haunt the plot where his master was buried. There have been stories of dogs dying from grief, and some such stories have been doubted and exploded by certain naturalists, but be that as it may, one day the sexton and caretaker of the cemetery, in making his morning rounds, discovered Rags cold and lifeless beside his master's grave. This sexton, an unromantic old fellow, said he guessed the dog just died naturally from old age, but Rags' friends, and they were many, were sure it was from loneliness and grief.

In this same town there was another dog which delighted to frolic about the station with Rags. It was owned by a local hackman who plied between town and from the station and their homes. This dog, as though he were an integral part of it, followed the hack wherever it went. Negro pantrymen on the Pennsylvania express "Nellie Bly," which made a brief stop daily, took a fancy to the dog, and used to throw him bones from the window of the dining car. It mattered not where the hackman might be when driving a fare home, his dog knew by instinct the hour at which the express was due, and, rather than be late, he would desert his master and run to the station for dear life. If his master left the station a short time before the express was due, his pet refused to accompany him, fearing evidently he might miss the train with its treat from the pantrymen.

Surveying by Airplane.

The airplane in Tasmania has been used to survey a route for the erection of a transmission line capable of delivering 10,000 horsepower of electric current from the Great Lake works to Launceston, a distance of 50 miles. No man had ever been through this part of the country. The airplane, which carried an engineer of the government hydro-electric department, traveled 180 miles, and flew over wild mountain peaks, rising to an altitude of 6,000 feet, over very heavily timbered country, numerous lakes, lagoons and rivers. Information, which in the ordinary way would have taken some months to obtain, owing to the forbidding nature of the country, was gained in a couple of hours.

That's All.

The fashionable physician had been giving instructions to the young man who was acting for him during a holiday.

"I hope everything will be all right," stammered the nervous understudy; "only I've had so little experience."

"You don't need experience with my patients," said the great man, as he grabbed his hat. "They're as simple as A. B. C. Ask them what they're eating—and stop it. Ask them where they're going for a holiday—and send them somewhere else."

Lusitania's Gold.

Efforts will be started soon to recover the treasure in the Lusitania. It is believed that the depth of the water will forbid raising the ship or any of her cargo, but some valuables can be recovered, and she carried much gold.

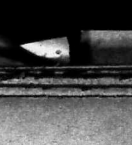
Grain Smut Explosions



(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"In the Pacific Northwest, wheat smut spores live over winter in the soil and the ordinary treatment with formaldehyde is not effective unless there has been a rotation of crops which causes the smut spores to die.

"As a consequence, dense clouds of smut spores, which may be seen for miles, arise from the threshers and spread wheat contagion over the entire country," says Mr. P. Schleusner, Perth Amboy Chemical Company.

"Sometimes when this smut cloud is properly mixed with air, a piece of wire or nail will strike a spark in the separator and the result is an explosion worse than a thirteen-inch gun, blowing machines to pieces and often killing and injuring the crew.

"The wheat smut tax amounts to millions of dollars. It is in most instances entirely preventable by treatment of the seed, but so serious has it become that the American Department of Agriculture has a separate grade for smutted wheat.

"It will be well for the Canadian farmers to prevent smut from ever getting entrenched while it is comparatively easy."

Safeguarding Inspection

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"Grain inspection has been reduced to a fine art. In order to avoid dispute, a sample is taken from the car of grain at the terminal market and is divided into two homogenous halves by means of an ingenious separator into which the sample is poured.

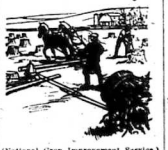
"This divides and mixes the grain so evenly that the two portions may be weighed without the variance of more than a few grains," says Chief Culver, of the Toledo Produce Exchange.

"The object of this is that when the grain arrives at its destination and the buyer should complain of its quality, a re-inspection can always be demanded from the identical sample from which the first inspection was made.

"These reserve portions are kept for several months and in case of export, they prove invaluable in settling all complaints as to quality.

"Inspection nowadays is all official and the inspector cannot be tampered with because he has no idea whose grain he is inspecting. Grain inspection is as reliable as the coinage of silver."

Yank Out the Stumps



(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"Our tillable lands have gone and with a further growth and development of the world, we must utilize every waste acre. Stump pulling is a vital problem to the man who is farming in a cut-over country, to the man who is paying taxes on idle stump land and to the man who is seeking a rich farm at a comparatively low price.

"The neatest, quickest and most economical way of clearing out stumps and roots, is with a stump-puller and wire rope," says Mr. R. S. Rider, president, Canadian Steel & Wire Co.

"The use of a pulley block so designed that any number of them can be used to double, triple, or quadruple the power of the machine, will conquer the most stubborn stumps without fail.

"When dynamite is used, the roots are left to be grubbed out or pulled out by team, all of which is slow, hard work. With the stump-puller and a wire rope, the job is clean and complete.

"A good stump-puller will pay for itself in the saving of hadd labor on a few acres of ground, to say nothing of the increase of crop values. You can use it in the wet season when you can work at nothing else. In fact, the machine works easier when the ground is wet.

"We need every acre."

"Mother," sighed little Johnny, "I had such an awful dream last night! Does it mean anything?"

GOOD IN POVERTY

Mr. Goslington Does a Little Philosophizing.

Sees Much Benefit in the Necessity to Work and Also in the Worry Which Falls to the Lot of Majority of Mankind.

"Glimmerby, my friend Glimmerby," said Mr. Goslington, "propounds the theory that both poverty and worry are conducive to longevity; and I think there is something in that. I am not so sure about the worry, and yet I think even that may be true. I can see, for instance, that if a man worried hard enough he would keep himself lean and so escape the ills and inconveniences attendant upon obesity; but that poverty tends to lengthen life I have no doubt whatever.

"The man who is poor, as we most of us are, has to work for a living. Surely it is in work that we are most blessed; and if we have work to do in which we are interested, that appeals to us, then are we fortunate indeed; we find a pleasure in labor and a joy in accomplishment; and it makes me smile to think how in such work we forget our worries entirely.

"So we don't really need to consider whether worry is a life prolonger or not; all we want to lengthen our days is to be poor, poor enough so that we have to work and keep plugging; but I do wonder that Glimmerby did not mention along with poverty and worry, as among the things that might tend to prolong life, our physical ailments.

"Some years ago a friend of mine began to lose weight and he kept on in that way until he had lost 25 pounds. Then he consulted a doctor. It was something that could be checked, controlled and perhaps entirely cured if the patient would follow faithfully the prescribed treatment; and then he was told that the general benefits he would derive from the treatment were such that his life might be prolonged to a greater limit than it would have reached if he had never had this ailment at all.

"I might add that this friend has now regained several of his lost pounds, he is feeling very chipper and cheerful and he fully expects to live to be a very old man.

"The fact is that many things that we may look at, when they come upon us, as drawbacks are in reality blessings in disguise."

Australians Well Off.

In no part of the world is there a population apparently better fed and better provided with the ordinary necessaries of life than in Australia and New Zealand. There is an absence of indications of poverty, and in the cities slums are rare. On the streets there is a healthy, bustling population of a type more like the dwellers in the cities of the middle West than those of London or Liverpool. The visitor recognizes the self-reliant spirit of a people detached from the rest of the world who have their own problems to solve, and are particularly ready to accept innovations. There is a great fondness for sports—football, tennis, surf bathing, which is possible all the year round in portions of Australia, and, most of all, for horse racing, in connection with which there is a great amount of gambling, which the state sometimes by taking a certain percentage of the sales in the pool rooms.—Exchange.

Old Rome Has Paper Shortage.

Le Figaro of Paris has unearthed for its readers what it believes is the world's first recorded paper shortage. It quotes from the "Causeries du Lundi" where Sainte-Beuve, translating from Pliny, says that under Tiberius there was such a scarcity of paper in the Roman empire that it was necessary to appoint senators to regulate distribution; in other words, a congressional board of control.

Sainte-Beuve, grown cynical in his day of excessive erudition, books, ink and paper, added:

"How welcome such a shortage would be now! But such things happened only under Tiberius. We cannot hope for like happiness today."

Le Figaro finds Sainte-Beuve refreshing reading, but in view of the situation in 1920, unduly appreciative of Tiberius.

Sheep Should Be Sheep.

A recently published book dealing with political and social affairs in England is called "The Island of Sheep," whose authors (one of whom is a prominent British statesman) are disguised as "Cadmus" and "Thermonia." The sheep referred to are the English and the island Great Britain. The Butcher's Advocate, aroused by the happy thought of an island filled with muttons, writes for a copy of "Cadmus H. Harmonia" to review, "it being," they claim, "of exceptional interest to the people reached by our weekly."

River Football Revived.

Some athletic enthusiasts of Derbyshire, England, have recently revived the game of river football, which is said to be a combination of polo, soccer, basketball, wrestling, swimming and pugilism. It is not exactly a "lady's game."

China's Thirst for Education.

The sudden demand for popular education in China is shown by the fact that the school attendance in one province has increased 8,000 per cent in five years.

Dockage

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"It is difficult to understand why grain is not more frequently cleaned in the country, the dockage ground and fed at home. In some years there is scarcely a car of No. 1 or No. 2 grain received while car after car of No. 4 and No. 5 and no grade grain is sent into market. This always lowers the price," says H. A. Foss, weighmaster, Chicago Board of Trade.

"Besides freight must be paid upon the refuse contained in these cars and moreover the dockage must be charged back against the shippers.

"It would seem that farmers' organizations should undertake to ship nothing but the very finest grain available and insist upon a high price for it, feeding the poorer grades at home.

"Millers will always pay a premium for clean grain, and it may readily be seen that the lower grades cannot fail to cheapen the whole crop if sent to the market. If nothing but clean grain were shipped, thousands of cars could be released for other duty. The attention of co-operative societies is urgently called to this phase of marketing."

(National Crop Improvement Service.)
By Lillian C. Barren.

Most women think that bread-making is too hard work. That is only because they make it so. Whatever their recipe may be they should not laboriously knead the air out of the dough with vigorous punchings and pokings, because it is better to fold air into the dough which is a very simple process, occupying but a few minutes.

The quality of the bread depends largely upon the quality of the flour. Canadian spring wheat flour has long been a favorite because it excels in the proper kind of gluten. Soft wheat contains gluten which is not elastic and rubbery and while such flours may absorb water, the gluten cells do not retain the moisture, part of which is driven out by baking.

Do not waste your time kneading your bread. Fold it over. Mix your sponge into dough, feeding in dry flour and air until you get the loaf of the right consistency. Treat it gently. The same dough will make beautiful rolls.

Baling Hay for Market

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

"It is a pity so much of our good country produce goes to waste after it is grown," says Mr. R. S. Rider, president, Canadian Steel & Wire Co. "It would be safe to say that there are more vegetables wasted in small gardens than are eaten.

"The waste is especially noticeable in hay. Therefore it is very important that every locality look after baling and marketing intelligently and systematically.

"There will be thousands of dollars in profits wasted this year because the crop is so poorly managed. There ought to be a regular baling crew in every neighborhood, conducted either as a club or by the owner of the rig, making a popular price either in hay or cash for doing the work.

"Generally five men constitute the crew but usually there are two extras. One stands up on the press, using his fork to direct the hay to the feed box. Two men pitch the hay on to the platform. At the back of the machine two men, one on either side, feed the bale ties, clamping them before the compression is released. A sixth man is often used to weigh the bale and roll it to the barn.

"Straw should not be wasted. There is a good market for it when baled and baling can be done at odd times. Straw should not be burned in any event. If not baled, it should be returned to the land."

Barnet Refrigerators

Save Food Bills, Ice Bills, Doctor's Bills Worry and Work

Loss of food through souring, spoilage, decomposition, etc., amounts yearly to a sum more than sufficient to buy all the refrigerators made. Housewives who own a Barnet Refrigerator, however, do not contribute one cent to this awful waste, even in the most stifling days of summer, when it is hard to keep food fresh.

Easily perishable foods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their full, fresh flavor. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded securely from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that these refrigerators will pay for themselves in a short time through the saving in food alone!

The Barnet has eleven distinct walls! That means a slow consumption of ice—another saving. It also means lower temperature for the amount of ice consumed. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 39 degrees.

Disease germs cannot multiply in such a low temperature. And as there are no joints, crevices or cracks in which bits of food can hide away and spoil, the owner of a Barnet can rest happy in the knowledge that disease cannot attack her family through her refrigerator. She is thus free from the generally present worry about sickness, and is saved money in doctors' bills.

POINTS OF BARNET SUPERIORITY
Barnet is ventilated	Air circulates in Barnet
Foods do not taint or contaminate one another	Interior always bone dry
Has no Drain Pipe	Has eleven walls of insulation
No foul odors	Lowest temperature for ice consumed
No breeding place for germs	Has adjustable shelves
Easy to clean

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be permanently destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

HOLLERING IN THE WOODS!

Some people are always hollering before they are out of the woods. A little shower or a heavy dew and what bountiful crops there will be. Farmers wearing smiles, etc. Where as farmers are content to wait for the proper time to judge at all times, and pay no attention to such one-sided talk. The blossoms of fruit trees were immense, and came out two weeks too early and got caught with the three frosts in May, which cut out cherries, plums, grapes, pears, etc., to a finish in many places. The hay crop was cut out by winter frosts, as also was pasture grass. And now with such intense heat the past two weeks or more the hay had to be cut or spoil in the sun, and the bulk of it is now harvested at not more than a 25 per cent crop of normal. The Fall wheat was nearly all killed last winter, and what is left is only chicken feed from the severe heat making a pre-mature harvest. The spring crop which had a grand start from the early spring, is now ripening with light kernels, and barley and wheat cut and oats about ready to cut.

The apple crop, which looked so promising from plenty of blossoms, is now doomed to failure through this intense heat continuing so long in the nineties night and day, that they are at this moment seventy-five per cent. on the ground with the balance liable to drop. England is suffering with the drought the past seven weeks, the worst in one hundred years. That is sending the price of butter and cheese up in this country, and with the short pasture here that product will go high. Oh, ye hollerers in the woods for cheap living and soft times, stop your noise and go to work.

Address and Presentation.

On Monday evening, July 4th, the members of the Congregation of the Selby Methodist Church gathered at the Methodist Parsonage to spend the evening with Rev. E. Farnsworth and family, who left for their new home in Camhilton the following Thursday.

After an hour of social intercourse they were invited by the S. S. Superintendent to the assembly room of the Sunday School, where, on behalf of the congregation, Mrs. Gardner Jackson read an address. Mrs. A. C. Tunman and Mrs. B. F. Denison presented Rev. and Mrs. Farnsworth with a book and an electric reading lamp.

To Rev. E. Farnsworth and Family.

We, the members of the Selby congregation assemble here to-night on an occasion that we gladly would have postponed for at least another year, it is with feelings of deepest regret that we see you leaving our midst. We feel that our lives have been enriched by our associations with you in the past three years.

In your home, Farnsworth, we have found a cheerful, talented and willing helper in Church and S. S. work, while your social duties were never neglected. Your best efforts have been put forth for the promotion of the Choir. The success of our S. S. entertainments has been largely due to your assistance, while Mr. Farnsworth's masterly sermons and words of counsel will not soon be forgotten.

Like as a piece of driftwood
Upon the watery main,
Another plank encounters,
Meets, passes, parts again;
So it is with life forever,
On life's resistless sea,
We meet and greet and sever,
Drifting eternally.

May God's richest blessing follow you to Cannifton, may success beyond your expectations attend your efforts, may good health and prosperity be your portion, is the wish of an affectionate people.

We cannot let you leave us without some tangible proof of our esteem, so we ask you, Mrs. Farnsworth, to accept this electric reading lamp, and to you, Mr. Farnsworth, we present this book.

But every cloud has a silver lining, and as Whittier says, "I know not where His islands lift their fondest palms in air, I only know we cannot drift beyond His love and care." So, surely the same stars will shine over us all, the same kind Father watches and cares for us, the same Home above may be the inheritance of each of us, and in that common bond made possible by our Heavenly Father's thoughtfulness and sacrifice we can say,

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above.

Signed by Members of the Congregation.

Rev. Mr. Irvin was present and paid a tribute to the retiring Pastor, whose genial and helpful personality had made a lasting impression on the whole community. Reminding Pastor and people that during the cold and stormy winter, when Mr. Farnsworth so cheerfully and faithfully performed his duties, little thought of the pleasure in store for him on this warm summer evening in July.

Mr. J. C. Hudgins added a few words of appreciation, after which refreshments were served.

On Friday evening, July 1st, the members of the Women's Mite Bible Class met at the Parsonage, and presented Mrs. Farnsworth with a beautiful mantel clock, thereby showing their appreciation of her faithful teaching and leadership in class activities.

YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nausea so I was unable to go around. My mother had me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am much better and able to go about all the time, which I could not do before. I recommend Vegetable Compound to my friends if I know they suffer the same way, and you may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss Z. G. BLACKWELL, 2073 Osler Place, Regina, Sask.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, of those irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

A Delightful Outing.

A very jolly crowd of motorists enjoyed the glorious 4th July at Victoria Island, Brockville, one of the Thousand Isles, guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Higgins. The party included Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fretts, Raymond Fretts, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Wagar, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Asselstine, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kayler, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Schell, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Milling, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Wright, the latter being a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Higgins. The motorists arrived at the Island in time for lunch, which was spread on the spacious verandah overlooking the St. Lawrence. After lunch a spin among the Islands in the cruiser Kiddo II. was enjoyed by all, the host and hostess and daughter, Miss Irene, accompanying the party. Upon returning to the island a cool dip in the clear water of the St. Lawrence was a welcome treat. Supper was served at 6.30 on the verandah, Mr. and Mrs. John Plewes and sons, Campbell and Jack, Brockville, being welcome additions to the party. After a very jolly day the motorists wended their way home, all voting Mr. and Mrs. Higgins a very charming host and hostess.

Napanee Bowlers at Prescott.

Two rinks of the Napanee Bowlers who attended the bowling tournament at Prescott last week were successful in winning several games, but did not win any of the cups offered. Mr. Maybee's rink each brought home a gold pencil. For the Wiser trophy, Maybee's rink won from Brockville and lost two games to Prescott rinks. For the Dominion trophy, Mr. Maybee's rink were runners up winning the gold pencils and losing in the final game. With Mr. Maybee were Messrs. J. H. S. Derry, Fred Bell and Hurrel Huffman. Mr. Madden's rink lost two games for the St. Lawrence cup and won two games for the Wiser cup, putting them in the semi-finals, where they were defeated by Ottawa. Mr. Madden's team were Messrs. W. P. Deroche, Dr. Milsap, Albert Clancy and J. E. Madden.

Inquest on Body of Marshall McQuaig.

On Thursday morning the dead body of Marshall McQuaig, an employee of the Campbell House, was found in the cellar of the Campbell House, lying face down. Coroner Cowan was immediately notified and ordered an inquest. Evidence was produced as to the finding of the body and the probability is that Mr. McQuaig went down cellar the previous afternoon to turn off a water tap in order to repair a leak. Burns, evidently from electric current, were found on the body. The jury's verdict, which was not unanimous, was to the effect that the deceased came to his death in the Campbell House cellar between the hours of noon on July 6th, and 7.30 a.m. on July 7th, and that the cause of death was electrocution.

IN MEMORIAM.

We are again reminded that we are mortal by death visiting our community on June 16th, and taking from our midst, Mr. John Storr, at the age of nearly 72 years.

Mr. Storr was born in the County of Lennox and Addington, in the Township of Richmond, in the year 1849, where he resided till the time of his death.

In the year 1879 he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Storring, and from this happy union there were born two daughters, which still survive their father.

Last fall Mr. and Mrs. Storr retired from the farm and came to Roblin to live. Through the winter his health was failing but through all this was much interested in the special services and convention and attended nearly every service. He believed in the old-time religion. Death came on the 16th and took him away. He was a loving husband and kind father. He leaves to mourn their loss his beloved wife and two daughters, Mrs. Wesley Davis and Mrs. Archie Denison, of Selby, Ont., and one brother, William, of Leinster, Ont., also one sister, Mrs. Angus McQuaig, of Selby, Ont.

The mourning friends have the sympathy of all. The funeral service was held in the Holiness Movement Church at Roblin, where a large congregation of friends and neighbours were present to pay their last respects to the departed. Revds. B. McRoberts and D. Parks assisted in the service. The text used is found in Zech. 11:5, last clause. The remains were interred in the Roblin cemetery to await the great resurrection day.

to householders who have not done any papering to their walls this spring, but who have rooms that should be done. Our sales this season have broken all records, but we started with a stock of almost double the usual size, and in order to further reduce will offer for two weeks, bargains that cannot be surpassed anywhere. It is not because we are afraid that the prices will be lowered by the manufacturer before another season,—in fact, they are all agreed that there is no chance of a drop in wall papers; raw material and labor keeping just as high as at any time during the war. We have quite a number of lines, good stock, up-to-date patterns and coloring, that we will offer at prices lower than same goods can be bought for at the factory to-day. Handsome lines for kitchens, dining rooms and bed rooms at 16c. per roll, that are sold everywhere at 25c. And so on, up to 60c. paper, now offered at 35c. If you think of doing any papering the present year, you will not regret it if you buy your paper from us, and do it now.

We will offer at actual cost every Boy's Wagon, Cart and Wheelbarrow in stock.

Base Balls from the cheapest for the boys up to the official League.

Window Shades, Room Mouldings, Picture Hooks, Push Pins, etc. If you paper a room and have it pleasing to the eye, do not spoil it by driving in nails on which to hang your pictures, but spend a few cents more and put up a picture moulding.

Bring in those Pictures you want framed, and have them done now before they get soiled.

VERONA.

Verona was the centre of interest on Friday and attracted particular attention, not because it was already famous from its prominence in connection with the Ambrose Small case, when the "Three Gentlemen from Verona" marched upon the stage, but because it had a fire some months ago that nearly wiped out the entire village. The occasion was a demonstration of a chemical fire engine under the direction of Captain Fred Reid and Tom Patterson, of the Kingston Fire Department, and in addition to the villagers who gathered in the field to witness the event there were many visitors. Speeches were delivered by Dr. Edwards, M.P.; A. M. Rankin, M.P.P.; Rev. Dr. Lawson, E. York, and C. W. Laidley. D. A. Shaw, Kingston, acted as chairman, and the Napanee Orchestra gave a splendid musical programme. For the fire extinguishing demonstration a large box-fire was built, and after the blaze got a good start the alarm was sent to the fire brigade which came upon the scene with the chemical engine purring out and refreshments were served. Mrs. Spicer, soprano, Yarker, sang. Dr. Edwards, in addition to his address, delighted the guests with a song. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to those taking part, including D. A. Shaw, who proved a most efficient chairman.

DENBIGH.

Miss Christina Chatson, who was away about a month, in Brockville, visiting her brother, Frank, and her sister, Mrs. A. Stein, and their families, has arrived home again.—Mrs. Ella Wienecke, who has for quite a while been employed in Rochester, N.Y., has taken a well earned vacation, and is enjoying a visit with her parents and other relatives here at her old home.—The Misses Minnie, Edna and Erma Falk, who are employed in Napanee, have also arrived to enjoy a visit with their parents and other relatives.—Miss Louise Warlick is home again from a pleasant visit to her sister, Mrs. C. Lloyd, of Picton.—Quite a number of young people from this vicinity attended the dance held in Matawatchan last Tuesday, when Honor Judge Jas. H. Madden presided over the hearing of an appeal against the decision of the Court of Revision as held on Wednesday last. The appeal was dismissed.—The Tierney Show Troup gave a series of very amusing and interesting entertainments at the end of last and the beginning of this week, which were greatly enjoyed and well patronized.—The surveyors who were engaged to survey the Kaladar-Denbigh road and get the altitude of the different localities on it, have completed their work. Denbigh village is within a few of 1200 feet higher than the level of the Bay of Quinte, and at all miles distant from Kaladar Station.

The big "Kleenex Tooth Paste" offer as advertised in the leading magazines, now on at Wallace's Drug Store.

FARMS FOR SALE.

75 acres more or less, 40 acres cultivated, balance pasture and bush, well fenced, good frame house painted white; drive barn, large barn, buildings in fair state of repair. This farm will feed 6 cows, 3 horses and a number of sheep. Lots of wood and water, near church and school, R. R. and phone. Possession can be given at good read, 10 miles west of Napanee on the Bay of Quinte.

If you intend to buy now is the time. If you wait for prices of farm land to decrease in this district, you will be disappointed. This is the best farming district to be in the Dominion, everything considered, and when you can buy a farm for less than it would cost to erect the buildings, what chance is there for reduction? Farm produce is now going up, while everything else is declining. Nothing like a good home on a nice farm. I have about 100 farms to choose from. You will be satisfied if you buy from me.

Several houses in town also for sale.

CANADIAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION, OTTAWA.

The forest fires in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia this year have been in the great majority of cases humanly set. Few were caused by malevolence, but the effect on the public purse is not made easier to bear because of that. Of the thousands of dollars of public money expended by these provinces for fire fighting, of the millions of dollars in timber and other property, not to speak of the sacrifice of several lives, the greater part would have been wholly unnecessary if fishermen, campers, and settlers chose to observe common sense precautions with fire in wooded districts.

The Canadian Forestry Association points out that of the series of huge conflagrations in the forests of Eastern Canada this year, practically all commenced without legitimate excuse, in direct defiance to the fire laws and the interests of the public. Lightning has caused a number of this year's forest fires, but ninety per cent of the loss is attributable to such classes as settlers, fishermen and campers. The camp fire which the user fails to extinguish is a formidable enemy and the cigarette and match thrown down on the inflammable 'floor' of the forest take an enormous annual toll.

HAS CAMPED OUT FOR NINE YEARS.

Jack Taylor, "The Scholar Gypsy" or "The Lone Camper" With Us—Would Die Indoors.—Was Given Up by Doctors Nine Years Ago and Must Keep Agoing.

Walking and camping out for the past nine years has been the routine of Jack Taylor, "the scholar gypsy" and "the lone camper", who walked into town Saturday evening. With the permission of the Mayor and Council he is "camped" in the Harvey Warner Park. He will spend a few days in town.

Nine years ago he was given up to die. Six months of open life helped cure him and to retain that renewed health he has taken to the outdoors. "And intend to walk and camp until I die" he told a newspaper interviewer. He is 68 years "young".

He has been walking from Texas and his present trip from Toronto to Montreal, and return by a northern route is a part of the 6,000 mile jaunt. He makes no effort to beat records, so he does more camping than walking.

Never Accepts a Ride.

He never accepts a ride. Jack shoves along the road a bicycle with a primitive side car attachment and on this three-wheeler he carries his camping outfit. First and foremost is a kitchenette and oven, then a library, then the tent and bedding.

When he left Toronto he shoved 200 pounds of equipment. This he has had to reduce to 70 pounds because of the condition of the roads.

He is an old newspaper man, being fifty-five years ago a third assistant printer's devil on the Hamilton Times. He escaped out of bondage to Chicago and for thirty years was a commercial traveller out of New York. He is to-day writing "Scout" articles for a Toronto paper.

He Enjoys It.

"Think of the enjoyment I am getting out of this life," he stated.

He has acquired a pup named "Brownie", about three months old. Brownie generally rides on the back of the bicycle.

CAMP LE NID.

Camp Le Nid has been filled to overflowing since the last week in June. The excessive hot weather has driven the campers out of the cities earlier than usual. Mr. C. I. T. Gould and family, of Baltimore, were the first to arrive and intend to remain until Sept. 1st. They were followed by Mr. Melrose Gould and son, of Oshawa. Mrs. Alex. Macpherson and family, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Day and son, of Toronto; and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Herrington, Miss Herrington, and Mrs. Sneath, of Napanee. Mr. Robert Watson, of Toronto, arrived the second week and will remain a month. Mr. J. W. McElroy, of Ottawa, will arrive the latter part of this week, and Mr. R. H. Gibson, of Pittsburgh, with a party of five, will arrive on the 23rd. The following guests have been renewing old acquaintances at the point:—Nursing Sister Lennox Herrington and Miss Jean Duff, of Kingston; Mr. W. A. Blue, of Ottawa; Mr. Russell Williams, of Toronto, and Mr. G. P. Carr, of Napanee. Camping was never more popular than during the present season, and no body of water is better located for such an outing than the Bay of Quinte. The absolute freedom from restraint and the possibility of making life tolerable by frequent dips in the refreshing waters of the bay make camping upon its shores a most delightful past time for the hot summer months.

YOUR TEETH.

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S. Editor of Oral Hygiene

DECAY OF WOMEN'S TEETH.

At least sixty per cent of a dentist's patients are women. The other forty per cent are men and children. There are two reasons for this; one is that women more frequently consult the dentist because they are more careful of their health and appearance and the other is that women's teeth actually are more subject to decay than men's.

The teeth of women are of the same structure as are the teeth of men and are expected to perform the same work but they usually do not get the chance because women do not eat foods that require as much vigorous chewing as those that men select.

One of the duties of the great majority of women is either to prepare or supervise the preparation of food for the household. The element of surprise in what the next meal has in store is absent and the inhalation of the odors of cooking food takes what little "edge" there is left to the appetite. In addition, the preparation of food requires more or less frequent tasting of savory mixtures.

Women as a rule are satisfied to eat the softer and more highly flavored foods and sweetened desserts.

As a result their teeth do not get the vigorous exercise that men's teeth do.

This lack of vigorous chewing allows the mucin of the saliva to stick to the teeth and the debris of soft food packs between and around the teeth.

Unless the teeth are most carefully cleansed with the brush at least twice each day and in addition are given a prophylactic treatment by the dentist occasionally, food and mucin will decompose and form an ideal soil for the growth of the bacteria of decay.

Where there is decomposition of food, organic acids are formed that attack the enamel of the teeth and make the work of the bacteria very easy. As the teeth decay, the packing of food becomes more extensive and the gums are inflamed and bleed easily.

All inflammation of the gums tends toward the establishment of the greatest of all enemies of the teeth—pyorrhea.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SEA FISHES.

MACKEREL.

Probably none of our sea fishes is more interesting than the mackerel. For the last two months, May and June, schools of these fish have been followed by fleets of American purse-seiners and Canadian netters, in their migration up the Atlantic shore of the continent to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. And just as eager as the fishermen have been to net this delicious pelagian, the public has been in its effort to procure it for the table.

The common mackerel is one of the best known food fishes. It is distinguished from other denizens of the deep by its swift form, metallic coloration, and, technically, by the presence of a number of detached finlets between the back fins and the tail. The cut of the mouth is peculiar, the spines in the fins are feeble, the muscular system is extremely strong, and the flesh is oily. As in most swift-moving fishes and fishes of pelagic habits the bones of the spinal column are numerous and extremely small, an arrangement which makes for flexibility of the body.

The common mackerel (scomber scombus) is probably confined to the Atlantic, where on both European and American shores it runs in vast schools, the movement varying greatly from year to year, the preference being for cool water. Mackerel migrate northward to spawn. The female produces approximately half a million eggs each year, according to Professor Goode. These are very minute and each is provided with an oil globule which causes it to float on the surface. All of these eggs, of course, do not mature. Both the eggs and young are destroyed in great quantity by their natural enemies; hence the reason for producing the eggs on such a large scale. The balance of mature suffices for all ordinary exterminating influences.

During April or early May the mackerel strike our Atlantic coast off Carolina or Virginia where they are intercepted by a fleet of seiners from Massachusetts. These seiners, which are a fine class of craft-yachts of great speed and very sea-worthy follow the schools up the coast. The first mackerel caught in southern waters are usually marketed fresh and command a high price, but as the seiners proceed north their catch is mostly salted in barrels.

While our American cousins have an extensive off-shore fishing fleet in pursuit of the mackerel, there is only one Canadian seiner operating this year; our fishermen use drag-nets or nets fixed in the bottom. The Canadian (mackerel catch is thus rendered very uncertain because the schools may move thirty or forty miles off shore which is farther to sea than our small Canadian craft would care to venture. Mackerel have been known to take three different routes after striking off the southwest shore of Nova Scotia. These routes, commonly known as the shore, inner and outer, all converge at Canso. Some schools, it is stated, go through the strait of Canso to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but the great body reaches the gulf by way of Cape Breton, after lingering for a period in the Gulf the fish disappear into deep water, returning again in the fall on their migratory course to warmer waters for the winter.

The Fisheries Branch, Department of Marine and Fisheries in 1920 instituted a scouting service to locate the mackerel schools as they approach the Nova Scotia coast, and notify the fishermen ashore. The fisheries protection cruisers "Arras" and "Hochelaga", which set out early in May, met the mackerel and accompanied them along the coast. This year a similar service was maintained, but unfortunately both in 1920 and 1921 the schools did not follow the shore course, and hence our fishermen, who are dependent largely upon a movement inshore, did not have the success of other years.

The schools of mackerel vary greatly in size. Schools estimated to contain one million barrels have been recorded on more than one occasion. A school such as this has been described as "a window of fish half a mile wide and twenty miles long." The bulk of mackerel taken is salted, but fresh or salt they are consumed in great abundance by Canadians and Americans wherever available. It is estimated that the Massachusetts seiners put up about 400,000 barrels each year. Our Canadian fishery in 1919 brought 230,770 cwts., valued at approximately $1,500,000, of which 74,897 barrels were put up, valued at $1,038,000. In 1920 only 142,247 cwts. were caught, and 26,141 barrels packed.

Professor Goode says that the mackerel when in season is one of the most delicious sea foods, ranking high in nutrition and palatability. But mackerel may be boiled as well as broiled and fresh mackerel may be treated in the same manner. A well cured autumn mackerel he considers to be the finest of all salted fish. Generally speaking, mackerel is available on the Canadian market in the latter part of May, June, July, August, September and October.

"You did me a favor ten years ago," said the stranger, "and I have never forgotten it."

"Ah," replied the good man with a grateful expression on his face; "and you have come back to repay me?"

"Not exactly," replied the stranger, "I've just got into town and need another favor, and I thought of you right away."

Hot Weather Suggestions on the Care of Milk.

It is one of the anomalies of life that the sources of our greatest pleasures and greatest means of good, may also be sources of life's greatest pains and most harm. Milk is a case in point. Milk is the best source of life's greatest need—proper and sufficient food. It may also be a cause of the destruction of life, because it may become the home or feeding ground of those death-dealing organisms which are now recognized as the cause of prematurely fit deaths, except those due to accident or old age.

Fortunately we have discovered comparatively simple methods of eliminating the effects of what are called pathogenic (disease-producing) bacteria. These may be stated in a few rather rules as follows:

1. Milk which is consumed in a raw condition must be drawn only from cows which are healthy. Milk given from cows which are sick and which are not "good-doers," and especially milk from cows with a cough, must be pasteurized.

2. As soon as the milk is drawn from the cow, it should be cooled to 50 degrees F. or lower, and be kept at that temperature until consumed. This makes an unfavorable condition for the germs to grow in.

3. All pails, strainers, dippers, milk bottles, pitchers, etc., which come in contact with the milk, must be thoroughly washed and preferably sterilized, or be rinsed after washing in a chloride solution, which has been found to be one of the best germicides.

4. Milk should not be exposed to the air any longer than absolutely necessary, as this seeds the milk with a fresh lot of germs. This means the keeping of milk in a closed vessel and not in an open dish.

5. "Left over" milk from meals should not be put into the general supply, as this causes the whole lot to spoil.

6. "Left over" milk from the sick room should be pasteurized or destroyed, as it may spread disease.

7. Milk at 45 degrees F. in all places should be kept clean and cool. —H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

'Twas a balmy summer's evening
In a goodly crowd were there;
Such dope we got in days gone by,
But now it seems threadbare.

No more gin rickys can we have,
Or highballs when we choose;
Since the old bartender lost his job,
We've kissed them fond adieus.

Departed with a shock;
And bums in back lanes whisper now
Do you want to buy a cruck.

WAS SHIPS' HAVEN

Lough Swilley of Great Value to Allied Fleets.

Deep-Water Inlet Formed Break in Towering Rocks That Form the Coast Line of North Donegal, on the Irish Coast.

The destroyer gained is gone from Lough Swilley. The Yankee ships no longer round the grim black heights of Knockalla. The hamlets of Buncrana and Letterkenny have settled back into the unconcerned quiet of the north Donegal peasant towns.

Before the war Lough Swilley was little known to the outside world, observes the Kansas City Times. Few ships ever entered between the forbidding walls of granite that rise on either side of the inlet. But the war made it a haven for merchant ships, a base for destroyers, and the only home the wandering trawler fleet of that section of the sea ever had.

The "lough" is pronounced as though spelled lock. It is the Irish cousin of the Scottish "loch," and a not far distant relative of the English "lake."

Sheer and sinister rise the cliffs of north Donegal. They form one of the most forbidding coast lines anywhere in the world. To the steamer outbound off this coast there was little hope, for there was no chance there to beach a vessel. When the big 14,000-ton Flavia was left off the Donegal coast last August she stayed up three hours, but was lost because she could not limp the 20 miles or so to a spot where there was a break in those dark walls of stone.

Lough Swilley is such a break in the towering rocks of the coast line. It is a narrow inlet of water running back into County Donegal some thirty miles. And it is deep enough all the way for ships of heavy draught. It was of inestimable value to the Allied fleets and merchant shipping during the war, because it offered alike a haven and well-placed base for operations against the marauding submarines that slipped around the coast of Scotland.

Past Howth Head and Tory Island, where the legendary Spanish pirates made their haven, sweeps the convoys on their way to Londonderry, Belfast and Glasgow. And there, too, was a favorite lurking ground of the U-boats. A seemingly perpetual mist and thick rain hung over the sea there, shrouds, perhaps, more difficult to glimpse, and the course of the merchant squadrons was restricted and easy to follow. So it came to be that many destroyers and trawlers gathered in the vicinity of Lough Swilley. And Buncrana and Letterkenny forced an acquaintance with the outer world.

They are tiny villages of thatched cottages, with a white, high-steepled church in each, such as are unbelievably behind in the march of the ages. But they are proud of their history and the old part between them and the days of their shelter is still new. The story of both begins with Conall Nolgiallach — or Conall of the Nine Hostages, if Anglicized. And it is said that Irish history fades away into the lore of time.

Reviving Heraldry.

In the use of arms and weapons that have come down to our own time, the wave of preceding centuries, the adoption of a fad — notably by the wimpen revived — the individuality of medieval [illegible] and bearers. Sometimes this tendency turned out to be a mistake — as seldom, as in the case of the famous painter who embellished his floating plume with a Bavarian fess in memory of a French ruse. The emblem was the occasion to metaphor Judas shooting an arrow, the head of which was a head with which Luther decorated his necktie; the whimsical use of a mermaid to denote wisdom and wood a dove, and a cousin. In an older time such inanity would no doubt have become heraldry. In the new it is merely the heraldry that served simply to express the brave gayety and humor of youth.

Artificiality Fled.

The long line of limousines whirling down the streets to roadhouses and afternoon teas stopped short as a tall policeman signalled for a right of way. Under his care a gosling led in khaki a contented little grey-headed lassie, timorously glancing from side to side, to safety and the other side of the street. In the foremost car sat a beautiful woman in the sunny thirties, flushed like the rar in which she sat in every detail. The last touch that marked the lady of elegant leisure was the perky little Pekinese she held tucked away under her arm. And then she who watched saw the mondaine, her eyes on the boy, wipe her eyes with a half apologetic brush of her handkerchief, dropping her toy as real feeling wiped out artificiality.—New York Sun.

SHEEP HERDER WELL HOUSED

Compact, Comfortable Dwellings Provided for Those Who Tend the Herds on Western Plains.

Just at present the sheep herder's lot is a fairly happy one, Frank L. Arnold writes in Popular Mechanics magazine. He gets $100 a month besides his expenses, and one never can see his sheep wagon without wanting to leave civilization for a few months and take to the range. It is the most compact dwelling house on wheels that has ever been devised. For utilizing all possible space it can give lessons even to a dining car or a sailboat. It is dining car and sleeping car in one, and historically forms a permanent link between western pioneers days, when every one traveled in a prairie schooner, and automobile days when the sheep wagon is used only to follow the herd during the winter and spring, until it disappears up on the high summer range, where only a saddle horse can penetrate.

The wagon, which for months is thus the home of two sheep herders, has a long, narrow body, to give freedom to the wheels, but above the wheels it flares out enough to give a fireed room with benches along both sides. It has three coverings of canvas for greater warmth in winter, and a stove screwed to the floor near the front door. The back part of the canvas covered space serves as bedroom, containing nothing but a bed, to which air is supplied by sliding glass windows to the rear end of the wagon. Attached to the bed is a folding table, and under it are small drawers and a large bin to contain the herder's supply of flour and grain.

BUILT UP POLISH INDUSTRIES

Russia's Expulsion of Jews From Moscow Had Results Unforeseen by Muscovite Statesmen.

An odd bit of commercial history comes to light with the granting of citizenship to Jews in Poland, and shows how Russia, in expelling the race from Moscow, provided Poland with a human factor of great importance in developing her own industrial resources, the Christian Science Monitor reveals. Politically Poland lay helpless in the grip of her powerful neighbor, resisting as best she might that neighbor's determination to destroy the last vestige of Polish national existence. Industrially, on the other hand, her coal and iron ore districts had developed Polish centers of manufacture superior to those of Russia, but dependent for success on the sale of their products in Russian markets. Jews came from Moscow who were familiar with Russian trade conditions, had already established personal trade relations with Russian officers, and were admirably fitted to develop a commercial program between the two countries. These men became the natural intermediaries between Poles and Russians in business, and their expulsion from Russia is doubtless one reason for the prosperity of Polish industries at Lodz, Warsaw and Petrobay.

The Virgin Islands.

The people of the Virgin Islands, having enjoyed the experience of seeing their territory sold "over their heads" by Denmark to the United States of America, are reported to be settling down without ado to their associations with the new landlord. They have, it would seem, reasonable expectations of increasing prosperity, owing to the constant visits of American warships to the harbor of St. Thomas and to the presence of American regiments in their midst, both of which circumstances serve to stimulate trade and to make the islands appear busy and "monumente." Meanwhile, a small appropriation from the United States covers the discrepancy between the expenditure and revenue of the islands, which are governed locally, as under Denmark, by the "Colonial Council." It remains for the United States congress to decide what shall be the permanent form of government. And the Virgin islands are doubtless living in hopes.

Re-educating Porto Ricans.

The federal board for vocational education is levying no stone unturned in its efforts to find every disabled soldier who may, if he so desires, receive re-education from the government. In Porto Rico there are at present 110 soldiers disabled in the service who should be beneficiaries of the rehabilitation law. The special agent of the board in the island is interviewing these men with a view to their future vocations. Porto Rico has no trade schools, but training and placement may be made in shops and industrial establishments for those who desire it, and the government agricultural college at Mayagues provides training for those who wish to go on the land.

Hawaii's University.

Under recent legislation the College of Hawaii is now the University of Hawaii, and one of the new courses planned is one in agriculture in the island's leading industry, sugar. It will embrace practical work by the students on plantations during at least one vacation, in conjunction with the classes at the college. Those specializing in the agriculture phase of the work with the planters' experiment station and those studying in the factory end will receive $45 a month and traveling expenses. With the new course in good working order, it is believed the university will stand as the leading institution in the world for instruction in the sugar industry in its every phase.

APOLOGIES TO BR'ER RABBIT

Field Mouse, Not Bunny, Is Anathematized Girdler of Trees, According to Eastern Expert.

An official of the state fish and game commission informs us that we are unjust to the rabbit in ascribing to him all the girdling of fruit trees which has been going on in these parts lately. Our informant says, observes a writer in the Ohio State Journal, that the field mouse is responsible for more than 50 per cent of this damage and we hasten to tender our sincere apologies to the rabbit, whose feelings we would not hurt for the world, and are quick to give the guilty field mouse his just share of censure.

Field mice, it seems have the indefensible habit of burrowing around the roots of small fruit trees in the fall, hollowing out a warm place as field mice enthusiasts warmth and spending the winter there. When they get hungry and nothing else is available, they skin up a little way and eat the bark of the tree cunningly making tooth marks almost exactly like rabbits' and thus throwing suspicion on the innocent parts of the scent. The rabbits are not wholly without sin, but to 49 per cent sinner averaging up fairly well with the rest of us. Moreover, the rabbit may easily be foiled in his lapses from grace by placing a piece of tar paper about two feet in height, or a piece of wire netting around the base of each young fruit tree. Perhaps this expedient, like other prohibitory measures, does not build character in the rabbit, but it does in the orchardist. Nothing, we understand, can be done about the field mice unless one stays at the foot of the tree and ratches them. They are lost in air.

Stomach Worm Loss Preventable.

Animal husbandry division men at the University of Minnesota Farm say that sheep can be raised profitably to have suffered great losses among their flocks by preventable stomach worms. The losses occur in the summer.

"The best preventive and the one most easily given," says Paddy A. Anderson of the division, "is copper sulphate or blue stone, as it is often known. Make a 1 per cent solution by dissolving one-quarter of a pound of the blue stone in a pail of boiling water, adding cold water to make three gallons. Have sure that a clear solution is obtained and stir it using an earthenware or a wooden receptacle. The dose for lambs, according to size, is three-quarters of an ounce to one and one-half ounces; for older sheep, two and one-half ounces to three ounces. An ordinary drench cup or blue stone is suitable for the purpose. Make sure that the flock is badly infested, two or three times during seasons at intervals of 20 days."

"Who discovered America?" asked the teacher.

Jack looked panic-stricken and made no reply.

"Please ask me something else, miss," he said after a while.

"Why should I do that?" asked the teacher.

"Well," said Jack, "the fellows were talking about it yesterday. Pat said an Irishman discovered it. David said it was a Welshman, and Andrew said a Scot discovered it. And if you'd seen what happened to them you wouldn't ask a little fellow like me."

A bookiover was seated in his library, surrounded by scattered volumes. Encouraged by the reports of discoveries of valuable fragments of manuscripts in other people's books he was having a little search of his own. His small son was on the floor near him.

"Father," said the child solemnly, suddenly breaking the silence, "does every book have a flyleaf?"

"Certainly," replied the father, "unless it has been torn out."

"Well," said the child, in a tone of deep concern, "I've just found a fly squashed on the wrong page!"

DEATHS.

RIKELY—At Havelock, on Saturday, July 16th, 1921, John Rikely, aged 69 years.

WOOD VS. KELLY.

The following judgment was handed out in the Wood vs. Kelly case:—"I find that the plaintiff's injuries were caused by the negligent omission of the driver of defendant's car to bring it to a stop with reasonable promptness after all danger of collision with McKim's car had passed, and the risk to the plaintiff was both obvious and imminent after they had been run into.

The injuries of the plaintiff, Ann Wood, consisted chiefly of bruises on her back and side, caused by being dragged under the car soon after she was hit by it. Making all due allowance for the injury she possibly received by the shock, as distinguished from that subsequently received because the car was not promptly stopped, I allow her the sum of $325.00 damages. For the infant plaintiff I allow $100.00 damages, and I direct judgment accordingly. 15 days stay."

Address and Presentation.

Dear Mrs. Robeson,—On the eve of your departure from our midst to make your home elsewhere, we, the ladies of the Enterprise Church and congregation take this opportunity to express our regrets and also our appreciation of the association of the past.

Your life throughout the years expressing your many qualities of mind and spirit has made an impression which in your absence will long linger in our memories.

Your social and bcurch work in the community has been characterized by a devotion that in your going, a vacancy will remain and a sense of loss sustained, especially must we say this of the Woman's Missionary Society, of which you have been President for the entire four years of your sojourn among us.

As you go forth from our midst and gather about you the new friends in your new field of labor, we hope they may prove as faithful and kind as the old friends have intended to be. We assure you our good-will will travel with you and yours and through the years as your thoughts turn back to Enterprise, we wish you to know that we await the opportunity to speak the words "welcome back", for now we say "God speed".

As a token of our respect and confidence we tender you this slight remembrance and trust in possessing it you may find some passing joy, and pray that joy may be complete in possessing that heavenly treasure that moth nor rust cannot corrupt.

We pray that the Divine influence of the Holy Spirit be ever with you.

Signed on behalf of your Enterprise friends,

MRS. H. JACKSON.

VARNES—DUDGEON.

A pretty wedding of last month took place at eight o'clock on Monday evening, June 27th, 1921, at the home of the bride's parents, when Miss Maude Donalda Dudgeon, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. M. Dudgeon, Selby; became the bride of Mr. Harry I. Varnes, of Winnipeg, Man., the Rev. E. Farnsworth officiating. The bride looked very pretty in a lovely little frock of white silk crepe-de-chene with accordeon plaited skirt, and wore the groom's gift, a handsome gold wrist watch. Mrs. Farnsworth played the wedding march.

After the ceremony, the family enjoyed a wedding supper. The table was pretty in silver and cut glass with huge bouquets of pink peonies. Mrs. Howard V. Cramp and two little sons, Douglas and Gerald, Toronto; Mrs. Louis V. Potter, Montreal, and Miss Myrtle Coolidge were present at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Varnes left for their home in Winnipeg. Mrs. Varnes' travelling suit was of navy tricotine, handsomely braided and a beaded sand colored Georgette blouse, with a chic little hat of navy and sand. Amid showers of rice and confetti, we wished them a happy journey through life.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no help. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. P. Peasey, 387 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

INSPIRED BY LOVE

Remarkable Flag Made by Young American Girl.

Country's History, From the Birth of Independence, Woven into Emblem in Honor of Heroes of Spanish-American War.

Peace unfurled a million flags throughout the world, but not one of them was as remarkable and romantic as that which Josephine Mulford wrought with her own hands a score of years ago in honor of the heroes of the Spanish-American war, observes London Answers.

The flag on which Josephine toiled night and day for more than a year, with a great love to inspire her fingers, is so large that three battalions of soldiers could be massed on it, and so heavy that half a dozen strong men could barely raise its folds from the ground.

But it is the romance of its fashioning that places it so far above all its rivals.

It was begun on the first day of July, 1898, in the parlor of an old homestead in New Jersey, and from the first stitch to the last it was never for a moment out of the hands or thoughts of the young girl who had set herself this patriotic task. Every stitch was counted as it was made; for it represented an American soldier who was fighting in Cuba.

The Pennsylvania star was partly made in the room in which, a century and a quarter earlier, Betsy Ross worked, under Washington's guidance, on the very first American flag which proclaimed the independence of the states and the star was finished in the room where the first continental congress met.

To make Virginia's star she traveled to Mount Vernon and stitched it in one of the rooms of Washington's home. The Maryland star was made at Fort McHenry, historically associated with "The Star-Spangled Banner" of Francis Scott Key, and New York's star was made partly in the very room in which Washington said good-by to his officers, and partly on board the flagship New York.

And thus, making as far as possible each stitch historic, the colossal task proceeded, until the last of the 325,000 stitches was made, with loving, if trembling, fingers, and she rose from her year's work triumphant, but shattered in health.

Josephine lived to see her flag proudly floating over Madison Square garden, to thunders of cheers from a hundred thousand throats. Then came a terrible reaction from the long strain, and within a few weeks the hands that had toiled so long and lovingly were still in death.

But the spirit of courageous love which Josephine Mulford breathed into her work lives on—for courage cannot die.

Health in Business.

A business man walked into a doctor's office the other day.

He looked in the pink of condition.

"I want a thorough physical examination," he said.

The doctor accommodated him. Heart was sound, lungs were healthy, kidneys and all other organs functioning properly.

"You're the most splendid specimen I've seen in a long time," said the doctor, "praise—"

"Thanks; I intend to remain so," said the client. "You shall go over me like this every six months. And I propose to have every man in a responsible position in my organization undergo a similar examination twice a year.

"A competing firm recently put a man into an important job who looked as well as I. He broke down, and in the demoralization of the firm's business that came with the breaking, our firm has taken over one of their biggest and best accounts. A condition of 'twenty years' standing, which he thought completely overcome, caused that man's breakdown.

"I don't propose that my firm shall suffer through any such experience."

Good, hard business applied to health. Sound, good sense recommend to every man such prudence?

How many men can you recall who have discovered a serious state of health too late to mend?—Haverhill Gazette.

Gold Abundant in Siberia.

Literally speaking, rivers in the Okhotsk district have golden bottoms, says a bulletin of the British bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Three men working in a primitive fashion in the winter, wash out easily up to five funts (65 ounces troy) of gold a day. The Okhotsk deposits contain many nuggets. Nuggets weighing one-half funt are not rare. Last winter one zolotnik (0.137147 ounce troy) of gold cost 20 rubles; at the present time it costs 100 rubles. In spite of the rich deposits in this district, many concessions are not being exploited. A United States firm has explored the mine purchased from Stepanov, and is energetically preparing to work it.

SETTLED QUESTION OF HAIR

After Experience With Kerosene, Captain Hopkins Had Not Any Further Worry About It.

Baldness is a condition the threat of which will frequently stir men of even the most dormant natures. Hair tonics have netted fortunes for their inventors and there are countless remedies of the old housewife, some of which, such as the application of kerosene, make the writer, at least, feel that the disease might be preferable to the cure. The sea captain John D. Whidden tells of in his "Ocean Life in the Old Sailing Ship Days," certainly discovered to his sorrow one of the possible results of such a "cure."

Captain Hopkins was giving a dinner to some of the other ship captains and their wives who were in the harbor of Dahia at the same time with him. As the cabin of the captain's brig was small, the table was laid under awnings on top of the cabin. The guests arrived and dispersed about under the awnings to enjoy themselves until dinner was served. Captain Hopkins, who was a general favorite, after a few minutes went below, "presumably to put a few finishing touches to his appearance." The captain, who was "a small man, with a quaint, seamed, whiskerless face," was troubled about his thinning hair and, after trying all sorts of tonics, some one had told him that kerosene oil, well rubbed in, would cause a healthy growth when everything else had failed." Captain Hopkins tried it and came to have great faith in it, "going around with his head glistening, and an odor distilling from him like a Pennsylvania oil derrick." Down in his cabin, now, he proceeded to give a fresh application of the kerosene.

Suddenly the people on deck were startled by a yell, "and the next instant the head of old Hopkins appeared above the companionway, blazing like a giant candle. The ladies screamed, while one or two captains caught up buckets and, dipping up salt water over the brig's side, deluged the captain's head, extinguishing him in a moment, but leaving him as bald as an egg, although beyond a few blisters he was not seriously hurt." Captain Hopkins, it turned out had lighted a lamp and somehow brought the match in contact with his head.

Concentration of Wealth.

In substantiation of the contention that very much of the national wealth is finding its way into a few private hands, Congressman Henry T. Rainey, in the house of congress, made the following statements, based on statistics of the federal income tax bureau:

"There are two men in the United States whose income last year was over $10,000,000. There are five men in the United States whose income last year was over $5,000,000 apiece. In 1914, before the war started, there were 60 men whose annual incomes were over $1,000,000 apiece. Last year there were 248 whose incomes were over $1,000,000 apiece. In 1914 there were 114 men whose incomes were between $500,000 and $1,000,000 apiece. Last year there were 403 men whose incomes reached this immense sum. In 1914 there were 147 men whose incomes were between $200,000 and $300,000. Now there are 1,200 men who enjoy that income. In 1914 there were 233 men with an income between $200,000 and $250,000. Now there are 1,200 men who are enjoying that income. In 1914 there were 306 men whose incomes exceeded $150,000 and was under $200,000. Now there are 1,200 men who enjoy that income."

A Wilderness Establishment.

Sam Cook is the keeper of a stopping place at Rocky Lake on the main winter trail in from the Pas in Manitoba to the Flin Flon mining country. He supplies shelter for man and beast—but no provender. Horse and dog-teams transport their own feed.

For the human travelers the Cook establishment provides dishes, water and fire only, the visitors doing their own cooking. If there is any food left, the travelers usually leave it for their host. Cook keeps a set of books of a sort and these show that since November last 1,000 freight teams, that is, horse-drawn sleighs and dog teams have passed his place, and 932 men used his roof as shelter overnight. Cook collects 25 cents for each traveler that uses his cooking utensils. He says that business is looking so good as the result of the mineral development that he is going to erect a much larger stopping place this summer, including a stable capable of giving shelter to 100 horses.

He Came Back.

I am employed in an attorney's office. One afternoon he was leaving for the day and not wanting to miss his train by waiting to lunch, sent me for some sandwiches, writes a correspondent. When I returned the switchboard operator told me he had left and apparently forgot the sandwiches. So I ate them. I had just finished eating them when he returned for his sandwiches. What followed was my most embarrassing moment.

GROWING SMALL FRUITS

Practical Hints for Both Farmers and Townsfolk.

Currants and Raspberries Worth While Raising — Strawberries Yield Generously Where Properly Cared For—Systems of Planting Described.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

As the small fruits are to remain in the garden for a longer period of time than the vegetable crops it is better, as a matter of convenience, to place them on one side of the garden where they will be least interfered with and where they will not hinder the ploughing for the other crops.

The best time to set out nearly all kinds of fruit, in this province, is early in May, the date depending on the soil and weather conditions. Currants and gooseberries are exceptions to this rule, it being generally best to plant them in September, as they begin growth very early in spring.

Currants.

Red and black currants are native and grow over a wide range of territory in Canada. They are planted four to six feet apart, as the bushes take up considerable space after three or four years. Plant in the autumn. The current roots are near the surface, hence if the soil is hot and dry the crop will suffer. A rich, well-drained, clay loam is best, although they do well in most soils. A good dressing of manure before planting, well worked into the soil, will make conditions better. There is little danger of giving the currant too much fertiliser. Keep from six to eight main branches each season and a few others coming on to take their places. A good rule is not to have any branches more than three years of age, as younger wood gives stronger growth and better fruit. In good soil the bushes should bear from six to ten crops before removal and be then replaced by their place. In a favorable season, when in full bearing, they should yield from four to ten pounds per bush.

Raspberries.

Red raspberries are generally planted in rows six feet apart and two feet in the row. The numerous shoots or suckers which spring up from the roots soon make the space between the rows narrow, so with rows a few feet apart a considerable number of canes must be cut out to permit of cultivation. These suckers may be dug and set out in new rows. A cool, loamy soil, well drained, yet capable of holding much moisture, is best. As moisture is a very important factor in producing a good crop, and is often lacking during the fruiting period, frequent shallow cultivations should be given to keep the soil in moist condition and also keep down the weeds. After a cane bears fruit it is of no more use, and so may be cut out immediately. Of the other canes, take out the weak ones and leave about six good canes to bear the fruit for the next season. Cut them back late in the fall after growth ceases or early in the spring, to two or two and a half feet in height. The best varieties are Cuthbert and Herbert.

Strawberries.

The strawberry is a very hardy plant and will grow under a variety of soils. A sandy loam produces the earliest crop, while a clay loam produces the largest crop and a better quality berry. Probably the best system of planting in the garden is to set the plants 18 inches apart in the rows, which should be from 3-4 feet apart, and allow the runners to extend in all directions to form a matted row. This method will give the greatest number of berries, while, if they were planted closer and all the runners cut off, a larger and finer class of berries could be produced, but would take considerable time and care. Spring planting is the best for best results. Strawberries will not thrive in low, marshy lands on the surface in either summer or winter. It may be possible to obtain plants from a plantation near-by; if not, order early from a reliable nurseryman. When digging take the healthiest runner plants and see that all large leaves and flower buds are removed before planting. More than one variety should be planted, because many varieties are imperfect, that is, contain pistil parts only, while some, when the pistil and stamens are in one flower, are perfect. This is what is called the "Hill" system and gives very fine quality berries. Only varieties with perfect flowers should be used. The only objection to this method of strawberry growing is the amount of labor required to pull off the runners.

DISTRICT CONVENTION OF THE LENNOX WOMEN'S INSTITUTES.

The Annual District Convention of the Lennox Women's Institutes was held in Hawley Methodist Church, on July 5th. Despite the stifling heat and the call of berries, cherries and chicks, the attractive little church was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and filled with the delegates, members and friends of the five branch institutes of the district.

Mrs. Bruce Robertson, District President, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened by the singing of the Maple Leaf, in honor of the entertaining institute, and the reciting of the Lord's Prayer. The President, in kindly words, welcomed all present and called upon Mrs. C. F. Allison, District Secretary, to read the minutes of the last district convention.

After the approval of the minutes, the branch representatives were called upon to give a summary of their year's work. Each branch was found to be doing very commendable work even to the youngest. Napanee, and each in turn received words of appreciation from the President. Not only are the branches doing good philanthropic work, but each has its little bank account as well as the family or district bank account. Next came the election of officers, but by request the ones were so much esteemed that by a motion which carried unanimously they hold their positions for the coming year. Then delegates were chosen to attend the Convention of Federated Women's Institutes, to be held in Ottawa in October next. Mrs. C. F. Allison was chosen to act as the Federated delegate, and Mrs. Percy Young as the Branch delegate.

This closed the business part of the programme, just as the speakers of the Department of Agriculture arrived and were being welcomed by Mrs. Allison.

Mrs. Yates, Athens, was introduced, and opened her address, "Better Homes", by reviewing the growth and purpose of the organization of Women's Institutes. Some forty years ago, Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoodless and claimed their only child, a little daughter two years of age. As the heart broken mother wept over the silent form of their child, she said, "Our baby died because its mother did not understand its proper care." She thought of the meetings her husband attended even then, where men were discussing the care of flocks, herds, and vegetable crops. She could not be reconciled that the material things of life should supercede those born of the image of God. Women must be able to help each other, she thought. Acting upon her conviction the women of Stoney Creek met in consultation, and continued to meet, finding that "all are needed by each one". Finally, they called themselves a Women's Institute, and chose the motto "For Home and Country". As joining counties started institutes later and presently the Ontario Department of Agriculture recognized that the institutes were doing something worth while, and the Women's Institutes were given a place with Farmers' Clubs, under the supervision of the Department. Women's Institutes are Ontario's gift to the world, and they are its largest and strongest organization, and the most representative—there being neither class nor creed distinction. Queen Mary is Honorary President of an institute, organized during the war, in the neighborhood of Sandringham Palace, which office she accepted graciously. The humblest maid or matron of the realm may be a member and aspire for the Presidency which may be denied none. England, Wales, Scotland, Ireland, Belgium, France, Southern Russia and the United States of America all have Women's Institutes, under various names.

Mrs. Yates dwelt upon the need of better homes—why the world's unrest? The home is the unit. Better homes mean more of God in the home. In every heart there is a little grub or germ of evil, like all other seeds it lies dormant unless conditions are favourable. The more of God's attributes, humanity, unselfishness, gentleness, purity, faithfulness, endurance, love, service in the heart, the more sickly and less formidable the germ of evil becomes until it is as nearly crushed as is humanly possible. Religion quells the beast in man. Education, good books, music, recreation, each hold a place in the growth of the spiritual, mental, moral and physical side of life. Every child has a right to be born in a refined godly home. Slums of the drudgery should be, and must be eliminated from housekeeping, that mothers may have more time to develope the best side of their own natures and to study and encourage the best that is in their children instead of leaving such a sacred and tender duty to the overworked school teachers and to the ministers of the gospel.

The influence of the school comes early in the child's life. Canada's children deserve better schools, — cheerful, flowery grounds, with swings, sliding boards and games. Sanitary buildings, properly lighted and heated—places dear to the heart of a child, not repulsive to the child brought up in refinement, and a place where the less fortunate will love to be. The refining influence of music should be a part of the school programme. Every child should first be made a study of, that they may be sung with zest.

Mrs. Crane, Welland, was next introduced. She said that Mrs. Yates had practically taken her topic, but as the subject has many bearings, this frail lady in her pleasing way, emphasized and enlarged much which had been said and led us in other phases of thought.

She also spoke briefly on Institute work and gave suggestions on programme planing, even the roll call may be made interesting and instructive by requesting the response to be 1. a poetical quotation from some special poet; 2. an author; 3. a general; 4. a statesman; 5. an historical event, etc.

Medical Inspection of Schools was dwelt upon. In a school near her home, out of 45 pupils inspected, only one was found without a defect. The work of inspection has been carried on in Brampton during the past three months, by the Women's Institute of the County. 6213 defects were found in 4999 pupils. They were classified as follows:—glands 597, teeth 2339, anemia 231, tonsils 72, nasal breathing 884, eyes 172, vision 607, hearing 116.

What a stir when hoof and mouth disease, hog cholera, tuberculosis, and so forth affect the barnyard people and when a new blight fungus or scab touches vegetation. Our Agricultural Departments have pyramids of books telling all the minutest symptoms and particulars of each and how to combat them. Sixty per cent. of the children born in Canada die before they reach the years of accountability. What a waste of life, of suffering, of care, of anxiety. The Great War taught us that children are not "mine and thine, but ours". When the state needed them she called them. They were marched away and neither privation, tears nor groans could hold them. If a child is to develope its talents to the fullest, it must have a sound body, and every child has a right to a sound body. The children are the hope of the nation, and what more noble work could a state assume than to protect them—material things have long received such protection.

Sunday motoring was ascribed as the cause of much Sabbath breaking and many over wrought housewives being besieged by such overwhelming numbers that even the emergency cupboards are not up to the demand and a plea has to be laid before the neighbours before a meal of sufficient proportions can be spread. Each person should lay down principles of right living and conduct and develope enough strength of character to live up to these principles. "I am going to church every Sunday morning" to be one of them. Statistics show that Protestant children receive in Sunday Schools an average of 24 hours teaching per year each. Roman Catholic children 364 hours each, and Jewish children even more. The bright days of youth, chiefly perhaps the first twelve years, are the seed time of life, and are they getting the impressions which make men and women of impregnable integrity of character? The reins of power will soon be in their hands and they will sit in Legislative Halls and for what will he or she stand?

The Community Hall was spoken of very favourably with its grounds of several acres. The hall may be used for meetings, religious, social, and political; the grounds for a variety of youthful disportment. Free travelling libraries are procurable, importation charges the only expense attached. These may be placed in the reading room section.

Parents were urged to give their daughters a permanent profession. The vicissitudes of life are accompanied often by very unhappy reverses. Down the sunset slope many women find themselves dependent upon their personal resources for a livelihood. We can each recall examples of women spending their declining years in environments quite foreign to their tastes or early training.

The nudity of the ultra fashionable was denounced. The attribute of modesty should be inculcated in children with their earliest training. When it is found wanting the sad reflection is turned upon the mothers.

The closing feature of the programme, a delicious and bountiful lunch, stirred up a great deal of interest from the neighbouring shade for a sudden influx of men appeared full of smiling anticipation. I am sure that all present will henceforth sing "The Maple Leaf" with greater zest, accompanied by pleasing and profitable recollections.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness and that is by constitutional treatments. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

Three-year-old Artie wasn't feeling very well. Papa said: "Let me see your tongue. Your head seems quite hot." After looking at it, papa said: "Your tongue has a little coat on it."

Artie looked surprised. "Is it the little coat that keeps my head hot, papa?" he asked.

Two suburban gardeners were swearing vengeance on cats.

"It appears to me," said one, "that they seem to pick out your choicest plants to scratch out of the ground."

"There's a big yellow tomcat," the other said, "that fetches my plants out and then sits and actually defies me."

"Why don't you hurl a brick at him?" asked the first speaker.

"That's what makes me mad," was the reply. "I can't. He gets on top of my greenhouse to defy me."

A would-be M.P. in the Old Country was staying in his future constituency. Meeting an old farmer he greeted him in his blandest manner. "Good morning, Mr. ——," he said; "you're looking very well to-day."

"But I ain't," came the reply; "you mustn't always judge people by their looks, sir."

"Well, I suppose not," answered the future M.P.

"No," the old man went on, "else you and me would ha' been 'ung long ago."

Mr. Galbraith served overseas with the 2nd C. M. R.s., and during one engagement was severely wounded, afterwards losing a leg. Unfortunate Accident.

On Saturday afternoon last an unfortunate accident occurred on the Kingston highway, about seven miles east of Napanee, when a party of tourists from West Collingswood, N.J., discovered their car was on fire. At first one of the party smelled something burning and stopping to investigate discovered the back seat to be in flames. Mr. Glaspell, the owner of the car, endeavoured to smother the flames before the fire got much headway and in less time than it takes to tell, the car was a mass of flames and was completely burned. The occupants were fortunate enough to save themselves and their baggage. Mr. and Mrs. Glaspell and family were touring from Toronto intending to catch the Cape boat at Kingston, on their homeward journey. The car was a Briscoe, and no fire insurance was carried on it.

Leaving for Napanee.

Rev. A. J. Terrill, B.A., B.D., Mrs. Terrill and daughter, Miss Catherine, left on Wednesday for their new home in Napanee, carrying with them the best wishes not only of their own congregation but of many friends of other denominations. Rev. Mr. Terrill, during his two years' residence here, has had a very successful pastorate of the Methodist Church. As a preacher his discourses have been a pleasure to listen to, given with a fluency of speech that few possess, and expressing an understanding of human nature that appealed with helpfulness to the heart of any earnest listener. As a pastor, his executive ability has also been of a great help to his Board of Trustees and Stewards in the general business of the church. In the Boy Scout movement, Mr. Terrill gave much of his time to the boys as Scout Master, and his true sportsmanship was greatly admired by them. In the Ladies' Aid, W. M. S., Sunday School, and other work of the church, Mrs. Terrill's services have been no less helpful than her husband's, and she has in her unassuming way won the sincere friendship of all.—Norwood Register.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chambers,
Napanee, July 18th, 1921.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Graham presiding.

Members present — Councillors Roblin, Wilson, Ming, Hartman and Steacy.

The minutes of the last regular session were read, and on motion were confirmed.

A gentleman representing the Muskoka Free Hospital addressed the Council in reference to a donation to that worthy institution. In a short, interesting speech he presented his appeal in a most stirring manner. The Council was not in a position at present to promise anything, but he was given to understand that his appeal would receive every consideration.

Mr. E. O. Ungar addressed the Council, asking for certain privileges concerning improvements to his building at the corner of Dundas and Robert streets, which he intends utilizing as a garage. On Robert street he wished to erect a driveway leading to the first floor, also the opening of a driveway in the basement, and other improvements. Referred to the Streets Committee to report at next meeting of Council.

An agreement between Mr. Wm. Rankin and the Town of Napanee in reference to the improving of the watercourse running through his property was brought before the Council, and after considerable discussion it was decided to take no action in this particular at this meeting of the Council.

In reference to the damage claim of Mr. Wm. Pearson against the town for injuries sustained by his son by falling into a town sewer opening, the action was settled by the payment of $130.00 to Mr. Pearson by the town.

Accounts.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—W. B. Johnston $9.50, Dominion Guarantee Co. $8.

The following accounts were referred to Committees with power to act:—Napanee Iron Works $17.44, to Streets; E. R. McCabe $44.03, to Town Property; V. Cowling $25.20, to Poor and Sanitary; W. D. Mildmer $81.38, to Town Property; the usual Hydro accounts to Fire, Water and Light.

On motion the Council adjourned.

THE "LONE CAMPER" VISITS NAPANEE

Gentle, and otherwise, Reader, Jack Taylor, The Lone Camper and Scholar-Gypsy, put these lines into type by hand (the old way, before setting type by machinery was thought of.) Nearly fifty-five years ago the Lone Camper was third-assistant Printers' Devil on the Hamilton Times, accounting for his present-day small knowledge of the Art and Mystery of the "Art Preservative of All Arts." After a few years on the Times, Chicago claimed him until the late seventies, followed by a varied and interesting experience as a tramp "Jour." and employer. Then succeeded nearly thirty years commercial-touristing out of New York City, from Maine to "Oregon's ultimate shore," and Florida up to near the North Pole. In recent years, principally for health, and incidentally to get up matter for a book about "Little Journeys Into the Open," with "Notes on Walking and Camping," he has made a number of walking and camping tours, going well into six thousand miles, and now on a walking and camping trip from Toronto to Montreal, and return to Toronto—walking and tramping ALL the way—writing weekly articles for the Toronto Sunday World, addressed to Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

Before closing there must be added a word of thanks to Mr. Paul and members of the Park Commission for the privilege of camping for a few days in Napanee's pretty little Warner Park.

Fire Wipes Out Half of Village.

At an early hour Wednesday morning the Village of Northbrook, situated on the Perry Road, eight miles north of Kaladar, was visited by a fire by which more than half the business places were destroyed. Those who lost were as follows: Hotel barn and drive house, $1,200; C. C. Thompson, general store and fittings, $8,000; C. C. Thompson's new opera hall, just completed, $3,000; Elijah Thompson, store and stock, both new, $3,000; E. Thompson's residence and furnishings, $1,500. The children of E. Thompson were rescued just in time as ten minutes longer and they would have perished. The insurance in all cases is limited.

Results of the Lower School Jr. Teachers' Examinations Napanee Collegiate Institute.

Passed in Full—Elizabeth Armitage, Kathleen Barrett, Vivian Exley, O. Frisken, Beulah Hodgins, E. Hudgins, Kathleen Roblin, Edna Vankoughnet, Grace Winter, Gladys Withers, Ruth Wright.

YARKER WON OUT.

One of the most closely contested games in the Inter-county League this year was that played in Yarker, Saturday afternoon, when the home team won from Parham by a score of 7 to 5. The teams were evenly matched and it was anybody's game until the seventh when a couple of hits, and an error counted Dunn and Holland for Yarker. The Yarker boys had hard luck with their catchers, Warner who started behind the bat having his hand hurt and in the sixth Huffman who succeeded him had his finger broken and had to retire, Warner coming back. Most of the time it was a pitcher's battle between Dunn and Lee, both teams getting five hits and both pitchers credited with eight strike outs. Lee walked one and Dunn three.

Parham started off in the first with four runs, Lee, Minorgan, J. Campsall and Howes counting on two errors and two hits. They added their last one in the second when after walking three men, Dunn fanned the next two men and with two men down, Warner, who was suffering with his hand, made a bad throw to Dunn, and Howes scored.

Yarker began in the second when three hits, two errors, and a walk accounted for five runs, Smith, O'Mara, Warner, A. Huffman and Dafoy crossing the plate. The game was won for Yarker in the seventh when with the score tied, two runs were secured.

The teams were:—

Yarker—Woodburn 2b and cf, Holland 3b, R. Huffman 2b, and c, Smith ss, O'Mara lf, Warner c, cf and 2b, A. Huffman rf, Dafby 1b, Dunn p.

Parham—Lee p, Minorgan 3b, J. Campsall 2b, A. Howes ss, J. Campsall df, J. Howes rf, Smith lf, Pinnell ss, Barr 1b.

Umpire—Fraser Smith.

Score by innings: R H E
Parham .....4 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 — 5 5 5

Thrilling Experience of a Former Napanee Boy

The following account of a drowning accident at Long Bonnet, Man., in which Constable Jas. Woodcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Woodcock narrowly escaped death, is taken from the Winnipeg Review of June 28th:—Sergeant A. F. Fox and Con. Constable Jas. Woodcock, of the North-West Mounted Police, were returning after a six weeks' canoe trail up river in company with the sergeant's wife and baby on part of the return voyage, when a cross current caught them as they were about to make a portage, upsetting the canoe and throwing the occupants out into the swift current. Mrs. Fox was still held on to the canoe. Constable Woodcock managed to hold the sergeant's wife until an oilcloth sticker got wound around his legs. He was then carried down stream and began sinking. Sergeant Ditch grabbed his wife and held her about ten minutes, when the canoe turned over again, the Sergeant lost his hold and both wife and baby were carried off with the current and drowned. Sergeant Ditch and Constable Woodcock drifted down current until picked up by rescuers, both being in an exhausted condition. The bodies of Mrs. Ditch and infant were found a few days later and taken to Winnipeg for burial.

SUCH IS BRAIN-POWER.

Professor Bigbrain is very absent minded. He is, in fact, so forgetful that he forgets what he's forgotten and that, perhaps, is why he gets into fewer scrapes than he otherwise might.

One night he returned home late. He had told his housekeeper he was going to a meeting of the Society for the Discovery of New Origins, forgotten where he was going on the way, decided to buy a new book, and strolled into a concert hall in mistake for a tobacconist's. When he reached home he rang the bell. Everyone was in bed. So he rang again—quite forgetting he had his latchkey.

At last his housekeeper's head protruded itself from a second storey window.

"The professor," declared the head, "isn't in."

The professor pondered doubtfully for a moment.

"All right," he answered, quietly. "I'll call again." And, hobbling down the steps, he went forth once more into the cold and cheerless night.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

How beautiful would the most beautiful woman be if her teeth were all decayed and a few out here and there?

Wouldn't that "queer" her chances in the beauty show? In addition, how long would she keep her beautiful complexion? And if her complexion was gone how could she get by with a "drug store" complexion if her cheeks were all sunken in?

And then where would her happy disposition be—and her digestion. All gone—and when these things are gone for a woman, old age is here, regardless of the number of years she has lived.

American women retain their beauty and their vivacity longer than any other women in the world, actually retain their youth more years than the women of any nation or of any time in history, all because the American dentist and American dentistry have preserved her teeth and her mouth.

Women's teeth are more subject to decay than men's. Nearly three-fourths of the twelve million people who go to the dentist regularly in the United States every year are girls and women.

The cheeks and lips get their support from the teeth and gums. In regular teeth in children, particularly little girls, should be corrected early, not only forethe proper occlusion, or biting, of the teeth, but because the contour and expression of the face from the cheek bones down depend upon the teeth. Would you rather have a smile from a row of stumps surrounded by ugly, red, swollen, spongy, inflamed gums or will you take yours from a lovely row of human pearls, regular and beautiful in shape, supporting the most exquisitely curved lips, and surrounded by gums that radiate health and whose delicate pink is more perfect than the petal of a rose?

Health gives more beauty than contour. Many an otherwise unattractive face is brought high above the average by a clean, healthy, well-kept mouth.

DEVELOPING PULLETS FOR WINTER EGG PRODUCTION

(Experimental Farms Note.)

For the greatest ultimate success in egg production, pullets, from the time they are hatched, should be so handled that they will not receive any check. From "shell to laying pen" should be one period of continuous growth.

A pullet that is stunted at some stage in its development is a pullet that is ruined so far as heavy continuous production is concerned.

Hen Hatched Chicks. — The big danger to hen-hatched chicks is vermin. See that "baby" is treated for lice before the eggs hatch and then, at regular intervals, treat the chicks with a good disinfecting powder. Most of the commercial powders will be satisfactory. Ordinary road dust with a little flowers of sulphur added will serve the purpose.

Incubator Hatched Chicks. — The period when artificial heat is removed is one when the chickens require close attention, otherwise they are liable to crowd and very little of this will give the chicks a serious set back.

Put wire netting across the corners of the house so that the chicks cannot crowd into them, and trample each other to death. Visit the house several times in the evening and if there is any crowding drive the chicks to the centre of the house and stay with them until they settle down. The sooner the chicks can be induced to roost the better.

During the hot summer weather, be ever on the watch for vermin. Spray the houses occasionally with a good disinfectant and if there are any traces of red mites, keep right after them, as it is good-bve to healthy growth in the chickens if these pests ever get headway.

As soon after "weaning" as possible, get the pullets on to good fresh range. Hopper feeding will be found most convenient. Keep mixed grain and a good dry mash before them where they can have free access to it. See that they have an abundance of succulant green feed and always a supply of fresh water. If butt-rmilk can be obtained nothing is better to produce healthy, vigorous growth or to bring the pullets into production.

Get the pullets into the laying pens before they start to lay, so that they will not receive any set back.

On housing them, bear in mind the change in conditions. Induce them to consume large quantities of green feed and to exercise for all the scratch feed.

Poultry Husbandman.

THE KEEPING OF POULTRY.

If resident in either town or country and you wish to know how best to keep poultry and secure the most satisfactory results, consult a pamphlet treating of the subject prepared by the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, P. C. Elford, and recently issuous production is concerned.

ued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. The pamphlet can be had free on application to the Publications Branch. It tells of how poultry can be made to pay, how the fowls should be housed and fed, how they should be treated in winter and summer, how to commence keeping in a small way, the equipment that is desirable, how to choose a breed, how to hatch and rear, and how to gather, keep, or market the eggs. In short all the essentials to success in poultry keeping for home consumption or selling are clearly and explicitly explained. In the term poultry are included turkeys, geese, ducks, guinea fowls and pigeons, the raising and care of which are fully discussed. Numerous illustrations of types of birds, and of methods of housing and feeding contribute to make the pamphlet an invaluable compendium on poultry-keeping and marketing. "What's going on here?"
"It looks like a bank robbery," said the phlegmatic citizen.
"Aren't you going to interfere?"
"Nope," said the citizen, as he thrust his hands in his pockets and spat into the gutter. "The President of that there institution once refused to lend me $50 on a note indorsed by four of my best friends. If this gang cleans him out it'll serve him right."

AND WE VOTED "YES"

'Twas a balmy summer's evening
And a goodly crowd was there;
Such dope we got in days gone by,
But now it seems threadbare.

No more gin rickys can we have,
Or highballs when we choose;
Since the old bartender took his job,
We've kissed them fond adeaus.

The sawdust and the polished rail,
Departed with a shock;
And bums in back lanes whisper now
Do you want to buy a crock.

A By-law to define certain areas within the town in which streets shall be watered or oiled, was given its several readings and finally passed. Following is the area which will be either watered or oiled:—Newburgh road from Ed. Vine's to the iron bridge; Dundas street from the railway bridge to the corporation limits on the west; Bridge street from Dundas to York street; Centre street from Ontario to C. N. R. tracks; Mill street from John to Centre street; John street from Ontario to G. T. Ry.; Thomas street, from John to G. T. Ry.; East from Dundas to G. T. Ry.; Robert from Bridge to Dundas street; Market Square; Belleville Road from Thomas to Bridge street. The charges for same will be 5c. per foot frontage for watering, and 8c. per foot for oiling. There will be no double charging, the only charge either for watering or oiling.

A By-law was passed respecting the payment of taxes. All taxes are due and payable on August 1st. On and after October 1st a per centage charge of 3 per cent. will be added, and on and after December 1st an additional charge of 2 per cent. will be added, making in all a total per centage of 5 per cent.

The Streets Committee presented a report in reference to certain privileges asked of the town by Mr. E. O. Ungar for improvements to his garage at the corner of Dundas and Robert streets. They recommend the allowing of the building of a stair entrance to basement of building, said entrance to be at least six feet from Dundas street sidewalk; installing of gasoline tank and pump; concreting that part of street on Robert street lying between sidewalk and building; building runway to first floor of building, and also entrance to basement, provided the entrance be properly safeguarded. Mr. Ungar will also furnish the town with a bond to safeguard it against any claim for damage should any accident occur because of these constructions.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Coun. Roblin, seconded by Coun. Ming, that permission be given for the installation of gasolene pumps outside the walks and inside the curbs, said installation to be made under the supervision of the Streets Committee and the furnishing of bonds to endemnify the town against damage. Carried.

A By-law to levy the Rate necessary for raising the taxes for the year 1921 was given its several readings and finally passed. The rate of taxation was fixed at 39 mills, made up as follows: 25 mills for general purposes, 12½ mills for school purposes, and 1½ mills for local improvement.

WILL MODEL ALLIED LEADERS

American Sculptor in France Has Been Given the Task of Putting History Into Clay.

Joe Davidson, the American sculptor, now in France, is engaged on a most interesting commission, according to the Manchester Guardian. He is modeling a series of bronze busts of the chief allied military and political leaders. Many have already sat for him, and many, including Haig and Lloyd George, have yet to give sittings. One of the sculptor's recent successes was a bust of Marshal Foch, done in clay, from which the bronze work will be completed. Only two periods of time, totaling five hours, were available for Davidson.

But that proved sufficient. Half way through, the marshal inspected what had been done and smilingly remarked: "Sculpture is not so difficult, after all." He also recalled with some pride that Gustave Dore's illustrations to Poe's works were made in his (Foch's) house. He was only a captain then. The sculptor's description of his sitter is interesting: Foch's broad, high-forehead indicates a man of philosophic rather than purely military type, but the deep set, piercing eyes and strong though nowise brutal mouth, nose and chin show that the thinker is equally a man of action and decision. From the point of view of physiognomy, a subject of absorbing interest.

Famous Old Tavern Closed.

The rising tide of prohibition has swept away another ancient hostelry, the Blue Anchor, at Front and Dock streets, Philadelphia, claimed to be the oldest tavern in Pennsylvania, and one of the two or three oldest in America.

The Blue Anchor is one of the landmarks of the city. Its walls bear the inscription that the inn was founded in 1682, shortly after the landing of William Penn, when Dock street was Dock creek. As a tavern and bar the building on this site has been operated continuously for 237 years.

Chroniclers of Dock street say that the original building was burned in the later years of the eighteenth century, and that the present building dates from about 1785. The inn was long known for its fish dinners.

Heroic Preacher.

In a little cave on a hillside, also under shell fire, a war correspondent found a preacher secretary tending his little group of wounded. The men had fallen too fast that day for the ambulances to carry them all, and so he had picked up a dozen of them, one by one, and carried them back across the shell holes to his little cave in the hill, where he thought they would be safe. All night long, while the guns roared, he made his lonesome journeys out, bringing in new wounded and carrying water to those who cried out for it.—Red Cross Magazine.

Crops Worth Billions.

The cereal crops of the United States were worth over $7,000,000,000 to the farmers who raised them in 1918. The product of these crops, all together, was a little under the total for 1917, but, while the prices of some of the cereals were lower in 1918 than in 1917, the prices of others were sufficiently higher to make the total value of the cereals greater in 1918 by more than a quarter of a billion dollars.

Bubonic Plague in Argentina.

A report from Buenos Aires states that the government of that country is sending a commission to the province of Jujuy for the purpose of fighting the epidemic of bubonic plague, which is reported to be serious. The Santiago dispensary reports 605 cases of typhus fever and 18 deaths.

Forest Fires Kill Jobs

HERE are instances of carelessness such as the Fire Rangers of Ontario are meeting all the time. Each is an actual case, as officially reported in detail to the Forestry Branch. Until each individual realizes personal responsibility and co-operates to prevent forest fires, Government Fire Rangers can hope merely to lessen the tragic consequences of such human carelessness and bad judgment.

Save Ontario's Forests

They're Yours

Lumbermen's Fires

May 25th, 1920—A careless river driver, by leaving his smudge fire or throwing a cigarette into slash, burned over two townships, including 7,000,000 feet of pine, a $5,000 mill, camp buildings and equipment worth $7,000, sawn lumber worth $7,500, and killed several million young spruce and jack pine trees.

May 25, 1920—Fire in a rubbish heap behind a lumber company's boarding house got away and, despite prompt action, burned over 1,600 acres, including 2,000,000 feet of white pine, and a set of new camps worth $1,000.

June 1, 1920—Two old men left to attend to the stop logs in a dam, let fire get away from either their smudge or camp fire, and burned over 9,000 acres, including 6,000,000 feet of pine, one mill, four camps, large quantities of supplies, and equipment to a total value of $40,000.

May 4th, 1921—Lumbermen burning slash around their camps, lost control of their fire and 15,000 acres were burned before they regained it.

Railway Fires

June 5th, 1920—Engine No. 1368 started a forest fire which ran over 15,000 acres, burning one saw mill, three sets of lumber camps, stables, houses, and outfits, 5,000 cut logs and 1,400 piles, besides standing timber.

May 25th, 1920—Engine No. 2509 set a fire which burned over 12,000 acres of timber worth $20,000 on the stump, camps and logs worth $5,750, and cost $1,000 to fight.

Fires Set Out Under Permit

June 10th, 1921—Parties burning slash under permit, lost control through bad judgment, and 1,650 acres were burned and forty buildings, including saw mill, were wiped out.

May 27th, 1920—A squatter, burning debris near his shack, fired 7,000 acres, 1,000 of which were virgin timber, and wiped out four sets of logging camps.

Neglected Camp Fires

July 4th, 1920—Tourists left camp fire on shore of Deer Lake. After six days' fight, rangers put fire out, but 550 acres of young pine were dead.

May 31st, 1920—A neglected camp fire, despite efforts of Chief Fire Ranger and 42 men, burned 1,200 acres of young pine.

May 7th, 1921—Indians left camp fire, which burned over 7,000 acres and took one week of fighting to control.

Be careful of fire in the forests. Be careful to put your camp fire out—dead out. Don't throw away lighted matches, cigarettes or cigar ends. Watch out, lest your fire gets away from you.

A newly married lady was being interviewed by the reporter of the local newspaper just after the ceremony. "And after the honeymoon, where do you intend to settle down?" was his final question.

"At the old manse," said the bride, as she hurried away.

The reporter thought it sounded unusually familiar, but he decided to use it. When it appeared in print the report finished up:—"After the honeymoon the happy couple intend to live at the old man's."

"Is Mr. Hansen courting you, Alice?" her chum Doris asked her one day.

"Not exactly — yet," admitted Alice. "But he is approaching step by step."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, when he first called he sat all the evening with a post-card album in his lap."

"Yes."

"The next time he sat with my poodle in his lap."

"Well?"

"Last night he took my little brother on his knee. So you see, I hope it will soon be my turn."

SCOTCH TWEEDS HALVED IN PRICE

Also Belwarp Blue Serges; Salesmen Notify Trade in Hamilton

AT ROCK BOTTOM NOW?

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Hamilton, July 22.—Salesmen for European woollen houses, who called on the local trade yesterday and today, advised that fine Scotch tweeds and belwarp blue serges, which formerly ranged from $12 to $13.50 per yard, are now down to $6 and $7 per yard.

Ex-Mayor Booker stated to-night that a representitive of Gagnier & Co., London, England, called on him this afternoon and confirmed the reduction in prices.

"It will mean," said Mr. Booker, "that suits, which sold for $85 to $90, can now be made for about $65. That is not an unreasonable price when you consider that canvas and linen, which we used to buy for 20 and 25 cents a yard, are still 75 cents per yard. I don't believe that fine woollens will become any cheaper than $6 per yard. I am advised that prices are at rock bottom now."

Dundas Street Pavement.

The work of paving Dundas street is proceeding rapidly, and, while it is very inconvenient at present for the merchants and their patrons, all are taking it in a good natured manner, with the assurance that in a very short time we will be able to point with pride to our main thoroughfare. Grading has been practically completed to the railway bridge in the east end, and the cement foundation is laid as far as East street. In the west end of the town men are at work putting on the "binder" and asphalt, which will probably be completed as far east as Mr. E. J. Roy's corner by Saturday night. Many of our citizens have visited the scene of operations in the westerly limits of the town, and all are of the opinion that the finished job makes a model street. Standard Paving, Limited, who have the contract, are to be congratulated on their work. On Wednesday they did their largest day's work in Napanee, putting down 1,230 square yards of concrete base.

HUNS GIVE UP WORKS OF ART

World-Famous Paintings Stolen From Belgium Returned as Stipulation of Peace Treaty.

By the terms of the peace treaty Belgium and Ghent will respectively recover priceless works of art, one of which was supposed to have been destroyed after the Germans entered Louvain, while the other has long been incomplete because two important parts of it were in the Kaiser Friedrich museum, Berlin. The Louvain painting is the work of Dierick Bouts, a "Last Supper," which has been described as "certainly one of the finest examples of Flemish fifteenth century art" and was painted for the collegiate church of St. Pierre. The painting had come down the centuries as the chief adornment of the church, and disappeared after the German occupation. It was believed to have been destroyed, but is now known to have been removed and preserved by the invader, and its return is one of the stipulations of the peace treaty. The other famous painting, "The Adoration of the Lamb," has been called "the first and greatest masterpiece of fifteenth century painting produced in Flanders." It was begun by Hubert van Eyck, but continued and finished by Jan van Eyck. Time had separated the parts of the painting and at present the central panel remains in the chapel of St. Bavon in Ghent, another part is in Brussels, and yet another in Berlin. Brussels will probably return her part of the composition, and Germany is to give back the portions that have been in her possession, so that the painting as a whole will once more be assembled in the chapel for which it was painted.

HOUSING IN GREAT BRITAIN

Problem Bids Fair to Be Successfully Worked Out Through Fair and United Effort.

In connection with the problem of reconstruction in the united kingdom various housing schemes are contemplated. Variety in the model dwellings to be erected has been encouraged by the enterprise of the London Daily Mail, which offered prizes amounting to $10,000 for "designs best and most suitable in themselves and most nearly in line with the architectural traditions of the several districts."

The country was divided into four areas—the northern, midland and Welsh industrial areas, and the southern and midland counties rural area with a prize of $2,500 in each section. Over 2,500 designs were submitted. In the winning designs the need for economy in all cases was apparent.

In addition to these new model homes, a demand has arisen for furniture especially suitable for them, the construction of which would be of the simplest, combined with the required rigidity and strength. A successful attempt to meet this need has been made by the Shoreditch Technical institute (London), at which cottage furniture, based on the carpentry shops of the institute and executed by the boys at the school, has been on exhibition.

Beat Huns at Their Own Game.

The most hateful chapter of the work of science in war was the introduction of chemical warfare. The first gas attack, on April 22, 1915, and the five others that followed within little more than a month, found the allies unprepared, and it was not until September that they were able in any way to retaliate. But the immediate reply was one that did honor to science. Due to the splendid work of the late Colonel Harrison a system of defense by gas masks was established, in which the allies were for the greater part of the war far ahead of their adversaries, who only succeeded in coming up to them by learning and copying our methods. It was impossible to estimate what would have been the destruction caused by toxic gases but for these defensive measures.

Pie-Bald Truth.

Mr. Jones keeps pigeons, and Mr. Brown, next door, tries to keep pigeons. Mr. Brown is constantly losing birds, while Mr. Jones is as constantly suspected of finding them. The other morning Mr. Brown, with a smile and a dime, approached the youthful son and heir of Mr. Jones.

"Willie," began Brown, holding up the coin, "did daddy find a bird yesterday?"

Willie nodded.

"And was it a blue bird with some white feathers in its wing?"

Sight-Seeing From the Air.

To view the scenic wonder of the west from the air, escaping the roads trails and rocky barriers that often screen the rarest vistas—that is the prospect offered to tourists who make Salt Lake City their "going-in" point for sight-seeing trips, says Popular Mechanics. Five specially designed airplanes have been prepared for the work of carrying travelers to, and over, the best spots of the region, some hitherto inaccessible.

Concert by Telephone.

hour's concert over the telephone. Pay ing department store, wishing to call attention to its music machine records, is increasing sales by giving an hour's concert over the telephone. Patrons wishing to enjoy the newest records called the store's music department at the appointed time and "listened in."

FAIRS ADVERTISE YOU

Both the Community and the Exhibitor Get Publicity.

It Pays to Let Others Know That You Have the Goods — Fighting the Hessian Fly—The Silo a Proven Utility.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

To the general farmer who grows good grain for seed, to the specialist in garden and truck crops, and particularly to the live stock man, the Fall Fair offers an opportunity. It pays to advertise; the Fair is the place where the people see the goods produced, and seeing is believing. Moreover, the papers report the winnings, and through these the exhibition gets a large amount of advertising free which would otherwise cost him a considerable amount of money. Winning in close competitions under a competent judge adds dollars to the value of stock shown and increases the market price of any commodity, as well as giving the exhibitor a standing not only in his own community but over a section of country corresponding to the size and influence of the show at which prizes are won. The Fair is a good place to make sales. Prospective buyers see the good exhibits made and enquire about the breeding stock at home. Stockmen show at Fairs largely to make sales rather than to win prizes, although the latter is a factor in the sales and they are not disappointed as evidenced by the growing interest in the Fall Fair. Showing at the Fair, coupled with a judicious newspaper advertising policy, which should never be neglected, is good business. The two go together and work hand in hand. It pays to let others know of your good stock. Use printers' ink and show at the Fall Fair.—Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph.

Fighting the Hessian Fly.

Growers of winter wheat are advised to practice immediate control measures advocated by the Department experts. The following eight cardinal control measures, if rigorously enforced and adhered to by every grain grower, will prevent the introduction and spread of the pest:

Do not sow wheat on stubble if possible to avoid it.

Plough under all infested stubble and ruined wheat where practicable soon after harvest, especially where this does not interfere with the growing of clover and forage crasses.

Destroy all volunteer wheat by harrowing, disking, ploughing, or otherwise.

Plough all winter wheat land as early and deeply as existing conditions permit, and prepare a thoroughly pulverized and compacted seedbed.

Use the best seed procurable.

Keep the soil in good tilth and, most important of all, sow winter wheat during the fly-free period as advised by local farm advisers or experiment stations.

Work in co-operation with your neighbor in fighting this pest, as community action is essential to insure complete success.

Late sowing is recommended, but not too late sowing, as the latter is as disastrous in its ultimate results as is too early sowing. Unlike Sam's grain-disease doctors say that the safe date in a time of normal rainfall usually coincides, in any one locality, with the preferable time for sowing to bring maximum yield. For example, grain growers in northern Michigan and Ontario are advised to sow after September 1, while the producers of southern Michigan and northern Ohio will escape fly infestation if they plant their grain about September 20.—U. S. Weekly News Letter.

Silo Almost as Useful as Barn.

The silo is rapidly becoming recognized as a necessary part of the farmer's equipment. A farm without a silo, at least in the corn area, is no longer up to date. The rapid adoption of the silo is accounted for by recognition of its advantages.

If corn is cut at the proper stage and put into a good silo, the whole corn plant is eaten.

Silage is more convenient to feed than is any other rough feed commonly used on the farm.

Silage is both palatable and succulent.

The addition of a succulent feed to a ration increases the digestibility of the dry feed eaten.

With a silo it is possible to save corn that might otherwise, owing to immaturity, be largely wasted.

The silo not only provides excellent feed in winter time, but furnishes a means of keeping more for summer use feed of high quality.

August Farm Hints.

As the grains are harvested the land which is not seeded should, when practicable, be cultivated on the surface so as to germinate the scattered seeds, hold the moisture, and better fit the land for ploughing in the autumn.

Sod land calculated for winter wheat should be ploughed early in the month and harrowed every week or ten days to prepare seed bed.

When picking wild flowers do not take the whole plant. Remember leaves and roots are needed to grow again next year.

We hear much these days about planting shrubbery and flowers and beautifying our front yards and gardens on the farm. They all pay in real value as well as added comfort.

"The Irish are not the only people who make metaphorical 'bulls'," a subscriber writes.

"A Missouri woman in our neighborhood said of a certain man with whom her husband had had a difference of opinion: 'He's the biggest snake in the grass that ever stood on two legs'."

UNITED STATES GOT BARGAIN

Purchase of Florida From Spain for $6,000,000 Was Decidedly Good Stroke of Business.

More than $6,000,000 was paid by the United States to Spain one hundred years ago for Florida.

In 1819, on the anniversary of the birth of the nation's first president, there was concluded between John Quincy Adams, then secretary of state, and Luis De Onis, minister plenipotentiary of the king of Spain, an agreement and treaty whereby the United States became owner of what were then known as the provinces of East and West Florida.

This territory included not only all of the present state of Florida, but part of what is now Georgia and Alabama, and it was bought for $5,000,000 and the settlement of some claims which amounted to $1,024,741.44, a total of $6,024,741.44.

The language of the remarkable document between the two nations is clear and precise and differs from other treaties to a marked extent. The two men who drew it up were pus' masters in statesmanship, politics and diplomacy; also, each was the most advanced thinker of the country he represented.

Spain wanted to get rid of her American possessions before they were taken away from her. She was proud, but recognized the fact that she was in no position to wage a long and possibly unsuccessful warfare to hold her colonies.

America wanted the land in this continent held by Spain, but was willing to acquire it by purchase rather than conquest, and with both sides ably represented by the best talent, tf was not long before a satisfactory conclusion was reached.

NOW that he can order it at once by Long Distance from his favorite dealer in village, town, or city, nedging is too good for the farmer. "You advertised a special sale on phonographs in to-day's paper. Ship me one"—he telephones.

Within the same convenient radius of your store are scores of thrifty housewives who would be pleased to have a merchant solicit their trade by Long Distance. Even if a sale does not result, you have advertised your business in a very effective way. They will probably call when they come to town, or order from your advertising. It's human nature.

USING LIGHTNING RODS

Erroneous Opinions Corrected by Statements of Expert.

Why Buildings Should Be Rodded—When Metal Roofs Are Safe—Shelter of Trees Unsafe During Thunder Storms.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The many direct questions concerning lightning rods or cables, methods of installing, etc., sent to the Department of Physics, O.A. C., Guelph, are often accompanied by statements of the views of those submitting these questions. The following list of corrected views, or impressions, will prove helpful to those who are at all interested in the protection of their property from lightning discharges.

E. denotes an erroneous view of statement.

C. denotes correct explanations or statements of facts.

E. Lightning rods attract the electric charge on the cloud and then allow the flash to travel down the system of lightning rods to the ground where it disappears.

C. The rodding system forms a connecting link between the charge on the cloud and the charge on the earth and structure protected. The charges on the cloud and on the earth are of opposite polarity, and the induced charge on the earth or structure is quietly neutralized by the rodding system including the ground rod, the cable, and the points on the ridge. The neutralizing of the charge takes place in the form of an almost silent discharge from the points placed on the ridge, or on prominences at various parts of the building. It is in thus "preventing" the sudden flash from the cloud that the chief efficiency of the rodding system consists. The system helps to avoid destruction by fires even in cases where a flash cannot be prevented, but these flashes are almost unheard of to-day with the efficient rodding systems being installed by lightning rod dealers. "Rodding systems properly installed do protect."

E. Any kind of rodding "system" is satisfactory if the proper kind of rod or cable is used. It all depends on the rod.

C. Rather say any durable rod, copper over three ounces per foot, and iron 4½ ounces per foot is good enough "if properly installed." Emphasis cannot be too strongly laid on the "method" of installations.

E. If the ground rod or cable is placed in the ground a distance of six feet, it is considered satisfactory.

C. Ground rods must be down to perpetual moisture, or (where this is impossible) special arrangements must be made to provide the best grounding, now ground rods being necessary and special advice must be sought as to the best method in each special case.

E. A building with metal roof is safe from electrical discharges.

C. A metal roof grounded at the corners, and with a "sharp" ridge board or point, makes an excellent system for fire protective purposes. The chief metal parts in the building must, however, be connected to the rodding system as suggested in rodding specifications, Bulletin No. 229 of the Department of Agriculture for Ontario.

E. Even properly rodded buildings are sometimes struck.

C. Although the above is true, the chances of their being injured if struck, or struck at all, are so few that one is safe to challenge the statement as "misleading." When hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property is being destroyed annually in the Province of Ontario there are on record spaces of twelve months' duration where no single properly rodded building was burned, and practically none even injured.

E. The safest place in a thunder storm in a sort distance from a tall tree, but lightning is liable to strike anything, or anywhere.

C. Keep as far away as possible from trees. All things are not equally liable to be struck. There are no freaks in the case of lightning discharges. Some things are never struck, other things are almost invariably struck if a discharge takes place near them.

E. Our buildings are insured. Then why rod them at extra expense?

C. No one has any right to take a chance at destroying life and property even if the life of the individual or the property is insured. How about reduction of insurance premiums when buildings are rodded?

E. All rodding companies are trustworthy. Therefore buy the cheapest cable and installation.

C. All rodding companies in the country are not equally trustworthy even if honest and conscientious in their work. There is such a thing as lack of knowledge of the proper method of installation. Therefore deal only with those companies who know their business and grantee good workmanship. The best is none too good when human lives are at stake.

Conclusion.—All valuable farm buildings, unless of steel structure throughout or entirely enclosed in metal, should be rodded or partly rodded, as the case may demand. Only the work of the most reputable firm should be considered "good enough." If in doubt, seek advice from the Physics Department.—W. C. Blackwood, O. A. College, Guelph.

ABOUT VETERINARIANS

How to Become Skilled in Doctoring Animals.

A Profession That Should Appeal to Farm Lads — What the Ontario Veterinary College Can Do for Ambitious Student — Does the Collar Fit the Horse?

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

To every young man of worthy ambition there arises sooner or later a desire which tends to lure him into some occupation or profession congenial to his inclinations and offering an opportunity for advancement. In this regard the Veterinary profession is worthy of consideration as a suitable occupation and field of endeavor for the young man desirous of improving his own status in life and rendering useful service to the community at large. In recognition of this, the Ontario Department of Agriculture maintains the Ontario Veterinary College at Toronto for the purpose of training young men for the veterinary profession. It is affiliated with the University of Toronto, and is one of the oldest and best known colleges on the American continent. It has received students from all parts of the English-speaking world, and its graduates are favorably regarded, many of whom have attained considerable prominence. The College building is new and modern throughout and well equipped. The course is comprehensive, and covers a period of four years of seven months each term. The tuition fees are exceedingly moderate, averaging $85 for each College term. The purpose of the College is essentially that of a teaching institution for the proper training of men as Veterinarians. The prescribed course of study and instruction in Veterinary Science has much to commend it, and is particularly attractive and interesting. It trains the student to acquire a true knowledge of animal diseases, their treatment and prevention, thus fitting him for general practice as a veterinary surgeon. It trains the student for scientific pursuits, to conduct research work, and to solve many of the live stock problems occasioned by diseases with consequent national economic losses. It trains the student for sanitary service work in preventing the transmission of animal diseases to mankind through unwholesome milk or from meats and meat food products of doubtful origin. On graduation the opportunities are equal to that of any of the other learned professions, both monetary and in the wider sense of community service. There is an ever-increasing field for veterinary surgeons throughout the Dominion, in private practice and to establish a business career with good financial returns. There are constantly increasing demands for trained veterinarians in the Health of Animals Branch of the Dominion Government, as executive officers, investigators and veterinary inspectors. These positions are obtained by qualifying examinations held yearly and appointments are made on merit without influence. The initial salary is $1,800 per annum, with steady yearly increases until a salary of at least $2,400 per year is reached. There are increasing demands for veterinarians in the various departments of agriculture as veterinary inspector and for other branches of live stock work and instruction. Many cities and towns are in need of properly trained veterinarians to inspect dairies and abattoirs and to supervise the production of milk, meat and other food products. The field of veterinary surgery has only just touched the fringe of its possibilities, and offers many opportunities for the young man of worthy ambitions. The class of student desired is the young man with a high school education to meet entrance requirements and enable him to acquire a true grasp of the deeper principles of advanced theory and study.—C. D. McGilvray, V.S., President O. V. College, Toronto.

Does the Collar Fit the Horse?

Sore shoulders and sore necks on farm horses are generally caused either by collars that do not fit or by hames that are not properly adjusted.

A collar that is too long will cause sore shoulder points and is likely also to cause sores on the top of the neck. A collar that is too short or too narrow will also cause sores on different parts of the shoulder or on top of the neck. A collar that is too wide or too narrow will also cause sores on different parts of the shoulder or on top of the neck, depending on the kind and amount of work the horse is doing. Then, again, a collar that is too short and tight may cause the condition known as "sweeny" of the shoulder.

Most farm horses are at least moderately fat in the spring. In this condition the muscles about the neck and shoulders will be full and plump and it will take a rather large collar to fit. The soft condition of the horses, however, coupled with the long days of hard work, causes them to shrink in flesh rapidly, and a collar that was a good fit at the beginning of the season may be entirely unsatisfactory three or four weeks later. In some cases the collar can be made to fit by using a sweat pad, while in others a new or different collar will be required. It is better, however, to have collars that fit than to use sweat pads.

A poorly fitting collar not only starts sores but also causes the horse to fret, thus greatly reducing his efficiency. A work horse wearing a properly fitting collar is about two-thirds harnessed.

Barnet Refrigerators

Save Food Bills, Ice Bills, Doctor's Bills Worry and Work

Loss of food through souring, spoilage, decomposition, etc., amounts yearly to a sum more than sufficient to buy all the refrigerators made. Housewives who own a Barnet Refrigerator, however, do not contribute one cent to this awful waste, even in the most stifling days of summer, when it is hard to keep food fresh.

Easily perishable foods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their full, fresh flavor. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded securely from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that these refrigerators will pay for themselves in a short time through the saving in food alone!

The Barnet has eleven distinct walls! That means a slow consumption of ice—another saving. It also means lower temperature for the amount of ice consumed. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 39 degrees.

Disease germs cannot multiply in such a low temperature. And as there are no joints, crevices or cracks in which bits of food can hide away and spoil, the owner of a Barnet can rest happy in the knowledge that disease cannot attack her family through her refrigerator. She is thus free from the generally present worry about sickness, and is saved money in doctors' bills.

POINTS OF BARNET SUPERIORITY
Barnet is ventilated	Air circulates in Barnet
Foods do not taint or contaminate one another	Interior always bone dry
Has no Drain Pipe	Has eleven walls of insulation
No foul odors "	Lowest temperature for ice consumed
No breeding place for germs	Has adjustable shelves

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will in any case some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich. adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to carry women safely through the Change of Life. She says:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more and now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly woman's friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose."—Mrs. MARY LISTER, 608 Frank Street, Adrian, Mich.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand passes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms.

Those smothering spells, the dreadful hot flashes that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, those sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

GRADING UP THE FLOCK

(Experimental Farms Note.)

With the sudden decline in prices of live stock and their products, greater thought must be given our breeding work if profitable results are to be obtained. There is no branch of live stock more affected than is that of sheep raising. Not only have lamb and mutton decreased in value but wool has gone down to pre-war prices. Moreover there has been very little decrease in the cost of production. These facts are apt to cause a certain decrease in production. However, the farmer who stays by the sheep breeding industry has little to lose and every prospect of considerable gain. This will be particularly true if he makes good use of the period of low prices in culling out the poor individuals in his flock and in practicing systematic grading up by the use of pure bred sires. No matter what the condition of the market is poor live stock is a liability while good live stock is an asset to any farm.

It will not be out of place here to mention the results of grading up work in sheep conducted at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S. A grade flock was established in 1915, the ewes being just average-bred stock lacking in uniformity both in size and breeding and on the average yielding fleeces of 6.5 pounds of poor quality wool. They were bred to a pure-bred shropshire ram of fair size, good type and exceptionally well moulded. The first crop of lambs, while not very uniform, as might be expected, showed marked improvement over the original stock. The improvement in the quality of the wool was most pronounced, while the body gave a more meaty touch with a quarter well filled out. From these ewe lambs selections were made and they in turn were bred to a pure bred Shropshire ram with a little more size than the former one but equally as good in so far as fleece was concerned. The result was that in the spring of 1920 the grade flock was so improved that nearly seventy-five per cent of them might pass as pure bred. They were uniform in size and type while the average fleece was 8.45 pounds instead of 6.5 pounds (the average for the original flock), an average increase of nearly two pounds per head; moreover, over seventy-five per cent. of the wool graded medium combing. The lambs were fully fifteen pounds heavier at maturity than were the first crop dropped. The carcasses were much superior to the first crops of lambs. In fact they were sufficiently good to win first place in the group of three; first place in single one-year-olds and second place in singles under one year, against competition from all breeds at the Maritime Winter Fair in 1920.

In grading up the flock, the first step is to select the foundation ewes. They should be as uniform as possible, both in size and breeding. Select ewes that have been well grown for in the majority of cases poorly grown ewes will yield poor wool and their progeny will lack uniformity and quality of wool.

In selection of ram, one must have in mind the nature of the improvement desired. If the ewes are large and heavy and lack quality of wool, the ram should be finer boned but outstanding in fleece. If the ewes lack size and mutton qualities a ram having these characteristics should be selected. In any case the ram should be active and vigorous in order to sire lambs full of life and vigour, he should have a wide-open, bright eye, with broad nostrils, well distended, a deep chest with a well extended brisket and, above all, should be true to type of the breed selected. In grading up the average flock it is impressive to have a pure bred ram. By adopting these tactics at the present time the farmer will help develop the sheep industry of the country and at the same time increase his own profits.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Just when we are beginning to think we can make both ends meet some guy comes along and moves the ends.

Wise mothers who know the virtues of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator always have it at hand, because it proves its value.

Mrs. Blank (to laundress) — And how is your newly married daughter getting on, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown—Oh, nicely, thank you, ma'am. She finds her husband a bit dull; but then, as I tells her, the good ones are dull.

When Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to a corn it kills the roots and the callosity comes out without injury to the flesh.

Miss Perte—She was a trained cat.

An Oil Without Alcohol. — Some oils and many medicines have alcohol as a prominent ingredient. A judicious mingling of six essential oils compose Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and there is no alcohol in it, so that its effects are lasting.

"The Irish are not the only people who make metaphorical 'bulls'," a subscriber writes.

"A Missouri woman in our neighborhood said of a certain man with whom her husband had had a difference of opinion: 'He's the biggest snake in the grass that ever stood on two legs'."

Youthful caddies are famous for their sage or cynical observations. On one occasion a stranger asked one of them: "What is considered a good score on these links?"

"Well, sir," replied the youngster solemnly, "most of the guys I see tries to do it in as few stokes as they can, but it ain't rally takes some more."

The Oil of Power.—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil that it will cure every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learnt by experience.

A Chinese pupil in a history class, according ot a correspondent, asked her teacher how Louis XIV. could marry the Netherlands. The bewildered teacher inquired what she meant, and the child read from the text-book: "Louis XIV. claimed the Netherlands for his wife."

Miller's Worm Powders will not only expel worms from the system but will induce healthful conditions of the system under which worms can no longer thrive. Worms keep a child in a continual state of restlessness and pain, and there can be no comfort for the little one until the cause of suffering be removed, which can be easily done by the use of these powders, which are very effective.

"Prof. Diggs seems to have a profound knowledge of ancient history." "He lives in the past."

"Does he never take any interest in affairs of the present?"

"Not unless it's forced upon him, but I've seen an irate traffic policeman awaken him to the stern realities of modern life."

There is an old farmer in one of our suburbs who is noted for saying quaint and unexpected things. One day last fall he delivered a couple of dressed birds to a customer, who remarked, "I should think Mr. Brown, you'd simply hate to chop off the heads of those innocent chickens."

"You're right, ma'am," he said, "and so I never do it. I manage to get around it."

"Get around it, how?" the housewife asked with eager interest.

"Well, you see, ma'am," replied the farmer, "what I does is chop the chickens off the heads."

The farmer paused, open mouthed in front of the fire station.

"D'ye have many fires in this town?" he asked.

"Pretty often," replied a fireman.

"Ever try to see how quick you can turn out?" said the inquirer.

Just then the alarm was sounded, and in a moment the men rushed to their posts, the doors flew open and the horses were prancing down the street.

"Gosh," said the farmer, "there ain't many fellers who would go to such a lot of trouble to show a feller what they can do!"

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

HE KNEW WHO CRACKED SAFE

Log-Hauler's Suspicions Basis of Good Joke on One Popular Indianapolis Citizen.

The return of Major Fred Bates Johnson to civilian life in Indianapolis recalls a story about him that has been bottled up long enough.

In the days before he was a major or a captain, or even a private, he used to go down to Salem for week-end visits with Walter Crim, particularly in the seasons when the strawberry or the fried chicken or the sassafras crop was ripe. His comings were frequently, if not often, unannounced, but he knew all the signs and pass words into Crim's office and lumber yard, and he would go in and wait for the coming of one or the other member of the firm, or telephone to see whether there was room for him up "at the shack."

One Saturday morning he came in in this way, and it happened that while he was down on his knees trying to put back a roller that had slipped from the legs of one of the office chairs a log-hauler arrived on the scene. Being of an inquisitive disposition, the log-hauler tried to find out what a stranger was doing down on his knees in Crim's office, but as all who know Major Johnson will easily believe, the information which he received was not wholly informative.

Early Monday morning, as soon as the news of the robbery became known, the log-hadler came rushing down to the lumber yard.

"Say," he called, excitedly, "I can tell you who did that! There was an awful suspicious looking fellow in here Saturday morning when nobody was around, a little chap with yellow hair and great big glasses. I'll bet he was the guy that cracked 'er." But the informant left the office somewhat crestfallen when he was told, in no uncertain language, just who that "suspicious-looking fellow" was.—Indianapolis News.

HOW INDIANS FIGHT "FLU"

Heroic Remedy Which Unfortunately Does Not Always Seem to Have The Desired Effect.

While Americans of convention and medical knowledge are bundling themselves up and conducting a civilized fight against influenza throughout the nation, other Americans are discarding convention and clothing for the same purpose and where homes of men are far apart.

On the Flathead reservation in Montana, when a descendant of warriors feels the symptoms coming on he dons feets it to his tepee. He grunts terse orders and a squaw squats before the fire and hashes up a concoction in a five-gallon can, which is a brew of balsam fir boughs mixed with one pint of more or less illegitimate whisky.

Then he sputters to the "sweating tepee." A large vessel of water is placed in the center of the rag house and into the vessel are dropped red-hot stones. The medicine is then ready. The Indian who sneezed drinks the brew, inhales the steam, whoops with gusto and raves for the green.

Neither the ward nor the government has anything on him as he plunges into the cold creek water. He crawls out, dripping, shivering and "cured." The funeral usually is held on the following day.

Monument to Mrs. Eddy.

A pyramid of granite, weighing approximately seventy-five tons, has been placed on the old Mark Baker farm at Bow, N. H., as a memorial to Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, says New York Evening Post. The block was quarried at North Concord, and is said to be the largest ever cut. In the rough it weighed more than 100 tons.

It will be anchored on a concrete base on the Bow plateau overlooking the Merrimac valley, and will measure seven feet nine inches in height, including the base. The base is ten feet square. The pyramid is placed in exact orientation.

Four bronze tablets affixed to each face of the pyramid bear suitable inscriptions.

Balkan Whiskers.

Prof. Clive Day of Yale, who is a specialist on the Balkans, said in a recent interview:

"There is a Balkan story in praise of cleanliness. The scene is a brigand's camp.

"'That prisoner there,' said a brigand, pointing his knife at a young Turkish captive, 'he combs his whiskers every morning.'

"The other brigands listened in astonishment and the captain said:

"'I don't see how the fellow stands it. Why, I only comb my whiskers once a month, and then it nearly pulls my chin off.'"

Sentry Box on His Farm.

A Cook county farmer whose farm is not far from Chicago has built a sentry house in the corner of his place from which he can see what is going on near any part of the farm. He occupies the upper room every night and, aided by a dog, knows when anyone is sneaking around the premises. The lower part of the sentry house he uses as a workshop. A row of windows in the upper part gives him a wide view of all the surrounding country. Except for these precautionary measures, he says, stragglers from the city may steal him poor or by carelessness set fire to the farm buildings.—Capper's Weekly.

Mrs. Blank (to laundress) — And how is your newly married daughter getting on, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown—Oh, nicely, thank you, ma'am. She finds her husband a bit dull; but then, as I tells her, the good ones are dull.

In the days before he was a major or a captain, or even a private, he used to go down to Salem for week-end visits with Walter Crim, particularly in the seasons when the strawberry or the fried chicken or the sassafras crop was ripe. His comings were frequently, if not often, unannounced, but he knew all the sights and pass words into Crim's office and lumber yard, and he would go in and wait for the coming of one or the other member of the firm, or telephone to see whether there was room for him up "at the shack."

One Saturday morning he came in in this way, and it happened that while he was down on his knees trying to put back a roller that had slipped from the legs of one of the office chairs a log-hauler arrived on the scene. Being of an inquisitive disposition, the log-hauler tried to find out what a stranger was doing down on his knees in Crim's office, but, as all who know Major Johnson will easily believe, the information which he received was not wholly satisfactory.

Early Monday morning, as soon as the news of the robbery became known, the log-hauler came rushing down to the lumber yard.

"Say," he called, excitedly, "I can tell you who did that! There was an awful suspicious looking fellow in here Saturday morning when nobody was around, a little chap with yellow hair and great big glasses. I'll bet he was the guy that cracked 'er." But the informant left the office somewhat crestfallen when he was told, in no uncertain language, just who that "suspicious-looking fellow" was.—Indianapolis News.

HOW INDIANS FIGHT "FLU"

Heroic Remedy Which Unfortunately Does Not Always Seem to Have The Desired Effect.

While Americans of convention and medical knowledge are bundling themselves up and conducting a civilized fight against influenza throughout the nation, other Americans are discarding convention and clothing for the same purpose and here homes of birch are for apart.

On the Flathead reservation in Montana when a descendant of Sitting Bull feels the symptoms coming on he flat-foots it to his tepee. He grunts terse orders and a squaw squats before the fire and hushes up a concoction in a five-gallon can, which is a brew of balsam fir boughs mixed with some pint of more or less illegitimate whisky.

Then he summers to the "sweating tepee." A large vessel of water is placed in the center of the rug house and into the vessel are dropped red-hot stones. The medicine is then ready. The Indian who sneezed drinks the brew, inhales the steam, sweats with gusto and races for the creek.

Neither the ward nor the government has anything on him as he plunges into the cold creek water. He crawls out, dripping, shivering and "cured." The funeral usually is held on the following day.

Monument to Mrs. Eddy.

A pyramid of granite, weighing approximately seventy-five tons, has been placed on the old Mark Baker farm at Bow, N. H., as a memorial to Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, says New York Evening Post. The block was quarried at North Concord, and is said to be the largest ever cut. In the rough it weighed more than 100 tons.

It will be anchored on a concrete base on the Bow platform overlooking the Merrimac valley, and will measure seven feet nine inches in height, including the base. The base is ten feet square. The pyramid is placed in exact orientation, east.

Four bronze tablets affixed to each face of the pyramid bear suitable inscriptions.

Balkan Whiskers.

Prof. Clive Day of Yale, who is a specialist on the Balkans, said in a recent interview:

"There is a Balkan story in praise of cleanliness. The scene is a brigand's camp.

"That prisoner there," said a brigand, pointing his knife at a young Turkish captive, he combs his whiskers every morning.'

"The other brigands listened in astonishment and the captain said:

"'I don't see how the fellow stands it. Why, I only comb my whiskers once a month, and then it nearly pulls my chin off.'"

Sentry Box on His Farm.

A Cook county farmer whose farm is not far from Chicago has built a sentry house in the corner of his place from which he can see what is going on near any part of the farm. He occupies the upper room every night and, aided by a dog, knows when anyone is sneaking around the premises. The lower part of the sentry house he uses as a workshop. A row of windows in the upper part gives him a wide view of all the surrounding country. Except for these precautionary measures, he says, stragglers from the city would steal him poor or by carelessness set fire to the farm buildings.—Capper's Weekly.

Mrs. Blank (to laundress) — And how is your newly married daughter getting on, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown—Oh, nicely, thank you, ma'am. She finds her husband a bit dull; but then, as I tells her, the good ones are dull.

PEDRO MIGUEL CHILDREN FAST LEARNING TO SWIM

Fifteen children of Pedro Miguel will receive certificates as a reward for successfully learning to swim and passing the prescribed tests of Homer Baker, former champion runner of international repute, who has recently been added to the role of physical directors with the Bureau of Clubs and Playgrounds.

Baker won his first prize in a swimming race and he is a firm believer that every child should know how to swim. Forty-one school children in Pedro Miguel are still unable to swim, but Baker says he'll have them all swimming soon.

The Pedro Miguel children have adopted the slogan: "every Pedro Miguel child a swimmer", and they are trying to make good with a will. They are handicapped because of not having a swimming pool, the children's wading pool being the only available means for elementary lessons until Baker is able to take them for advanced lessons in the pond back of the clubhouse.

The children winning certificates of merits have to pass the following tests: Execute "Dead man's float"—floating with head down in water; hold head under the water several seconds; and swim several yards with breast stroke and head above water. Children are not eligible for tests until they prove to physical, director that they were unable to swim prior to taking lessons.

The successful children are: Ada Jackson; Elloise Willson; Laura Jane Morgan; Amy Doerer; Jimmy Chyhowitch; Lawrence Evans; Dorothy Brown; Ina Gweedle, John Lattimore; Ella Hardwick; Alberta Mead; Fred Mead; Mabel Sanders; Frances Holscound; Dick Stoudnor.

Baker's new classes will be divided in four parts, 11 children in each class. "If people of Pedro Miguel ever get that pool they are after there will surely be amphibians there to patronize it," he says.—Pedro Miguel, Panama, "Times".

"I want to buy a make-up box," said the young married man.

"A what?" asked the confectioner echoed.

"Make-up box."

"I mean a box of chocolates to take home to my wife. I promised to be home three hours ago."

BETHEL.

During the past few weeks a number of Camden East residents have been enjoying Varty Lake breezes.—In the early hours of Sunday morning we were favored with some rain following heavy thunder and lightning.—Miss Emma McWilliams returned home, after spending Miss Isabella Jeffrey, Glenvale, a visit.— Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Allen spent Sunday at Mr. William Allen's, Moscow.—Mr. and Mrs. Alkenbrack spent Sunday at Mr. Courtland Snider's, Odessa.—Mr. Hutton and family, Sharbot Lake, at Mr. Jay Hamilton's on Sunday.—A number from here attended the variety shower at the home of Mr. T. Hyland, Bickrell's Corners, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bateman.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Hadley, of Stirling, paid a flying visit to W. McWilliams' on Thursday night.

ENTERPRISE.

We are having fine cool weather, almost frost at night, but dry.—The baseball match between Yarker juniors and Enterprise juniors was in favor of Enterprise. The match played at Varty Lake between Yarker seniors and Enterprise seniors was in favor of Enterprise, score being Yarker 11, Enterprise 15.—Mrs. M. Dunseitte, of St. Mary's, is visiting her uncle, E. Fenwick. —Rev. J. Robeson is spending a few days at Mr. Sidney Wagar's camp at Shipagaw Lake.—A number from here spent last Sunday at Beaver Lake.—In last week's correspondence it was stated that the celebration here would be held on August 13th; it should have been on the 17th.—Mr. Clayton Brown and family are camping on Thirteen Island Lake.—Mr. Washington Wagar has painted his house, making a big improvement.

BASEBALL

Napanee 3, Deseronto 2.

The snappiest game of the season was staged at the Driving Park on Wednesday, August 3rd, when the Mohawk team from Deseronto met defeat at the hands of the Napanee boys. Every man was on his toes and full of "pep", with the result that there were only a few errors. The Mohawk team played steady ball and secured two runs near end of first of the game. This did not please Ray Loucks, the Napanee twirler, and someone heard him say that he intended to shut them out for the rest of the game. He did! The Deseronto boys never crossed the plate again. Stewart, on 2nd base, was on the job all the time, and Scrimshaw, behind the bat, worked like a big engineer; in fact the Napanee boys all played fast ball. They batted well, but the speedy Deseronto boys fielded real snappy and Napanee only scored one run up to the ninth innings, and then, with the score 2 to 1 in favor of Deseronto, the local boys went in and batted out two runs, winning the game by 3 to 2. Good sportsmanship ran high throughout the game, and no disputed decisions were taken without comment. The crowd was small, but after a game like the boys played and what Monday the scats will be well filled for the game with Sydenham on Wednesday, (Civic Holiday), Aug. 10th. Seating accommodation for 200 people. Support the boys and they will repay you by playing real ball.

HOUSE BUILT OF MUD AT AMHERSA ISLAND.

ERECTED NINETY YEARS AGO AND IS STILL IN GOOD CONDITION.

Amherst Island holds the secret to the solution of the housing situation in these days of the scarity of houses and high costs of building materials and labor. The secrgt is a mud house built about ninety years ago. It is in good condition and is the property of William Scott, a prominent farmer of Stella.

This house is not only remarkable for its age, but also because it is probably the only house of its kind in North America. We are accustomed to point out the log houses of the pioneers of Ontario, but for ingenuity, economy in the use of material and durability this house commands the close investigation of architects as well as the interest of the archaeologists, and students of Canadian history. Go to almost any farm along the lake shore in Ontario and if you do not see the old log house still in use as a part of a modern residence, some member of the farmer's family will show you where it stood. This mud house, however, was so well built that it is the whole residence and the casual observer cannot see anything unusual about it. It is a large well planned and well kept house.

Nobody can tell the name of the builder. Mrs. Jane (Granny) Glen, one of the oldest residents, now past eighty, states that it was built before she was born. Mr. Scott, the present owner, very kindly permitted a representative to make an inspection of the building, and gave all the information about it that he possesses. He says that it was built by an ex-British army officer who brought a builder out from Ireland for the purpose. The building is one and a half storeys, about fifty by thirty-four feet, and is located on a point near the Village of Stella. The walls, which are about twenty feet high and four feet thick, are of brick clay mixed with straw and strengthened by branches of trees that are placed lengthwise throughout the wall. The clay was dug up a short distance from the site. The plate on top of the wall is an axe-sourced timber twelve inches by twelve inches. The outside of the walls were originally plastered rough-cast but are now covered with clap boards. The door and window openings are nicely pannelled and the interior finished with lathe and plaster and trimmed with a neat moulding. There are two large brick chimneys with open fire-places. The large hip roof provides a chamber floor with room enough for three windows. The mud walls carry the entire weight of the roof, and while not as hard as modern concrete, are in a good state of preservation due to their protection from the weather. They were evidently built in a form, the clay, after being mixed with the straw, being tramped in and around saplings embedded about six inches apart. The partition walls are of the same material. Except for the roof sheeting, floors, window and door frames, doors and trim, there is no dressed lumber in the structure. The logs have been left round only the bark being removed and one side levelled with an axe. The house is visited by many people each year. A unique feature of the building is the absence of a cellar.

This remarkable house has been occupied as a residence all these years and no results have ever been made to the walls which is striking evidence of skilful construction and of the durability of the materials used. Mud houses, such as this one, are said to be common in Ireland where building materials are scarce, but owing to the supply of building material now available in Canada at comparatively moderate cost, houses such as the one described are practically unknown.

A. H. McGREER RECEIVES MORE HONORS.

Rev. A. H. McGreer, M.C., M.A., who graduated with honors and prize in modern languages in 1906, and with honors and prizes in Theology in 1909, from Trinity College, has just obtained at Oxford the B.A., with honors in Theology, and an exhibition of £50 for the next academic of year.

Mr. McGreer greatly distinguished himself in the war as Assistant Director of Chaplain Services in France. He went over with the first contingent, was present at St. Julien in April 1915, and was quick to see the need of the men in the matter of amusement. This he provided for abundantly, having both executive and musical training.

Feeling the necessity for a further course of reading before re-engaging in the work of the ministry, he became a member of Queen's College, Oxford, studying under the tutorship of the well known theologian, Mr. Streeter.

Recently, because of his desire to have another year at Oxford, Mr. McGreer declined the offer made to him by the Bishop of Montreal of a temporary appointment to Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, which is now vacant. There, as curate for the three years preceding his going overseas, he did excellent work among young men, his clubhouse being a centre of far-reaching influence.

From 1909 to 1911 he was Rector of Barrfield, near Kingston. Before matriculating at Trinity, and after leaving the Collegiate Institute at Napanee, he was in the employ of the C. P. R. at Brandon, Manitoba, where he attended St. Paul's Church, then under the care of the present Bishop of Qu'Appelle.

Mr. McGreer is the son of Mr. Charles McGreer, of Riverside, near Napanee. In 1918, some six weeks before the signing of the armistice, he was married to Miss Lee, an English lady, from the house of Admiral and Lady Markham.

AUTO BANDITS ROB FARMER NEAR KINGSTON.

A hold-up which took place on Saturday night last about three miles west of Collins Bay, by which a man named Eammes, who resides near Collins Bay, was relieved of $57.00, has just been reported to the police by the victim. Officer Hornbeck started on the case, following a couple of clues which may turn out to be important.

According to Eammes' story he was driving along the road in a buggy on Saturday night last when an auto passed him and then turned quickly across the road in front of him. Three men got out of the auto and one of them covered with a revolver while the others soon searched his pockets, taking therefrom the money he had with him. The men then left him after warning him not to spread the alarm. They hastily made away in their auto. Mr. Eammes has a good description of at least two of the men, and he believes that they will soon be landed.

GIRL RECOVERING FROM WOUNDS.

CECELIA TRYON TO TESTIFY AGAINST FATHER IN SHOOTING CASE.

Cecelia Tryon, the seventeen-year-old girl, who was shot by her father, Kenneth Tryon, at their home at Kaladar, on June 10th, is still a patient at the General Hospital, Kingston, but is getting along nicely, and it is expected that she will soon be able to give evidence in the charge against her father. The latter is still in the Napanee jail awaiting his trial. The accused is about fifty-five years of age. He has been eating and sleeping well, and does not appear to give much concern over his approaching trial.

It will be recalled that the shooting took place near the Tryon home. It appears that no person was in the immediate vicinity at the time. Neighbors, hearing the report of a rifle, rushed to the scene, and Tryon was placed under arrest by Constable George Sedore.

The bullet pierced the girl's body at her back, and penetrated the body, emerging at the right breast in a terrible wound.

BON ECHO.

Miss Catherine Proctor, well known Canadian actress, was the winner of the first prize at the Eul Marque given at the Bon Echo Inn. Miss Proctor, who was dressed as Ophelia, a part which she hopes to play on the stage some day, was the outstanding figure at the ball, which was the first of a series to be given during the season for the purpose of promoting good fellowship and a spirit of camaraderie among the guests. She was cheered by the guests and made to lead the grand march.

The costume masque party was the most colorful event of any that have ever been given by this summer resort. It presented a grand array of color and there was hardly a possession of the British Empire that failed of representation through the costumes worn by its natives, including some of those worn by the aboriginal tribes.

The men's first prize was captured by Mr. Gordon Conn, of St. Catharines. Mr. Conn, dressed as Salome, was acclaimed by the guests and judges both as having the most original and most grotesque costume of the evening. Miss Kathleen Dack, of Oriole Gardens, attired as a wood sprite from Sir J. M. Barrie's Peter Pan, won the girls' prize. Miss Dack's costume, although devised and executed at the last moment, was voted the most original and most beautiful of all worn by the younger set.

The children's prize was carried off by Teddy Campbell, the young son of Dr. J. P. Campbell, of 297 Bloor St., East, Toronto. He was dressed as Moses in the Bull Rushes. Margaret and Jean, the other Campbell children, were dressed as a fairy queen and as cupid, respectively. Mr. Hay old Sexton, Toronto, attired as a scarecrow, was awarded the comic prize.

Miss Eleanor Ross, the young daughter of Mr. Victor Ross, South Drive Toronto, dressed as a Fiji Islander, was given honorable mention. Mrs. McGillivray Knowles, dressed as the Queen of Sheba; Miss Stewart Galt, as a Turk; Mrs. Frank Bain, of Cuba, disguised as Captain Kidd; Mrs. (Dr.) Ralph Williams, of Ingersoll, as a Sicilian Bride; Mrs. Stephen B. Dawson, Toronto, as Columbine; Miss Dorothy C. J. Rogers, as a Water Sprite; Miss Avis E. McConnell, as a Gypsy Queen, and Miss MacDonnell as a Japanese Princess, were among those honorably mentioned by the judges. Among the younger set the outstanding costumes were those of Miss Gertrude McQuigg, as a Gypsy; Miss Betty Bain, as a Flower Girl; Jack and Peter Williams, as Iroquois Indians; Jamie Wingard and Helen Niles, as pirates. The screen was represented by Miss Jane Counsell, young daughter of Mr. John Counsell, Barrister, of Hamilton, who was dressed as Little Jackie Coogan and Edgar Pole, as Lillian Gish. Mr. Duncan Bell as Fatty Arbuckle, was the hit of the evening.

Among the active participants in the party were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Deroche and Miss H. Elizabeth Assetine, of Napanee.

After spending the week end at Bon Echo, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Roy, of Napanee, have just returned to their home town.

ETHEL CASSIDY.

At a dinner-party the other evening a church dignitary was attacked by a sprightly young thing, who took him to task for his contracted and acidulated views about women. "You know," she said archly, "women can do any man's job now. "How about that of an attendant in the men's Turkish bath?" flashed the Dean.

RUSSELL—FERRIS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Russell, of Carman, Manitoba, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, July 20th, when their second eldest daughter, Mabel Gertrude, was united in marriage to Mr. Ira M. Ferris, of Sperling, Manitoba, Rev. Rural Dean Longmore officiating.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of white streamers, ferns and flowers, and the wedding music was played by Miss Helen Harrison. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a dress of white satin messaline with overdress of white Georgette heavily trimmed with pearl beads. Her veil was of embroidered tulle, held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and her corsage bouquet was of maiden hair fern, pink roses and white sweet peas. They were unattended except by their flower girl, little Miss Helen Russell, sister of the bride.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served. The table was tastefully decorated with white streamers and flowers, and centered with the wedding cake. The groom's gift to the bride was a hundred dollar cheque; to the flower girl, a gold brooch, and to the pianist, a pearl ring.

The happy couple left that evening on a motor tour, the bride travelling in a pearl grey taffeta dress with hat and coat to match. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ferris will take up their residence on his farm near Sperling, Manitoba. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. T. M. Russell, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. D. R. Tucker, from Napanee, Ont.; Mrs. A. Heron, sister of the groom, and her son, of Govan, Sask; Miss Annie Houston, Mr. E. C. Houston, and Mr. L. R. Houston, of Nimpa, Manitoba, and Miss M. Tate, of Winnipeg, Man.

COSTS MONEY TO RUN ZOO

Pets of Londoners Are Really Expensive Propositions in the Feeding Line.

How much does it cost now to feed an elephant for a year? Two thousand dollars, say the officials of the London zoo. And a giraffe costs half as much. So that, with the increased prices of food, have come new problems for the keepers of menageries. The meat foods include beef, horse flesh, guinea pigs, rats, cats, mice, rabbits, frogs, snakes, fish, pigeons, ducks, sparrows, gentles, snails, ants and red liver oil. The giraffes, buffaloes and antelopes must be provided with rock salt. They are fed on oats, bran, hay, green clover, together with carrots and potatoes. The birds are the most difficult to feed satisfactorily. Flamingoes, for instance, require soaked wheat, shrimps and fish cut small. Some birds are fed largely on bullock's liver. This is cut into small cubes, then put through a mincing machine. The mince is dried in a slow oven and preserved. Another meat is usually mixed with bran or pollard. Quantities of insects have to be kept in store for the insect-eating birds. These are principally meal worms and gentles which is the polite name for meat maggots. But for some birds flies and grasshoppers are required. The monkeys require nearly as much fruit, such as bananas and apples, while the snakes must be fed on small animals, such as rabbits, mice and rats.

New Idea in Storing Coal.

The ingenious plan of storing coal in carbonic acid gas, as undertaken at Dortmund, Germany, gives the safety from spontaneous ignition of underwater storage, while the container offers the convenience of the overhead bunker. Each of the three cylindrical bunkers constructed, with a capacity of 2,500 tons, has semi-spherical top and bottom, and three filling openings at the top, with three discharging outlets at the bottom. The lower outlets are gas tight when closed, but as the carbonic acid is much heavier than air the upper openings do not require being absolutely leak proof. A grab on a structural steel tower unloads the coal from a barge. The coal is dropped into a small hopper, and then fed to a push-plate conveyor, which is so placed that it may serve in filling or emptying the three bunkers. The small amount of carbonic acid gas that leaks out in removing coal can be readily replaced.

Fun for the Girl.

One evening, coming home from the theatre on the street car with my lady friend, I stepped from the car and noticed an automobile coming up behind the car. I kept my eye on the automobile and took the elbow of my next person alighting after me, expecting it to be my friend. But watching the motor, I felt the elbow safely on the walk, and then turned my attention to her. But, to my embarrassment, who should I find myself escorting, but a great, tall man who said in the severest voice: "Thank you. I was never escorted by a young man across the street before; you are the kindest fellow I ever met." My lady friend was following up, and she gleefully saw the joke all the rest of the way home.—Exchange.

Artificial Tree for Birds.

Dr. H. H. Warren is having a concrete tree built on his lawn at West Chester, Pa., to provide homes for birds. The tree is upon a wire frame 15 feet high. Holes of different sizes will lure the birds to meet and rest. At the base of the tree will be a large concrete bath to provide the guests with running water at all times. Imitation limbs on the "tree" will give perching accommodations. But the question is, will the birds be fooled by this artificial counterfeit tree? We have seen some most elaborate and expensive bird houses empty year after year.

An excellent protection against worms can be got in Miller's Worm Powders. They render the stomach and intestines untenable to them. They heal the surfaces that have become inflamed by the attacks of the parasites and serve to restore the strength of the child that has been undermined by the draughts that the worms have made upon it, and that their expulsion is altogether healthgiving.

DIDN'T KNOW CURLING IRON

Easy to Understand That Youthful Member of Chicago Jury Was Not a Married Man.

Every man knows what a curling iron is, but does every man know whether or not a curling iron is a deadly weapon?

The question was raised in Judge Goorin's court in Chicago recently in the Otto Mathis murder trial. Otto said he stabbed his brother, Edward, when Edward attacked him with a curling iron, which he thought a dangerous weapon. The judge ruled a description of the implement was unnecessary, as everybody knew what it was.

"Sure, I know," one spectator whispered to another. "A curling iron is one of those hot things that burn your fingers when you are fussing around among the things on your wife's dressing table."

"It looks like a pair of scissors with wooden handles," said the other.

"And it's deadly, too," a woman whispered. "Maria got hers on hot the other night and the way it tilled a lot of her hair was a caution."

"Fortunately," another woman answered, "the curling iron hath no miseries that peroxide cannot cure."

Assistant State Attorney Daniel Ramsay insisted there might be single men on the jury. The judge glanced knowingly at the jurors. The youngest looked bewildered. So Judge Goorin ordered a description of the weapon supplied. The youngest juror appeared relieved when he heard what it was.

WORK FOR HIGH EXPLOSIVES

French Scientist Suggests Their Use in the Reclamation of War-Devastated Orchards.

The vigorous growth of wild plants about shell holes has suggested to M. Andre Piedallu a novel plan for quickly restoring war-devastated orchards. The vigor of the weeds is attributed partly to the flowering of the soil by the shell-fire and partly to nitrogenous substances introduced, and in the proposal to the French Academy it is considered that an ideal orchard soil could be produced by breaking up the rough surface with dynamite in such a way that fertilizing material would be driven into the soil. The fertilizer would be compressed in paper or celluloid cases around cylinders of the explosive, which would be fired by a detonating charge. Holes for the cartridges about two feet deep would be bored with a stick or iron rod, and in the spherical cavity about 30 inches deep produced by the explosion, the young tree would be placed and covered with the fertilizer-charged soil. Perhaps some of the enormous stores of high explosives left over from the war could be utilized in this way. A suggestion already made is that the United States could put to use some of its 70,000,000 or 100,000,000 tons of TNT for reclaiming arid deserts, irrigating ditches being dug and roads graded by firing trains of the explosive placed along the surface.

Dog Got the Rabbit.

Exploration of caves in South Berkshire, Eng., resulting in the discovery of stalactites and stalagmites, the white spiders weaving their webs, bats incrusted in the crystals and a subterrine brook, made Jack Newton of Lockeridge recall the day that he went rabbit hunting in the Patterson woods.

Newton's dog chased a rabbit into a cave. Jack waited outside for results. He waited two hours, called the dog, and getting no results, went home. He found the dog was at home and had the rabbit. Pat, his brother, explained:

"I was fishing on a lake not far from the shore when I heard a commotion in the water near by and was surprised to see a rabbit in the water. As I reached the spot the dog came to the surface and came after the rabbit and captured him."—New York World.

In Daddy's Heart.

At Sunday school Dorothy's teacher attempted to explain to the children about keeping their hearts clean and filled with certain desirable qualities. She urged them to think seriously about what they had in their hearts. Dorothy's hand went up. The teacher gave her permission to speak.

"My daddy has nutpicks in his heart."

Now the teacher was sufficiently interested in the psychology of the thing to go to the mother for the explanation. Dorothy had recently attended a wedding with her parents. When they were looking at the wedding presents her mother had laughingly turned to daddy and said:

"John, I wish you would open up your heart and give me a handsome set of nutpicks like these."

Plagues Not Related.

H. De Brun (Bulletin de l'Academie de Medicine), having had several years' experience in Syria with plague, including an epidemic of pneumonic plague, protests against the view that pneumonia following influenza may be related to the eastern disease. In pneumonic plague the cough is characterized by a quiet, spasmodic expiration, repeated continuously for long periods every ten to thirty seconds, and might be termed a "whispering cough."

Instead of the optimism frequently manifested on the day before death in influenza there is a distressing consciousness of impending death in the pneumonic plague patient. Nearly all cases of the latter plague end fatally.

FIT BEES FOR WINTER

Get Them in Shape for Their Long "Shut In."

Be Sure Your Queen Is a Good One—A Strong Colony and Plenty of Stores—the Next Requisites—Pay Less for Better Bulls.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

It is taken for granted that the beekeeper has introduced a vigorous Italian queen to every colony in which a failing or poor queen was found, late in July or early August. If this has been done and room provided, so that the queen could lay to capacity and the bees still store any surplus honey that might be harvested, then the beekeeper is in a fair way to winter the bees successfully. There are two other manipulations, however, which should be completed to assure successful wintering.

First, unless one has a first-class cellar, it does not pay to attempt to winter weak colonies in the cellar. Weak colonies or nuclei cannot be wintered outdoors with success at any time.

Strong colonies covering less than three frames, on both sides, should be united with other colonies. The best way to unite is to place a sheet of newspaper between each brood-chamber and allow the bees to unite without any further attention, except that in a week or two the paper should be removed and the bees left in one hive-body.

The second manipulation, and equally important, with having a good queen and a strong colony, is the question of the winter food supply. Beekeepers who are willing to take an investment of not less than fifty pounds of first-class honey per colony, are the beekeepers who next season secure the large crops of honey. If the fall honey is not of known quality, then it will be better to feed each colony from ten to fifteen pounds of sugar syrup, mixed in the proportion of two of sugar to one of water. The sugar should be thoroughly dissolved, but the syrup must not be burned. This syrup should be fed while quite warm in an inverted Mason fruit jar or honey pail with perforated cover; and if fed inside an empty super, with the entrance reduced, there will be very little fear of robbing. Feed the warm syrup in the evening and before the end of September. Then if the colony has 50 pounds of natural stores and is headed by a good Italian queen, this colony will then be in shape to either go into outdoor wintering or to place in the cellar.

In the winter of 1919-1920 the winter loss throughout Ontario was over 50 per cent., yet even in a winter when the loss was so heavy, many successful beekeepers wintered practically without loss. It is unnecessary to have a heavy winter loss in bees, provided the beekeepers will give the same thought and attention to the apiary, which successful business men in all walks of life give to their individual business.

The office of the Provincial Apiarist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is always ready to assist beekeepers in any way to make beekeeping more successful. Consult him, if in doubt.—F. Eric Millen, O. A. College, Guelph.

Paying Less for Better Bulls.

A survey recently made in connection with the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture shows a general ratio of one bull to every 18.9 cows. Experience, however, in Pennsylvania, the state which leads in the number of bull associations, shows that 92 bulls are sufficient for the 5,504 cows belonging to members of the bull associations, or an average of about one bull for every 60 cows. These figures are taken from the bull association directory recently issued by the Dairy Division, United States Department of Agriculture.

If the members of these associations owned their bulls individually, at the usual ratio of one bull for every 18.9 cows, they would need 296 bulls instead of 92. Yet the 92 bulls give the required service as effectively as the 296 would do, and in fact better, because the resulting offspring are better. The association bulls are of better quality than the ordinary run of sires privately owned, and their owners are apt to be better-producing cows.

Even this does not tell the whole story. After an individually owned sire has been used for about two years it is usually necessary to get a new one. In eight years, therefore, those Pennsylvania farmers, if they owned their bulls separately would have to provide themselves with four times 296 bulls, or 1,184; whereas in the bull associations at the end of two years they simply moved each bull to another block. The original 92 bulls, if they all live and do well, can be used for the whole eight years. There is quite a difference between the cost of 92 bulls and that of 1,184, to say nothing of the difference in their usefulness.

The members of bull associations sometimes pay less and always receive more for their money than cow owners who go it alone.

Clean Threshing Saves Wheat.

Members of the farm bureau of Kittson County, Minn., last year saved $77,000, or about $500 to each threshing machine, by using tight-bottom racks, canvas under the feeder, cleaning up when required and after each setting of the machine during the threshing season. A conservative estimate of the saving by clean threshing in this county was 27,500 bushels of wheat, 20,400 bushels of oats, and 10,000 bushels of barley.

Salvation Army Bandsman's Testimonial in Favor of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 32 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly grateful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all". It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits, that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and see the results.

50c. and $1.00 a box at Hooper's Drug Store, Napanee.

Statistics have just been published proving that the great majority of run-away husbands are blue-eyed. When a husband has black eyes, it is generally a sign that he must put up a fight instead of running away.

Responsibilities.

Thinking of others does not refrain folks from respecting their own responsibilities. The world wouldn't get along very fast if all our time and thoughts were given to others. To get along and have the means to be helpful to others we must do considerable for ourselves. Our job must bring enough returns to the boss to pay him for the trouble of bothering with us. Our home life touches others and we must see to it that our contact leaves them happier for the touch. Life is more than mere routine however much it may seem to be cast in a one piece mold. It's our thoughts for others that lift us out of the humdrum and make life worth living. There's no limit to the enthusiasm of life when concern for another's welfare gets hold of you.

Envied the Tailor.

When Douglas Fairbanks was a little boy, five years old, he lived in Denver, and he was always sent to bed much earlier than he wanted to go. Opposite his bedroom was a tailor shop where the lights burned brightly a long time after Douglas went to sleep. He used to lie and watch the industrious tailor, and one day he surprised his father by saying that he knew what he wanted to do when he grew up; he wanted be a tailor.

"Why?" said his father.

"Because," replied Douglas, "I could sit up then as long as I wanted to—all night if I pleased."

CARNIVAL OF JOY

Turkish Capital the Most "Wide Open" of Cities.

Nominally Under Allied Control, There Is No Interference With Any Form of Revelry That Could Be Thought Of.

Constantinople now combines all the frenzy of a new mining camp and a world seaport. It's "the end of the trail" for all the Balkan states and everything west of Suez on the Mediterranean.

Caucasian oil men, Donetz Basin miners, Anatolian sheep and cattle kings, Greek war millionaires and Syrian merchants rush to Constantinople to pop champagne in proof of their success. Soldiers and sailors of half a dozen nations swell the population and add to the cosmopolitan aspect of the streets and pleasure resorts.

Under allied occupation the city has become a wilder place than it was under the Turks. There are no civil courts. None of the allies desire to assume responsibility for reforms other than are necessary to safeguard life. Italian, French and British troops co-operate with the Turkish gendarmerie in keeping order. But everybody's job is nobody's job. Consequently Constantinople is a very wide-open town. Midnight closing is enforced pretty generally, but until that hour there is little interference with dance halls, gambling dives and redlight districts unless murder is committed.

Leadville and Goldfield in their dizziest days never offered anything wilder than certain sections of Constantinople, where jazz bands vie with Neapolitan orchestras and tsigane singers in their efforts to attract wayfarers into the beer tunnels and dance halls filled to overflowing with the painted women of many nationalities.

Half a dozen summer gardens offer vaudeville programs which attract thousands of persons every night who seem to have far more interest in the drinks and restless crowds than in the Russian prima donnas and bare-legged dancers whose art is usually as meager as their attire. Turks, Arabs, Bedouins, Egyptians and Assyrians, gorgeously clad in native costumes, elbow their way among Cossacks and Georgians whose uniforms are far more brilliant than their recent military achievements.

Coal-black French colonials, resplendent in red fezzes and green khaki, mingle with Sikhs and Punjabi, whose long hair and many-colored headdresses are wrapped in somber brown. Civilians, soldiers and sailors from all parts of the world are hopelessly jumbled together in Constantinople crowds and are so busy looking at each other that tenors from the Petrograd opera, naughty French singers from Montmartre and Austrian strong-jawed ladies claim but slight attention.

Constantinople itself is a grand pageant every day. Its main thoroughfare, Rue Grand Pera, is more fascinating than any license which producers ever can hope to stage. Camel-drivers lead their patient trains, burdened with charcoal, through the maze of street cars, shrieking army motor-cars and carriages, piloted over the rough paving at breakneck speed by Turkish hostlers who crack their whips and shout constantly at high pitch to pedestrians who venture into the narrow sidewalks.

Turks mounted on tiny donkeys move indifferently through this maelstrom. Occasionally Turkish peasants drive a flock of sheep or turkeys into this swirl of traffic and scores more draw heavy carts along at a pace so slow that drivers of military caissons curse them in 10 languages.

The narrow, crooked streets of Constantinople are ill-suited to motor traffic and the slow-going fatalistic Turk is little inclined to change his pace. Consequently there are many accidents and the indifference with which foreign military cars are driven has done much to intensify Turkish hatred of foreigners.

Few American Linguists.

According to the Interchurch World movement, thirty-two different languages besides English are spoken in New York city by some 1,700,000 people; but, in spite of our polyglot city populations, native Americans are seldom gifted as linguists. The lines of chas distinction in America, although elastic, are more of a handicap in that respect than they are in Europe. The European who lives near an international boundary comes frequently into contact with foreigners of his own social and intellectual interests, but most Americans see little of the foreigners among our people and either inherit nor get by constant practice a facility in using other tongues. —Youth's Companion.

Gathering Up the Wreckage.

The uprising of wrecking companies since the war is one of the curiosities of the time. These concerns buy anything that is discarded for the purpose for which it was constructed; from a small shack to a battleship or a locomotive or even an entire railroad. Companies which conduct such business on a large scale are said to make immense profits and there is just sufficient element of chance to make it more or less exciting. It is simply the business of the old junk man glorified and enlarged in a way to produce fortunes in the reclaiming of waste material and the salvaging of what is considered valueless.

At the grave of the departed the old darky pastor stood, hat in hand. Looking into the abyss he delivered himself of the funeral oration:

"Samuel Johnson," he said, sorrowfully, "you is gone. An' we hope you is gone where we 'spects you ain't."

WORLD ABOUT THE SAME

Today, as in Ages Past, There Are Those Who Seek the Simple, "Old-Fashioned" Girl.

A London correspondent, remarks the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, discovers a rollicking satire upon people of the day, that is of those of us who gravely shake our heads as we contemplate the manners and dress of many young folk of the day. The correspondent finds that in the Saturday Review of fifty years ago the following article was printed.

"The girl of the period is a creature who dyes her hair and paints her face as the first articles of her personal religion—a creature whose sole idea of life is fun, whose sole aim is unbounded luxury, and whose dress is the chief object of such thought and intellect as she possesses. Her main endeavor is to outlive her neighbors in the extravagance of fashion. If a sensible fashion lifts the gown out of the mud she raises hers.

"All men whose opinion is worth having prefer the simple and genuine girl of the past, with her tender little ways and pretty bashful modesties, to this loud and rampant modernization, with her false red hair and painted skin, talking slang as glibly as a man and by preference leading the conversation to doubtful subjects. • • • All we can do is to wait patiently until the national madness has passed out and women have come back again to the old English idea."

Not a few writers and private talkers have said things to the same effect as the foregoing. We hear it every day and hearing it we may accept it as a scathing indictment of the new girl, just as our forbears accepted the foregoing article as a just indictment of the girls of a half century ago.

Headstrong, forward and disobedient young people were known long before the time of the Review's editorial. Readers of the "Last Days of Pompeii," may recall the lamentations of a chief character that young people of his time were not as reverent and respectful in the presence of their elders as they had been in a former generation. Neither were they as religious.

Certain it is that the Apostle Paul, in writing those epistolary messages thought it pertinent and timely to remind women not to be too forward in church. As it appeared to him it was necessary for him, as an authority to repress women, warning them specifically against bobbing their hair.

It seems that the rose has always stopped to ask now and then: "What has become of the old-fashioned girl who" etc.

De Soto's Route.

Council Bend, Miss., has taken from Memphis, Tenn., the honor of being the point at which De Soto first saw the majestic Mississippi. Dr. J. C. Rowland of Jackson, Miss., who has traced De Soto's route clear across Mississippi, guided by the narratives of De Soto's companions, in which the topography of the country was fully described, has located the great Indian mound at which the adventurous explorer and his followers camped the night before they saw the Father of Waters. On this, the highest Indian mound in Mississippi, a monument will be erected to De Soto.

Doctor Rowland is convinced that De Soto first beheld the great river at Council Bend. The explorer's famous trip from the point where Tampa, Fla., is now located, was made in 1541, 24 years before St. Augustine was founded, and 75 before the Mayflower completed its first voyage.

Trying to Economize.

"I visited a cash-and-carry grocery. Their leader for the day was rice. I bought five pounds and several other articles and asked to have extra paper on the rice, but it was refused.

Struggling up the high steps of a street car with my packages, I stumbled; something pierced the bag of rice, and it began to ooze and fall. Of course the car was crowded, and as I squeezed in it suddenly lurched ahead. I made a frantic effort to save my rice, letting everything else go.

Kindly fellow passengers tried to help, hiding their laughter as best they could. I had the misery of being commiserated and laughed at, besides losing all my rice, and this has finished my efforts at trying to beat the old high cost of living.—Chicago Tribune.

The Sun Volcano.

Not long ago at the Yerkes Observatory an eruption was observed (and photographed) on the rim of the sun which threw up material to a height of 500,000 miles. One cloud of it, which appeared as if floating detached, was reckoned to have some thousands of times the volume of the earth.

We are accustomed to regard great volcanic explosions on the earth as the most appalling of natural phenomena, but they are feeble and trifling disturbances compared with the outbursts which are continually taking place all over the body of the sun.—Kansas City Star.

Has Proper Regard for Rooster.

Charles Hamilton, of Litchfield, Me., thinks so much of a White Wyandotte rooster that he considers him to roost nights on the footboard of his bed and feeds him every little while. This is because Mr. Collins is an elderly man, and he has the excited crowing of the rooster, which had somehow got into the house, and could when he got up in the morning that the house was on fire. Anything that that rooster wants hereafter he must have.

Light pruning in fall is permissible, but heavy pruning is dangerous and likely to result in serious damage from winter killing, especially if the preceding winter is severe. The injury is caused by the sap out of the tree cells and may be prevented by covering all wounds of any size with a good covering of paint made from pure lead and oil. Do not use prepared paints, as these contain injurious driers or turpentine driers. To make an effective covering it will be necessary to add lead than is contained in ready mixed paints, because one coat will not prevent checking and drying of green wood. Coal tar bodies an excellent wound covering and is easily applied.

This matter of covering wounds made in fall or early winter is frequently slighted by orchard men, but the writer has seen such serious damage result from neglect of this precaution that he feels justified in warning fruit growers with regard to the practice. In experimental trials in the Collver apple orchard, varieties so hardy as Duchess of Oldenburg, Wolf River, Snow and Scott's Winter have suffered very serious injury following November pruning with the cuts left unprotected. The wounds dry out around the edges and by spring the dead area is greatly enlarged. Frequently extending down the trunk of branch for a foot or more. The dead bark comes away later leaving a large dead area, detrimental to the parts above and certain also to decay later.

It is not likely that injury would follow the cutting of branches below an inch in size unless many were removed and these probably would be no necessity for covering such wounds. All above this size, however, should be thoroughly protected. —J. W. Crow, O. A. College, Guelph.

Barberry Hedge Spoiled Ten Crops.

Hundreds and hundreds of instances can be cited to show that the common barberry is the most important factor in the spread of rust in northwest states. In a Government bulletin on rust and barberry, Dr. C. E. Stakman of Minnesota University Farm relates the experience of a farmer at Crystal Bay, Lake Minnetonka, Minn., who had a barberry hedge of 638 bushes. He had tried to grow oats on his farm for ten years, but each year the black stem rust destroyed almost all the grain. Then one spring he destroyed the hedge before the bushes had become rusted. Ten days before the harvest the field was examined thoroughly and no stem rust could be found. The yield and quality proved to be excellent. It was the first time in ten years that a crop had been grown successfully on that farm. Every land owner should begin early in the spring to destroy the barberry for the protection of grain crops.

A HERO OF LEGEND

King Arthur Never Proved to Be Real Personage.

Early Saxon Chronicles Shed No Light on His Personality—His Burial Place Found by the Abbot of Glastonbury.

The story of King Arthur, rich in the poetic element, is weak on the historical side. That a hero-king, answering in some respects to the descriptions in British ballads, had existence, is possible, for it seems unlikely that so many associations should cling around an utterly mythical personage. Yet he has no mention whatever in the Saxon Chronicle, whose pages are rich in allusions to British kings struggling for freedom against the Anglo-Saxon invaders; and our main authority on the subject is the account written, six centuries later than the reputed period of King Arthur, by Geoffry of Monmouth, whose narratives no one can accept seriously as truth. The legends, collected and handed down to us by Sir Thomas Malory, a writer of Edward IV's reign, were printed by Caxton under the title of "Morte d'Arthur."

When Henry II, in 1177, was in Wales, receiving the submission of the princes, he chanced to hear the deeds of King Arthur sung by the Welsh, and was told the exact place of the hero's burial at Glastonbury. Some years afterward the abbot of Glastonbury, the king's nephew, searched for the body, with what result let Giraldus Cambrensis, described in Camden's "Britannia," in an eye witness, tell us:

"At the depth of seven feet a huge, broad stone, whereon a leaden cross was fastened on the part that lay downward, in rude and barbarous letters, this inscription in Latin was written upon that side of the head that was toward the stone, 'Here lies buried King Arthur in Avalon Isle.' Digging deeper they discovered his body in the trunk of a tree, the bones of great bigness. His Queen Guinivere, a lady of passing beauty, by her, whose tresses of hair, in color like gold, seemed perfect and whole until it was touched, but then showed ready to be dust."

When Glastonbury abbey was made a ruin in Henry VIII's time the remains of King Arthur and his queen were ruthlessly swept away. It was on Cadbury hill, in Somerset, the famed Camelot of the Arthurian romance, that the British king prepared for his great stand against the Anglo-Saxon foes, and the name of Arthur still clings to the locality in "Arthur's Lane" and "Arthur's Well." In the battle, almost the only event of his life to be regarded as historical fact, Arthur seems to have come out of the darkness by which he is surrounded. The Welsh songs are full of tributes to his valor in the fight with Cedric, the Saxon king; "The Saxon Chronicle," unwilling, perhaps, to reveal a Saxon defeat, is silent upon the subject, but the result for a time was a crushing blow to the invaders, and Cedric was unable to push his way into Somerset.—London Telegraph.

Newspapers in Spain.

The Spanish newspaper presents a problem to the American editor who contemplates an advertising campaign in the Spanish press. There are 22 newspapers printed in Madrid, but as a rule these newspapers are supported by politics, religious or industrial groups, and the advertiser is neither the source of income nor, as sometimes happens in consequence, the object of deferential subjugation that he is in the United States.

The editor edits for a public more interesting in beef prices than publisher. One must remember also that of the approximate 22,000,000 people in Spain, more than half are illiterate and read no newspapers at all. No evening paper issues a Sunday edition, and no morning paper comes out on Monday, for Sunday work of any kind in newspaper plants is forbidden by the government.

Statue to Balboa.

Panama is to have a statue of Balboa, the discoverer of the Pacific ocean. The contract for the work has already been signed at Madrid, and the announcement has been intrusted to the sculptor Benlliure. That there is to be no undue haste in the matter is signified by the fact that the contract does not call for the delivery of the monument until ten years after the signing of the agreement. The opportunities for a most effective piece of work are many, with the ignorance of the man overlooking the ocean of his discovery. The grandiose setting would seem to call for a grandiose effort to dominate the scene, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The French do not regard airplanes as profitable for use in connection with the Sahara desert; it costs too much to move the mineral wealth of the territory by airplane when pack mules and camels can be used instead. But to supplement the desert police and to maintain French prestige military aviators are well worth while. The Arab tribes have deep respect for them and take to their heels whenever an airplane arrives.

FALL BEE MANAGEMENT

Handling the Little Workers at the Summer's Close.

The Queen Is the Most Important Factor—Don't Keep a "Scrub"—Have an Abundance of Stores—Pastures Pay In Pork Production.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Many beekeepers have visions of a two-hundred-pound crop of honey per colony from many colonies, but it must be admitted that very few beekeepers really secure a crop of that proportion. This is not due to poor seasons in many cases, but almost entirely due to neglect or lack of preparation on the part of the beekeeper.

It makes little difference how well colonies of bees are managed, unless certain conditions are met, less that the colonies can take advantage of the management bestowed on them. For instance, if the queen in the colony is failing or of poor quality, then it is an impossibility to secure a crop of honey from that colony. Again it is a waste of money and time to introduce a vigorous Italian queen to a colony of bees and then fail to give the queen an opportunity to lay a large number of eggs, so that the colony will go into winter headquarters in prime condition.

Beekeepers who have ten or more colonies of bees, know that certain colonies will return them crops three times as large as the average colony in the apiary. Yet few beekeepers appreciate that in most cases the larger crop of honey is due largely to the work of a good queen. There is just as much difference in the value of queen bees, as there is between scrub live stock and pure-bred live stock, and beekeepers can make few better investments than the securing of choice, young, Italian queens to head the colonies. The very best time to re-queen is from the middle of July to the middle of August.

The giving of a young queen means young bees for winter, consequently less loss in winter and very much stronger colonies in the spring of the year, and unless the beekeeper can have strong colonies in time for the main honey flow, his colonies will return him but little profit that season. After the queen has been safely introduced, the beekeeper should be sure to give the colony sufficient room, both for egg laying and for the storage of any surplus honey which might be harvested. Sometimes one super is sufficient, while in some locations and seasons, two or more supers may be necessary. The beekeeper himself must be the judge, as he knows his location and the season and must be guided accordingly.

The introduction of a good vigorous Italian queen and the giving of room both for brood-rearing and honey storage will also be very valuable in the complete control of one of our most serious brood diseases of bees, viz., European foulbrood. With a vigorous Italian queen and an abundance of stores, and plenty strong colonies, and even quantity European foulbrood will be no danger. It would pay the beekeeper to keep one-half the number of colonies ordinarily kept, and give them every opportunity to do good work, and if this is done the crop per colony would be just as large as from twice the number of colonies poorly managed.

Italian queens can be secured from any reliable queen-breeder. A full particulars of which can be obtained from the Provincial Apiarist, Ontario Agricultural College, or Dr. Spencer Pric Miller, O. A. College, Guelph.

Pastures Pay In Pork Production.

"One of the best means of cutting the cost of producing pork," says E. F. Percival, who is in charge of the hog section at Minnesota University Farm, "is to use good pasture and forage crops. This practice is advisable whether grain be high in price or cheap, there is a decided saving in either case. Pigs getting green feed are more thrifty than those raised in dry lots, consequently gain faster and make pork at a lower cost.

Results obtained at the farm prove beyond question that it is a short-sighted policy to neglect to grow good forage crops when pigs are being raised. Blue grass and other pasture's furnish good feed in the spring, but during summer are little better than an exercising ground. Some one crop, or more than one, should be grown to give fresh succulent green feed in summer and early fall. Dwarf Essex rape, alfalfa and red clover are the outstanding top notch forage crops in the corn belt. Of these rape is by far the most suitable for Minnesota conditions. The cost of seeding is low—about five pounds of seed per acre in an average quantity—and in favorable season the crop is ready to be pastured six weeks from sowing. If grain is fed in reasonable amounts an acre of rape will carry from ten to twenty thirty growing pigs through the season.

"White hogs, and sometimes black kid red ones, blister when running in rape. There is nothing peculiar about this crop which causes blistering; the trouble results simply from the combination of moisture, transferred from the rape to the hog, and a hot sun. By keeping pigs out of the rape patch until the dew or rain has evaporated from the leaves of the plants, blistering can be prevented.

"Rape can be sown as early in the spring as the ground can be worked. Even a small patch of rape will go a long way in saving grain in raising pigs."

Tomatoes are ripening, and it is necessary to apply small quantities of nitrate of soda around each plant to hasten them.

The Fire Ranger and His Job

DOTTED over 100,000,000 acres of forest, 1,000 men, organized in the employ of the Government of Ontario, are, this summer, passing back and forth over the canoe routes and along the railways, watching out for the tell-tale smoke which is the sign of fire. Regardless of hot weather, black flies, mosquitoes, discomfort, loneliness or monotony, the Fire Ranger makes his rounds, preventing, quenching or fighting fires in Ontario's forests, paying his own living and traveling expenses, and receiving $3.00 per day for his services.

All in all, the Ontario Fire Ranger is entitled to the help and co-operation of everyone. He deserves all the support the people of Ontario can give him. His work is of vital importance. Heed his warnings. Do what he asks.

Save Ontario's Forests

They're Yours

The Ontario Fire Ranger, during the danger period of the dry summer, is constantly on patrol to catch fires while they are small. He cannot prevent them starting, as a rule. He is at the mercy of all types of carelessness. Thanks to his vigilance, however, two-thirds of the forest fires in the last four years did not spread beyond five acres and of these, half did not exceed one-quarter acre.

Most of Ontario's Fire Rangers are northern woodsmen. Contrary to common belief, only five per cent. of them are students, and these are experienced Fire Rangers or returned soldiers.

Rangers travel chiefly by canoe and in pairs over a definite "beat", the length of which varies according to the degree of danger from fires.

Others travel up and down the forested railway sections on hand velocipedes, following trains to put out fires set by steam locomotives. In all, 2,100 miles of railroad are patrolled steadily all summer.

Two men devote their whole time to examining locomotives to see that screens and ashpans will not permit the escape of sparks and live coals. In the clay belt, a large force of Rangers supervise settlers' fires in land-clearing operations.

Don't blame the Fire Ranger if he asks you to be careful. I don't think he is too particular. He knows the risk. Ontario is poorer by untold millions of dollars through forest fires in the past. Help the Fire Ranger save the increasingly valuable forests that remain.

PLAIN TALK NO. 5

Dear People,—No doubt you will be a little surprised at us for our past methods of advertising; especially our old customers, for they know us well and expect something out of the ordinary. We must apologize for repetition, as business is always more than brisk at this season and calls for our efforts so urgently that we scarcely find time to eat. Now, there is a reason for our success, and let us briefly state we mean to stick to our ideals. Our leather and workmanship is, and always will be, of the very best. We work on a small margin and give satisfaction to all. As you are aware, there are several grades of leather and it is possible to have boots fixed at a very low price, but not so with us; we handle nothing inferior in quality, are best by far, so compare our work with others and be convinced. Our prompt service is also an item worthy of mention for we do everything same day as received. So all work left in the morning can be had that evening. We also carry the only unbreakable Shoe Laces in town. Don't ask for five cent laces for we would not handle them. Some good second-hand Boots for sale, cheap. Rubber Heels in a very few minutes. A By-law was introduced to strike the levy.

The By-law received its several readings, was numbered, signed, sealed, and finally passed.

Moved by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Baldwin, that this Council adjourn to meet on the first Monday in October, at 1 o'clock.

MARLBANK.

Mrs. J. Vanclief is recovering very slowly from her serious illness.—We trust the Union picnic at White Lake proved as much of a success as anticipated.—Mrs. Wm. Beveille is visiting friends in Watertown, N.Y., and vicinity.—Mrs. T. G. Hall entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. Bird on Friday to afternoon tea. Don't forget the lawn social on Saturday evening, August 6th, on the Methodist Church lawn. Think of the splendid programme given at the preceding social, and you will surely expect even better this year under the auspices of the M. E. Choir. That cake and ice cream sounds good also.

On Wednesday, July 20th, the home of Mrs. (Dr.) Maxwell, of this place, was the scene of a quiet little gathering in the form of a birthday party, given by a few of her nearest relatives, in memory of her seventy-second birthday, as follows:—Two sons, Mr. R. E. Wayte and grandson, Robbie, of North Battleford, Sask.; Mr. R. L. Maxwell, wife and two grandchildren, of Croydon, Ont.; three daughters, Lottie E., and husband, J. E. Godfrey, of Rochester, N.Y.; Annie C., and husband, T. E. Young, and three grandchildren, of Marlbank, Ont.; Amy and husband, M. F. Beckwith, and four grandchildren, also of Marlbank; granddaughter Mrs. J. Brown, and two great grandchildren, of Toronto, Ont., from whom she received several nice and useful presents, including one from her son and wife; Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Wayte, of Seneca, Cal., present in heart though not in person. Between the hours of twelve and one o'clock dinner was served by her children, in which all heartily joined in a sumptuous repast, followed by ice cream in abundance, which old and young equally enjoyed, owing to the extreme warm weather prevailing; also the excellent quality of the cream. The surprise and pleasure of being entertained by many of their children and grandchildren was almost more than the beloved mother and grandmother could bear, under her weight of seventy-two years; but soon regained herself, and after the time for refreshments had passed, all joined in a quiet little visit, reviewing old times passed together, and renewing fond memories of same until about four o'clock, when all left for their duties at home, except her son, Robbie, and daughter, Lottie, and husband, J. E. Godfrey, who stayed with her until Saturday morning, when they also returned to their homes in North Battleford, Sask., and Rochester, N.Y., hoping her birthdays be being many or few, will be none the less happy.

THEY TOOK HER LITERALLY

But Probably Musical Comedy Star Did Not Mean Just What She Threatened.

A popular musical comedy star was taking her summer vacation in a New England village this year, and good nachar, to their friend, Mrs. E. W. Petzold.—A party of young people from this vicinity and their visiting friends went to Thirty Island Lake on Monday and returned on Thursday, and report having enjoyed a very pleasant time.—We had several very heavy electric storms here last Wednesday and the lightning struck the barn on the farm of K. G. Adam and destroyed it, with all contents. The loss is a very heavy one, as he carried very little insurance, and the building contained all his this year's crop, as he had cut all his grain for fodder.

—"Let's send for Miss de Lancy and see if we can't fix it up," a committeeman suggested, and this was done.

Now, besides being good natured, Miss de Lancy is high-spirited, and rather thought that the costume which had been good enough for her to appear in for some hundreds of times in New York would do for one appearance in Hicksville.

"There is no use talking," she announced with decision, "I won't appear in that costume or nothing!"

There was a moment of horrified silence, then quick whispering among the lady delegation, and a moment later their protest against the proposed costume was withdrawn.—Philadelphia Ledger.

—"Two and two never make more than four," declared a politician at a meeting.

"Yes, they do!" exclaimed a man in the audience.

"Perhaps our good friend will kindly tell us when two and two make more than four?" blandly said the speaker.

Whereupon the man cried: "When they're side by side; then they make twenty-two, don't they?"

—"Have you washed your hands, Tommy?" asked his mother suspiciously.

"Yes, mother."

"Well, they don't look much better for it."

"Well, if you don't believe me, mother, look at the towel."

Memorial Window.

A beautiful memorial window has lately been installed in St. Anthony's Church, Yarker, in memory of the late E. S. O'Loughlin, who for many years, was a devoted member and faithful worker in the Parish. The window consists of three lights containing the subject of "Our Lord Blessing Little Children" carried through the three openings, and is taken from Hoffman's celebrated picture, with rich decorative gothic ornament above and below the picture, and the following memorial inscription at the bottom:—"To the Glory of God and In Loving Memory of Bernard Stuart O'Loughlin, to whose Loyalty and Devotion the Erection of This Church is Largely Due. Died February 25th, 1920." The window is a handsome piece of work, being most artistically treated, the figures being extremely life like, and the coloring rich and harmonious, and makes a charming addition to the already beautiful little church. The work is from the studios of the Lyon Glass Co., of Toronto.

STRANGE TO WESTERN EYES

Habits and Customs of "Hermit Kingdom" of Korea Hard for Travelers to Understand.

Out into the Yellow sea and the Eastern sea juts a peninsula of more than 84,000 square miles. It is an extension of Manchuria, and for centuries was under the suzerainty of China.

In old atlases the peninsula is called Korea. For years it was known as "The Hermit Kingdom." For after the China-Japanese war the land became an independent kingdom, although even then Japan claimed jurisdiction over the country. But Korea enjoyed her freedom only a short time as an independent nation.

It was on August 29, 1915, that Japan formally annexed Korea, as an integral part of the kingdom. The old name was changed to Chosen. In Japanese this name is divided into two syllables—Cho Sen. This means "The Land of the Morning Calm."

Perhaps no other name would better suit the land which was once called the Hermit kingdom, for its people are indeed very calm. So calm have they been considered by Japan that it isn't generally known there was some opposition to the annexation of the kingdom, and that a republic was formed and a president elected. The president, it is said, was compelled to flee the country.

Many are the strange customs of this old little land. At one time the king ordered all men to wear broad-brimmed hats made of a material so brittle the men couldn't "get their heads together" without nicking their hats. And so, the story runs conspiracy was prevented.

But the mileposts of Chosen are not made of brittle material. They are painstakingly hewn out of wood, and are set up along the highways, carved with Chosen characters, which give the traveler the information he requires for a safe journey.

To the eyes of many a western traveler these mileposts look more like images intended to frighten them soothingly to inform. Of course, the particular demon that should be placated in each spot is properly placated by the posts. And so these Chosen mileposts serve the double purpose of informing human travelers and warning off those demons who might trouble the highway. — Temple Manning in Columbus Dispatch.

China's Needs Are Great.

Sydney Greenbie writes in the World's Work:

China needs assistance. Railroads are the world's salvation and China's sorrow. But for the lack of railroads, China would today be the most powerful nation on earth—financially and politically. And the fact that her railroads are short while those of other countries are long shakes her a prey to those tentacles of trade against which she is helpless. China has today only about 6,500 miles of railroad; she needs 100,000. She who built the rambling walls has still only footpaths. She needs 100,000 miles of highway. Her canals, which a thousand years ago kept the country open to trade and partially free from famine, have fallen into disrepair. She needs telegraphs, telephones, wireless. If only the money she borrowed went into such enterprises China would repay the world a thousand fold.

Poison Gas for Whales.

A campaign against the Beluga or white whale was recently inaugurated from Dungarvenez to Concarneau, in Brittany, by the French thermograph society, in which nets and poison tubes were used.

The Beluga, pest of the fishermen, is generally cream white in color, feeds mainly on marine fish and commits ravages among the shoals. The average length of the adult male is about 18 or 20 feet.

To hunt down the white whale a net 1,100 yards long, was set up at Bonarnenez, while another was placed in a suitable position to the fishermen at Concarneau. Furthermore, the skippers of the sardine boats used 4,000 Yves Delage poison tubes against the Belugas.

Reveals Sea's Bottom.

A two-inch section of sea bottom, with its tiny animal and plant life, magnified 15,000 times, has been reproduced in glass and wax at the American Museum of Natural History at New York.

It is called the Bryozoan group, taking its name from the minute sea animals popularly called sea moss and sea mosses, that it depicts.

Their shells are incrusted on seaweeds, pebbles and the shells of larger animals, and are said to be extremely beautiful in their intricate form and coloring. The "plumed worm," with its gay colors and other strange microscopic creatures, of which the average person seldom dreams, complete the group.

Possibilities Here.

An officer of the British army, Maj. Frederick de T. Craven, would not only increase the big game quality of game animals in the United States, but would add humor to sport. He suggests that the yak be transplanted from the Himalayas to the Rocky mountains, and that river buck, wart hogs and swamp hogs be brought from Africa and released in the swamps of Mississippi and Louisiana. The water buffalo of the Orient, he thinks, would also thrive there. He would stock regions that are now useless with game animals of considerable value. But think of the fun that the newspapers would have with the yak and the wart hog!—Youth's Companion.

Descending prices, like falling stars, always seem to fall in some other place.

He—Shall we go to a comedy or a tragedy? Personally, I am tired of comedies.

She—Then we might stay at home.

BOGART'S-ON-THE-BAY.

Life at camp this year has been most enjoyable. The cottages were opened early and visitors have been coming and going all summer.—Miss Marjorie Gibbard started the good luck in fishing, by landing a three and a half pound bass; then Mr. Dewdney carried home four large ones in a few hours, and Miss Alma Thompson was declared the "champion" with one weighing four pounds. Besides her share of bass, Mrs. Stewart Daly bravely landed an immense eel, sharing this delicious treat with the campers, and now Mr. Farnsworth is having all the luck and is the envy of the camp.—Mrs. G. W. Gibbard gave a delightful tea in honor of Mrs. W. F. Hall; Mrs. E. Grange entertained at Bridge, for her distinguished visitor, Mrs. S. J. McLean, Railway Commissioner, Ottawa.—Mrs. G. Robertson gave a birthday party for little Betty Holland, Napanee, when Mrs. (Dr.) Bonnell and Fraser, of New York, Mrs. Holland and Miss C. Grange were also her guests; and Miss Betty Smith entertained at "500" for the younger ones of the camp.—With the exception of the Ladies' Guild all collected early in the season, perhaps the most interesting event was the dinner given Saturday evening at the summer home of Colonel and Mrs. Deroche. The booths were most fascinating. Little Jean Jacobs, the pretty little visitor, sold flowers; Alex. Deroche, jr., managed splendidly the fruit and flower booth; Mary Deroche presided at the fish pond, and Miss Costigan sold delicious candy. The proceeds, we understand, will be applied to charitable purposes. Camp will soon close and all declare this to be the happiest year at Bogart's.

DO YOU KNOW HIM?

Even the Byng Boys will hardly recognize their former leader in the above it is, however, Lord Byng's very latest picture, specially posed for the Canadian National Exhibition, a few days before he sailed for Canada, for reproduction on a medal commemorating the opening of the 1921 Fair, over which he will preside on Aug. 27. Divested of his military attire the new Governor-General looks a very different person to the stern soldier Canadians knew through his war photos.

BOWLING.

Napanee Bowlers Visit Belleville.

At the Belleville Lawn Bowling rink situated on William street, interesting friendly games took place on Wednesday afternoon and evening of last week between ladies and gentlemen bowlers representing Napanee and Belleville. During the progress of the games the scene upon the green was as inspiring one. Many spectators witnessed the games, some of which were keenly contested. The result of the contest was that the visitors were defeated, but by no means disgraced. The Napanee players are, as it were, young at the game, as this is only the second season they have had a rink. As many of them expressed themselves, they were pleased at Belleville's green and especially at night, when it is virtually as light as day with the eight 1,000-candle power incandescent lamps.

The three visiting rinks of lady bowlers played their games in the afternoon with similar rinks from the Ladies' club of Belleville, and in the evening the rinks were of a different composition, being just a practice game. The three men's rinks from Napanee played both afternoon and evening, the result being a win for the Belleville bowlers.

At Hotel Quinte the visitors were entertained at supper, the ladies by the lady bowlers of the city and the gents by the male bowlers of the home club. The Belleville ladies also had refreshments at their quarters at the rink. The visitors were loud in their praise of the hospitality extended to them. The composition of the rinks were as follows:

In the evening an interesting game of 16 ends was played between a Napanee ladies' rink, skipped by Mrs. Madden, of Napanee, and a Belleville gents' rink, skipped by Mr. W. B. Riggs. The latter won out by a slight margin. At various periods of the game the score was a tie and the ladies certainly demonstrated their ability to bowl. The composition of the rinks were as follows:

LOYALTY.

What does loyalty, or what does loyalty to our country or country's flag mean?

On a recent trip to Dexter, Brownville, Watertown, Carthage, Sackett's Harbor, in New York State, I noticed the country's flag floating on the breeze wherever I went, on flag poles, from porches, doctors' offices, dentists' offices, stores, hardware stores, residences, in fact everywhere.

One would imagine it a gala day in town.

Saw no flag after leaving Napanee until nearing Cape Vincent, when as far as eye can reach floats the Stars and Stripes—most noticeable. On leaving the Cape by train one again notices the number of small flags waving in the breeze as the train passes through the small burgs.

When I arrived at my destination I was struck with—no, not a street car—but was amazed with the appearance of Dexter and its flying flags everywhere. In the cemeteries, so many, many flags, small ones, were used as markers for loved ones lying overseas, and those heroes who returned but to die. In Watertown one seen hundreds of flags and a large and beautiful one flings its stars and stripes over the city from the city park.

When returning home I decided to see how many old Union Jacks I could count, knew I could keep a strict account.

Well, nearing Kingston harbor on the boat "Waubic", nary a bit of the flag could I find. A stranger coming to Canada by boat at Kingston would sure decide 'twas a country without a flag. Couldn't tell what country he was landing in—Asia or Africa, as no country's flag can be seen—but would sure know it was not the United States. A couple of hours in the city, but saw no Union Jack until I reached Napanee again.

Now, Mr. Editor, or some reader of The Beaver, kindly explain why we Canadians don't love, or at least show our love, for the dear old Union Jack as do the folks across the line for the Stars and Stripes?

Thanking you for this lengthy space.

Yours for the Flag,

MRS. ALVIN PERRY.

Middle School Entrance and Pass Junior Matriculation.

The following list contains the names of the candidates who have been successful at the Middle School examination for entrance into the Normal Schools and the pass junior matriculation examination. Candidates writing the pass junior scholarship examination for the University of Toronto, McMaster University, Queen's University or the Western University have been considered in the results.

The candidates whose names are given in the Middle School Normal entrance list have passed in all the subjects of the examination, which are as follows: English literature, English composition, British and Canadian history, ancient history, algebra, geometry, physics and chemistry. Latin or art or agriculture may be taken as a bonus subject.

The candidates whose names are given in the pass junior matriculation list have obtained equivalent to matriculation standing by passing in the 12 required examination papers, which are as follows: English literature, English composition, British and Canadian history, ancient history, algebra, geometry, Latin authors, Latin composition, together with four papers in any two of the following subjects: Experimental science (physics and chemistry), French (authors and composition), German (authors and composition), Greek (authors and composition), Spanish (authors and composition).

In addition to the successful candidates whose names appear herewith other candidates are entitled to standing on certain subjects of the Middle School Normal entrance examination or partial matriculation standing, or both, as the case may be. In the case of the Middle School Normal entrance examination, candidates may be given credit for all but one subject under the old regulations, which allow one subject to be carried over as a supplemental examination, or they may have credit for one or more subjects under the new regulations, which allow credit for each subject upon which 50 per cent. is obtained. In the case of the pass junior matriculation examination, candidates may be awarded partial matriculation standing on eight, nine, ten or eleven papers, as the case may be. In order to complete their standing they require to rewrite the remainine papers and obtain the standard indicated on their certificates. Furthermore, other candidates for matriculation may have credit for one up to eleven papers under the new regulations, which allow credit for each paper upon which 50 per cent. is obtained. Since the new regulations add considerably to the number of candidates receiving partial credit, it is not practicable this year to publish any except those candidates obtaining complete Middle School Normal entrance or pass junior matriculation standing. This necessary decision will also eliminate the names of those candidates matriculating into the Faculty of Applied Science.

All candidates who failed on the June Middle School and pass junior matriculation examination, in whole or in part, are eligible to become candidates at the supplemental examination beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 6th.

BURGLARS CAPTURED

Chief of Police Barrett made a clever capture of two young men, Dwain Wagar, aged 20, of Enterprise, and Monty Dentz, aged 20, of Detroit, on Wednesday night of last week at Enterprise. They were taken into custody at the request of the police at Port Credit, where they are wanted on charges of burglary and theft. Some of the goods the couple are alleged to have stolen, including watches and rings, were found by Chief Barrett hidden in a cistern. The young men attempted to escape, making a bolt for liberty after Chief Barrett had discovered some of the stolen plunder, but a couple of shots from the chief's revolver brought them to their senses, and they surrendered. The young men will be taken back to Port Credit for trial.

Chief Barrett was notified about the robbery at Port Credit and was asked to locate Wagar and Dentz, who were believed to be around Enterprise. The chief went to Enterprise about 9 o'clock on Wednesday night. He located his men and then made a search of the house where they were staying in an endeavor to get trace of the stolen goods. He made a thorough search of the house, but with no results, and then he had a look around the premises. Looking into the cistern he noticed a ripple on the water, so he decided to investigate further. And sure enough, there in one corner of the cistern the chief pulled out some of the missing jewelry. The chief, after securing the stolen goods, proceeded to take the young men in charge. They were in the kitchen of the house, and when the chief was about to nab them they bolted out of the door and slammed the door in the chief's face. The chief was right on the job, ready for any emergency, however, and was not to be baffled. He dashed out of the door after the fleeing young men, who had secured a start of a few rods on him, and fired a couple of shots from his revolver in an attempt to frighten them, which he succeeded, as the young fellows decided to be grounded and they were soon made prisoners.

Careless Fisherman May Compel Drastic Laws.

Serious consideration is being given by the administrators of the forest resources in the various provinces to a scheme for curbing the gross carelessness of camping parties in needlessly starting forest fires. The job of extinguishing timber conflagrations resulting from the fires set by campers and cigarette smokers has caused the public treasuries such a sum of money that some means of curbing the evil will have to be devised.

Already the Province of New Brunswick is considering the classification of its woodland area with a view to prohibiting the entry of fishermen and others who may employ camp fires or drop lighted tobacco and matches. Such a regulation might be a hardship on many sportsmen, but as a class fishermen, hunters and campers generally would have only themselves to thank for whatever penalties might be imposed upon them in the interest of forest protection. To leave the camp fire burning has been shown over and over again to have vicious possibilities. The value of the forest resources is such that not an acre of timber can be burned without the people as a whole paying a serious penalty.

We live on a farm, so there is lots to do, but many who felt as I did would have been in bed. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did me a world of good. I tried other remedies but I put Vegetable Compound ahead of them all, and I tell every one I know how much good it has done me."—Mrs. Duncan Brown, Lascelles, Prov. Quebec.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ear, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness should be heeded by middle-aged women, and let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carry them safely through this crisis as it did Mrs. Brown.

That "Telegram Campaign Supplement"

Editor The Beaver:

I need scarcely say that "The Evening Telegram" does not inspire the confidence of Ontario readers or attain leadership among Ontario dailies. Perhaps one reason for this lack of popularity is the Telegram's intensely urban point of view. Another reason is, perhaps, because every human reader suspects any wielder of abuse because mostly every abuser modifies the truth with his own hate and prejudice. At any rate we all know that the saner, more dependable, less abusive dailies are everywhere read and quoted by the town and country dweller, while the "Telegram" is scarcely seen outside the City of Toronto.

Because of this tendency among rural people to ignore the cityfied "Telegram," its campaign supplement, which recently found its way into the mail boxes throughout Ontario, is scarcely worthy of passing attention. From the fact, however, that it spent long pages insinuating rather than proving "Roads and Backus Scandals", it might be interesting to compare the tactics of the "Telegram" with the editorials of some other well known Toronto dailies. And in making the comparison it is well to remember that if these old party organs offer one word of approval to the Drury Government it is only because the Drury Government has not merited their criticism. Of the "Backus Deal", to which the "Telegram" devotes one and one-half pages of criticism, the "Toronto Star" says: "The interests of the province have been better safeguarded by the Backus agreement than by any arrangement hitherto made by an Ontario Government for the development of our timber resources. The government binds the Backus syndicate to sell all or any part of its newsprint to Canadian consumers that the government may determine; to invest $2,500,000 in building new pulp, paper and saw mills; to employ 1,000 men; to take over the white elephant of a municipal power plant at Kenora, along with a ruinous power contract, and to pay twice the timber dues that the Conservative Government imposed when it agreed to sell the Lake of the Woods limit for $10,000. It is expected that the syndicate will have to spend up to $12,000,000 to properly develop its properties. The terms of the contract will do much to build up our Northwest hinterland."

The "Bigg's Road Policy" provokes another page of abuse in the campaign supplement of the "Telegram". With this criticism let us compare the more tolerant explanation of the "Globe". It reads: "The estimated cost of the Ontario highways system of 1,825 miles is $22,000,000, of which nearly $6,000,000 of the Federal appropriation of $20,000,000 is by the province's disposal. By the Federal plan the provinces had to put in a complete plan of main road development before any money could be given over. Ontario filed her plan and it was approved by the Dominion Government. Agreements between the Federal Government and Provincial Government are being made all the time as to the exact location of the roads and the character of the improvements to be effected. These will be passed upon by the Federal authorities and the percentage due will then be paid. These roads will serve 80 per cent. of the population of Ontario, and every county town in the organized counties of Ontario will be connected by them. It is estimated that 4,300 men are employed on these roads."

As the "Christian Guardian" says, "The people of Ontario have been grumbling about their bad roads for generations, and now that we have a man with the largest road-building programme that we ever knew, it does seem a little strange that the very men who grumbled most about the bad roads should now grumble most about the cost of constructing good roads".

Whether we are to believe the grumblings of the "Telegram" or the approval of the "Star", the "Globe", and the "Christian Guardian", I cannot say. But of one thing we are all confident and that is that in this day of the automobile we face road problems that are absolutely new to this country. We are faced by the problem of constructing and maintaining roads which if built a few years ago would last a lifetime, but which now, under the grinding tread of the automobile, are destroyed in a few weeks. When every township and county council is at its wits' end to solve this problem it is little wonder that the Dominion Government made its appropriations to the building of highways in the different provinces. In view of the fact that the people of this province had no desire to contribute through the Dominion Government to the building of roads in other provinces and to receive no share themselves, and in view of the depression in business, the thousands of unemployed, and the fact that such a highway would assist in solving the unemployment problem, our Provincial Government complied with the requests of the Dominion Government, extended the mileage of her Provincial Highways, built the roads to suit the specifications of the Federal Government engineers and received her appropriation like the other provinces. And so, though the "Telegram" may have overlooked it, it is nevertheless quite possible that the naughty (?) Mr. Biggs was following the specifications of the Dominion Government when he built the road past his own farm.

Yours very truly,

Newspapers in Spain.

The Spanish newspaper presents a problem to the American citizen who contemplates an advertising campaign in the Spanish press. There are 22 newspapers printed in Madrid, but as a rule these newspapers are supported by political, religious or industrial groups, and the advertiser is neither the source of income nor, as sometimes happens in consequence, the object of deferential admiration that he is in the United States.

The other edits for a public more interesting in local news than any other. One must remember also that of the approximate 22,000,000 people in Spain, more than half are illiterate and read no newspapers at all. No evening paper issues a Sunday edition, and no morning paper comes out on Monday, for the reason that any kind in newspaper plants is forbidden by the government.

Statue to Balboa.

Panama is to have a statue of Balboa, the discoverer of the Pacific ocean. The contract for the work has already been signed at Madrid, and the movement has been introduced to the sculptor for Benilliure. That there is to be no undue haste in the matter is signified by the fact that the contract does not call for the delivery of the figure until two years after the signing of the agreement. The opportunities for a most effective piece of work are many, with the likeness of the man overlooking the ocean of his discovery. The grandiose setting would seem to call for a grandiose getter to dominate the scene, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The French do not regard airplanes as practicable for use in commerce over the Sahara desert; it costs too much to move the mineral wealth of the territory by airplane when pack animals and camels can be used instead. But to supplement the desert police and to maintain French prestige military aviators are well worth while. The Arab tribes have been respect for them and take to their lines whenever an airplane arrives.

PLAIN TALKS - NO. 6

WHO'S A BUM?

I make good money fixing shoes,
And making boots to measure;
And oftimes take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task;
In fact we wouldn't try;
Good pigeons only wish we would,
But we are far too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any man that holds that job
Is nothing but a dud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let your children shirk
And hang around among such bums
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—

We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is, defined in our dictionary as a base, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "Unable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation, is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such drivelling, underhand lines.

So, be like us, and mix not with such folks, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

The First Call for the New Fall Modes

FALL DRESSES IN SILK OR WOOL.

Again the pendulum of Fashion points to the new Fall modes. Fashion has made her secrets known and interesting indeed are styles and the variation of styles offered.

Style in Dress is always an all-absorbing topic with most women for in a dress better than any other costume she can interpret and express her own individuality.

For street dresses are garments manufactured in Tricotine and All Wool Serges. These gowns favor the long straight silhouette which has been so popular for several seasons back. To these one-piece costumes are added wide girdles of Cire Ribbon usually in Black, Lacquered and Novelty Braids, Embroidery and Applique. Quite frequently the skirt bottoms are scalloped, the sleeves are three-quarter, flowing and full-length fitted.

For House Dresses and Afternoon Frocks are creations in Silk, Satin, Crepe-de-chene, Canton Crepe and Georgette. Draperies dominate the styles in these gowns, and each is gracefully and skilfully executed.

Much Embroidery is witnessed on many frocks at medium prices. Combinations of Satins and Crepes, of Satin and Net, of Satin and Georgette, form a prominent part of every smart collection of Dresses.

Our Fall stock offers you a unique collection of better Dresses at medium prices. It pictures the latest styles which are most adaptable to Canadian women as seen by the most eminent manufacturers in Canada.

These gowns in every instance measure up to our standards of perfection and value.

May we show them to you?

MIDDIES FOR SCHOOL WEAR. THE EVERY-DAY COSTUME

Out of the soiled Middy and into a fresh one is about the way it goes with the average girl. School will be opening another very soon, have you enough middies to meet your requirements? From our present stocks you are absolutely sure of getting just what you want. We are keeping our sizes complete.

A Mid-Season Novelty, The Flannel Jumper

The very simplicity of this garment is bound to make it a success. It just easily slips over the head and falls gracefully into a very attractive garment. It is quickly donned because there are no hooks, eyes or buttons to trouble you. Made in the bright shades of serviceable flannel as Rose, Jade and Henna. Priced $11.50 each.

A waist of Crepe-de-chene, Knitted Silk or Georgette Crepe in White, combines very nicely with these Dresses.

Waists for Fall Are Interesting

The lady wearing a sheer Georgette Waist will be just as correctly dressed as her sister who wears one of heavier Crepe-de-chene, Silk, Satin, or Knitted Silk. Overblouses are again promiment among fall styles, and are mostly of the tie-back variety. The sleeves are longer and wide at the bottom. Lace in a great variety of weights and colorings is one of the most important trimmings. Embroidery in various forms and applique are featured on many of better waists.

Our stocks are again complete in all the leading shades and sizes.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving memory of Maggie Seals, beloved wife of Harold Kilgannon, who died August 17th, 1919.

In the grave softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we love so dearly
In the silent lonely grave.

Two years have passed and still we miss her.
Never shall her memory fade;
Loving thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where Maggie lies.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving memory of Leslie Ballance, who departed this life on August 16th, 1920.

He has gone across the river
To the shores of ever green,
How we long to see his dear face,
But the river flows between;
And our aching hearts are calling
To the shadows dark and grey,
For our dear one who left us
Just one year ago to-day.

33ap —Wife, Son and Daughter.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Nellie Wanetta Lillian, beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thompson, who died August 15th, 1920, aged 1 year, 4 months and 17 days.

In a graveyard sweetly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
In her lonely, silent grave.
She will never be forgotten,
Never shall her memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where Nellie is laid
Dearest Nellie, how we miss thee,
Miss thy little winning ways,
But we would not dare to murmur,
God knows best, we give Him praise.

Salvation Army Bandsman's Testimonial in Favor of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 32 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:—

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I had tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly grateful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all". It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and watch the results.

Why Kaiser Is Safe

WHY has William of Hohenzollern not been brought to trial? There are three reasons. The first is that under existing laws he committed no crime; there was no competent court to try him if he had, and Holland refused to surrender him. There may be other reasons, but these are deemed sufficient. The case was explained in a recent address delivered in Philadelphia by Dr. James Brown Scott, an American authority on international law, and attached to the American Peace Commission as a technical adviser. He believes that it would have been outrageous and unwise to try the kaiser, and that in time to come the world will be grateful to Holland for refusing to surrender him, and to the delegates at Paris who strongly opposed his indictment. The United States and Japan were from the beginning absolutely set against bringing the arch criminal to book. In fact, we gather from Dr. Scott that the case for William could not have been better argued if it had been intrusted to German professors on law.

The Commission on Responsibilities had no difficulty in finding that Germany and her associates planned the war, and frustrated the efforts of Allied statesmen to avert it. The question to decide was whether the former kaiser had committed a crime when Germany violated her treaty obligations. It was reluctantly decided that in point of law he did not commit a crime, but that from the point of view of morality he undoubtedly did. Therefore he was arraigned "for a supreme offence against international morality and the sanctity of treaties." His offence therefore was political. The original draft prepared by the commission is said to have declared specifically that the offence was not criminal, but at the suggestion of Lloyd George this phrase was omitted. It was agreed that William could not be tried for a violation of the laws and customs of war, for according to international and national law a sovereign or chief executive of a state is exempt, except at the hands of his own countrymen. The former emperor could legally be tried in Germany, but could not be tried anywhere else under the laws as they exist to-day. It is odd to find the American delegation particularly insistent upon the immunity granted by customs to monarchs.

So it was for a "supreme offence against international morality and the sanctity of treaties" that the Allies asked Holland to surrender the fugitive for trial. It was then divulged that not one of the Allied powers had an extradition treaty with Holland which provided for the surrender of political refugees, and since the charge was political it followed that Holland was within her legal rights in refusing the surrender. Holland knew, moreover, that both Japan and the United States hoped the prisoner would not be surrendered, and may have suspected that some of the other nations who made the demand would be moved some embarrassment if it were refused. Britain and France were the most insistent in their demands, which Holland declined to accede to.

The wording of the request seemed to admit that Holland, if she was entitled to remain in Holland, for the Allies said that it was their duty to press the matter without allowing themselves to be stopped by arguments, because it is not a question of a public accusation with judicial character as regards its basis, but an act of high international policy imposed by the universal conscience, in which legal forms have been provided solely to assure to the accused such guarantees as were never before recognized in international law." The Dutch Government replied that it was not a party to the Treaty of Versailles, and therefore was not in duty bound to carry out any of its decisions or make good any of its promises. It took its stand by the body of international law as it existed prior to the alleged offences of the accused, and since it was totally satisfied that no crime, in a legal sense, had been committed by the kaiser, it declined to give him up.

Thus frustrated, and feeling, because of the attitude of the United States and Japan, to apply pressure which might cause Holland to yield, the Allies were forced to complain that the royal fugitive was not properly guarded, that he was permitted to dwell too near the German frontier and that if he escaped Holland would be forced to accept a heavy responsibility. Holland retorted that the kaiser was being guarded and would be suitably looked after in the future. Then the Allies practically abandoned the matter, and so William remains in Holland with a fine prospect of dying there. Dr. Scott thinks that if he had been tried he might have been transferred into a hero, and the way paved for a return of the Hohenzollern dynasty in the person of William's grandson.

Do Your Bit to Prevent Bush Fires

YOUR co-operation—the co-operation of all the citizens of Ontario—is the biggest need in Ontario Forestry to-day.

History shows that impoverishment and national decline follows from the destruction of a country's forests.

Most of the area of this Province is non-agricultural, suited by Nature only for growing trees. This land remains yours but the Government sells the trees.

Every summer in Ontario an average area of 425,000 acres of forest land is burnt over, equal to a strip 130 miles long by 5 miles wide. This yearly desolation at the hands of her own people is gradually turning the northern part of the Province into a rocky desert. On thousands of acres, even the soil has been destroyed by fire!

Save Ontario's Forests
They're Yours

The average yearly number of forest fires in Ontario is about 1,275. The vigilance of the Fire Rangers keep two-thirds of Ontario's forest fires down to an average size of less than five acres. But the others are big enough to raise the total average to 350 acres.

Forest fires in Ontario are destroying provincial assets of timber and pulp wood upon which the Province relies to help pay her share of Canada's War Debt. Forest fires destroy fish and game, decrease the regularity of stream flow, cause spring floods, land erosion and the crippling of water powers; turn revenue-producing areas into rock deserts.

Out of every 100 fires in Ontario's forests only three are caused by lightning, while ninety or more are due to man's carelessness. One thousand men scattered over 100,000,000 acres, have little chance of preventing fires. All they can hope to do is to see the smoke in time to check them and put them out before they spread beyond control.

The problem of adequate protection of Ontario's Forests from fire is almost entirely a moral one involving the whole public of Ontario. The vast majority of forest fires are caused by human carelessness due to lack of civic responsibility. The tendency is to leave all the responsibility to the Government for protecting the forests from fire. The Government cannot protect the forests belonging to the people of Ontario unless the people of Ontario cooperate. Forestry needs your patriotism, your public spirit, your regard for the general welfare of Canada.

Barnet Refrigerators

Save Food Bills, Ice Bills, Doctor's Bills Worry and Work

Loss of food through souring, spoilage, decomposition, etc., amounts yearly to a sum more than sufficient to buy all the refrigerators made. Housewives who own a Barnet Refrigerator, however, do not contribute one cent to this awful waste, even in the most stifling days of summer, when it is hard to keep food fresh.

Easily perishable foods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their full, fresh flavor. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded securely from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that these refrigerators will pay for themselves in a short time through the saving in food alone!

The Barnet has eleven distinct walls! That means a slow consumption of ice—another saving. It also means lower temperature for the amount of ice consumed. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 39 degrees.

Disease germs cannot multiply in such a low temperature. And as there are no joints, crevices or cracks in which bits of food can hide away and spoil, the owner of a Barnet can rest happy in the knowledge that disease cannot attack her family through her refrigerator. She is thus free from the generally present worry about sickness, and is saved money in doctors' bills.

POINTS OF BARNET SUPERIORITY

Foods do not taint or contaminate one another	Interior always bone dry
Has no Drain Pipe	Has eleven walls of insulation
No foul odors	Lowest temperature for ice consumed
No breeding place for germs	Has adjustable shelves

ECHOES FROM BON ECHO.

A children's party, for the small as well as grown-up guests of the Bon Echo Inn, in which all the visitors, of all ages—fifteen as well as fifty—participated, marked the week-end entertainments at the local summer resort. These costume parties, which are becoming a regular feature for the entertainment of the guests, are meeting with great success and each affair presents a great array of color and originality of costumes than those held earlier in the season.

Hardly a character in any of the numerous children's tales and legends failed of representation at the party. And not only was the event enjoyed by the little ones, but the grown-ups as well joined in the merry-making which continued until the early hours of the morning. The most interesting part of the evening were the games, which were participated in by most of the grown-up guests. For once they were all children once more and they played the games with the same old spirit they played them in their boyhood and girlhood days.

Among the games that they indulged in were: "The farmer is in his den", "Blind man's buff", "Here we come gathering nuts in May", "Hunt the slipper", "Musical chairs", "Sir Roger de Coverly", etc. The costume age limit was set by the committee in charge at fifteen, and the rule was carried out to the letter.

Mrs. C. W. Winyard as "Sissy Loftus", and Miss Jocelyn Taylor as "The Jockey Boy", captured the grown-up prids, and four-year-old Teddy Campbell and Donald McQuigze, as "The Little Girl in Pink", won the children's prizes. Other outstanding costumes were those of Harold Sexton as "Buster Brown", Mrs. Victor Ross as "Mary Jane", Miss Jean Preston as "Little Boy Blue", Miss Louise McKinley as a "Marionette", Miss Trixie Beaton as "Mary Jane", Misses Dorothy Rogers and Keitha Lloyd as "Bowery Urchins", Mrs. R. D. McIntosh as a "School Girl", Gordon Cass as "Little Lord Fauntleroy", and Jamie Winyard as a "Little Girl". Honorable mention was given Misses Bea Belliveau, Cora Godfrey, and Kathleen Tomley, of Ottawa; Mrs. J. A. Hope, of Perth; Miss Irene Conlin, Miss Bertha Tamblyn, Dorothy Barker, Eleanor Ross, Kathleen Dack, Gertrude McQuigze, and John McIntosh, of Toronto.

Among the Torontonians who attended the party were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Galt, Miss Stewart Galt, Miss Frances Thompson, Mr. A. Struthers, Miss Catherine Proctor, Mr. F. M. Bell-Smith, R.C.A., Mrs. McGillivray Knowles, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Ziegler, Mrs. H. Scott Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ross, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jeffery, Mrs. W. H. O'Flynn, and Miss Mabel Christie. The Napanee contingent was made up of Judge and Mrs. Madden, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Madden and their young daughters, Harriet and Elizabeth, Miss Elizabeth Asselstine, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Deroche, Miss Nelle F. Herring, and Miss Ethel Hawley. Ingersoll was represented by Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams and their sons, Jack and Peter.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Beaver,
Napanee, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I read with considerable interest your article on the mud house on Amherst Island.

I can quite well remember my grandmother telling me how her uncle, Major Radcliff, had the house built for him by a man who came out from Ireland. As to his having brought out on purpose to build the house she did not say.

She described the process as follows: There was a mixture of mud and straw put into troughs or boxes and the men got into these with their bare feet and tramped until the desired consistency was attained, then withes were imbedded in it as a reinforcement.

She said she was quite a young girl when she went with her father to see the building of it. Judging from her age and from the reminiscences of an aunt, who is with me at the present time, I think you have the age of the house pretty well fixed at 90 years.

Yours truly,

Necessity soon makes neat dressing a habit with hustling young fellows. Yet often their ambition is greater than their finances. For such, our clothes are a particularly good investment. They are good clothes that will give long service, and look well doing it.

Take the advice of an experienced clothing man and buy your clothes on a basis of "service" rather than price alone.

MRS. MAXWELL McDONALD,
33ap Wilton.

An Aged Resident.

Mrs. Lester Wagar celebrated her 84th birthday July 27th, 1921. Although she has been very poorly during the past five years, she was real bright and cheerful, and able to welcome the many who called to wish her all happiness. She has a wonderful memory, and is busy all the time. Time does not drag, for she can read when too tired to work. She had a birthday cake, and received many gifts. All join in wishing her all joy and happiness through life.

Burglars Sentenced.

At Brampton, Ont., two years each in penitentiary was the sentence meted out by Magistrate Robert Crawford to Dwan Wagar and Montis Dutz; the pair apprehended at Enterprise, for the theft at the residence of George Cheyne, Malton. Wagar has terms in a United States prison, at Kingston, and at Guelph, against him, with jail-breaking on two occasions. He is only twenty years of age, while Dutz, who appears to be in ill-health, is nineteen.

Committed For Trial.

At Kaladar, before Magistrate Lloyd, on Thursday afternoon, 4th August, Kenneth Tryon was committed for trial on a charge of shooting his daughter, Cecelia Tryon, and with attempting a serious offence against her. He will come up for trial at the Fall Assizes in Napanee. Bail was fixed at $2,000, and this will probably be forthcoming. The daughter of the accused, who has been in the Kingston General Hospital since the day the shooting occurred, was able to be present and gave evidence. Report from Kaladar states that she corroborated the first story she told about the attack her father made upon her. U. M. Wilson, County Crown Attorney, appeared on behalf of the prosecution, and J. M. Simpson appeared as counsel for the accused. The prisoner was taken from Napanee to Kaladar for the preliminary hearing by High County Constable Sam. Brien, of Camden East.

New Summer Resort.

It may be of interest to the readers of The Beaver to know that Glen Island, which, ever since the outbreak of war, has been closed to the public, will be re-opened next summer as a first-class summer resort. A staff of painters, decorators and carpenters will commence work in a few days, and by the first of June next seventeen cottages, a dining hall, dancing pavillion, and canteen, will be open and ready for business. The employees will consist almost entirely of University students, ex-members of the C.E.F., and one orchestra will be on the island the entire summer. Arrangements are being made for an efficient boat service from all nearby ports, and moonlight and other excursions will be planned, and many dances will be held. Mr. E. A. Williams, of Toronto, an old Napanee boy, has leased the island for a term of years and will personally manage the resort.

Musicale Delightful.

The following is taken from the Riverside, Cal., Journal, of July 26th: "Last evening Miss Vera Kyes entertained a company of about 30 guests with a musicale in honor of her two aunts, Mrs. Sargent, of Redondo, and Mrs. Gordanier, of Los Angeles, recently from Canada. Mrs. Gordanier is an accomplished musician and contributed delightfully to the evening's entertainment. Miss Kyes gave generously of her talent in several groups of songs. Miss Kyes has studied the past year with Madam Piana and her friends were much pleased with the remarkable progress she has made in her work. The very efficient accompanist for the evening, Mrs. C. Hughes, gave several pleasing numbers. One unusual feature of the programme was a duet by Miss Kyes and Mr. Herrick, "Abide With Me", the music of which was composed by Mr. Herrick. Mr. Raleigh Sheldon, ably accompanied by Mrs. Sheldon, gave several fine numbers in his own finished style. The rooms were beautifully decorated with spring flowers. At the close of the programme delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Kyes, and Mrs. Percy Kyes and three little daughters, Doris, Eleanor and Verith."

WEDDING BELLS.

—BATEMAN—HYLAND.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Thos. Hyland, on July 27th, 1921, when his eldest daughter, Miss Florrie May, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony, to Rev. J. H. Bateman, to Mr. Kenneth Bateman, a prosperous young farmer of Eldorado. Promptly at 12 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march, the bridal party entered the parlor, the bride leaning on the arm of her father. The young couple were unattended, and stood beneath an arch of evergreens and ferns. The bride was gowned in navy blue satin and wore the groom's gift, a gold wrist watch. After congratulations the company partook of a buffet lunch. The bride's traveling suit was of navy blue serge with hat to match. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Bateman motored to his home at Eldorado.

—BAKER—CLANCY.

A quiet but very interesting event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Baker, Wesley, when their daughter, Jessie Irene, was united in marriage with Walter, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Clancy, of the same place. The bride, given away by her father, presented a charming appearance, daintily dressed in ivory crepemeteor with drop lace and seed pearl trimmings, as she entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's, played by Mrs. Cooke. The young couple were assisted by Miss Blanche Moore and Mr. Austin Clancy, brother of the groom. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. E. B. Cooke, Pastor of the bride, the party sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner before leaving for a short trip to points West. On their return they will reside at Wesley, where they enjoy the good will and best wishes of their many friends.

—BREEN—McGRATH.

On Tuesday, August 9th, at the Church of the Annunciation, Chippewa, a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Farrell, assisted by Rev. Father Coyle, Kingston. The contracting parties were Sarah Kathleen Breen and Timothy Patrick McGrath, Marlbank. The fair young bride made a charming picture in a dress of white crepe-de-chene, caught with white pansies, and a tulle veil with wreath of lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Nolan, was beautifully gowned in Alice blue taffeta with hat to match. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Michael McGrath. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous dinner was served. Among the invited guests, numbering about fifty, were Rev. Father Farrell and Rev. Father Coyle, who assisted greatly in the success of the dinner. They toasted the bride and bridegroom and many were the good wishes expressed for the young husband and wife. The presents were numerous and costly including several cheques, testifying to the esteem in which the young people were held. The groom's gift to the bride was a bar pin set with pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold locket and chain, to the groomsman a set of gold cuff links, and to the organist, Miss Elizabeth Burns, a Rosary case.

Undergoing Improvements.

The Selby Methodist Church is undergoing extensive improvements. In June lightning struck a couple of the pinacles and did considerable damage. This has been repaired by Mr. Lasher, of Roblin. Now Under the direction of C. B. Scantlebury, of Belleville, the whole interior of the church is being decorated. The decoration is in biscuit cream shades. The ceiling is panneled in two shades, having darker decorated lines between those two shades. The lighter shade will be almost old ivory, toning down on the walls, which are also done in two shades, the darker shade occupying two-thirds of the lower wall. The cornice will be in very light ivory. There will be a freize under the cornice which will be particularly appropriate, it being a cross and crown freize. The ornamental moulding around the windows will be extended in relief ornaments, that being in lighter color, which will give the windows a spacious appearance, also help form panels of the lower walls. The archway in rear of the pulpit platform is to have a special blended treatment. The moulding surrounding it will be in lighter shade, giving it the appearance of greater depth. On the wall of the archway will be painted a cross and crown with halo surrounding. The seats will be thoroughly cleaned, prepared and varnished. The vestibule will be treated much after the same manner as the auditorium. The woodwork about the choir loft will be refinished in shades blending with the woodwork of the church. The window frames and sashes and doors will be all grained. The work will be finished in time for re-opening services on the first Sunday in September, when special re-opening services will be held.

YARKER.

Our baseball nine lost to Wolfe Island in a scheduled game here Saturday. The game was very good, but the score ran wild, Wolfe Island scoring 14, while Yarker only made 10 passes. While the Islanders played a good game, yet the high score was the result of a lot of wild throwing on Yarker side. Goodfriend pitched for Wolfe Island, while Dunn pitched six for Yarker, but had to be replaced by Smith. Fraser Smith completed the game to the satisfaction of all.—The immediate friends of Mrs. John Ewart met at her home and presented her with a leather club bag, prior to her leaving Yarker to live with her son in Montreal. GALBRAITH'S GROVE.

Varty camp is quite alive this season, every cottage being occupied and several tents erected. The weather has been ideal and a most enjoyable season spent. Daily concerts have been given by Mr. McCrimmon's phones, but more enjoyable still are the violin solos given by Mr. McClymont, the popular manager of Yarker Bank, in the quiet evening hours. — At the Windsor camp are some campers and goers, happy and gay, because of the kind hospitality of the host and hostess. Mr. T. I. is truly a generous sport, sharing the outing with some of his friends. Recently a land cottage is a glad spot, the gathering one of the sports, Mr. and Mrs. Holland themselves sharing in the games.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Belleville, who occupy the cottage recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, Buffalo, N.Y., are genial neighbors and often delight the camp with the melody of song. — The "Dump Rest," recently occupied by Mr. Naylor, of Newburgh, now shelters the Rev. E. Farnsworth and family, of Cannifton. Many callers and picnics are there, spending happy hours and renewing old acquaintances, as Mr. Farnsworth is an old time camper. Mr. Farnsworth, since he first sought rest in this pleasant spot. Here always can be found a supply of fresh milk, as that art has been mastered by Mr. Farnsworth and Clifford.—Dreamily hid in a shady nook is "Breezy Bank Camp" occupied by the Ewarts, who for many years have enjoyed this spot. Their camping outfit is surely a masterpiece, as the tents, dressers and tables, camp stove, birch-bark hanging pots, take one back to the days of the primitive settler, and there is not least is "Sunnyside" camp, where for sixteen years, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Connolly have taken their abode. Most popular are they among the campers because of their liberal hospitality, which is daily shared in ways innumerable. Mr. Connolly, a steady spot of Nature's beauty, we live, resting, reviving and happily spending the glad summer days, in fact, so pleasant has been this summer's outing that all are anticipating a glad return next summer.—Dr. and Mrs. Renton, of Kingston, have been visiting for the last two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Connolly.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Huffman, of Napanee, spent last week at Varty Camp. — Several fine fish have been caught lately both in the lake and by the campers.—Mr. Cecil McMullen, of Belleville, spent a few days with Clifford Farnsworth.—Varty camp is well occupied this summer. Many have applied for cottages who could not be accommodated. We are glad to learn that several cottages are to be built this fall to meet the demand of 1922.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ewart, of Montreal, Mrs. Ewart, of Yarker, and Mrs. Doan, of Nova Scotia, were recent several weeks at camp, left Saturday to their homes. We trust to have them with us for sixteen years, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Connolly are wife had tea with Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Connolly last week.— The girls of Varty camp are fond of baseball team, and friendly games have been played with Galbraith's camp and Wilton. No better sport could better develop the muscle and promote healthy competition. A very pleasant event of the camping life was the celebrating of the birthday of Mr. A. A. Connolly, on August 15th, at his cottage "Sunnyside" when about thirty campers and the genial owners, Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith, gathered in marquee tent. The various costumes were most amusing, and the parts well played. A programme of music interspersed with spicy addresses, was given, after which Mr. Connolly was called to the front and presented with a handsome birthday box of surprises, and an appropriate address given by Rev. E. Farnsworth. Mr. Connolly replied most feelingly and appreciatively as his good wife took her place beside him the campers gathered around and heartily joined in the health and happiness of the two. A most amusing feature of the evening's entertainment was the clever impersonating of the "Happy Negroes" by the Ewart camp in their antics and song. While the gathering was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Connolly, the campers were in return surprised by elaborate refreshments, which were served to their several resting places.

THREE SISTERS DROWNED.

No Eye-witnesses of Collins' Bay Tragedy, But Believed One Was in Trouble and Others Made An Attempt at Rescue.—Bodies Found Together.

Three sisters lost their lives by drowning at Collins' Bay, about six miles from Kingston, on Wednesday. The victims of the tragedy were Susie Mildred Rice, aged 21, wife of Harold Rice, who lives three miles west of Collins' Bay, Anna Rice Scott aged 15, and Lillian Bernice Scott, aged 18, daughters of William Scott, of Westport.

The drowning occurred just a stone's throw from the Rice home, where the two younger sisters were visiting. There were no eye-witnesses to the affair, but it is believed that one of the younger sisters either suffered from cramps or got beyond her depth, and the other two lost their lives in an attempt at rescue. The bodies were recovered an hour afterwards.

The two younger girls went down to the water to bathe about 3 o'clock. Neither could swim. Neighbors noticed Mrs. Rice going down to the water later on fully dressed and did not know the other girls were in trouble. About 4.30 Harold Rice came home from Kingston, where he had been spending the day, and found his 17-months-old baby alone in the house crying. Believing that his wife had gone back into a pasture to get the cows, he took the baby with him in the buggy and went to help get the cows.

He did not find his wife he returned to the house, and noticing clothing belonging to the young sisters lying on the bed, came to the conclusion that they were in bathing. He hurried to the beach and not seeing them raised an alarm. Dr. F. A. Brown, of Kingston, and Arthur Finley, a neighbor, got a boat, and the three on going out about thirty feet from the shore discovered the bodies of the three women close together.

Dr. H. S. Northmore, coroner, of Bath, was summoned and after learning of the circumstances decided that an inquest would not be necessary. The bodies of the victims were taken to Bath for interment.

ENTERPRISE "FIELD DAY".

Wednesday afternoon was a big day in the Village of Enterprise, when about 1500 people from the surrounding district gathered at the recreation ground, located about one-quarter of a mile from the village, and spent an enjoyable afternoon witnessing a first-class horse race and two exceptionally good baseball games. For a time the weather looked threatening and it was thought the rain would fall before the sports were completed, but all finished satisfactorily.

The committee in charge, composed of B. M. Sparks, chairman; W. H. Wagar, secretary; A. E. Smith, H. W. Wagar and Stanley Bell are deserving of great credit for organizing this event.

Enterprise Defeats Marlbank.

The baseball game between Enterprise and Marlbank was won by the former by a score of nine to five. The game was featured with a lot of good hitting and playing. The winners appeared to have the best of the argument most of the time. In the first innings, Ross Bell and Keller scored for the winners, the latter knocking out a home run with Bell on base. In the second innings, Hartwick and Russell Bell made the score 4-0. For the next two innings neither team was able to score. O. Deline, the Enterprise pitcher, made the score 5-0 in the fifth innings. Both teams scored four runs in the sixth innings, Smith, Ross Bell, Keller and T. Lakeviews 10, Verona 4.

The second baseball game, between Lakeviews and Verona, resulted in a win, by a score of 10-4, for the Kingston team. The game was a good one, and after the third innings the Lakeviews were leading throughout. Williams started in the box for Verona but was replaced in the seventh by Trousdale. During this period, Williams had seven runs pass in, struck out seven and had eight hits taken from his offerings. Trousdale, who followed on the mound, had three runs in the two innings, struck out one and allowed four hits. James Mip Snider of Mountain Grove, had two hits taken from his assortment. The Lakeviewers supported their pitcher better than Verona, having a better score column to their credit.

BASEBALL TOURNAMENT IN PICTON.

The above big attraction arranged by Secretary Sharp, of the Picton Amateur Athletic Association, for the Veterans' and Band Field Day, despite wet weather in the forenoon, drew the largest crowd that has surrounded the baseball diamond at the Fair Grounds in Picton this year. The bleacher stands, accommodating 600 people, were packed and in all about 1500 must have witnessed the series of splendid games put up by the respective competing teams, King "Sol" smiling on the occasion by noon made it possible to commence the schedule at 12.45 p.m. Six teams out of the advertised eight were on the spot to do battle for the $100.00 value in prizes, Frankford and Trenton failing to make the grade. The result of the Tournament was as follows:—

First game—Adolphustown 4, West Lake, Picton 0.

Second game—Picton 9, Mohawk Reserve 0.

Third game—Bloomfield 4, Napanee 1.

(Two extra innings to decide.)

Semi-finals—Picton 2, Bloomfield 0.

Adolphustown drew the bye.

Final game—Picton 2, Adolphustown 0.

Adolphustown showed some class in the opening encounter with West Lake, Picton. Just how much the Sydenham contingent contributed to the "class" is not a matter of conjecture. It all happened in the first innings—4 runs for Adolphustown. No scoring thereafter.

"Sunny" Green met his "Waterloo" at last. The Picton Intermediates, remembering his "shut out" performance on the last visit to Picton went to him in merciless style, especially in the "fourth" when 7 runs were tallied.

The third game of the series furnished the first really exciting contest. The contenders, Napanee and Bloomfield, put up a particularly fine exhibition of "ball". At the end of the fifth innings, which was the scheduled duration of each game, there was no scoring. Not until the "seventh" did anything happen, when Cleave scored for Bloomfield. He was followed by Walker, Stewart and Arkett, bringing the tally to 4. Napanee made a plucky effort to retaliate, but only succeeded in getting one run against the splendid twirling of Rundle, a young and coming southpaw pitcher. Too high commendation cannot be given both Napanee and Bloomfield for the sterling performance to which the spectators were treated in this keenly fought out game. The two "Mac's" who manage the respective teams, McCulloch and McLaughlin, are to be congratulated on the organizations which they so capably control.

At this stage of the tournament, with three teams left to enter the semi-finals, the managers drew for the play off. Adolphustown succeeded in drawing the bye.

The game between Bloomfield and Picton sustained the high level of the previous fixture. Tight "ball" was the order of the play. Tallies by Picton in the "first" and "fourth" gave them the 2 run lead.

At 5 o'clock the final struggle in which Adolphustown and Picton figured, was staged. Stan Croft, who pitched in all three games for Picton, lived up the good work. The only critical situation he had to overcome was in the "fourth", when with men on second and third bases and "one down", he fanned the next two at the plate. Koen, of Sydenham and Queen's, handled the pill for Adolphustown in the final spasm. Notwithstanding his prowess and good support, Picton had no difficulty in converting his "mysteries" into hits. They got next to him to the tune of 2 runs scored in the "second" and "fifth". Other well known Sydenham "stars" who lent their aid to Adolphustown were Messrs. Lee and Young, both of them leading lights in the Inter-County League batting average.

The outstanding performance of the day's tournament was undoubtedly the pitching of Stan Croft, of Picton. In fifteen innings only 32 men faced him, i.e. an average of 3.47 per innings.

The outstanding feature of the tournament was the sportsmanlike manner in which all teams played the game.

Umpire "Jake" Solman handled the games efficiently and with absolute impartiality.

It was a pleasure to the "fans" to witness the entire absence of friction in a contest where keen competition had been aroused and when, under ordinary circumstances, trouble of some kind might have been expected. Credit must be given to the players, and the managers of the respective competing teams for the very fine and much enjoyed exhibition of baseball which contributed so handsomely to the success of the Field Day, and incidentally, to the reputation of each club represented.

The Picton Intermediates, who were winners of the Tournament, have decided to take the prizes of $100.00 value in the shape of some very much needed individual equipment. Each player will receive the article or articles he personally wishes.

A distinguished Peer had a faithful but superserville butler. One evening when a large party of guests was being entertained at dinner the host noticed that the man seemed extraordinarily nervous and made stupid mistakes. The butler, however, kept on bravely until the coffee was served and then stole up behind his master's chair and said softly: "Please, my Lord, can you spare me now? My house 'as been afire for a hour and a half."

FACTS REGARDING BASS LAKE SHOOTING.

It has been reported and printed not only in the Napanee papers but also Kingston and Toronto, that we were fishing on Sunday when the shooting took place. That I had a fish pole and oar shot from my hand and also that we were glad to escape minus the fish."

We were not fishing on Sunday nor did we intend to fish on Sunday. A fish pole and our oars were shot but they were lying in the boat at time of shooting, and last but not least we brought out nine dandy black bass. So to contradict these reports I will endeavor to write the outstanding facts.

On Saturday, the 20th of July, Peter Hynderess and Volney Woods started with a car for a fishing trip to Big Bass Lake. We took a small twelve foot skiff with us. We arrived about ten o'clock and put up our tent as we intended to stay for the evening fishing and come home Sunday morning. We went out for a little fish before dinner and got seven dandy black bass. We saw Bartley Thompson come down the lake. He had a large flag in the front of his punt. He was on one side of the lake and we were on the other, and as it is half a mile wide we got along fine. Then we went to our camp which was down where Milling's boat house used to be. As it was pretty hot and we did not want to catch all the fish, we did not put out till after three o'clock. Then we headed for what we know as ghost rock, but what Thompson afterwards informed us was devil rock, and considering what took place, I guess he was right. The rock is about eight feet long by two wide and comes to a peak like a roof. The water is from twelve to twenty feet deep around it. On Saturday, the 30th of July, the big bass were there and hungry. We got two four-pounders as soon as we could get them in the boat. Peter hooked one that broke and how fine that was tested for twenty-two pounds. He said it was a mammoth big one and it was.

Then Thompson came along. When he was about twenty-five feet away he turned and yelled, "What authority have you for fishing on this lake?" It hit me he was joking, but when he repeated it and I saw he was in earnest and mad as a hatter, I tried to reason with him. I said we were there last year, and asked if he didn't remember Peter. Peter and he had a great visit the summer before, had known each other for years. Thompson smoked our cigars and told us where to fish and was very friendly last year. So we were not at all prepared for what followed. He told us he owned the lake and half a mile from shore all around it. That he had the law the way he wanted it. Had the papers right with him and he could sink us and our boat. Peter told him we would get off the lake. He kept swearing more and did not give us a chance to get away. He went into action in less than a minute after he first spoke. Then when he was about twelve feet away he said, "Get won't leg" and up with his shot gun. I said we will go if you give us a chance, but no. Bang and he shot a hole as big as my two fists in the side of the boat between us and some two or three inches from my leg. Peter was in the end of the boat nearest the rock and I was sitting in the middle with not more than two feet between us. If either of us had had our legs stretched out straight we would have had a charge of shot in them. Peter got out on the rock after the first shot, but he put the second through before I had a chance to get out. He then shot two more craters in the side and making the skiff useless. All the time he kept swearing and saying he would sink every boat out on the lake. I thought he intended leaving us on the rock, but when he saw what a good job he did on our skiff he seemed satisfied and took us in his boat and rowed us down to the landing. The wreck of the skiff remained on the rock. It is likely washed off and gone to Davy Jones' locker. If we had expressed our feelings or given him any lip there is not a doubt in my mind that he would have shot us both for he was beside himself with rage to think that any one would put a boat on his lake.

We heard afterwards that he said he would sink every boat put on the lake and that he had shot at strawpickers along its shore this summer. Is a man that thinks he owns a large lake and shoots at people, and sinks boats from under harmless defenceless fishermen, a safe man to be at large?

Thompson is now in jail awaiting trial on the 31st of August. The High County Constable deserves credit for his arrest as he sure is a dangerous man.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

John Wall, of no particular address, was rounded up on a charge of stealing an automobile, the property of Frank Smith, living at Odessa. He was given his preliminary hearing at Napanee, and was committed for trial.

It will be recalled that Mr. Smith had his car stolen several weeks ago. The police of the Kingston district and many points in Eastern Ontario were notified, but no trace could be found of the missing car. A few days ago the car was found in a ditch near Peterboro', where it had been deserted. Later on Wall, who is about forty years of age, was taken in charge in connection with the theft of the car.

On a charge of theft, Herbert Johnson, a former Kingstonian, was also committed for trial at Napanee. It is alleged that he stole a sett of harness and afterwards traded it off.

The detail had just arrived near the front lines when the captain looked around and noticed a private, hatless and coatless.

"Where's the rest of your uniform?" he demanded.

"Back where we came from."

"Go back and get it."

The private vanished and later reappeared, correctly uniformed, but without his rifle.

"Where's your gun?"

"Left it back where we came from."

"Listen!" bellowed the Captain, "you're a fine soldier. What were you in civilian life?"

"Plumber's assistant."

A BIG APPOINTMENT FOR J. L. PATERSON.

Police Magistrate J. L. Paterson this morning received official notification from the Attorney-General's department, appointing him Magistrate for the entire County of Oxford with the exception of the City of Woodstock.

This means that a new magistrate has been appointed. Mr. Paterson's jurisdiction heretofore has been Inersoll. The appointment comes as a tribute to the discharge of his duties since his appointment back in 1909.

The new territory over which Magistrate Paterson will have jurisdiction comprises Blandford, Blenheim, Dereham, East Nissouri, South Norwich, North Norwich, East Oxford, North Oxford, West Oxford, East Zorra, West Zorra, as well as the villages of Embro, Norwich and Tavistock.

It is understood that courts will be held at the most central points throughout the county. This will mean that the present justices of the peace in these centres will be empowered to take information only, and will not have power to try cases save in connection with local by-laws.

When spoken to this morning by the Sentinel-Review, Mr. Paterson stated that he would continue his law practise for the present. In fact he would continue it indefinitely, although he felt that it would only be a matter of time until the pressure of his court duties would oblige him to discontinue the practise.

The innumerable friends of Mr. Paterson not only in Ingersoll but in many parts of Oxford, will be pleased to hear of this very important appointment. It is one that carries with it heavy responsibilities, and one that eloquently testifies to the worth of Mr. Paterson's services in Ingersoll since his first appointment back in 1909.

The matter of the salary connected with the new office will be arranged at a later date, according to the notification this morning.—Ingersoll Sentinel-Review.

Mr. Paterson is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, Napanee.

While standing in front of the National Hotel an old colored man who gave his name as Alexander Beauregard Digges of Virginia, took a bow he liked the inauguration, to which he replied:

"I've watched them all inducted into office since Lincoln, and this is the quietest emancipation I've seen yet."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Melita, Man.,
August 15th, 1921.

Editor of The Beaver.

Dear Sir,—I promised so many of my friends over in Adolphustown to write, I concluded this would be the better way to reach them all. I wish to thank the Reeve and Council for their kind wishes when I left. I left Toronto on Monday, August 8th by the C. N. R. Our train consisted of seventeen coaches drawn by two engines. Before night we entered those northern forests, and all night and all next day nothing but burnt over forests, hundreds of miles of dead trees. Oh, what a devastated country, with hundreds of small lakes, some so small you could throw a stone across; others miles long. On Wednesday we again came out of the woods into civilization. For many miles we ran very close to a small river which was completely blocked with cedar posts, acres of posts stranded by the low water. For miles that small stream was filled up with posts, posts enough to fence all Ontario, I believe. Further on came pulpwood, railway ties, telephone poles, loading them on flat cars from out the river. We visited two pulp mills that we thought capable of furnishing pulp enough converted in to paper to supply the printing presses of Ontario, but was surprised to learn that the product of these mills were shipped across to the United States. It is up to our legislators, our Government, to see that every foot of timber taken from those forests should be paid for. What immense lumber yards close to the track, what mammoth saw mills running day and night. I never saw so much lumber before. Those lumber piles and those cedar posts made my mouth water.

Our next stop was Port Arthur. We visited the harbor and saw two large passenger boats lying at the wharves belonging to the Northern Navigation Co. What a fleet of steamers and barges getting ready to handle the wheat which has commenced to flow. All the wheat of the West comes down to Port Arthur and Fort William and there loaded on these ships and brought down the lakes.

We arrived in Winnipeg on Thursday morning about 4 a.m. Immediately went to the St. Regis Hotel owned by Mike Hanlan and partner, and was used like a gentleman. Mike is an old Adolphustown boy who has succeeded in Winnipeg. He and his partner paid $200,000 for this property and they are doing a good business. I next visited James Stratton and wife, and oh the pleasure he made of every one down there. Was so pleased to hear from his old friends and neighbors. James has lived at Melita, has lived in British Columbia, is now living in a beautiful suburban home in Winnipeg, and when I asked him where he would rather live, he said 2nd Con. of South Fredericksburgh, somewhere near where Morley White or Ed. Hanlan lives. Dr. Durwood Stratton is having a good practice and promises to become one of the leading Dentists of the city. Maurice Stratton is in the Electrical Department.

Melita lies 220 miles South West of Winnipeg on the C. P. R. is a beautiful town, has three large elevators and a great many farmers live in town and farm outside. S. G. Davis, besides being postmaster of Melita, is also farming a section near Elva. The same interest beat wave we had in July was experienced here and had the same effect here on the crops as it had at home. The Winnipeg press states that twenty-six thousand harvesters have come in over the C. N. R. and C. P. R. Railways. $4.00 per day is the prevailing wages for harvesting and threshing on the line between Winnipeg and Melita. The farmer of the surrounding country were at the stations with their autos when the train arrived, seeking help. I was offered $4.00 per day on several occasions but thought the price too low for an experienced man. Wheat is worth $1.85 here, but little is being sold; mostly stored in the elevators. I called to-day on Amos Rawlinson. Amos was very busy harvesting, but wished to be remembered to all his old friends in Adolphustown.

Now, Mr. Editor, in conclusion let me say this is a fine country for farming, for stock raising, etc. Near Winnipeg we saw hundreds of acres abandoned on account of the wet, thistle, and it is up to us at home to guard against this terrible pest.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space,

I remain yours,
T. N. DAVIS.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John Simmons.

On Saturday night, August 6th, 1921, Mary Helen Young, wife of John Simmons, Camden East, passed to her eternal rest, after a lingering illness of two years, which she bore with Christian fortitude. She was a daughter of the late Richard and Nancy Young, of Athol, Prince Edward County, and was married to her surviving husband thirty-seven years ago, who at that time was residing at Desmond, in which place she made many friends, as likewise she did in each locality she has lived in since. The funeral services were preached on Monday at 1 o'clock, at the family residence, by her Pastor, the Rev. Mr. Latimer, who took for his text II. Timothy 4:7, after which the remains were taken to the White Church cemetery at Moscow for burial. Besides her surviving husband, she leaves to sorrow one son and brother, Mrs. James McQuoid, of Milford, and Mrs. A. M. North and Elias Young, of Picton; also four stepchildren, Mrs. Mattie Castiday, of Parkhey, Sask.; Mrs. Wm. Jackson, Yarker; Wesley Simmons, of Bickwell's Corners, and Fred Simmons, of D'Amable, Ont. Her sister Mrs. A. M. North, was with her for the past year and was a great comfort to her, and which services were much appreciated by the family. The flowers which were presented by the Camden East friends were beautiful, and also much appreciated.

They're Yours

BUSINESS MEN of Ontario — Lend us a hand. The various business associations — of bankers, boards of trade, manufacturers, lumbermen; engineers, educationalists, tourists, and sportsmen, and all other bodies of weight and influence, can do a great work for this province and for their own interests as well by actively promoting educational propaganda to reduce forest fires.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS can help. Railways cause 40% of Ontario's Forest fires. The Forestry Branch is being well supported by improved co-operation on the part of railway officials and by the Dominion Railway Board. Let us reduce the number of railway fires one-half this summer. (The train passenger in Northern Ontario who nonchalantly throws his cigarette or cigar out of the window during the forest fire season is deserving of a jail sentence!)

CAMPERS, tourists, fishermen, picknickers, berry pickers, prospectors and hunters should feel their responsibility even though out of sight of the policeman.

SETTLERS can co-operate by exercising more care in setting out fire on their own property.

LUMBER FIRMS can help by impressing on all foremen the need for carefulness. Riverdrivers in dry seasons should be specially warned. Gangs of men going in and out to the camps need special attention, because of the danger along the slash-lined trails from the inevitable cigarette.

THE PRESS could do more public-spirited constructive work to reduce forest fires than any other single agency. This is a non-political campaign in which the whole press could join.

LEADERS OF PUBLIC OPINION in every community should be the first to extend a helping hand. Tell the Chief Ranger or write the Head Office any time you have information or suggestions to impart, or questions to ask.

ARDEN

(For last week).

We have had some very beautiful rains, which were much needed. It will help the pasture and late potatoes.—There has been a rush of tourists here this summer, and a number of new cottages have been built, which goes to show that Arden is a beautiful resort place for tourists, with so many lakes and railroad accommodations.—Dr. Heiem was taken to Kingston and left in the Old People's Home.—Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dodge and Mr. and Mrs. S. Alexander have returned from their camp at Puzzle Lake.—Mrs. Clare, wife of the Presbyterian minister of Vanguard, Sask., and two children spent two weeks with Mrs. (Rev.) Stocker, at the Parsonage. They were old school girls and enjoyed their visit very much.—The variety shower at Mr. Thomas Hughes' for his daughter, Evalena, who is going to be married this week, and leaving for some time, was well attended. She received a number of beautiful presents. Mr. Almon Parks son of Reeve Dow Parks, is a lucky young man to get such an accomplished young lady.—Mrs. Frank Bliss and two children, of New York, are her aunt's, Mrs. William McGregor, recently.—Mrs. Lindsay and son, Robert, at her brother's, Mr. W. C. Pringle.—The remains of Mrs. Youmans were brought from Kingston last week and laid to rest in the cemetery. The Ladies' Aid attended in a body. Rev. Mr. Stocker conducted the service. On the 8th the Ladies' Aid held their quarterly tea, which was a grand success.—Mrs. Alex. Kirk has opened an ice cream parlor and restaurant, also a grocery. Surely there will be a drop in prices.—Mrs. R. Scott is moving to Welland.—Rev. Mr. Stocker gave a sermon on Sunday night; which was very attentively listened to.

A Grateful Mother Speaks in Favor of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mrs. C. E. Earl, Toronto, says: I am pleased to inform you that boy, Eddie, has been completely cured of bladder trouble since using Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets. He is now 14 years old and has not been able to retain his urine which caused us a great deal of worry and trouble. We tried different doctors and medicines but never received any help until your agent called and advised us to try your Tablets. After treating with them for a few weeks they have completely cured him. I would advise mothers who have children afflicted in this way to give them a trial. We consider it a pleasure to explain his case more fully on request.

Should you or any of your children be afflicted in a similar way we are confident they would produce similar results. Don't fail to give them a trial.

HALF CENTURY OF WEDDED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Otton Celebrated Their Golden Anniversary, on August 17th.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Otton was celebrated at their home, 75 Owen street, yesterday. The bride and groom of fifty years ago were extremely busy all afternoon and night greeting their relatives who had come home for the event, and receiving their many friends and acquaintances who called to congratulate them and to bring some reminder or gift.

Shortly after the noon hour the guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner, which was interspersed with short speeches and general merry-making. Fred W. Otton was an able toast-master, while Rev. H. E. Wellwood proposed the health of the jubilee bride and groom in a fine manner. During the many complimentary remarks made by the speakers regarding the host and the hostess, they expressed their pleasure in being present for the occasion and also wished that Mr. and Mrs. Otton would be able to enjoy their diamond wedding. The house was prettily decorated with golden streamers and yellow flowers, in the midst of which was a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Those who sat down to the dinner were the immediate relatives of the host and hostess: Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Otton and daughters, Mary and Dorothy, the latter of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevens, Douglas Stevens, Toronto; Mrs. J. MacCullough and her two children, Dorothy and Donald, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Braden, and Rev. H. E. Wellwood. After dinner, a group photograph was taken. The members of the family then presented their father and mother with many expensive and beautiful gifts of gold, and the groom presented the bride with a pearl ring. In the evening the home was continually filled with the many friends of the couple, who called to congratulate them on their having married for fifty years, and it was well on to midnight before the last of them had departed.

Mr. H. H. Otton was born in Kingston in the year 1849. He moved to Napanee in 1864 to learn the hardware and tinsmith business in the establishment of Henry Boyle, his wife's father. It was there he met Miss Elizabeth Boyle and on August 17th, 1871, they were married in the old Methodist Church by Rev. G. M. Meacheem.

In February, 1877, Mr. and Mrs. Otton came to Barrie. At Toronto, while on the way here, they were joined by Joseph Otton, the former's brother, who had also learned his trade in the same store as did his brother. The two brothers, on their arrival in Barrie, bought out the business of Wm. Ross, a hardware merchant. They occupied that stand for three years, at the end of which time they purchased Dr. Dysart property, opposite the Queen's Hotel, now occupied by W. A. McConkey and D. Lath. In 1894 the brothers dissolved partnership and Fred Otton took his uncle's place in the business. From the old Dyment property, Father and son moved across the street next to the Barrie Hotel and remained there until 1899, when they located on the present site of the Sterling Bank. The final move took place in 1913, when the business was transferred to its present quarters, The Examiner, Thursday, August 18th, 1921.

U. F. O. PICNIC AT VARTY LAKE.

About 2000 people attended the picnic on Thursday, Aug. 18th, held by the United Farmers of the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, at Galbraith's Grove, located on the shores of Varty Lake. In the field adjoining the grove, where the speeches were delivered, about two hundred automobiles were parked.

R. E. Burnaby, President of the United Farmers for the province, gave an interesting address, which was listened to very closely by all of those present. During the course of his remarks, Mr. Burnaby discussed many of the problems which confront the people at the present time. He paid special stress to the part which the farmers of this province must play in the building of the nation. In opening his address, Mr. Burnaby said that the subject of his discourse would be "In Unity There is Strength". He took occasion to remark that the farmers were generally either misunderstood or misrepresented. The speaker remarked that he was sorry the premier of this Dominion had recently made the statement that farmers were "wreckers". The statement had been made remarked the speaker, that farmers are profiteers; but he took occasion to deny this statement by stating that the farmer was not the man who set the price of the goods when it was brought to the city to be sold. Mr. Burnaby referred to the statement which is made continually that the farmers have barrels of money, which he said was not true, and if it were true none of the newspaper men who made these remarks have gone on the land to make the "barrels of money" to which they refer.

The speaker then dealt with the United Farmers' organization of Ontario, and went on to show that there were only sixty thousand members when there should be two hundred and sixty thousand. He referred to the farmers' movement as an organization which had for its purpose the idea of increasing production and assisting the farmer generally.

In closing his remarks, Mr. Burnaby emphasized the need of the farmers of this country interesting themselves in the problems which confront the government, and when the votes were taken, they would be in a position to vote intelligently. He also dealt with the tariff duties, which he claimed were building a wall between nations who are anxious to deal with us. When the speaker took his seat he was loudly applauded by the large gathering.

E. H. Sills Speaks.

J. L. F. Sproule, County Director for Frontenac, who acted as chairman of the gathering, called upon E. H. Sills to give the first address of the afternoon. Mr. Sills, in his opening remarks, said it was high time that the farmers were getting something, as they had been getting second choice every time for some years. He stated that he was glad to say that Premier Drury was taking no notice of the little dogs who are barking at his feet. When speaking of the Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of the Provincial Highways, he said that he thought it was pretty near time that he stopped explaining all matters that are charged by certain men with mere trifling incidents. He was convinced that the people of Ontario were satisfied with what Biggs had done for this country in the matter of roads. Mr. Sills complimented the Drury government for establishing a rural credit system which will greatly assist the farmers.

At this point in his remarks he took a swing at the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railroads and Canals, who, he claimed, was running this country into a debt of from sixty to seventy million dollars a year by his management of government-owned railroads.

Claude Brethen was the second speaker on the list. During his remarks he showed how that during the past fifty years the industries in the large cities had been stripping the country of farm hands. The population in the Township of Camden, he said, had decreased two thousand. He cited cases where industries which had been located in Newburgh, Camden East, Yarker, and other small places, had been absorbed into the larger mergers, thus robbing these villages of industries.

Miss Balano, President of the United Farmers' Women's Association, for the County of Lennox and Addington, said that so far no organization meeting had taken place in the county, but in the very near future, the women would get together and organize. She contended that the women of the rural communities were entitled to recreation, more than they have had in the past, and when the women's clubs were formed one of the first things she considered should be a recreation programme.

A. E. Weller, Secretary of the U. F. O. for the County of Frontenac, when called upon for a speech, congratulated the people for the large attendance, but said that instead of making any lengthy remarks, he would make way for the speaker of the day, Mr. Burnaby.

Mrs. R. J. Fair, Director for the Women's Movement in the County of Frontenac, gave an account of what had been accomplished in this county and urged upon the women the necessity of uniting together.

Motor Car and Party Drop Into a Stream.

At Mink's bridge, between Newburgh and Napanee, a man and party from that vicinity, had a close call last week. They stopped to wait for a car to come over the bridge, and the embankment gave way. The car rolled over three times until it landed in the stream, which, fortunately, was not very deep. The people in the coupe were not hurt, although they had a very close call.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

At Cornwall Police Court, Edward Craig, of Amherst Island, arrested on a charge of issuing two forged cheques, one for $98 and the other for $140, using the name of Joseph Marten, and having the cheques cashed at a local bank, appeared for preliminary hearing and chose summary-trial. After evidence had been taken the case was adjourned for further hearing until next week.

According to information received by Chief Paterson from Albert J. Cawdron, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa, Craig's right name is Ernest Kring, who was convicted of theft in Toronto on April 28th, 1920, and sentenced to sixty days. Accused admitted Kring was his proper name and said he took "Craig" when he came to Cornwall a few months ago.

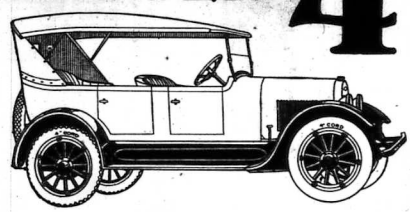
Announcing the NEW McLAUGHLIN-BUICK MASTER 4



Here is a Thoroughbred Master Four Completing the Famed McLaughlin-Buick Line

The new Four-Cylinder McLaughlin-Buick, here announced, is a thoroughbred—a pedigreed car well worthy of its name. Down to the very last detail, this new model possesses every quality of enduring serviceability, complete comfort, and distinctive appearance that have always characterized McLaughlin automobiles.

The advent of this new Master Four makes the McLaughlin-Buick 1922 line complete. It offers to purchasers of a car of this size all the quality and service that go to make up the name McLaughlin.

The McLaughlin-Buick Valve-in-Head Engine—A Power Plant That Has Proved Itself.

The engine, of course, is of the time-tested McLaughlin-Buick Valve-in-Head type. The year-after-year concentration of McLaughlin-Buick engineering skill and experience in building Valve-in-Head motors assure the highest standard of performance obtainable to-day.

Every other unit is of a quality equal to the power plant. The whole assembly constitutes a perfectly balanced chassis which is of typical McLaughlin-Buick construction. The equipment of Cord Tires is merely evidence of the quality which characterizes the entire car.

Two open and two closed body types mounted on the McLaughlin-Buick built chassis comprise the new series.

Even the most casual inspection of the details of design and workmanship will reveal that full measure of quality which motorists have learned to associate with McLaughlin.

A Great Car—Prices Make it an Even Greater Value.

Obviously a high grade automobile — a genuine McLaughlin-Buick production—the prices make this Four even greater.

The new McLaughlin-Buick Master Four is a Made-In-Canada car. Walkerville, Ont., is the home of the General Motors Canadian mammoth manufacturing plants. These new plants are most modern in every respect and are fitted with the finest machinery to turn out accurately and economically, motors, transmissions, axles and other heavy parts for motor cars. Smaller parts and the assembling of units, painting, upholstering and top and body building are done at the Oshawa plants.

AUTUMN SOWN CROPS.

Within the past year, experiments have been conducted at the College and throughout Ontario with Winter Wheat, Winter Rye, Winter Emmer, Winter Barley and Hairy Vetches.

About three hundred varieties of winter wheat and many selections and crosses have been grown under experiment at the Agricultural College within the past thirty-one years. Fourteen named varieties of winter wheat have been grown under test at the College for twenty-six years with average results for the whole period as follows:—Yield of grain per acre, 43.3 bushels; yield of straw per acre, 2.7 tons; and weight per measured bushel, 60.6 pounds. The percentage decrease per acre in 1921 in comparison with the average for the whole period amounts to 37.4 in yield of grain, 57.0 in yield of straw, and 2.3 in weight of grain per measured bushel. It will, therefore, be seen that the winter wheat results at the College are considerably below the average this season.

Among the particularly prominent winter wheats in Ontario at the present time are the Dawson's Golden Chaff, the O. A. C. No. 104, the No. 6, and the Imperial Amber. The Dawson's Golden Chaff produces a very stiff straw of medium length, beardless heads with red chaff, and white grain. The O. A. C. No. 104 was originated at the College by crossing the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian. It is a white wheat with a white chaff similar to the Bulgarian and has a beardless head similar to the Dawson's Golden Chaff. It is more vigorous in growth and has killed out less in the winter than either of its parents. The No. 6 resembles the Dawson's Golden Chaff but has a squarer head, the straw has a purplish tinge, and the crop is apparently less subject to smut. The Imperial Amber is a bearded wheat with a red chaff and red grain.

Experiments at the College have shown that the best results have been obtained from sowing large, plump, sound, well-matured winter wheat seed of strong vitality.

Five varieties of winter wheat have been tested experimentally by farmers throughout Ontario in each of the past five years. The average results in yield of bushels per acre for the whole period are as follows:—O. A. C. No. 104, 27; Improved Dawson's Golden Chaff, 26; Improved Imperial Amber, 25.4; Kharkov, 22.9; Yaroslaf 21. The O. A. C. No. 104 surpassed the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Imperial Amber varieties in yield per acre both at the College and throughout Ontario.

Of the winter ryes the Mammoth White, Petkus, and Boosen have given the highest returns.

Winter Barley is not quite as hardy as winter wheat but, when it survives the winter, it gives a high yield.

Distribution of Material for Experiments in Autumn of 1921.

As long as the supply lasts, settlement will be distributed free of charge in the order in which the applications are received from Ontario farmers wishing to experiment and to report the results of any one of the following tests: 1, three varieties of Winter Wheat; 2, one variety of Winter Rye and one of Winter Wheat; 3 spring applications of five fertilizers with Winter Wheat; 4, autumn and spring applications of nitrate of soda and common salt with Winter Wheat; 5, Winter Emmer and Winter Barley; 6, Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye as Fodder Crops; 7, mixtures of Winter Rye and Hairy Vetches for Seed production. The size of each plot is to be one rod wide by two rods long. Fertilizers will be sent by express for number 3 this autumn and for number 3 next spring. All seed will be sent by mail except that for number 4, which will accompany the fertilizers.

Stopping Games of Chance Two Kingston Men Arrested.

That the Ontario Attorney-General's department is determined that all games of chance shall be eliminated from the Autumn fairs, and also fields where amusements are held, was evidenced at Enterprise last Wednesday last, when two Kingstonians, who were, so it is stated, running a game of chance were placed under arrest by High County Constable Samuel Brien and Constable Daniel B. Warner.

A charge was laid against only one of the men, and he was allowed his freedom on condition that he appear in Napanee on Tuesday next. The Attorney-General's Department to make sure that no games of chance were run at any show.

When, after the armistice, General Pershing started the custom of genial inspections, mingling with the men and clapping them on the shoulder, he was a little green at it, thanks to a year and more of unbending and terrifying surveys of his troops. Therefore he was easily nonplussed, and one unexpected reply he got from a thrice-wounded soldier in the 165th Infantry cramped his style for the rest of the day. He had put his hand, friendly-like, on the old warrior's shoulder and said heartily:

"Sergeant, where did you get those three wound stripes?"

The soldier looked him square in the eye and replied:

"From the supply sergeant, sir."

MACDONALD'S CUT BRIER

¶ MACDONALD'S "BRIER" has become a Canadian institution. Smoked by the men who made history. In the bush, on the trail, in mining camps, prospectors' huts, factory yards, on trains, steamships, in the luxurious homes and downtown clubs of our Canadian cities—Macdonald's has always been recognized as the smoke.

¶ MACDONALD'S CUT "BRIER"—the same tobacco but in new form—maintains every Macdonald tradition since 1858, and gives to smokers—more tobacco for the money.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"What is the best fire preventive?" asks a weekly journal.

The answer is, the present price of coal.

Judge—Have you ever seen the prisoner at the bar before?

Witness—Yes, your Honor, that's where I met him.

Soft corns are difficult to eradicate, but Holloway's Corn Remover will draw them out painlessly.

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is an excellent medicine to destroy worms.

"Blank is proud of his ancestors, isn't he?"

"He ought to be. They're the only ones in the family who ever did anything worth while."

According to an evening paper the lady who has just become Duchess of Westminster has "one son, a boy." On the other hand, the Duke himself has two daughters, both girls.

Requisite on the Farm. — Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

First Volcano—Are you going to erupt?

Second Volcano—Oh, what's the use? One of these comedy film companies was around here yesterday, and my work is so tame compared with theirs that I'm all discouraged.

At the grave of the departed the old darky pastor stood, hat in hand. Looking into the abyss he delivered himself of the funeral oration.

"Samuel Johnson," he said mournfully, "you is gone. An' we hopes you is gone where we 'specks you ain't."

An Oil That is Famous.—Though Canada was not the birthplace of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, it is the home of that famous compound. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far afield enough to attest its excellence, for in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

English charwomen demand twice the money and double the food of prewar days. One of them is reported as saying to her employer: "Your feeling, ma'am, is satisfactory, but owing to our havin' to eat more to keep pace in' in these anxious times, us charladies have decided to take no stoppin' jobs after dinner."

"You say you want equal opportunity for everybody," said the man who tries to be fair.

"I do," answered the anarchist.

"And you are protesting against injustice?"

"I am."

"Then why don't you give the innocent bystander a chance for his life when you plant a bomb?"

"Every man ought to save enough money to buy himself a good, fat farm," said the political orator.

"Yes, and then go and do something else with the money," replied a farmer in the audience.

Worms, however genteelized, are found in the digestive tracts, where they act up disturbances detrimental to the health of the child. There can be no comfort for the little ones until the hurtful intruders have been expelled. An excellent preparation for this purpose can be had in Miller's Worm Powders. They will immediately destroy the worms and correct the conditions that were favorable to their existence.

UNITED STATES GOT BARGAIN

Purchase of Florida From Spain for $6,000,000 Was Decidedly Good Stroke of Business.

More than $6,000,000 was paid by the United States to Spain one hundred years ago for Florida.

In 1819, on the anniversary of the birth of the nation's first president, there was concluded between John Quincy Adams, then secretary of state, and Luis De Onis, minister plenipotentiary of the king of Spain, an agreement and treaty whereby the United States became owner of what were then known as the provinces of East and West Florida.

This territory included not only all of the present state of Florida, but part of what is now Georgia and Alabama, and it was bought for $5,000,000 and the settlement of some claims which amounted to $1,024,741.44, a total of $6,024,741.44.

The language of the remarkable document between the two nations is clear and precise and differs from other treaties to a marked extent. The two men who drew it up were past masters in statesmanship, politics and diplomacy; also, each was the most advanced thinker of the country he represented.

Spain wanted to get rid of her American possessions before they were taken away from her. She was proud, but resented the fact that she was in no position to wage a long and possibly unsuccessful warfare to hold her colonies.

America wanted the land in this continent held by Spain, but was willing to acquire it by purchase rather than conquest, and with both sides ably represented by the best talent, it was not long before a satisfactory conclusion was reached.

DIED TO ESCAPE SUFFERING

Crew of Crippled Hun Submarine Took the Easiest Way Out of a Hopeless Situation.

Admiral Sims in the World's Work tells of the efficiency of the submarine detector devices. There when a submarine had been injured and was lying on the bottom in shallow water a grewsome thing was heard. They listened for hours, without hearing a sound; but about 3 o'clock in the afternoon a sharp tapping noise came faintly over the wires. It was recognized that some the listeners' blood ran cold.

Only one thing in the world could make a sound like that. It was the knock of a revolver. The first report had hardly stilled when another shot was heard, and then there were more in rapid succession. The listeners on two different vessels heard three pistol cracks and counted them; the reports which these men independently made were identical in every detail. In all 25 shots came from the bottom of the sea. As there were from 25 to 30 men in the submarine crew the meaning was all too evident. The larger part of the officers and men, finding themselves shut tightly in their coffin of steel, had resorted to that escape which was not uncommonly availed of by German submarine crews in this hideous war. Nearly all of them had committed suicide.

Gen. Benjamin Butler's Wit.

General Butler was the leader of the house in 1875 and Samuel J. Randall leader of the Democratic side. As the Forty-third congress was about to close I was with Randall when Butler came up, and Randall asked him to hold a Sunday session. Butler said no, he would not consent to it; he never would do any work on Sunday that was not necessary.

Randall turned and chaffingly said: "Oh, that is your New England Puritanism, I suppose. That serves you to good purpose, and I expect to meet you some day, Butler, in another and better world."

Butler replied in a flash: "Oh, no Sam; you will be there, as you are here, a member of the lower house."—Melville E. Stone, in Collier's Weekly.

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.—"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that terrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my house in order every night so there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the druggist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 845, Smiths Falls, Ont.

I make good money fixing shoes,
And making boots to measure;
And oftimes take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task,
In fact we wouldn't try;
Stool pigeons only wish we would,
But we are far too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any man that holds that job
Is nothing but a dud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let your children shirk
And hang around among such bums
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—

We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is defined in our dictionary as a loose, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "liable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation, is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such drivelling, underhand lines.

So, be like us, and mix not with such folks, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

HOW CAN WE MEET THE SHORTAGE OF HAY AND STRAW IN EASTERN CANADA?

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The Experimental Farms Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa fully appreciates the very serious condition of affairs likely to result from crop shortage, realizing that without careful thought and study on the part of all concerned, the live stock of Eastern Canada are in danger of depletion. The following paragraphs contain certain general recommendations which it is proposed to deal with more in detail in the immediate future.

The general crop situation in Eastern Canada during the present season indicates the necessity of radical changes in the feeding of roughage this winter. How may roughage be saved? What are the substitutes, if any? It has been shown that live stock may be maintained on a ration of concentrates. This is neither practical, economical, nor necessary, however. In very brief form the situation may be approached under the following headings:—

Care in Feeding.

Possibly in 75 per cent. of our live stock farms hay and straw have been overfed. With the mows full and hay cheap, our live stock have been asked to obtain the nutriments necessary for their maintenance and growth by handling large quantities of crude fibre with a comparatively small percentage of nutrients. Under these particular conditions they have come through the winter at least fairly well. With hay and straw at a premium, however, the question arises to what extent can roughage be cut out of the ration of the horse or cow and substituted with other feeds which are procurable. Very few feeders have ever had occasion to weigh the hay which they are feeding their live stock. The manger is filled and the operation repeated. When it is considered that the standard recommendation for the feeding of hay to horses is at the rate of 1 lb. to every 100 lbs. of live weight it will be appreciated that many horses have, in the past, eaten hay for their own amusement only. When it is realized that 8 or 9 lbs. of good clover hay and 4 or 5 lbs. of oat straw is all the roughage needed for the milking cow supplied with a well balanced meal mixture and ensilage it will be evident that hay is in the very great majority of cases overfed to cattle. Even for the producing dairy herd where no other roughage appears in the ration and where it is supplemented only by concentrates the very limit of hay that would be required would be 20 lbs. daily with say 8 or 9 lbs. of oat straw and this for the cow that is producing. It is safe to say that for the herd that is being hold over for better times, and this best describe the situation in many districts, that cutting down the quantities used in past feeding practice a full 50 per cent, and substituting with a few pounds of meal would not only effect a great saving in roughage, but incidentally would bring the cattle in question through in as good or better shape than had been the case where roughage was fed in unlimited quantities.

More Silage and Roots.

In many sections of Ontario particularly, hay may be substituted by the use of more ensilage and roots. Where succulent roughages such as the foregoing are available the quantity of hay fed may be cut to the very minimum. These feeds will, however, not be available to any great extent in many parts of Quebec and the greater part of the Maritime Provinces, according to present indications.

Meal Substitutes.

To replace one half of the ration where dry roughage has been calculated to form the whole ration of the cow, oats, bran and oil cake are particularly to be recommended. Oats in itself is from 10 to 12 per cent. more valuable than bran for the milk producing standpoint. In itself it has a fairly high fibre content. All through Eastern Canada, however, oats is a light crop and we will be forced to depend upon Western production. Wheat by-products should be fairly readily procurable. Oil cake and linseed by-products will be high in price, but will apparently be available fairly generally. Even at the high price it is doubtful if the feeder whose main desire is to cut down on roughage cannot afford to be without some linseed oil meal in the ration. With 10 lbs. of hay of fair quality, 4 or 5 lbs. of straw and depending on the age and condition of the animal, a few pounds of a mixture of bran, 2 parts, oats, 2 parts, linseed oil meal, 1 part, production need not be looked for, but the animal will be well maintained. Corn from all indications will be one of the heaviest crops ever recorded in the United States. This means that ground corn may enter quite largely into our Canadian rations. A mixture of 4 parts bran, 2 parts corn, 2 parts oats and 1 part oil meal would be an excellent concentrated substitute for a roughage. Even bran and corn, as these concentrates are likely to be the most easily procured, could be fed, 4 parts bran, 2 parts corn.

The Use of Straw.

Where roughage is scarce, straw cannot be afforded as a bedding material, particularly oat straw. It must practically all be fed. The practice of feeding cattle entirely on straw is of course not economical, but the ruminant must have a certain amount of crude fibre. They should not, however, be asked to obtain their energy from the comparatively small percentage of nutriments contained in straw. Nevertheless with some grain or concentrates supplied, straw forms an excellent crude filler and in order that the digestive and excretory organs may function properly, straw may be made to take the place of much more valuable forms of roughage. It is safe to say that there will be very little bedding wasted this winter in many parts of the East. Sawdust and shavings are available in many places. There is no reason why considerable bedding material might not be gathered in the form of leaves in the fall. They have been utilized in the past.

The Advisability of Cutting Hay and Straw and of Mixed Feeds.

By increasing the laber of feeding in the cutting of roughage and by mixing say cut hay, cut straw, and whatever meal is being fed, there is little doubt that a considerable saving of roughage may be secured. Less energy is required to masticate, digest and assimilate this cut feed and where it is mixed the palatability is bettered or at least averaged. Under normal feeding practice the advisability of cutting roughage is doubtful in that the cow is fitted by nature to do this work herself. However, this winter the object is to save roughage and the farmer who has facilities for cutting the roughage will find a result in saving. Can the feeding value of such a mixture be further improved?

Molasses.

A straight comparison of molasses with such feeds as bran, oats, shorts, corn meal, etc., shows the fact that molasses has a comparatively low feeding value. It is true that the sugars are of considerable value from their carbohydrate nature. However, as a conditioner or as an agent to render other feeds more palatable and on top of this, with the very fair feeding value in the feed itself, molasses could be highly recommended to feed either mixed with cut feeds, distributed in the undiluted form over hay or straw, or diluted with water and sprinkled by the use of a watering can over the feed in the mangers. It is a wonderful relish and the use of comparatively small quantities of it is easily seen in the better condition of cattle. Apparently the feeding grades of molasses will be fairly readily procurable, particularly in the Maritime Provinces. Prices will be very considerably lower than have applied within the last few years and the comparatively small quantity that would be required would be such as to force the use of this material on the consideration of live stock feeders wherever it may be procured.

The Value of Chaff and Leaves.

In the past considerable quantities of the most valuable part of the plant have been wasted in the form of chaff, leaves, etc. These accumulate in the barn floors and too often find their way to the manure pile or barnyard direct. They must, of course, reach the barnyard by way of the manger.

In general it is difficult to offer a recommendation where such a wide variety of cases and conditions arise. The main advice to be given, in conclusion, is after all extreme economy in feeding hay and straw. Weights and quantities are difficult matters to juggle with when speaking in a general way. The eye of the feeder is after all of proverbial merit. More or less experimentation will be required by the individual feeders in cutting down little by little the rough age which he has been accustomed to feed and replacing it by minimum quantities of concentrated or grain rations. If hay continues to increase in price and if grains and concentrates do not rise too quickly, it would actually be cheaper to cut down roughage 50 per cent. and replace with some of the grain mixtures recommended.

The man who does not take every possible step to hold over his stock, and who sacrifices his assets, will make an unqualified mistake. True it were distinctly better to dispose of, rather than to feed. Even at present prices, after all of proverbial merit. BACHELORS' LANE.

(For last week).

No doubt some of the readers of last interesting paper will be asking themselves the question, "where is Bachelors' Lane?" Well I will tell you. It is about one and a half miles west of the beautiful and lively village of Tamworth, Hayes' Corner running north for about half a mile, terminating at Beaver Lake, where there are beautiful natural sceneries. There are three convenient islands, two of which are equipped with cottages, boat houses and other necessary buildings, besides two cottages, boat houses and garages on the immediate shore where the owners and some friends reside during the hot summer season. Besides on the several holidays and Sunday afternoons there are scores of visitors. I think this place is worthy of its new name, (as this is the first it has been introduced to the public), as it contains three stalwart men who are married, and J. C. Pringle and Master Reggie visited at Mr. Willet Pringle's last week. The party travelled by Ford car, leaving Fort Colborne 7.30 Sunday night, via Hamilton, Toronto, Belleville and Napanee; returning on Thursday, via Tweed, Peterboro', etc. While at this place, they, with Mr. Pringle, visited the Bald Mountains and several lakes, which were very interesting to them.—On Friday last a gloom was cast over the village by the learning of the death of Mrs. Mowbray, who had been ill but a few days.

WEDDING BELLS.

VanVlack—Moore.

A very interesting event took place at the Bay Parsonage, South Napanee, on Thursday, August 18th, 1921, when Sarah Marion, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, of Newburgh, became the bride of Percy Delorme, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. VanVlack, Desoronto Road, the Rev. Mr. Truscott officiating. After the ceremony the bridal couple and their immediate relatives motored to Newburgh to the home of the bride's aunt, where a dainty luncheon was served. The happy couple afterwards left by motor for Kingston, en route for a trip through New York State. The bride looked well in a suit of brown velour with beaver collar and small brown feather hat. On their return they will reside at the home of the groom, Desoronto Road.

Body From Main Ducks.

Messrs. Hicks & Irvine, Picton, were called to the Main Ducks to prepare for burial the body of Mrs. Brant of Deseronto, who died suddenly on the island. The undertaker motored to Long Point and from there to the Ducks by motor boat. The body was brought to Picton and shipped to Deseronto.

Rites for Mrs. Switzer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Suzanna Matilda Switzer were held July 20th, at Armstrong & Hotson's establishment, the service being read by Rev. O. M. Sanford. Mrs. Switzer had attained her seventy-second year, and came to Vancouver four years ago from Vernon to spend her declining days with her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Walton, 214 Sixteenth Avenue. The body will be shipped to-night to Vernon where interment will be made beside the body of her husband who predeceased her by ten years.

Death of J. E. Huffman.

The death took place in Deseronto on Saturday of John Edward Huffman. He had been in a serious state of health for some time. He was born at Hay Bay on June 17th, 1850, a son of John and Mary Huffman, U. E. Loyalists. In 1873 he married Priscilla McCumber and took up farming at Empey Hill. Four years ago he gave up farming, sold his farm and moved into Deseronto. A Methodist in religion. Mr. Huffman was a good neighbor and a loving husband and father. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Lasher, Richmond, and Mrs. W. B. Perry, Toronto.

Newburgh Citizen Wins.

On a recent visit from the Ford Motor Co.'s Service Department, Inspector to the Garages and Service Stations in this district, found, with the exception of Messrs. Paul & Smith, Ford dealers, Napanee, that the "Newburgh Garage", of which C. G. Walker is proprietor, was carrying the most complete stock of genuine Ford parts; not one counterfeit part being used or sold. Mr. Walker was the recipient of hearty congratulations from the Inspector and the Company. The service in other departments at this garage was found to be on a par. 34a

BASEBALL

BELLEVILLE RED SOCKS AT NAPANEE, AUGUST 24th.

Huffman started the ball rolling in the first frame with a 2-base wallop. Frost fanned, but Stokes, after scoring Huffman on a single, stole 2 bags while Belleville were asleep. Vanalstyne attempted a sacrifice which he beat out while the pitcher was trying to coax Stokes off from 3rd. Stewart scored him with a safety; then Van scored on an overthrow. Johnston fanned and Jones drove out to pitcher.

Belleville made a feeble come-back in the second, when Storke after reaching 3rd on errors by Stokes and Scrimshaw, scored on W. Miles' single.

Then Napanee batted all round. J. Miles doubled and reached 3rd on the error which put Scrimshaw on 1st. Huffman sacrificed and scored him. Frost singled and crossed the plate along with Scrim on Stokes' 2-bagger Van singled, but Stokes tried to go too far and was nailed at the plate. Van. stole; Stewart walked; after a wild pitch and error, Van scored. Johnston reached the first-baseman's sack on his error. Jones made it a half-dozen by scoring him and Stewart with a double. Miles grounded out to pitcher.

Next innings Miles struck out 2 and Huffman caught Cook's fly. Then Scrimshaw's single, Huffman's double Frost's sacrifice and Stokes' 3-bagger added 2 more runs, piling up an 11 to 1 lead.

Belleville got their only earned run in the 6th, when Cook singled and scored on Dennis' single. They were probably robbed of a run or two in the 5th by Vanalstyne's shoe-string catch of Wardraugh's short fly. Loucks went the last three rounds facing only nine men whom he had at his mercy.

Jefferies held Napanee hitless except in the 6th. Stokes reached 1st on an error and stole. Van singled and both were scored by a long drive by J. Stewart, who has a habit of hitting when hits mean runs.

The crowd was not large. Are you supporting the team?

School Opening

In a few days the Schools will be opened and the young folks will require the new Book for the classes to which they have advanced. Until the last few days it looked as though the opening would find us without many of the Books on the lists of both the Public and High Schools; but we are pleased to state that, with the exception of three or four, we have every Book needed, and expect these by or before the first of September.

We will have the largest supply and greatest variety of Exercise and Scribbling Books, Note Books, Pencils, Crayons, Paints, Book Bags, Pencil Boxes, in fact every article that the Scholar will need that was ever assembled in one place in the town. NAPANEE PAID TRIBUTE TO DEAD POLICE OFFICER

No greater tribute could be paid to a man than that which was paid here Monday afternoon to the late Constable Richard A. Beard. "Dick", as he was known to his intimate friends, has passed to the great beyond, but his memory will ever be cherished by the people of Napanee who loved him so well for his many qualities of heart and mind. As an officer of the law, with the duty of safeguarding life and property in the town, he fell dead while in the discharge of his duty—a victim of a gun. Honored in life, he was honored in death. The people who loved him turned out en masse to his funeral. Citizens in all walks of life were represented at the funeral service—men, women and little children, for they all alike knew him, and he had helped many of them in time of trouble. Sympathy for the bereaved ones.

Just after the town clock had struck off four o'clock, the funeral cortege left the home of the late night constable—a neat little cottage on East street. Six members of the Masonic Order, of which the deceased was a member, carried the remains out through one of the parlor windows to the waiting motor hearse. Then the funeral cortege, made up of fifteen automobiles, members of the Masonic Order over a hundred strong, Mayor Greer and members of the Town Council, Chief of Police Barrett, and a large number of townsmen, moved off to Trinity Church, of which the deceased was a member, and where the service was held. The church bell tolled as the procession wended its way to the edifice, a distance of about two blocks. The route to the church was filled with people. Business in the town was suspended. Everyone had a share in the tribute paid.

The interior was banked with beautiful floral tributes of love and esteem, and the pulpit in the funeral cortege made their way to the pews, the organist played "The Dead March in Saul." Rev. Dr. Shorey, Pastor of Trinity Church, had charge of the service. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. Terrill, Pastor of Grace Methodist Church, and Rev. Mr. Wilson, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

The service proper opened with the singing of the hymn, "Nearer Our Heads Are Bowed With Woe." following which prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Terrill. Then Rev. Mr. Wilson read the 90th Psalm. Following the reading of the Scripture, there was another hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," the church choir in the singing.

Rev. Dr. Shorey delivered an eloquent discourse, in which he paid a splendid tribute to the late Constable in death. His theme had to do with man playing the part of a man. Man was created in the image of God and the speaker pointed out that the manly man is the man who recognizes the source of all his greatness of his soul. There was no other way to be paid from unmanliness but through Jesus Christ.

"We are gathered here this afternoon," continued the speaker, "to have aroused the deepest sympathy of the community for the wife, Sherry, and also a deep sense of indignation, in that there should be in the world a creature who will live amongst men and so destroy the principles of manhood as to bring disgrace, ruin and death as has been done."

The speaker referred to the fact that the deceased was a faithful, loyal citizen, and the sympathy of a large number rises out to be relieved. Their great loss was also a great gain.

At the close of his address, Rev. Dr. Shorey offered prayer and the church service closed with the singing of "Abide With Me."

Following the church service, the members of the Masonic Order conducted their service. Those officiating were R. D. Waters, W. M.; Rev. Coleman, Chaplain; Wor. Bro. H. McWilliams, Master; Right Wor. Bro. W. S. Herrington.

The following members of the Orange Order acted as pall bearers: Bro. John W. Thompson, Wor. Bro. Jas. Wright, Wor. Bro. J. H. Thompson, Very Wor. Bro. W. A. Grange, Very Wor. Bro. J. G. Fennell, Wor. Bro. G. S. Reid.

After the Masonic service the funeral cortege was reformed and the remains of the late Constable Beard were taken to the undertaking parlors of Ming & Hambly, and at midnight they were placed on a train for the west, and forwarded to Toronto where interment took place on Tuesday. The Masters and two Wardens of the Blue Lodge and three principals of the Royal Arch Chapter accompanied the remains.

Watchman Shot Through Heart By Three Burglars

Was Summoned to Stop Intended Robbery of F. W. Smith & Bros.' Jewelry Store—Crooks Supposed to Have Escaped in Stolen Car

Napanee citizens were thrown into a state of great excitement Sunday morning last when it became known that R. A. Beard, Night Watchman, had been shot by burglars. About one o'clock on Sunday morning, when Mrs. R. Bova went upstairs from her fruit store she thought she heard strange sounds in the alleyway at rear of her home. She called to her husband, who had not yet come upstairs, and he crossed the street to the Royal Hotel, where the Night Watchman was standing and informed him.

Mr. Beard, accompanied by Vincent Bova and Hugh Duncan, at once started to investigate, and discovered three men in the alleyway, just north of Smith's jewelery store. Constable Beard then pulled out his revolver and advanced towards the three men, and at this juncture Bova and Duncan turned to make their way out of the laneway. As they were on their way out they heard the report of a gun being discharged and they were under the impression that Constable Beard had fired at the three burglars, but as they soon found that a shot fired by one of the three men had struck Constable Beard in the heart. The constable fell with a groan and his death followed quickly.

It is believed that after the shooting the three men made their escape through the laneway leading along beside Mr. Perry's store, and which would bring them out in Dundas street.

In a moment the fire bell rang, summoning the citizens, as several had heard the shot, but when help arrived Mr. Beard was dead.

The burglars had evidently intended to enter Smith's jewelery store from the rear, as finger marks were discovered on the window sill, and a couple of haversacks were picked up later in the lane. The haversacks were the same as soldiers used overseas. In a short time the police had men on every street, leading from the town, but nothing resulted. In the morning it was discovered that Mr. J. W. Robinson's big car, a Willys-Knight, No. 145-096, had been stolen from his garage on Piety Hill, later in the morning a suspect was arrested on the street and lodged in jail.

It was found that Mr. Beard was shot by a bullet from a 30-30 calibre rifle. The bullet passed through the body and broke a pane of glass in a rear window of Bova's shop and lodged in the window casing within.

The late Constable Beard was twice married, and is survived by his wife, four sons, Malcolm, Jack, Maitland and Benjamin, all of Napanee, and one daughter, Jessie Beard, about thirteen years of age.

Constable Beard came to Napanee from Thorold, Ont., about thirteen years ago, and prior to joining the police force four years ago, was employed in the real estate and insurance business.

THE INQUEST.

Sensational evidence was given at the resumed inquest held here Monday night to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the killing of Constable Richard A. Beard early Sunday morning, when Vincent Bova, Italian fruit dealer, declared that a man had pointed a gun at him from a laneway off Dundas street, about three minutes after the shooting of Constable Beard took place.

Pressed on the matter later on, the witness stated that he could not say for sure whether it was a gun or a long stick the man had pointed at him.

Eight witnesses were heard at the hearing which commenced at 7.30 p.m. (standard time) and concluded at 10.15 o'clock, when an adjournment was made for two weeks in order to give the police more time to work on the case.

Of the witnesses called there was not one who could give a description of the three men said to have been in the alleyway. They stated they did not have the opportunity of getting a good view of the men. The revolver carried by the late Constable Beard was produced by Chief of Police Barrett and the fact was established that his gun had not been discharged, as all the chambers were found to be filled.

Early Monday evening a post-mortem examination was held on the body of the late Constable Beard by Dr. James Miller, Queen's University, assisted by Dr. T. W. Simpson, Napanee, and their report showed that death had resulted from a penetrating wound, probably caused by a rifle. Dr. Miller would not say that the deed was not done by a smaller gun.

May Be Mere Boys.

Hugh Duncan, who went to the entrance to the laneway with Constable Beard when he received the call, said he only had a glimpse of the men for an instant as the flashlight was turned on by Constable Beard, and when asked for his impression stated that he thought there were three men of medium size and rather short. He could not say whether they were clean shaven or not. He would take them to be young men—mere boys.

Pressed further, the witness said that if he should be near the same fellows again, he would not be able to identify them.

The inquest was held in the Council Chambers, and was attended by a crowd that filled every available space. Several hundred people were unable to gain admittance, and remained on the outside, close by the Town Hall. A few of the outsiders were fortunate enough to get a place at the open windows, and in this way were able to hear some of the evidence. Owing to the crowded room, the air at times was almost stifling, and from time to time many of the spectators were compelled to go outside to get some air.

Members of the Jury.

Dr. G. H. Cowan, coroner, presided at the inquest. County Attorney U. M. Wilson was unable to attend the session, at the opening, and in his absence W. A. Grange conducted the examination of the first two witnesses for him. The jury is composed of the following men of Napanee: J. S. Ham, H. Gibson, Alexander, Herbert Daly, William Light, John Derry, E. B. Miller, William A. Templeton, J. E. Robinson.

George Greer, County Constable, was the first witness called and his evidence was regarding the summoning of the members of the jury.

Mrs. Rosa Bova Called.

Mrs. Rosa Bova, wife of Vincent Bova, fruit dealer, was called and stated that she and her husband had closed the shop about midnight. About 12.45 a.m. her husband went to the rear of the store to throw out some refuse, when he saw three men in the laneway. He called the witness about seeing the men, and witness said that he had better go inside and lock the doors. At this time there was one light burning in the store. Witness said her husband locked the doors, and suggested turning out all the lights, at the same time telling witness to go upstairs to their apartments. Witness did not like the idea of going upstairs alone, whereupon her husband told her not to be afraid as he would keep watch. Witness went upstairs and going to a window at the rear looking out into the laneway, glanced out to see if she could see any person. She could not see any person, but she did not see anyone but heard a noise as if some person was trying to pick out something in some way. Witness then went to a front window and called to her husband, who was on Dundas street, in front of the fruit place, that she thought someone was trying to do something at the back of the store. Mr. Bova then went to the Royal Hotel, directly opposite the store. She saw Hugh Duncan in front of the hotel, and later she noticed Constable Beard. She heard the witness heard Beard say to Duncan and her husband, "Come on, boys." She noticed these three men go to the corner of John street and turn the corner into the laneway. From witness then went to the rear of her premises. She could not see any person. It was quite dark and she heard a sound as if some person was running. It appeared to her as if there was more than one person running.

Heard Shot Fired

Just at the time she heard the noise she also heard a shot fired. It was a very loud report. Following the shot witness heard a noise as if a man had been hurt. It sounded like a couple of groans. Witness then ran from her back window to the hall to go downstairs to the front entrance. She went down to the street to see if she could see her husband, but made her way to Smith's corner. She saw her husband and Hugh Duncan there. Both men were standing near the corner, and witness asked her husband if they had seen any one. Her husband said, "No, I think they have killed the night watchman." Witness could see nothing.

Witness said that afterwards she went into the laneway at the rear of her store and saw the body of the night watchman. She could not distinguished the broken window pane in the store at the rear, and also viewed the hole made by the bullet. Witness had no reasons to suspect that the men in the laneway were about to rob her store.

Evidence of Vincent Bova.

Vincent Bova, the fruit store proprietor, told his story. He corroborated the evidence given by his wife regarding the noise he made in the rear of the shop, He noticed three men at the back of Smith's Jewelry store, close to John st. The men were standing between the window and the laneway. He could not get a good view of the men as it was dark. Witness said he had made two trips to the rear of his store to dump refuse, and that on each occasion he had heard the men there. There were three men in the party. At no time did he see the flashlight in the hands of the men.

Continuing his story, the witness told about going for Constable Beard after his wife had informed him that there were men in the laneway. Constable Beard and Hugh Duncan. Just before going into the laneway, Constable Beard got his revolver out of his pocket and also his flashlight. Witness believed that the constable had his revolver and flashlight in his right hand. Constable Beard went in to the lane first. He turned on his flashlight as he went into the lane, and the witness saw somebody point something at Constable Beard. "Can you describe the person who did this?" asked Crown Attorney Wilson.

"No. The flashlight was off in a minute."

Witness said he stood back of Hugh Duncan, and that he and Duncan started back from the laneway when they noticed the person point what they believed to be a gun towards them.

Pointed Gun at Him.

At this stage the witness created quite a sensation when he declared that after he had made his way back to the corner of Dundas and John streets, that he heard a shot fired, and that about three minutes later, while he was still near the corner, a man came out of Oliver's laneway, on Dundas street, and pointed a gun at him.

Witness gave a graphic rehearsal of how the man pointed the weapon at him.

Pressed further, witness then stated that he was not sure if the man had pointed a gun or a stick at him. He did not feel a good view of the man and could not give a description of him. Witness described the report he had heard as something like the bursting of an automobile tire.

Witness further stated that after the man had pointed what he at first believed to be a gun at him, he went to the front of his store and met his wife and afterwards went into the laneway where Constable Beard was found. The man in the laneway, who had pointed something at him, made his way east on Dundas street. He could not say how this man was dressed or say anything as to his height, as he was too far away from him. The man had moved back quickly after pointing what he had in his hand, at him. Witness was under the impression that the flashlight was held in him out as he believed the witness was chasing him.

It was estimated by the Crown Attorney that the distance between Bova and the man who pointed something at him from the laneway, was about 150 feet.

The Medical Evidence.

Dr. James Miller, of Queen's University, who held a post mortem examination on the body of the late Constable Beard, assisted by Dr. Simpson, submitted his report, giving in detail the condition of the various organs of the body. His summing up was that the deceased's death was due to a penetrating wound in the chest which had caused a rupture of the heart. There was a penetrating bullet wound probably caused by a rifle bullet. Constable Beard could be regarded as a man in perfect health before.

Dr. T. W. Simpson corroborated the evidence of Dr. Miller in every particular.

Asked by the Crown Attorney, witness stated that from an examination of the body and the clothing, he believed that death had been caused by a shot from a bullet. Constable Beard, he thought, had been in a stooping position and leaning to one side when struck.

Benjamin Luffman's Story.

Benjamin Luffman, one of the employees of the Royal Hotel, said that at 12.45 Sunday morning he was sitting outside his hotel door. Hugh Duncan came along and later on Constable Beard. All engaged in a shuffle on John street. Witness then turned around and ran to the hotel to Duncan, "Come on". Beard, Duncan and Bova then went around the corner of Dundas and John street. At the last time witness saw Constable Beard alive.

Witness then told about his going across the road directly in front of his hotel to Davis & Coates' laneway. He entered the laneway for a distance of about eighteen feet. He then heard what he believed to be a shuffle on John street. Witness then turned around and ran to the hotel, and while there heard a very loud report. Duncan came to the corner and said, "Uncle got one," meaning Constable Beard, as the latter was often referred to as "Uncle" by witness asked where Constable Beard was and Duncan said, "Around there." Witness then went Smith's corner and afterward turned back on to Dundas street and as he did so he saw three men running on the sidewalk on Dundas street in the easterly direction at the side of Bell near Miller's livery. Witness could not give a description of the men as they were running and soon disappeared around a corner. He thought the fleeing men were of medium height, but could not describe the clothing they were wearing or tell him if they were carrying anything. After witness noticed the men running he went over to the hotel and got his gun and came out again. He met Duncan and asked the latter if he saw Constable Beard come out of the laneway. Duncan said, "No." Witness then returned to the hotel, and coming out again asked Duncan if Constable Beard had not yet come out of the laneway. Witness then remarked that there must be something wrong and said that he was going over to see.

Went Into Laneway.

"I then ran to Smith's corner," added the witness, "and on getting into the laneway I found Constable Beard's body lying on the ground. His flashlight was about ten inches from his right hand, and was turned on. I picked up the flashlight, Constable Beard was lying on his face, with his arms outstretched, reached down and turned his body over. Duncan came into the laneway at this time and I said to him, "They got Dick".

Witness then told of summoning a doctor and Chief of Police Barrett. He also called "Central", at the phone office, and asked her to give the fire alarm, but "central" said that she could not give the fire alarm because there was no authority for it. Witness believed that three-and-a-half or four minutes elapsed from the time Bova came to his place till the shooting occurred. Witness said he had noticed no autos on the street at the time. It was very quiet on the streets at the time. He recalled seeing two men standing on the Campbell House corner. He did not see a man come out of any of the laneways with a rifle. The light was very poor on Dundas street. One of the three men he noticed running away turned as he was rounding a corner, but witness said he was sure it was not good, and he could not describe him.

Dr. Vrooman, who was called to the scene of the tragedy, said it was 1.15 a.m. when he was summoned and told about how he found the body of the late Constable Beard. He was dead when witness arrived. He did not examine the body at this time. He notified Dr. Cowan, coroner, and later on made an examination of the body at the undertaking parlors of Ming & Hambly. After describing the wound witness gave it as his opinion that deceased had been in a crouching position, judging from the course the bullet had taken.

Might Have Been Boys.

Hugh Duncan said he lived in Napanee and that for a time he has served as night watchman. Witness told about being at the Royal Hotel and going over to the laneway with Constable Beard and Bova. Constable Beard stepped into the laneway and witness stepped in behind him. Constable Beard turned on his flashlight for a minute, and then the constable was either pushed or jumped back. When he stepped back the constable had a revolver for his pocket with his right hand. At this, witness backed up and saw three men standing near the window in the rear of Smith's store. Witness looked over Constable Beard's shoulder as he saw the two or three steps inside of the laneway. They were clean shaven.

"I could not describe the men as the flashlight was only on for a minute," said the witness.

"And what impression did you gather of the men in that short time," queried Mr. Wilson.

"I got the impression that they were three men of medium size, rather short. I could not say as to their ages. They were clean shaven. I had the impression that they were young men—mere boys."

Witness said that after the flashlight was turned on he heard a noise and he ran to the corner of John and Dundas street. As he reached the corner he heard a shot fired. He stopped and listened, and then met Mr. Luffman and spoke to him just about the same time as he heard the shot. Witness said to Luffman, "Hadn't has got one of them." He was under the impression that it was Constable Beard's gun that had been fired.

"I think Luffman then went to the corner of Dundas and John and turned the corner again. Mr. Luffman and myself came over from the hotel with a gun."

Witness said everything was quiet on the street that night and there were few people around.

"If you happen to be near there three men again would you be able to identify them as a result of what you saw when the flashlight was turned on?" asked Mr. Wilson. "No, sir. It would be absolutely impossible."

Chief of Police F. W. Barrett was the last witness. With the other witnesses he identified plans presented of the scene of the shooting. He said he was called to the scene at 1.10 a.m. Sunday and found Constable Beard dead. He told of the examination he made into the circumstances and about the warnings sent out around the district. He told also about Provincial Constable Ward finding a cartridge case, and a bullet imbedded in some casing in Bova's window. Witness was satisfied that Constable Beard had met death as a result of being struck by a bullet from a 30 or 32 rifle cartridge.

Chief Barrett stated that he had made an examination of the revolver carried by Constable Beard and had found that it had not been discharged. He produced the revolver with all the chambers filled.

Following the evidence of Chief Barrett, Mr. Wilson said that the inquest would be adjourned until September 12th, when it is hoped the police will be in a position to provide additional evidence.

Up to last evening no trace had been found either of the criminals or the motor car in which they escaped.

GRANDMOTHER'S DAY.

The Annual Business meeting of the Women's Institute of Enterprise was held at the home of Mrs. Wellington Lockwood. Madam President in the chair. Meeting opened by singing the Opening Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The June meeting minutes were read and confirmed, after which the meeting was thrown open for business. Roll call, responded by hints on Jelly making. The reports of Committees were asked for. Moved by Mrs. Reuben Dopkins, seconded by Mrs. Dan Wagar, that we send a box of Jellies to Kingston Hospital as we did last year, and that we take our jelly to the meeting in October at Mrs. William Wilson's home. Also that Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Andrew Craig and Mrs. John L. Wilson see that the jelly gets delivered at station and packed securely.

Mrs. Clayton Brown then gave a grand address on pioneer times. She suggested that if thy right hand offended, then cut it off. Now the grandmothers were especially invited to this meeting to bring old relics, and the one that brought the oldest one got a prize. First Mrs. Clancy brought forth a linen table cloth and a pair of towels, which her father had woven in Ireland. Next Mrs. William Bell brought forth a sword, which helped fight and win the Battle of Kingston, or rather Lime Stone City at that time. Mrs. Stanley Wagar showed a bake kettle, which had served five generations. Miss Carrie Jackson told the story of the willow ware, which was very interesting; and so many other relics were described too numerous to mention so grand and good. Last, but not least, Mrs. Baptiste Wilson brought forth a pitcher which she called three hundred years old, taking the prize of a beautiful china cup and saucer, which we sincerely ask her to use the remainder of her life.

A quilt was brought forth to be sold in favor of the Institute, but time being short, it was laid over.

A photograph was taken of the grandmothers, sixteen in number, and lunch was served of old fashioned cooking, and the meeting was closed with old time singing.

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

THE PARIDIE.

O bonny boat, the "Paridie",
Bearing a lady's name;
A fairy queen, indeed is she,
And merits lasting fame.

Long was the list of names sent in,
From which to wisely choose,
And this alone—the Captain's kin—
Had grace to charm the muse.

So worthily an honored name
This sturdy vessel bears,
And jointly with the noble dame,
The well-earned honor shares.

At Napanee and Picton town,
And all the ports between,
No boat of more distinct renown,
Or beauty e'er was seen.

And from her deck on either side,
What visions of delight!
Here Nature's fairy gods abide,
In robes of green—bedight.

But soon they'll wear a brighter hue
Of crimson, brown and gold;
And tho' you've heard the story true,
The half was never told.

So if with nature you'd commune,
And view her beauty rare,
You cannot take a trip too soon
Between these shores so fair.

The "Paridie" will bear you through,
In care of Captain Ward;
Enjoy the sail, take in each view,
Come on; now all aboard!

And oftimes take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task,
In fact we wouldn't try;
Stool pigeons only wish we would,
But we are far too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any man that holds that job
Is nothing but a bud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let your children shirk
And hang around among such bums
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—

We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is defined in our dictionary as a loose, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "liable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such driveling, underhand lines.

So, be like us and mix not with such folks, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

To Reach the High-Class Trade

Long Distance puts Business on a Personal —and therefore more Profitable—Basis.

"VERY kind of you to notify me by Long Distance of this sale of gowns. I expect to be in town to-morrow, and will call and ask for you, personally."

Out-of-town women show a strong tendency to trade where they feel they are known. Get one of them to visit your store,—and soon your's will become one of "her" stores.

No letter or advertisement will convey to them the kind of welcome you can extend by Long Distance. Because you are talking, the invitation becomes more unconventional. It suggests the friendly relation you would like to see established. Distance does indeed seem to "lend enchantment" to opportunities offered in such a personal way.

The method of presentation is three-quarters of any sale—what you say, and how you say it. The customers are right at your elbow. Don't call on them—call them up. It will not be the telephone's fault if you don't sell them.

Studebaker Light Six

Economical

because of its Exclusive Internal Hot Spot and Light Weight—

The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX might well be called the "Economy Six", for every day in the hands of hundreds of owners it is averaging between 21 and 26 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Such low fuel consumption is due chiefly to its Internal Hot-Spot, an exclusive feature of the LIGHT-SIX motor, designed by Studebaker engineers.

The light, evenly-balanced weight of the LIGHT-SIX chassis further contributes to its low operating expense—not only with respect to fuel, but tires as well.

See the LIGHT-SIX, analyze its fine quality of construction and you will agree that it represents the maximum of automobile values.

Fishing in Hawaii.

The boat which the Hawaiians use for fishing and pursuing hunting is very long and narrow, pointed, and curved upwards at either end, and capable of holding five or six men. By an ingenious system of "outrigger," the terrific surf is rendered almost powerless to upset the craft: for standing out from one side of the boat are two light poles, across the ends of which is lashed a beam similar in shape and length to the boat's keel, so that at a distance you might think you saw two boats fixed parallel to each other. The outrigger forms a stay to the boat on the side wherever it is fixed, and the other side is equally supported because only a very great strain could possibly weigh up such a contrivance.

The paddling is done from the stern, and fishing begins as soon as the little vessel is clear of the reefs; and in a very few hours she has as many fish as she can hold. The catch is taken ashore alive in pots, and skin buckets, and disposed of at the public market, many of the islanders remembering it not only unrobbed, but still living.—New England Fisheries.

The Isle of Dogs.

The Isle of Dogs, facing Greenwich hospital, as flat a bit of land as one could well wish to see, is to be made to blossom again, if not as the rose, at any rate as much as it lies within the power of a garden city to make it. In the days when Greenwich was the royal residence, the kings of England ferried across to the north shore to visit their farms, or, as with Henry VIII, the kennels in which his hounds were kept. Since then the face of the land has been covered with wharves and warehouses, while the West India docks have severed it from Poplar and mainland. The new garden city is to cover nine acres by the old Millwall football ground. The houses and flats will have gardens of their own, the roads are to be lined with trees, and the number of modern appliances is to make the Isle of Dogs' new residential quarter the envy of the whole of the east end. On the west of the Isle is Limehouse reach, with its favor of Rogue Riderhood and the unidentifiable Mill Pond bank, China's basin, and the Old Green Copper rope-walk.

A Grateful Mother Speaks in Favor of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets

Mrs. C. E. Earl, Toronto, says: I am pleased to inform you that our boy, Eddie, has been completely cured of bladder Trouble through using Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets. He is now 14 years old and has not been able to retain his urine which caused us a great deal of worry and trouble. We tried different doctors and medicines but never received any help until your agent called and advised us to try your Tablets. After treating with them for a few weeks they have completely cured him. I would advise mothers who have children afflicted in this way to use them a trial. I will consider it a pleasure to explain his case more fully on request.

Should you or any of your children be afflicted in a similar way we are confident they would produce similar results. Don't fail to give them a trial.

FINISHING COCKERELS

It Does Not Pay to Raise and Sell Thin Chickens.

Wyandottes, Reds and Rocks Best for Fattening—Feed a Mixture of Ground Barley, Corn Meal, Ground Buckwheat and Shorts, Mixed With Sour Milk—Winter Rhubarb Growing.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The marketing of thin chickens is not conserving our meat supply, nor is it the most profitable method to the producers. Present prices of market poultry admits of the liberal use of feeds and the marketing of well-fleshed birds.

In most localities there is considerable variation in the prices paid for thin and finished chickens. The spread in prices varies from two to five cents per pound; in some instances much more. It can readily be seen that the producers' gain in price on the original weight of the bird should make a profit, above the cost of finishing, on the gain in weight.

Fatten the Heavier Breeds.

The best birds to fatten or fatten are those of the heavier breeds, such as Wyandottes, Reds and Rocks. The light breeds, such as Leghorns, seldom pay to fatten unless they are very thin in flesh.

The birds intended for fattening should be confined to a small pen or slatted coop. The process is not difficult if you will but pay attention to a few points that are essential.

Do not feed the birds for the first day they are shut up. You should give them something to drink, but it is best to give no feed. Then feed very lightly for two or three days, and gradually increase the ration, being very careful not to overfeed. We usually start chickens on very finely ground grains at the rate of three-quarters of an ounce of grain per feed to each bird, feeding twice daily. This can be increased gradually to two or three times this amount. Generally the most profitable gains are made during the first fourteen to sixteen days' feeding. Such birds will not be excessively fat, but should be fat enough to cook and eat well. Some markets demand a fatter bird.

The most profitable gains are made on birds weighing from three and one-half to four and one-half pounds when put up to fatten.

Feed the Grain Finely Ground.

The grains fed should be finely ground, and, if at all possible, should be mixed with sour milk. Mix the feed to a consistency of a pancake batter. The more milk the chicken will take the better bird you will have in the end. Milk appears to have no good substitute for fattening chickens. If you cannot get milk then add ten to fifteen per cent. of meat meal to the ration and mix with water. The addition of a little green food daily will help matters. Many people get better results by feeding a little salt. About one-half pound to one hundred pounds of dry grain is sufficient. This mixes best by being dissolved in water and adding a little at each feed. Be careful not to use too much.

The best grains available now are a mixture of ground barley, cornmeal, finely ground buckwheat, and shorts. Oats are good if part of the hull is sifted out, as are also ground brewers' grains. We have used with good results a mixture of two parts of ground barley, two parts cornmeal, and two parts shorts, mixed with twice the amount of sour milk. In general feed about one-third shorts and then whatever finely ground grains you may have about the farm.

Six Points Worth Remembering.

The birds must be healthy.

The coop should be clean and free from vermin.

Do not feed the first day.

Feed lightly the first few days.

Never leave feed before the birds for more than fifteen minutes. If it is not all consumed remove what is left.

If at all possible mix the ground grains with sour milk.—W. R. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

How Winter Rhubarb Is Produced.

In making a permanent business of rhubarb forcing, it is necessary, each year, to set out a new bed, as plants once forced are of no further value. In the spring large roots should be dug, split in one bud sections and replaced in rich moist ground. During the growing season they are kept cultivated and free from weeds. In the fall they are covered with manure. Next spring a second bed is planted as before. That fall a large part of the first bed is taken up, leaving sufficient to replant another bed the next spring. The roots are taken up the last thing in the fall before the hard freezing weather comes, and are placed in piles in a shed where they can easily be got at during the winter but will remain frozen. About December 1st take in a sufficient number of roots, place these bud side up on the floor of a warm cellar—about 68° or 70°—and cover with an inch of sand. Be sure to fill in all interspaces. Keep this sand moist. About a week later the buds will begin to swell and in from four to six weeks, depending upon the heat of the room—the cooler the place the slower growth starts—you should have rhubarb ready for market. After these roots are exhausted throw them away and put in more. If a constant supply is required make a new bed every two or three weeks during the winter. Be sure to keep all light dimmed. Put burlap or brown paper over the windows to get the bright pink color so much desired.—A. H. MacLennan, Ontario Vegetable Specialist, Toronto.

Announcing the NEW

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK MASTER 4

Here is a Thoroughbred Master Four Completing the Famed McLaughlin-Buick Line

The new Four-Cylinder McLaughlin-Buick, here announced, is a thoroughbred—a pedigreed car well worthy of its name. Down to the very last detail, this new model possesses every quality of enduring serviceability, complete comfort, and distinctive appearance that have always characterized McLaughlin automobiles.

The advent of this new Master Four makes the McLaughlin-Buick 1922 line complete. It offers to purchasers of a car of this size all the quality and service that go to make up the name McLaughlin.

The McLaughlin-Buick Valve-in-Head Engine—A Power Plant That Has Proved Itself.

The engine, of course, is of the time-tested McLaughlin-Buick Valve-in-Head type. The year-after-year concentration of McLaughlin-Buick engineering skill and experience in building Valve-in-Head motors assure the highest standard of performance obtainable to-day.

Every other unit is of a quality equal to the power plant. The whole assembly constitutes a perfectly balanced chassis which is of typical McLaughlin-Buick construction. The equipment of Cord Tires is merely evidence of the quality which characterizes the entire car.

Two open and two closed body types mounted on the McLaughlin-Buick built chassis comprise the new series.

Even the most casual inspection of the details of design and workmanship will reveal that full measure of quality which motorists have learned to associate with McLaughlin.

A Great Car—Prices Make it an Even Greater Value.

Obviously a high grade automobile — a genuine McLaughlin-Buick production—the prices make this Four even greater.

The new McLaughlin-Buick Master Four is a Made-In-Canada car. Walkerville, Ont., is the home of the General Motors Canadian mammoth manufacturing plants. These new plants are most modern in every respect and are fitted with the finest machinery to turn out, accurately and economically, motors, transmissions, axles and other heavy parts for motor cars. Smaller parts and the assembling of units, painting, upholstering and top and body building are done at the Oshawa plants.

The Door of Opportunity is Open--Shop Saturday and Save

ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3rd, WE PLACE ON SALE TWENTY-FOUR SILK DRESSES AT THE EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF $14.95 EACH. WORTH $20.00 AND $22.50

These Dresses were made by a responsible Canadian Manufacturer, in a dull period this summer to keep his staff enployed full time.

We purchased these Dresses at a low level, which just covered the price of Silk and the labor. It was just a question of finding work for idle hands to do—not profit. We are offering them to you at equally as attractive prices.

Nearly all are made in a splendid quality of Messaline Silk, while a few are in Taffeta. Every Dress is smartly styled and neatly finished. Side panels adorn several of the styles. These panels in most cases are beaded. The sleeves are elbow length, the neck lines are square and round. Some are finished plain, others have small collars of Silk or Frills.

Obtainable in colors of Navy, Brown, Taupe and Black. Sizes 16, 18, 20 Misses, and 38 women's. Price $14.95. See Window Display. No approvals. No returns.

Berlin's Best Jokes.

Is the ex-kaiser as popular in Germany as he was before the war? It would appear that he is not the worshipful idol he was. At one time his very name inspired fearful admiration among the German people—their great ruler who could do no wrong. Nowadays he is the subject of music-hall jokes.

The following patter was given by two cross-talk comedians (Germans both by nationality) in one of Berlin's leading vaudeville theatres recently:—

"Good evening, Hans!" said the first comedian. "So you're back from the war!"

"Good evening, Fritz!" replied the second. "Yes, I'm back from the war, but it took me a long time to get back!"

"I suppose, Hans," continued Fritz, "you must have been the last one to leave."

"No, Fritz; there is one who isn't home yet."

The "one" referred to was the ex-kaiser, and the house roared with laughter.

Mining for Gum.

Mining for gum is a great industry in the North Island of New Zealand. It is not chewing gum, however, but a resin varnish gum that is the residue from pre-historic forests.

This fossilized resin is only a few feet below the earth's surface, and the "miners" dig it out with pick and shovel. This is a sort of free-lance occupation, and many men have made small fortunes in this digging. The gum has many uses, the principal of which is in the manufacture of varnish.

Killed By Horse.

Russell C. Craig suffered a severe accident while operating a cultivator on a farm about six miles from Napanee Friday afternoon last. One of the horses kicked him with both feet, breaking his arm and bruising his chest. Although badly hurt, Mr. Craig had a remarkable escape from more serious injury, for it appears that the trace came off the whiffletree and one of the horses became frightened and kicked out with both feet. However, he got the animals under control, although suffering, and summoned assistance. Dr. Stratton responded and rushed the unfortunate man to the Kingston General Hospital, where he is now resting easily.

Camp Killarney Clippings

To a quiet secluded spot on the eastern shore of Varty Lake, about five miles north of Camden East, the weary citizen, tired of the rush and bustle and noisy din of urban life, who is longing for a few weeks' respite, may find the realization of his fondest dreams in Camp Killarney.

It is indeed no mean rival in pastoral beauty of that beautiful spot in the Emerald Isle from which it obtained its name.

Fortunately one has the advantage of being able to appreciate its quiet and restfulness without the horrors of Sinn Fein disturbances with which the Auld Sod is afflicted.

Camp Killarney during this summer of 1921 has been indeed the scene of much pleasure and carefree enjoyment; an outlet for the exuberance of childhood, a jolly round of pleasure for the gay spirits of youth, and even a peaceful haven of rest for the world-weary aged ones—a most happy combination of good times and a source of inspiration for many happy memories of a veritable Elysian vacation.

The gypsy life has still, evidently, its appealing side to the work-weary world, judging by the number who took advantage of its offerings this summer, as we found them embodied in Camp Killarney.

"Camp Tumble In," the friendly summer camp of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Salsbury, of Colebrook, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Akenbrack, of Camden East, reflected the good-fellowship and kind-heartedness of its owners, and many indeed "tumbled in" and were sorry to have to depart.

A keen rival in the spirit of the glad hand to every stranger was its next-door neighbor, "Camp Tumble Out," the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. McGinnis and family, of Camden East, and of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Vary and daughter, also of Camden East.

Next along the Friendly Road by the lake shore one discovered the jolly Shannon brothers, of Montreal, in their "Bachelor's Den," where many witty jokes, which added spice and zest to the life of the camp, had its origin. Mr. C. B. Shannon, our popular soloist, entertained the colony many a time and oft with his witty repertoire of verse and song, his specialty, which always drew an encore, being "Bubbles" sung "two miles away" in his own breezy style It would be amiss not to mention here their jaunting car, a stage-coach dear to the hearts of all way-faring campers, which was a combination motor car and mail-bus, traveling with aeroplane speed.

One truly could picture oneself on the Emerald Isle with its Murphys and O'——, when after leaving the jolly Shannon camp one wandered into Kamp Kumsi Komstay, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Riley and family and Mrs. C. Riley, of Camden East. As it was situated near the Colony Pump, it proved a veritable Dew Drop Inn, of which many took advantage. They came to see, and stayed, as the camp's name implied.

Camp Jump Up, nearby, was the home of Rev. J. Latimer and family, at Wilton, a former Army Chaplain of the Great War, who "carried on" in camp life with the same vim and enthusiasm which made our troops famous "over there", and an ideal camper he proved himself to be. His two favorite sports were playing ball and minnow catching. Certainly he and the fish had secrets unknown to the rest of the campers, because luck seemed always to follow him or his hook.

One afternoon the curiosity of the colony was aroused by the arrival of six young ladies, who pitched their tents like the Arabs, and soon flaunted before our eyes a strange insignia of their clan After much puzzling, "Knocori Inn" was deciphered. This title we concluded was pure camouflage from the numbers of attracted visitors who wandered into the spider's web. This cosy nook proved the home for ten days of the Misses Annie Smith and Grace Danford, of Odessa; Miss B. Robson, of Verona; Miss O. Salsbury, of Camden East, and the Misses Page, of Saskatoon, Sask. A carefree jolly crowd they proved to be and ready to give and take in all the jokes of camp life.

The fame of Killarney Camp spread abroad and attracted many visitors. Among those from a distance were the Misses Ethel Ferguson and Yvonne McMartin, of Toronto; Miss Helen Gibson, and Master Bill Dobbins, of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., and Mr. Quentin Woodroffe, of Montreal, at Camp Tumble In. Mr. C. Wilson and son Waverley, of Winnipeg, at Kamp Kumsi Komstay. Mr. J. Latimer, of Ottawa, at Camp Jump Up with his son and family.

Mr. C. W. Riley and friend, Mr. Russel Rogers, motored from Guelph for a few days at Kamp Kumsi Kumstay.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller and Miss Vine motored from Napanee to spend a day at Camp Tumble Out with her cousin, Mrs. McGinnis, and family.

Miss L. Hipson, of Kingston, spent a week-end at Kamp Kumsi Kumstay.

A jolly crowd of Colebrook friends spent a day with Mrs. Ira Salsbury, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Killarney was the scene of four picnics during the summer, viz.: Yarker S. S., Union picnic of Camden East, Rebecca Ladies' Lodge of Yarker, and that of Thorpe S. S. All were successes.

A number of campers attended the Orange picnic and the U. F. O. picnics at Varty Camp.

Killarney Camp will go down in history as the birthplace of the Girls' Indoor base ball teams of the surrounding districts, their sponsor being Rev. Latimer. A team has been organized in Wilton, also one in Camden East, and an intense interest has been aroused. We hope to see many more organized in the near future in neighboring communities.

The camp's musical programmes were many and varied. Victrolas, numbering three, providing much appreciated music for singing and dancing.

Camp life being incomplete without an old-fashioned corn roast, the colony held one as the closing event of the season. A friendly game of indoor baseball was played by Wilton and Camden East girls, after the old fashioned games were played by old and young, and when the old moon rose over the hill a jolly corn roast and community sing-song made a suitable ending to a most delightful evening.

Last but not least in the list of members of this select camp society we must not neglect to mention the wee Irish Setter, beloved by all and kicked by goose, belonging to the Misses Shannon and commonly called "The Pup", the lucky mascot of the Irish camp, famous for his wellnigh human intelligence.

In closing, the Killarney Camp Log can only partially describe the joys of the life spent there in this summer of 1921. The colony has broken and gone its many different ways, but each member will long cherish happy memories of a holiday well spent, and all cherish a hope for a repetition of the good times next year.

How to Restore Damaged Pastures.

Andrew Boss, veteran farm manager with the Minnesota Experiment Station, says such pastures can be saved to some extent by proper care. Where the acreage of pasture is sufficient and with a little to spare, many of the bare or thinner spots can be top dressed with good barnyard manure to advantage. The top dressing will protect the roots somewhat, and in the course of a month or two a decided improvement in quantity and quality of grass will be noted.

"If a good practice," says Mr. Boss, "to divide the pasture into two fields, if possible, and pasture alternate weeks, or for alternate longer periods, depending on the quantity of grass and the condition it is in. A part of the pasture should be allowed to make good growth and be held in reserve until the hot weather of July and August comes on. During the dry season it is difficult enough to keep stock in good condition even when they are on good pasture, and no pains should be spared to have at least one or two good pasture fields for this season."

Strawberry runners should be spaced as evenly as possible to secure an even row that will give the most fruit.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Remover.

BUILDING THE GRANARY

Strength and Convenience Should be Carefully Considered.

Reinforced Concrete Is Preferable to Timber — It Makes the Granary Safer From Rodents — Roguing Potatoes.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

No hard and fast rules can be laid down for the erection of a convenient and efficient granary. Each problem requires a knowledge of local conditions and requirements. Granaries, in the majority of cases, are built in enclosures on the barn floor, and constructed with too little regard for strength, durability and convenience. These structures should be located immediately over the feed room, each bin having a chute with a controlling slide, or a canvas distributor to convey the grain to the hopper of the fanning mill; or, if the grain is intended for market, to a sack placed on the scales below the chute ready to receive it. To facilitate emptying the grain, the floor of the bins should be sloping.

Be Sure the Structure Has Sufficient Strength.

The important consideration in the construction of granaries and bins for loose grain is to be sure that the structure is designed with sufficient strength to prevent bulging of the sides and springing of the floor; for grain, owing to its enormous outward thrust, corresponding somewhat to that of water, has a tendency to burst the sides unless well braced or supported. Timber construction requires frequent repairs to prevent decay and general depreciation from use. It is always liable to climatic conditions. The boards will crack and shrink in the summer when the bins may be empty, and when the new grain is dumped into the bins an enormous quantity promptly disappears into the cracks and crevices and through mice holes, entailing considerable loss to the farmer, to the consumer and to the nation. Thousands of bushels of grain are, in this way, annually lost to the producers through sheer indifference to the condition of the granary. Yet this profitable waste may be easily remedied and made secure by lining the bins with sheet metal.

Good Concrete Improves With Age.

While there is an annual depreciation on a timber structure varying from four to eight per cent., concrete construction grows better as it grows old; hence concrete properly reinforced, is the ideal material for granaries, because it is both damp-proof and rat-proof, two very essential factors in the construction of granaries.

Concrete properly made to suit existing conditions, is absolutely impervious to moisture, and can be kept as dry as any structure of wood ever built. The experience of many farmers is that grain mature enough to be placed in storage will not spoil on contact with concrete, nor will corn mold, provided there is good ventilation and the roof is tight. To get rid of rats and mice destroy their nesting place and to this end concrete is pre-eminently the best material and is recommended for all farm structures.

Reinforced Concrete Pays.

Under average, present day, conditions a reinforced concrete granary may represent an additional outlay of about 25 per cent. over that required to construct of timber, but the high efficiency distinctive of concrete quickly offsets this increased initial cost. Concrete construction has many, in short, important advantages. The contents are safe from the depredations of rodents, is damp proof, requires neither paint nor repairs, is fireproof, the grain is perfectly preserved under all conditions of climate and temperature, and the resulting structure is practically everlasting.—John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

Roguing Potatoes.

The average yield of potatoes per acre in the Province of Ontario for the past thirty-six years has been about one hundred and fifteen bushels. The yields vary greatly. In 1917 there were variations in Ontario from twenty-five or less up to seven hundred bushels per acre. People are realizing more and more that for high yields of potatoes conditions must be favorable. It is important to have good fertile soil well cultivated and to plant a liberal supply of seed of the best varieties at the proper time. Seed potatoes somewhat immature which have been produced in a cool climate, and which are comparatively free from disease, are apt to furnish seed of high quality. Even under these conditions it is well to carefully inspect the seed before planting and to thoroughly rogue the growing crop.

A potato field is rogued by removing the undesirable plants. A thorough rogueing of the growing crop once or twice during the summer is one of the most effectual ways in yielding the field of a number of the potato diseases. This operation would also insure the immediate removal of the weak and unthrifty plants which are sure to produce undesirable seed. Potato growers sometimes go through their fields and remove all plants which are not true to type. When rogueing is done with a double object of eradicating diseases and of purifying the variety decided advantages are sure to follow. Thorough rogueing is one of the best methods of securing pure, healthy seed of high quality.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

MAIN STREET OF EUROPE.

Danube Enables Land-Locked Nations to Reach the Sea.

When the river steamers spread their black banners of smoke along the Danube the commerce of Central Europe is thriving. This thermometer of business conditions has been closely watched by experts and they report the throng on the Main street of Europe is gradually thickening. Fussy little boats puff busily up and down, keeping out of the paths of the big steamers that plough their lordly way along this business thoroughfare.

Economically the Danube is to the land-locked nations of Europe what the Mediterranean is to the countries of Southern Europe. Once the northern frontier of the Roman Empire; later the path for conquering hordes of Huns, Slavs and Magyars, now the commercial artery of Central Europe, the Danube may claim to be the most important river of Europe, though it is exceeded by the Volga in length.

Human activity attains extremes along the Danube's course, even more marked than the contrast along bizarre Broadway, New York. Its waters see the revels and destitution of Vienna and flow by flat rocks on which Hungarian women pound their clothes with wooden mallets and bear them away in tubs on their heads. They pass mills like those of Montreal, bear vessels like those on the St. Lawrence, and turn the wheels of boat-borne water mills to which peasants bring grain in primitive ox-carts, with even the wheels kept in place by wooden pins.

The river halves Budapest and courses by busy Belgrade, where it receives the waters of the Save. It carries barges on which families live as they do on canal boats. Grim castles, great estates and tiny cottages stand along its banks.

Scenically the Danube possesses variety almost an infinite. Rising in the Black Forest, some of its waters seep through underground fissures to a stream of the Rhine basin. Sometimes it is pressed between hills. Smaller craft appear on its waters in Bavaria. In Austria it splits into many arms and forms a whirlpool. In Hungry plains it sprawls wide, receiving many important branches, remnant of a prehistoric inland sea. It resumes a wild, torrential aspect again when it pierces the Kazan defile and the Iron Gates. It receives nearly as many tributaries as there are days in the year and drains an area almost equivalent to that of Egypt.

Along the steep right bank of the Kazan defile can be traced a road built by Trajan early in the second century. Not until recently has the construction of a modern road made the defile passable upon either bank.

Recognition of the international importance of the Danube was attested by placing it, under a commission in 1856, and further provisions regarding it are contained in subsequent treaties, including that of Versailles in 1919.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it certainly is helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—Mrs. H. W. Baker, 2684 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B. C.

Albert Co., N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—Mrs. W. B. Kiever, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N. B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Do Not Set Out Fire Without a Permit

THE welfare of new agricultural communities in this Province requires that land clearing be done with the cheapest agent at hand—Fire. Therefore, restrictions must hamper settlers as little as is consistent with safety to lives and property. Disastrous experience proves that in hot, dry weather unregulated use of fire in thickly wooded Northern Ontario means a menace to the lives and property of settlers and destruction of the provincial forest resources upon which a large part of Ontario's revenue and the livelihood of thousands of her citizens depend.

That is why Ontario adopted a "Close Season" and the "Permit System" for setting out fire. But, remember, whether you have a permit or not, you are responsible for damages caused by any fire you light. Be careful—

Save Ontario's Forests

They're Yours

The "Close Season" for setting out fire in Northern Ontario is from April 15th to September 30th. During that time within the Permit Area no one may set out fire for clearing land, disposing of debris or other inflammable waste, or for any industrial purpose, without first obtaining a written fire permit from a Fire Ranger. This applies not only to settlers but to railway section crews, camp and mill crews, road builders, including Government employees, and all other persons.

When starting fire for cooking and camping, the law requires that a place be selected free from inflammable material, that every reasonable precaution be taken to prevent such fire spreading and that it be thoroughly extinguished before quitting the place.

The "Close Season" applies to all Ontario north of Bobcaygeon and Smith's Falls and west of the line from there to Renfrew.

The Permit Area includes those parts of Nipissing, Sudbury, Temiskaming and Algoma lying north of the C.P.R. between Mattawa and North Bay and north of the C. N. R. westward to a point some 35 miles beyond Hornepayne.

The remainder of the Province forms the Exempt Area. Within the sparsely peopled Exempt Area no permits are generally issued, but those setting out fires in the "Close Season" are required to exercise every reasonable precaution and a Chief Fire Ranger, if he deems it wise, may serve a Prohibitory Notice and require a person to take out a permit.

The Fire Ranger does his best to follow the happy medium between the desire of the settler to "get a good burn" and the requirements of Public Safety. Help him all you can.

Barnet Refrigerators

Save Food Bills, Ice Bills, Doctor's Bills Worry and Work

Loss of food through souring, spoilage, decomposition, etc., amounts yearly to a sum more than sufficient to buy all the refrigerators made. Housewives who own a Barnet Refrigerator, however, do not contribute one cent to this awful waste, even in the most stifling days of summer, when it is hard to keep food fresh.

Easily perishable foods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their full, fresh flavor. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded every day from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that these refrigerators will pay for themselves in a short time through the saving in food alone.

The Barnet has eleven distinct walls! That means a slow consumption of ice—another saving. It also means lower temperature for the amount of ice consumed. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 39 degrees.

Disease germs cannot multiply in such a low temperature. And as there are no joints, crevices or cracks in which bits of food can hide away and spoil, the owner of a Barnet can rest happy in the knowledge that disease cannot attack her family through her refrigerator. She is thus free from the generally present worry about sickness, and is saved money in doctors' bills.

POINTS OF BARNET SUPERIORITY

Barnet is ventilated	Air circulates in Barnet
Foods do not taint or contaminate one another	Interior always bone dry
Has no Drain Pipe	Has eleven walls of insulation
No foul odors	Lowest temperature for ice consumed
No breeding place for germs	Has adjustable shelves
Easy to clean

TIME after time the test shown above was repeated with the same result. Valet AutoStrop Razor blades used over 30 days made good. They had been stropped regularly. That meant comfortable, smooth shaves. Ordinary, unstropped blades, used only 5 days, failed. That meant they would "pull" and scrape in shaving.

It was down in Texas—in those other days. A man was introducing his brother to the group of gunfighters in the saloon. He said, "This is my brother—my brother. An' he-he's not only my brother, ye un'-stand, but he's my personal friend."

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

"How far is it to New York?" asked the passenger with a wilesack look. "I can't say exactly," replied the conductor who used to work in a dry-goods store. "But I should guess about a yard and three-quarters."

Nation-wide Fame.—There is scarcely a corner of this great Dominion where the merits of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil have not been tried and proved. It is one of the world's most efficient remedies for sore throat, lame back and many other ailments arising from inflammation. Rubbed on the skin its healing power is readily absorbed, and it can also be taken internally.

A farmer was showing a friend over the farm. "How many sheep do you think are in the flock?" he asked.

The visitor considered a minute and then replied, "About 500".

The farmer was astonished. "Absolutely correct," he declared. "How did you do it?"

"Well, I just counted the legs and divided by four," the guest explained.

Useful in Camp.—Explorers, surveyors, prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil very useful in camp. When the feet and legs are wet and cold it is well to rub them freely with the Oil and the result will be the prevention of pains in the muscles, and should a cut, or contusion, or sprain be sustained, nothing could be better as a dressing or lotion.

The other day a negro went into a drug store and said:

"Ah wants one ob dem dere plasters you stick on yoah back."

"I understand," said the clerk. "You mean one of our porous plasters."

"No, sah, I don't want none of your porous plasters. I wants de bes' one you got."

Miller's Worm Powders will drive worms from the system without injury to the child. The powders are so easy to take that the most delicate stomach can assimilate them and welcome them as speedy easers of pain, because they promptly remove the worms that cause the pain, and thus the suffering of the child is relieved. With so sterling a remedy at hand no child should suffer an hour from worms.

Father Nicholson at St. Patrick's Church.
At St. Patrick's Church, on Sunday last, Rev. Father Nicholson, C.M., of Kingston, delivered an interesting discourse on "Christian Education in the Schools". He is a Science teacher at Regiopolis College, and is thoroughly familiar with educational work and especially the training of young men to fit them for their start in life. In the education of the youth there were three essentials, he said, the Church, the Home and the School. The Church had stood for centuries the safeguard of education, and without its influence moral training would be lacking, which was vitally necessary to produce the highest type of citizenship. Mere knowledge was of little value without a chaste body, clean heart and a pure mind. He cited the social crimes of Russia and other parts of Europe—even in America—to the lack of Christian education in the youth. The evils of divorce and false swearing were other products of secular thought. He told of a boy who was on the witness stand in a court of laws, and was asked if he knew the nature of an oath. The boy replied that he called upon God to witness he was telling the truth. This boy was taught in the Separate School. Loyalty and the highest type of citizenship, goodness, discipline and knowledge were virtues that the Church and school strive to implant in the minds of the young. Father Nicholson was Chaplain of the Mounted Rifles from Kingston district, serving four years at the front in the late war. His opinion of the boasted "higher education" of the German nation, of which he had a good opportunity to observe, was one of brutality, plunder and lust. Christianity did not enter into their system of education.

School Opening

In a few days the Schools will be opened and the young folks will require the new Book for the classes to which they have advanced. Until the last few days it looked as though the opening would find us without many of the Books on the lists of both the Public and High Schools; but we are pleased to state that, with the exception of three or four, we have every Book needed, and expect these by or before the first of September.

We will have the largest supply and greatest variety of Exercise and Scribbling Books, Note Books, Pencils, Crayons, Paints, Book Bags, Pencil Boxes, in fact every article that the Scholar will need that was ever assembled in one place in the town. We have bought these goods wherever we could get the best value and are confident no one can offer better values.

A great advantage to a Pupil is a smooth Writing Pen. There are none better than the Waterman. We sell them at as low a price as any other house.

Corporal Sweeney had been detailed to take his squad of Engineers to mop up after a company of infantry. Arrived at the cellar of an abandoned chateau he was instructed by his Lieutenant to go inside, leaving the remainder of the squad gathered about the door to get the fugitives.

"Yes sir," answered Sweeney obediently. Then, turning to his men, he added the caution:

"But if more than one man comes out of that cellar, for the Lord's sake don't shoot the first one."

ADOLPHUSTOWN.

Last Friday evening the Methodist young people gave a very amusing play, entitled "And Home Came Ted", to a large audience assembled in the Church Hall. All the parts were exceptionally well taken, and reflect much credit on the young dramatic artists participating in the play.—The Girls' Altar Guild of S. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, were the hostesses at a delightful social evening in the Parish Hall, last Thursday evening. A unique feature of the programme was the mysterious "Apple of Gold", in charge of Messrs. Ralph Sills and John Spearing. This, and the music, reading and recitations which followed, were thoroughly enjoyed by the large and appreciative audience present. Fruit and flowers, candy and cake were sold during the evening, and a goodly sum of money was the result of the Guild's faithful work. The programme was in charge of the Misses Cora Morrow, Eleanor Ham and Ethel Hines, who were gowned in costumes of yellow with black trimmings. — Messrs. McKelvey & Birch, Kingston, have the contract for the enlarging and remodelling of S. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, and a staff of workmen began operations this week.—Harvest Festival services will be held in this Parish on Sunday, Sept. 18th. The Rector has been fortunate in securing the Rev. Thos. Leech, M.A., Rector of Sydenham, for the day.—Mrs. Roberts and Miss Roberts, who have been visiting Mrs. Box and Mrs. Geo. Chalmers, have returned to their home in Toronto. — Miss Victoria Pollard has returned from Picton.—School was re-opened on Tuesday with Miss Towns as teacher.—Miss Edith Allen is teaching at Parma, and Miss Thompson, Bath, at Dorland.—Miss Hazel Smith has left for Toronto, and Miss Catharine Gallagher for Napanee, to attend Collegiate.—Mrs. Chalmers, the Misses Chalmers and Mr. Thos. Chalmers, Battle Hill Farm, spent Tuesday in Picton, to commemorate the anniversary of Mrs. Chalmers' birthday.—Mrs. Finnegan has returned to Toronto, after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Annon.—Mr. John Peters, Picton, spent Labor Day here.—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Porte, Shannonville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gallagher last week.—Misses Madden and Bessie Garrison, who have been the guests of Misses Hazel and Rose Bouchard, Kingston, for the past week, have returned home.—Mrs. Chas. Brooks entertained the Union Guild last Friday afternoon.—A young son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Spearing.

CAMDEN EAST

Mrs. W. Perry received a telegram on Wednesday morning from Winnipeg to come at once, as Mr. Perry was ill. She left in the afternoon for Winnipeg, but Mr. Perry passed away that same evening from paralytic stroke.—The Rev. Mr. Geen, of Belleville, preached an eloquent sermon on Sunday morning last, in St. Luke's Church, relieving Rev. Mr. Dickinson, who is quite poorly at Rev. Lake.—Mr. and Mrs. Manna Hartman and son, Harold, of Moscow, were guests of their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hartman on Sunday last.—Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Goodwin and son, Arnut, of Toronto, motored here on Saturday last, bringing Miss Grace Gallagher home. They returned on Sunday afternoon.—Miss Helen Lambert, Petworth, spent last week with her brother, Mr. John Lambert, and family.—Messrs. Elgin McWilliams, Bethel St. East, Harry Hawley, Bert Histed, Earl Hawley and Tom Duckwall took in the Toronto Fair last week.—Mrs. Greenway spent Monday and Tuesday last with friends in Newburgh.—Mr. and Mrs. B. Huyck, Bardolph, and Mr. Ira Fifefield and sister, Mary, of Hamilton, were with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snider for a couple of days last week.—On Labor Day two exciting baseball games were witnessed by a large number of spectators. At 2.30 o'clock, the Camden East boys played the Morven team, the score being 12 for Morven and 14 for Camden East. At 4.30 a match game of indoor baseball was played by the girls of Wilton and the Spiders of Camden East, the score being 22-20, in favor of the Camden East girls.—The W. C. T. U. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. L. Snider on Tuesday evening last, with a good crowd. It was decided that the Union would serve lunch on the day of the School Fair, for the benefit of the public. The charge will be a small one and a good lunch will be given, as you know the Camden East ladies are excellent cooks. Come and help the good cause of Temperance, and the ladies will do their best in supplying sandwiches, pie, cake and a good cup of tea. The School Fair will be held on Sept. 22nd.—Mrs. Wm. Loucks left on Monday last for South Dakota to visit her daughter, Mrs. Maloney, and husband for a couple of months. She will stop over en route to visit her father, Mr. Jackson, of Chicago.

WEDDING BELLS.

Joyner—Dinner.

At the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee, Miss Nora H. Dinner, one of Napanee's most charming and popular young ladies, was quietly married on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 1st, at 11.30 o'clock, to Mr. Wm. J. N. Joyner, of the Merchants Bank, Toronto, formerly of Napanee and Kingston. The officiating Clergyman was Rev. J. H. H. Coleman, M.A., Vicar of the Parish, only immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present at the ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in her going-away suit of blue tricotine, embroidered in grey and black. She wore grey shoes and stockings and a handsome grey georgette blouse. A grey feather hat completed the charming tout ensemble.

The happy couple left on the 3.30 p.m. train to spend their honeymoon at Ottawa and other eastern points. There was a large assemblage of their friends at the railway to give them a good send-off and to wish them bon voyage in their journey through life.

The host of valuable, useful, costly and artistic presents received by the bride testify to the esteem and affection with which Mr. and Mrs. Joyner are regarded by their friends.

Kimmett—Lasher.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, Aug. 31st, 1921, at 12 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, when Amy Rose, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Lasher, Roblin, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Kimmett. The drawing room was artistically decorated with pink and white asters. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Campbell, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, the bride entered the drawing room to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. She was charmingly attired in a gown of navy blue charmeuse with grey trimmings and embroidered in silk. The young couple were unattended. Following the ceremony a dinner was served to thirty guests. Beautiful asters formed the decorations in the dining room, And amid good wishes and showers of confetti Mr. and Mrs. Kimmett left on the four o'clock train from Roblindale for Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside at Roblin. The bride travelled in a navy blue suit with tricolette blouse embroidered in gold and grey feather hat. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, among them a handsome leather rocker from the Methodist Church, where the bride has been organist for a number of years.

Biliousness and Liver Diseases

May be the result of Constipation or may exist when the bowels are irregular. The liver is congested often giving rise to pain under the right shoulder, the complexion is yellow, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, slight fever, distress after eating, sometimes vomiting. Bile does not enter the bowels to digest the fats which decompose, forming gas, irritating the intestinal tract, often producing diarrhoea. A natural Liver Stimulant is required and DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS taken according to directions not only stimulates, but tones that organ.

THE RUSSIAN REFUGEES

OVER A MILLION EXILES SCATTERED OVER THE WORLD.

Never Before In the History of the World Have So Many People Been Driven From a Single Country at One Time — Plight Is Unique and Whole Families Are Destitute.

"NEVER is a long word." Yet it is probably true that never has the world known a story quite like that of the Russian refugees and exiles now scattered through all the nations of the earth. The numbers involved, the confusion which surrounds their lives and conceals the fate of their friends and families, the uncertainties which threaten their future, make their plight unique among the many tragedies of the war's aftermath.

A writer in the New York Herald reminds us that other refugees during the war were usually driven back in their own countries, among their own people. To most of the people of the smaller nations who were driven out of their lands by conquerors, victory has finally returned to their homes. Terrible as have been their hardships and tremendous as have been the difficulties of re-establishing their lives, these refugees have a habitation and a country. Only the political refugees from Bolshevist Russia face the fact that their country is in the hands of kinsmen hostile to them, and that they are outcast and without a homeland to which to return.

The numbers of the refugees from Russia, according to various sources of information, are between a million and a half and two million. The great majority of these people are in desperate need, separated from their native land and people, cast away in strange surroundings, without legal status, deprived of all means of existence and of the normal protection of their own government.

Germany	200,000
Turkey	200,000
France	150,000
Poland	100,000
Austria	70,000
Serbia	50,000
Lemnos and Cyprus	25,000
Finland	20,000
Italy	20,000
Esthonia	17,000
England	15,000
Latvia	12,000
Africa (Egypt and Tunis)	10,000
Bulgaria	7,000
Hungary	5,000
Czecho-Slovakia	5,000
Switzerland	4,000
Lithuania	3,000
Rumania	2,500
Greece	2,500
Scandinavian countries	5,000

In addition, there are Russian refugee colonies, numbers unestimated, in China and Japan and America.

The exiles from the present regime in Russia are of all classes and types. There are Russian soldiers of the Imperial Czar's army, who were sent to France in the first year of the European war, and about 10,000 of whom are reported still there. There are men who were in the prison camps of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey. There are representatives and members of special missions of the former imperial and provisional governments of Russia, who have lost their status and are unable to return home. And there is the great flood of expropriated land-owners, political opponents of the Bolshevists, former officials, journalists, teachers, officers, military men who have taken part in the various campaigns against the Soviet Government, and others forced out on the sheer difficulty of making a living within Russia, and the women and children who have been driven forth in the ebb and flow of civil war.

Constantinople is said to be turned into a half-Russian city. Some reports have stated that some 75,000 or 80,000 Russian refugees wander the streets of the Turkish capital in rags and practically without resources.

Russian scientists and literary men in considerable numbers are in exile in nearly all the capitals of Europe. Many of them have been forced to seek a living at occupations having nothing to do with their scientific or literary abilities, which they often cannot utilize successfully without a fluent knowledge of the language of the country in which they live. They have formed so-called "Academic Groups," through whose activities some apointments for Russian specialists have been secured. Such organizations exist in England and France, and that in England, working in contact with British scientists and professors in an international committee, has had an especially favorable start.

There have been many stories of the expedients to which these Russian refugees have been forced in the effort to maintain themselves—stories of people of former titles and wealth working in hotels and as chauffeurs, singing and dancing in restaurants and theatres, and acting as waiters and governesses and interpreters and translators. These stories are generally not exaggerated.

Claude Monet.

Claude Monet, the octogenarian painter and one of the last surviving members of that impressionists' school, delights to recall how when he "used to be so happy and so poor." He would then receive 100 francs for a painting; now a commission isn't much that doesn't bring him $10,000.

Studebaker Light Six

Economical

because of its Exclusive Internal Hot Spot and Light Weight—

The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX might well be called the "Economy Six", for every day in the hands of hundreds of owners it is averaging between 21 and 26 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Such low fuel consumption is due chiefly to its Internal Hot-Spot, an exclusive feature of the LIGHT-SIX motor, designed by Studebaker engineers.

The light, evenly-balanced weight of the LIGHT-SIX chassis further contributes to its low operating expense—not only with respect to fuel, but tires as well.

See the LIGHT-SIX, analyze its fine quality of construction and you will agree that it represents the maximum of automobile values.

PYRAMID BUILDING.

Modern Engineers Would Require a Year to Complete Cheops.

The Pyramid of Cheops is nearly 500 feet high, covers more than thirteen acres, and contains 90,000,000 cubic feet of stone. Its construction is said to have been a task of twenty years, employing in the continuous labor of 100,000 men.

Modern engineers believe that they could reproduce it in twelve months, at a labor cost of $1,200,000, using concrete as the material in place of limestone.

The great pyramid was built wholly by man power. To erect one like it would be a relatively easy task mechanically, inasmuch as electrical and other machinery would do the bulk of the work.

A theory generally accepted has been that the ancient Egyptians elevated the huge limestone blocks by building against the structure a long "ramp" of earth, up which the stones were dragged. Some of our foremost engineers now reject this idea, contending that the sides of the pyramid, being filled in to a smooth slant as they rose, themselves formed planes sufficiently inclined to enable gangs of men to pull up with ropes the stones required for the successive courses.

With modern devices, says the Popular Science Monthly, we could build such a pyramid in a year. An enormous concrete-mixing plant would be erected. Fresh concrete would be rushed to these by a multitude of bucket conveyers from the mixing plant. The concrete would be whisked to the tops of the towers and thence would be distributed to the points where it was wanted. Up, up up the mighty pile would go. It would be a process twenty times as rapid as the best that slave labor could do under the lash for Old Man Cheops.

Good Citizenship.

To act loyally.—Loyalty is the cohesive force of society. Unless we are true to our family, business associates, and fellow-citizens, the state falls in pieces.

To co-operate.—Team play is the only way to insure efficiency. It should be cultivated in our games as well as in our work.

To act honestly.—Honesty is the foundation of business. No man can be fast enough to keep an extensive concern prosperous on dishonesty.

To work honestly.—Without a disposition to work and earn his wages he becomes a burden on the community.

To act justly.—Which means to be guided by his reason and not his desires.

To live thrift ly.—Money is necessary to civilization, and everyone should have a little of his own in reserve.

To live reverently.—There are certain objects all decent men agree to respect—women, children, the weak, the law, religion, honest sentiment, and wholesome traditions.

To act responsibly.—The feeling of personal responsibility is the test of citizenship.

To act independently.—Good citizenship implies initiative and resourcefulness.

To act kindly, which needs no explanation.

To act creatively, and not to assume only a critical and obstructive attitude.

To live courageously.—The prime and determining factor in any rank is its courage.

The Population of the Earth.

Somebody has reckoned that if the earth's population had increased 4½ per cent. every hundred years since the birth of Christ, by now there would not be standing room left on the globe, including all the islands. Yet England and Wales in ten years increased their population 161 per cent., and the increase in the United States has been much greater.

The earth's population at the present time is about sixteen hundred million. Different parts of the earth vary greatly in the matter of density of population. Certain portions of China, the Ganges Valley, and parts of Europe, are now crowded for comfort. On the other hand, large tracts of Central Asia, Russia, the American, Africa and Australia could accommodate many more people.

The Turks by their religious fanaticism have caused devastation in the last five hundred years in the valley of the Danube, in Macedonia, Asia Minor, Syria and Mesopotamia. These countries, as a result of massacre and famine, are dried-up deserts.

Long-Leaf Pine Plants.

Young long-leaf pine plants protect themselves against forest fires in a most interesting and remarkable way. For four or five years the stems of the infant trees attain a height of only as many inches above the soil. During this time their bark is extraordinarily thick, and that alone gives some protection. But in addition the long needles spring up above the stem, and then bend over on all sides in a green cascade which falls to the ground in a circle about the seedling. This green barrier can with difficulty be made to burn, while the shade that it casts prevents inflammable grass from growing near the protected stem. It is thought that it is owing to this peculiar system that the growth of the evergreen forests in Florida has been protected in regions where fires have raged, while pines where fires have raged, while pine forests have taken their place.

Ice-beds of Rivers.

Rivers in Siberia are quite different from rivers in other parts of the world in one feature, many of them running over beds of ice. One of the tributaries of the Lena river has a bed of ice from nine to twenty feet in thickness, over which the water has been flowing probably for hundreds of years.

ON TRAINING OF COLTS

They Should Not be "Broken," but Educated.

Start Them Wearing Harness and Bridle — Then Hitch and Give Light Work at First — Methods of Keeping Cow Records.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The too common practice of allowing colts to go "unbroken" until such time as they are required to perform the functions of a horse in the spring, is irrational, and unfair to the animal. Colts should not be "broken"; they should be taught or educated. In the unhandled, or unbroken colt, the muscular, respiratory and nervous system (the organs whose functions are taxed in the performance of the ordinary functions of a horse) are weak and undeveloped from lack of function. Hence, when the unprepared animal is asked to perform ordinary horse labor, he has neither any knowledge of what he is required to do, nor the muscular nor respiratory tone that is necessary for its satisfactory performance; therefore, unless very carefully handled, and very little work done for the first two or three weeks, trouble of various natures that will probably necessitate complete rest for a variable time is very liable to result. Hence, a regular course of preparation during the late winter and early spring months, when the time of both man and horse is not very valuable, should be given in order to have the colts in such condition when time becomes valuable, that they will be able to perform a reasonable amount of work with satisfaction to the driver and safety to themselves. This course should be commenced at least six weeks before regular work is expected to commence.

They Should Be Harnessed and Bridled Early.

The colt or colts should first be taught to wear harness and bridle by being allowed to run free for a few hours daily in a box stall or paddock with the harness on. It is then a good practice to match each with a handy, smart and good-natured horse, or if necessary a pair of colts together, and teach them to drive, obey the words of command, stand when asked to, etc.

When they have become reasonably handy without being hitched, they should be hitched to a sleigh or wagon. Care should be taken to see that the harness fits properly. This applies especially to collars. The collars in which they are expected to work later on should be worn. Each should have his own, and it should fit properly, not being too wide, so as to allow a rolling motion, nor yet sufficiently narrow to pinch at any point. The bearing surface should conform thoroughly to the surfaces of the neck and shoulder with which it comes in contact, except at the bottom, where sufficient vacant space to allow the introduction of a man's fingers should exist.

Exercise or Light Work a Benefit.

The colt or pair should be given daily exercise or light work. Commencing with an hour or two the first day, and gradually increasing the amount, until they will be able to perform a full day's reasonable exertion without showing signs of weariness. The amount of grain given should also be gradually increased in proportion to the work or exercise given. By such usage the muscular, respiratory and nervous systems gradually gain tone, the muscles with which the harness, especially the collar, comes in contact, gradually become hardened and increased in power of resistance, hence become much less liable to soreness. In many cases, on account of the hardening of the muscles, they lose bulk; hence a collar that may have fitted perfectly at first, may now be too large. This should be attended to either by providing fresh collars or filling the extra space of the old ones with sweat pads. While we prefer collars without sweat pads, the latter is much better than vacant space.—J. H. Reed, V.S., O. A. College, Guelph.

Methods of Keeping Cow Records.

Four things are necessary for keeping cow records:

1. A monthly milk sheet, ruled so that there shall be a column for recording the weight of the morning and evening milking of each cow for each day of the month, though some use a sheet ruled for three days only, and estimate the weight of milk given for the month from these three days, which may be consecutive or on the 1st, 10th and 20th of the month, making ten day periods between.

2. A milk scale, preferably one having a dial-face and two hands, one of which shows the net weight of milk in the pail, when properly set. This scale costs about five dollars.

3. A four to eight-bottle Babcock test, where it is desired to know what each cow's milk tests in fat. This will cost from eight to twelve dollars complete.

4. The fourth and most important requirement is, "The-will-to-do." Without this, milk sheets, scales, testers, etc., are valueless. By having scale, sheet, pencil, sample bottles properly labelled, etc., all conveniently arranged, it takes but little time to keep a record of each milking cow in the herd.

We would add a fifth need, which is, some form of permanent record book for monthly totals and tests, as milk sheets, and notes or records of testing, are likely to be lost and not available for reference. But if these are recorded once a month in a permanent form, they will prove a source of help in breeding, feeding and weeding dairy cows.—H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

PLAIN TALKS - NO. 6

WHO'S A BUM?

I make good money fixing shoes,
And making boots to measure;
And oftimes take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task,
Ih fact we wouldn't try;
Stool pigeons only wish we would,
But we are far too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any man that holds that job
Is nothing but a dud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let, your children shirk
And hang around among such bums
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—

We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is defined in our dictionary as a loose, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "liable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation, is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such drivelling, underhand lines.

So, be like us and mix not with such folks, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

Fall Styles

In Their Latest Conceptions Will Be Exposed at Our Fall Fashion Openings, Which Are Being Held in our various Departments throughout our Store to-day and Saturday, September 9th and 10th. Especially featured and prominently displayed will be Autumn Hats as originated and created by foremost Canadian and New York Milliners. Of compelling interest will be our displays of Women's and Misses' Ready-to-wear garments, as Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Waists. Likewise just as absorbing will be the unique displays of the various weaves and colors obtainable in the Fall Woolens and Silks. We especially invite you to our store to view these various lines of Autumn Merchandise, to get acquainted with the new style lines, to learn the names and the colors of the popular materials.

The Autumn Fabrics

Second only in importance to style itself are the fabrics and colors for Fall, and with some people they are even held in first place. To argue the point here is not our wish, but to tell you about the obtainable materials and colorings. This season one finds more quality about the various cloths, more richness of color and more fastness of dye. For Suits are Botany Serges, Tricotine, Velour, Tricotex, Broadcloth, Cheviot, Gabardine, Tweeds, Duvetyn and Heather Jersey. In these materials the shades of Navy, Black, Memento, Shrimp, Mohawk, Henna, Geisha, Scarab, Poppy, Loganberry, Bobolink, Brown and Grey, Logenberry, Green, Taupe, Grey and Beaver.

For gowns, blouses and separate skirts, there is an endless array of fashionable Silk weaves. Prominent with good dressmakers are fabrics known as Satin Duchess, Shot Jersey, Crepe Meteor, Tricolette, Canton Crepe, Silk Diagonal, Silk Gabardine, Silk Matalasse, Crepe-de-chene, Foulard and Taffeta. In these the shades of Navy, Black, Memento, Shrimp, Mohawk, Henna, Geisha, Scarab, Poppy, Loganberry, Bobolink, Brown and Grey.

The 1921 Silhouette.

The first Coat that was made in Canada possessed a certain amount of style. It was built after some specific pattern which in those days best expressed the spirit of the times and the requirements of the women of that age. At that time they were indeed beautiful and even to-day are interesting in no small degree and offer much inspiration.

Needless to say that the Silhouette for Fall presents an entirely different picture. The long slender lines on which most garments are patterned are indeed artistic in construction and graceful in effect. To this strikingly beautiful foundation is added rich Furs and colorful Embroidery, which greatly enhances and beautifies every garment which they adorn.

This broadly describes the mode, but each garment exposes some individual charm which is fashionable and yet conforms to the accepted mode. Possibly it is the length and width of the skirt, or the way the neck is cut, the length of the sleeve or the trimming.

The Autumn Modes In Millinery

Our Fall Openings will introduce the Autumn Vogue in Tailored and Dress Hats as presented by the best milliners of the present age.

The very smartness of line which characterizes our present assemblage is ample proof to the above statement. It is good to know that your Millinery comes from good, reliable, authentic sources, but it is really the chic and the charm which makes them so dear to the heart and so becoming to the head of every well dressed woman.

Possibly Velvet predominates by way of material, with Duvetyn and Hatters Plush affording equally as popular alternative. Caboucbons and rosettes of Ribbon are favored forms of trimming and Ostrich Feathers appear on some of the models for Dress Hats. Fine Ribbon, Foliage, Beads and Fringe are also employed for ornamentation.

Black, Navy, Brown and Purple lead in the way of colors, while combinations of colorings are extremely fashionable.

Millionaires are supposed to lean toward a philosophic pessimism, but there is one who is evidently a genuine optimist.

He met a friend and said, "Come and see my new steam laundry."

The friend was somewhat surprised.

"I didn't know you went in for that sort of thing," he said.

"I don't as a rule," replied the millionaire. "I bought this one quite by mistake. It was the auctioneer's fault. I hadn't time to get a catalogue, and I thought he said steam launch. So I nodded, and they landed me with it."

That millionaire is going to make that laundry pay.

ARDEN

We had a beautiful rain on Monday evening, which was greatly needed. The memorial service in honor of our boys who gave their lives in the war, was well attended. A Cultivated Lake.

It seemed impossible to read the heading, "A Cultivated Lake" without wondering whether any of the inhabitants of the lake were cultivated, like some oysters. The lake in question is the Citranite in southeastern Europe. The most cultured occupants turned out to be the human beings who sow and harvest on the lake's bottom in summer, the waters having departed suddenly through great fissures in the bed of the lake. In the autumn the waters return as rapidly as they went, throwing up cascades of foam as if from blowholes. Presumably the lake is fed in winter by water coming to it underground from a body of water higher in the mountains and, in turn, empties into some lower lying basin.—Christian Science Monitor.

A "Conjunction."

Teacher—"Thomas, will you tell me what a conjunction is, and compose a sentence containing one?"

Thomas (after reflection)—"A conjunction is a word connecting anything, such as 'The horse is hitched to the fence by his halter.' 'Halter' is a conjunction, because it connects the horse and the fence."

A member of New York sportsmen, putting in at Bill Baker's Maine camp, found their sport much interfered with by rain. Bill, being one of the old-fashioned barometer that hung in Bill's general room persistently marked "set fair." At last one of the party drew Bill's attention to this curious glass. "Don't you think," he said, "that there's something the matter with your glass?"

"No, sir," answered Bill, indignantly. "She's a good glass, an' a powerful one, too," he added, reflectively, "she ain't moved by trifles."

NERVOUS, IRRITABLE, AILING WOMEN

Mrs. Britton Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dimondale, Mich.—"I had inflammation and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that it caused great pain, and this affected my mind and nerves so that I was very irritable. I had severe pains every month, so that I was often obliged to be in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I purchased one bottle after another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I received so much benefit from this treatment that I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. BRITTON, R. No. 2, Dimondale, Mich.

Another Michigan Woman says:

"I was bothered for a long time with female troubles and was so nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved me of these nervous feelings and pains and I am much better in every way. I don't know just how many bottles I have taken, but I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good."—Mrs. JESSIE GRANGER, R. No. 8, Box 51, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspiration of her husband, a happy mother, and the life of the home. Without it she suffers agonies herself, household duties are a burden, and her family is made miserable by her condition.

Is it any wonder that these women were nervous and irritable after suffering so long from such deranged conditions? Such ailments act directly upon the nerves, and it has been said that a large percentage of nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

If women who are in this condition would only profit by the experience of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, much suffering and unhappiness would be averted, as everyone knows a nervous, irritable, ailing mother makes the home unhappy and her condition irritates both husband and children.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Famous Faker Died in Poverty

LOUIS DE ROUGEMONT, who died in a London poorhouse a short time ago, was the greatest faker of his time. He caused the world to ring with his thrilling account of his exploits which attracted quite as much attention as did the exploits of Admiral Peary or H. M. Stanley. Cet all these exploits were imaginary. Had he simply written stories and admitted them to be fiction, it is probable that he would have produced a worthy successor of "Gulliver's Travels" or "Robinson Crusoe." But because he insisted that he was relating facts he was disgraced and ruined when the truth was made known. His fate was even more grievous than the fate of Dr. Cook, and if he escaped a criminal charge it was not because he had not laid himself open to one of receiving money under false pretenses from the credulous publishers of his adventures.

It was in 1898 that the name of Louis de Rougemont flashed before the world. He had just arrived in London from New Zealand and, around the eyes and on the face, which is followed by a slight form of eruption, which soon assumes the appearance of little yellowish scabs of a circular shape, the mass scales forming a circular space; hence the term "ringworm." A variable number of these circular patches may be of a plane is required to keep it in found on different parts of the commission for two years, the total body. They are of a yellowish color when fresh, but become lighter in color as they grow older; the hairs become briskly, some break off, and some become split. When the disease is not checked the affected areas become more numerous and the patient apparently suffers acutely from itchiness, and sometimes rubs against solid objects with such force as to cause bleeding. If a scale be removed and the under surface examined by a magnifying glass, the parasite can be seen.

Treatment.

In order that the spread of the disease may be checked, it is necessary that great care be taken to avoid the conveyance of the virus from the diseased to healthy animals. Where practicable, it is well to remove all non-infected animals to non-infected premises. If this cannot be done, the diseased animals should be isolated, and the premises in which they had been kept should be disinfected by thoroughly sweeping and dusting, and then giving a whitewash coat of an insecticide, and a hot 5 per cent. of one of the coal tar antiseptics or carbolic acid, or a coat of hot lime wash with 5 per cent. carbolic acid. This precaution is advisable on account of the virus lodging in stalls, bedding, etc., and infecting other animals.

Local treatment; consist in moistening the scales with warm water and soap, or sweet oil, so as to soften them in order to expose the unprotected surfaces of the affected skin. It is good practice to burn these scales. An insecticide, as tincture of iodine, or an ointment made of two drams white hellebore mixed with an ounce of vaseline, or fat, or any reliable non-irritant insecticide, once or twice daily until cured.—J. H. Reed, V.S., O. A. College, Guelph.

A Fly Spray.

A good fly spray can be made from 4½ quarts coal tar dip, 4½ quarts fish oil, 2 quarts coal oil, 3 quarts whale oil, and 1½ quarts of tar.

Dissolve 3 lbs. laundry soap in water, add the ingredients of the spray and bring the whole up to 50 gallons with lukewarm soft water. The spray will keep off the flies and prevent the coats of the animals from becoming harsh.

The cows should be sprayed twice a day—in the morning after milking, and in the afternoon when in the barn for silage or green feed. Thirty gallons of mixture will spray 40 cows twice a day for ten days.

September Notes.

Peonies should be divided and reset during September or October.

Do not forget to fill some of the geraniums, salvia, asters, or other plants in the yard or garden. They will bloom in the window this winter.

A drain tile set over each plant is a good method of blanching celery. Celery for winter storage should not be blanched before putting in the cellar.

Plant tulips in the garden or border the last of September or early October. Tulips, narcissus, daffodils and hyacinths planted now in pots or boxes and put in a cool place will give good flowers next spring.

Place squash on shelves in a dry room near the furnace or in a warm attic room. They must not be in a damp or frosty place. They will stand a great deal of heat and dry air, but little moisture. If you want squash or pumpkins to keep well, handle them carefully so they are not bruised.

Dahlias, cannas, gladioli, etc., should be dug and stored after the foliage has been killed by frost. The first part of October is usually the time.

Try to arrange a change of pasture for the sheep. Changing pasture as frequently as possible minimizes losses through parasitic diseases.

Green tomatoes may be put under cover when frosty nights come and many will ripen.

Onions keep best in an airy, dry place. A moist cellar is not a good place. They decay quickly.

Save your fruit by putting a little Preserving Powder in each jar. Sold at Hooper's.—The Medical Hall.

A bottle of Parke's Catsup Flavor preserves and flavors a bushel of tomatoes. 25c. a bottle at Wallace's. Add 5c. extra for mailing.

THE CURE OF RINGWORM.

Disagreeable, Contagious Disease of Farm Animals.

The Symptoms Carefully Described —Treatment Carefully Applied Usually Successful—A Fly Spray —September Notes.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Ringworm is a contagious disease to which all classes of animals, including man, are subject.

Calves and young cattle appear to be more susceptible to the trouble than other animals, but no age renders an animal immune. It is purely a skin disease, and is due to the presence of a vegetable parasite, which is readily capable of being conveyed from one animal to another by direct contact, the hands of the attendant, pails, stable utensils, clothing, harness, saddles, blankets, the contact of one animal with the stalls, etc., of affected animals, etc.

In like manner, curry-combs, brushes, rubbing cloths, etc., that are used on affected animals of any class, if used on other animals, become a fertile cause of infection.

Symptoms.

While any part of the animal may be the seat of the disease, the skin around the eyes and on the face, which is followed by a slight form of eruption, which soon assumes the appearance of little yellowish scabs of a circular shape, the mass scales forming a circular space; hence the term "ringworm." A variable number of these circular patches may be found on different parts of the body. CASE FOR THE NAVY.

Erroneous Statements as to Relative Power of Ships and Planes.

Naval officers point out that there have been appearing in the press with increasing frequency erroneous statements respecting the cost of battleships as compared with aircraft. It is also claimed that aerial bombs are more destructive than gun projectiles, because such bombs contain a larger percentage of explosive than armor-piercing shells of the same size. The statements most frequently made with respect to costs are that 1,000 airplanes can be constructed for the cost of one present-day battleship; that each 'plane can carry a bomb of sufficient power to sink a battleship; and that the airplane requires a personnel of only two or three men, whereas the battleship requires 1,600 or more.

Present-day cost of battleships is about $45,000,000; but granting the cost to be that sum, and that such a battleship could be used for the first line for a period of fifteen years, and the second line for ten years, at an annual upkeep cost of $1,000,000, the cost of the battleship for twenty-five years be $70,000,000, or $2,800,000 yearly. Granted that 1,000 planes can be built for $45,000,000—which, on account of the diversified types required by complete naval air force, seems hardly likely—inasmuch as planes of the larger type cost considerably more than $45,000 each, including their equipment—it should be borne in mind that the life of a plane in service is approximately two years. Hence, the entire cost of the 'planes must be again spent each succeeding two years, or twelve and a half times during the life of a battleship; and inasmuch as not less than 50 per cent. on the average, of the first cost of a plane is required to keep it in commission for two years, the total cost of 1,000 planes for twenty-five years would be $843,750,000, or $33,748,000 per year, a sum sufficient to keep in commission 12 battleships of the present-day type.

Furthermore, in the matter of personnel, naval officers do not agree with the printed statements. A battleship such as mentioned would have a crew of 1,500 officers and men instead of 800, while in the case of airplanes, for every man in the air there is required approximately 10 on the ground.

On this basis, 12 battleships would require 18,000 officers and men, and 1,000 airplanes, on the basis of one man in the 'plane and 20 on the ground, would require 21,000 personnel. To be perfectly fair in the matter, it may be considered that the personnel of the two would about cancel each other in cost, inasmuch as highly skilled mechanics are required on battleships and aircraft alike. In the case of land sheds and hangars for 1,000 aircraft, we may also consider that the expense of increasing the dockyard yards required for the repair of battleships. That brings the cost down to a comparison of material cost, and, as above stated, 1,000 aircraft stretched over a period of 25 years, which is the extreme life of a battleship, would equal the cost of 12 such battleships.

Regarding the statement that aircraft could each carry a bomb sufficiently large to destroy a battleship, it is not believed that at the present day this can be done. Bombs have not been developed to such an extent that they are armor-piercing, and after landing on the deck of a ship their destructiveness would be small. The experiments on the U. S. S. Indiana with a large bomb filled with T.N.T. which was exploded on her deck, causing considerable damage to her old-style upper works, has been used as an illustration of what bombs can do, and statements have been made that the bombs were destructive when laid on the deck, it would be much more so if dropped from an airplane. This is erroneous. The destructiveness of T.N.T., unconfined, has a certain potentiality which is not increased by the mere dropping of the T.N.T. from a height. It is necessary for the projectile to pierce the armor of the ship and explode inside of her hull. This cannot be done by thin-walled aerial bombs subject only to the impulse of gravity. There must be acceleration beyond the force of gravity to give the projectile armor and the shell must be of the armor-piercing variety.

Harnessing the Wind.

Years ago, wind power was commercially popular. It simply had to be, since there were few other sources of power. To-day we get most of our power from coal and a great amount from water.

Palestine is not favored with either coal or water power, and Dr. L. M. Arkwright is now studying the problem of wind power to determine whether or not it would be possible to run the industries of Palestine with wind-motors. He has collected interesting data on wind motors in Europe.

Examination of four hundred and seventy-seven installations was made. Eighty-seven per cent. of these had shown satisfactorily for periods up to eighteen hundred years. Wind-power installations are now made in Denmark for the generation of electric power in small communities.

Crystals That Talk.

A new development by which partially deaf people may be made to hear has been recently at a meeting of the Faraday Society.

Mr. Kilburn Scott exhibited crystals of Rochelle salt, made artificially, which possessed the remarkable power of reproducing sounds.

Mr. Kilburn Scott explained that deaf people could wear a small crystal behind the ear, connected with a little sound-box worn over the chest. The sounds of conversation would then be transmitted to the ear-drum in the form of vibrations, which would enable them to hear.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Remover.

Porcelain coins are now being minted in Germany. If our indemnity is to be paid in earthenware we shall have every excuse for feeling dished.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

A plot has been discovered, says a Dutch correspondent, for the reconquest of Germany by the ex-Crown Prince. If it had succeeded it would have served them both right.

Simple and Sure.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is so simple in application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Walter found his mamma talking to a very stout woman.

"Walter," said his mother, "this is your great-aunt."

"Yes," said Walter, gazing at her ample proportions, "she looks it!"

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Musicus—You ought to hear our new organ. It's a fine one. It has more stops than any other instrument in town.

Motorly—Stops, eh? For repairs or on account of the police?

Cheapest of all Oils. — Considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

A number of New York sportsmen, putting up at Bill Baker's Maine camp, found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still—fine or wet—the old-fashioned barometer that hung in Bill's general room persistently marked "set fair." At last one of the party drew Bill's attention to this curious glass. "Don't you think," he said, "that there's something the matter with your glass?"

"No, sir," answered Bill, indignantly. "She's a good glass, an' a powerful one, but," he added, reflectively, "she ain't moved by trifles."

"Why do you turn out for every road hog that comes along?" said the missus, rather crossly. "The right of way is ours, isn't it?"

"Oh, undoubtedly!" answered he, calmly. "As for our turning out, the reason is plainly suggested in this epitaph which appeared in a newspaper recently:

"Here lies the body of William Jay,
Who died maintaining his right of way;
He was right, dead right, as he sped along,
But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

Visitor—What did you get for your birthday, little girl?

Slum Child—Nothin'. Never got anything since the first one, an' then I only got born.

Kitts and tells of his 12,000 mile trip from Edmonton, north along the Mackenzie through to the Pacific coast and then east to Edmonton. In addition to this article, this number includes thirteen stories and articles which together with the usual departments makes an interesting issue of Canada's outdoor monthly. Swatting Flies for a Living.

In the swampy district of Mexico the chief industry of the greater part of the native population is hunting flies.

The swamps are the favorite breeding-place of a species of large black fly resembling the English bluebottle. The black mud harbors hordes of these insects.

The weapons of the hunter are a large, fine-meshed net and a rope to carry the "catch."

As soon as they are disturbed, the flies rise in dense masses. The hunter strikes right and left, and as quickly as he swings the net the flies are caught and transferred to the bag.

Hundreds of small boxes are arranged in a convenient spot, and as fast as the fly bags are brought in they are emptied into the boxes and the hunt is resumed. Each box is fitted with a wooden plunger. As the boxes are filled, the plunger is squeezed down and then subjected to heavy pressure.

Next day a solid, compressed cake of pressed flies is removed from the box, exposed for a time to the fierce sunshine, and the flyhides are then ready for packing and exportation to every port in the world as bird food.

One day Smith was complaining that he was not feeling as fit as usual and a friend suggested that he should go in for more exercise.

"There's horse-riding, for instance" said the friend. "It is one of the best forms of exercise on earth."

"I know," was the doubtful rejoinder. "But I am afraid I couldn't afford it."

"Couldn't afford it!" exclaimed the other, wondering. "You already have a horse, and just think of the appetite it would give you."

"Yes," responded Smith, with a sigh, "and just think of the appetite it would give the horse."

Had Foot Amputated.

Percy Merritt, twenty-three years of age, while working on a farm at Stillsville, west of Napanee, Monday suffered a painful accident that required the amputation of his foot in the General Hospital. He got his foot caught in the knives of the machinery cutting the crop for the silo, and after being attended by Dr. Simpson, was rushed to the Kingston General Hospital in an automobile Monday afternoon. Dr. D. E. Mundell did the amputation. Mr. Merritt was reported to be resting easily on Tuesday.

Moonshine Case.

Nesson Yared, Point Anne, was charged before Magistrate Bedford, Deseronto, Tuesday, with an infraction of the Inland Revenue Act, and judgment was reserved until Sept. 8th. The case arouse out of a charge made against Yared for selling liquor illegally for which he was recently fined $500, while Peter Batstiste, Tyendinaga, was fined $200 for having illicit distilled liquor. It is alleged that moonshine liquor was made near Shannonville and sold at Point Anne.

Guilty of Theft.

Finding him guilty on a charge of stealing harness from the Napanee Brickyard Company, Judge Madden, in the County Judge's Criminal Court at Napanee on Wednesday sentenced Herbert Johnson, a young man, to two years less one day in the Burwash Reformatory. The prisoner pleaded "not guilty" to the charge, but the prosecution presented a strong case. Herbert Johnson is a brother of Frederick Johnson, who made a sensational escape from the jail at Napanee a few weeks ago. It is understood that the latter is at some point in the far west.

Found Dead.

On Friday afternoon Mr. Fred Elliott, who lived alone in the building on Mill Street, formerly occupied by Mr. F. E. VanLaven, as an office, was found dead on the floor. He had apparently been about to eat a meal and fell from his chair, and had probably been dead since the previous evening, as he was seen on Thursday and was fully dressed. The cause of his death was heart trouble, for which he had been taking medicine, and also spent some time in the Kingston hospital. The funeral took place on Saturday. He is supposed to have a brother who formerly resided in Toronto, but moved from there to Winnipeg, Man., and has not been heard from in twenty-three years. Mrs. Lasher Van-Volkenburgh is a cousin.

James Sweeny Dies Of Heart Disease.

James Sweeny, the manufacturer of nickel-plate ware, who was long in business with his two brothers, Joseph J. and William Henry, at Water and Main Sts., died suddenly yesterday at his residence, 1253 Dean St. A week ago he attended the races with his son, Harry B., at Saratoga, when he was taken suddenly ill. He was removed to his hotel, the Grand Union, where he was attended by a physician, who relieved him, and he was brought home. On Saturday he had a recurrence of his trouble, heart trouble, superficed by indigestion, and was forced to take to his bed. On Monday he was without pain, and it was thought he was better. He was conscious to the last. He is survived by his two sons, Harry B. and Frank R., and the two brothers with whom he was in business, although he himself had practically retired two years ago, confining his duties to the real estate part of the business, as well as two sisters, Mrs. J. P. Hanley and Mrs. Frank Sooney. The funeral services will be held at St. Gregory's Church, St. John's pl. and Brooklyn ave., to-morrow at 10 a.m., and the interment will follow in Calvary Cemetery. Mr. Sweeny was a prominent member of the old Bedford Council, K.C., and was a trustee of the Prudential Savings Bank, of which he was one of the organizers. He was a delegate last year to Europe for the Knights of Columbus on their visit there. He was born in Napanee, Ont., March 3rd, 1847, and had resided in Brooklyn for 54 years. He had travelled considerably. He was educated in the Public Schools of his native town. His wife, who was Matilda J. Barron, of Rochester, died in 1913.—The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, New York, August 24th, 1921.

Killed by Train.

Mr. Thomas Parks, who resided in Napanee, and was engaged as section man on the Grand Trunk Railway, was instantly killed near Ernestown Station on Tuesday morning. He was riding a hand car when he stepped off it and directly in front of a fast westbound freight train. He was struck on the head by the buffer beam of the engine and killed. He is survived by a wife and family.

A couple of Irishmen met in the street, and one of them asked:
"What's this I hear about Clancy?"
"He's been tryin' to asphyxiate himself."
"G'wan! What did he do?"
"He lit every gas jet in the house and sat down and waited."

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS BY TWO STRANGERS

BERT YEOMANS, FARMER, LIVING NEAR CAMDEN EAST, IS BRUTALLY ATTACKED.

To be knocked unconscious with the butt end of a shot gun by one of two strangers who had asked a drink at his creek was the experience of Bert Yeomans, a farmer, forty-five years of age, living within three-quarters of a mile of the Village of Camden East. The assault occurred Friday morning, and although able to get home and tell his wife in a few words what had happened, Mr. Yeomans did not recover the full use of his faculties until Saturday morning. Money is considered to have been the motive of the attack, but the men secured nothing for their efforts. The affair has created quite a sensation in the district, and many of the people consider that following so soon after the Napanee murder the same men may have been concerned.

On Friday morning Mr. Yeomans, who lives on the Camden East road, three-quarters of a mile from the village of that name, and on the boundary line between the townships of Camden and Ernesttown, left about eleven o'clock to get water for his cattle. He had to go some distance into a woods and had a team of horses hitched to a waggon. Before getting down from the waggon to the water at the creek, he noticed a couple of men walking towards him. One had a shot gun. One of the men called out "Can we have a drink?" "Sure, all you want," was the reply of Mr. Yeomans and he stepped to remove a stone that was blocking one of the wheels. As he did so the older of the two struck him across the shoulders and neck with the butt end of the shot gun he was carrying. Mr. Yeomans was knocked to the ground and remembers little more until Saturday morning. In some manner which he is at a loss to explain he managed to make his way to his home and tell his wife. He was assisted to his bed and remained in a stunned condition for twenty-four hours. He does not remember anything after being hit.

Mr. Yeomans is sure that if confronted with the men again he could easily identify them. One was much older than the other.

Daughter—Oh, but we are most sympathetic. You can't imagine how many things there are we both dislike.

LENNOX FAIR A SUCCESS

All Previous Efforts Totally Eclipsed by 1921 Exhibition —Pronounced by Experts to be the Best County Fair in the Province.

ESTIMATED ATTENDANCE AT THE FAIR 25,000

The Lennox County Fair of 1921 has passed into history and the redletter days as far as the Association is concerned are September 13th, 14th and 15th of that year. All honour is due to the new methods and new management inaugurated three years ago; and each successive exhibition has been so much better than its predecessor, that admiration is freely expressed for the men who have shown themselves so capable and resourceful and whose energy and vim have produced such good results.

Officers of the Lennox Agricultural Society are:

President—T. B. Wallace.

First Vice-President—F. H. Henderson.

Second Vice-President—J. S. Johnston.

Secretary—J. L. Boyes.

Treasurer—J. W. Robinson.

Directors—G. W. Gibbard, W. H. Boyle, G. H. Williams, George Switzer, E. H. Sills, M. C. Bogart, C. C. Main, Isaac Brimo, Bruce Smith, C. A. Walters, J. B. Elliott, W. G. Schell, Frank Smith, Hiram Shannon, A. C. Tummon, W. H. Hunter, E. J. Roy, Rockwell Parks, Arthur Rook and Roy Armstrong.

The three-days' fair was officially opened on the afternoon of Tuesday, about half past one o'clock, when the large procession of school children marched into the grounds as the guests of the directors. The day was known officially as "Children's Day", but made it in all a thoroughly good time.

It has been variously estimated that the attendance at the Fair was twenty to thirty thousand, but The Beaver would say that twenty-five thousand would not be an exaggerated figure.

While we have been giving due praise to the management, we can do no less than offer congratulations to the many exhibitors, in all classes, for their efforts to show of their best. And this will bring good results another year, for we can confidently look for, in 1922, a large number of exhibitors and a greater variety of exhibits.

It is good sometimes to hear what our neighbours have to say about us and in this connection we quote what the Kingston Whig said about our Fair a few days ago:

"It was a privilege to have the opportunity to attend the Napanee fair, when one considers that three years ago there was no show in the town. The old fair, which was formerly held in the field on the outskirts of the town, had outworn its usefulness. Fortunately for Napanee there were three or four men in that town who realized that Napanee could have one of the best fall shows in Eastern Ontario."

The Palmyra exhibition hall, was particularly attractive this year, and the booths were very nicely decorated and arranged. The exhibitors were as follows:—The Graham Company, tobacco; Davy & Allison, stoves and ranges; The Hydro Shop, electric stoves and other electric appliances; Wallace's Drug Store, Ltd., Cowan's chocolate and other good things usually found in a drug store; Weir Bros., boots, shoes, etc.; Gibbard Furniture Co., specimens of furniture; W. D. Milliner, specimens of manufactured lumber and building supplies; The Daily Tea Company, Ltd., Daly's good tea and coffee; Dominion Governmett Experimental Farm Exhibits; R. B. Allen, pianos and other musical instruments; Art Exhibits; Napanee Women's Institute, tooth some delicacies; Arthur A. Sills, Belleville, hardwood floors; J. J. Haines, boots, shoes, trunks and travelling requirements; exhibits of ladies' useful and fancy work; and last but not least a magnificent display of beautiful flowers, fruits, plants, home made preserves, homemade bread, buns, pies, etc.; also eggs and butter.

Nearby was the poultry house with a splendid exhibition of many fine variety of birds.

The stock barn which has been enlarged since last year, is now 66x200 feet and conveniently fitted up. A large showing of fine specimens of horses and cattle drew large crowds every day of the Fair.

In suitable pens along the south fence of the grounds the numerous entries of pigs, goats and sheep were accommodated.

On the grounds to the north of the Palace a large marquee housed a fine display of many well known makes of Automobiles and trucks. In another part of the ground was a fine display of farming machinery.

Taking it all-in-all the Fair was a splendid show—and yet the writer feels convinced that it is not as good as next year's will be—let everybody in the County lend a hand to make it better.

Benson's Midway of New York, had many attractions which drew large crowds throughout the Fair—good clean shows—and much above the average of such entertainments.

For decorated car exhibit on Tuesday afternoon, Miss Wallace, daughter of T. B. Wallace, won first prize.

The Royal Military College Exhibition; the Cadet drills; the Horse Races; the Baseball matches; Bicycle Races, and the many other interesting attractions are among the reasons why the Fair was so successful.

The hall was provided with comfortable chairs which accommodated over a thousand people to see fair play done by the contestants in the baby show classes in the Baby Show and to behold the beautiful faces of the prize best specimens of the newest citizens of the county of Lennox.

W. S. Herrington, K.C., acted as chairman in his usual happy manner and his little remarks in introducing each winner to the audience were thoroughly appreciated by all present. Great interest was taken in the baseball match between the Havana Red Sox and Verona, which was not as good a game as that played the previous day between Kingston Ponies and the Red Sox. Score 11 to 2, in favor of Red Sox.

The horse races were particularly good and thoroughly enjoyed by the lovers of the sport who lined the track in thousands. Other events on the track included the High School and Collegiate Cadet Drill competition, for a silver cup presented by U. M. Wilson, County Crown Attorney, open to schools between Cobourg and Brockville, Officer in charge, Col. G. Gillespie, Kingston. The prize was awarded to the Kingston Cadet Corps.

The tent pegging, high jumping and fancy rides by the Royal Military College, of Kingston, were wonderful exhibitions of skill, agility and training. High appreciation was evinced by those who witnessed the feats.

The high dive from the top of a ninety foot ladder into a large water tank by Miss May Collier was splendidly done and was indeed a thrilling sight.

In the evening an entertainment of a high order of merit was given by Harold Jarvis and J. H. Cameron, a very large attendance being present in the palace.

THE EXHIBITS.

The following special reports of some of the finest displays will prove interesting reading and should repay readers for the time expended in their perusal:—

Wallace's Drug Store, Limited.

The booth occupied by this enterprising and progressive firm was a source of attraction throughout the duration of the Fair. There were good reasons for a crowd being always there. It contained something that interested or appealed to young and old, rich and poor, male and female. To begin with, baloons were here given away to the children; then there were generous parkages of Cowan's Cocoa were handed out to those who wanted them. Cowan's famous Chocolates could here be had. Guerisson makes of the famous Woodbury's Facial Soap were also distributed gratis, as were also samples of Face Cream, Face Powder and Mum. Mum's Toilet Soap made by the same reputable firm, well and favorably known the world over. Another special feature of Wallace's display was a demonstration of "How to do your hair gracefully with Campbell's Surface and Campbell's Varnish Stain. The demonstration proved how simple the process is, for the demonstrator was a young school boy, actually doing the grainine and doing it rapidly and well. Wallace's are agents for Campbell's Surface and Campbell's Varnish Stain. Get some and try it. Visitors to the Fair must have seen the bigger dry-board in the booth of The Daly Tea Company, Limited, telling them to get Daly's Good Tea and Coffee at Wallace's. If you like tea and coffee of a better quality and flavor than you can get elsewhere, call at Wallace's and be supplied.

The Graham Company.

The artistic and attractive display of this well known clothing and Men's furnishing house was much admired. The display showed principally Winter garments with Overcoats and Suits manufactured by the 20th Century Brand Company, and their goods are too well known for the excellency of quality, fit, style and workmanship to require any comment, here. Wear 20th Century clothing and you will feel well dressed and up to the minute as regards style. Many other makes of clothing may be seen and appreciated by visiting their well equipped store. See them when you require hats, shirts, collars, gloves, ties, underclothing. You will also find that they have always in stock the best brands of overalls, work shirts and other articles in their line.

J. J. Haines' Shoe Houses.

This firm is an old and well established one and they do business in one of the most attractive stores in town, built and fitted up on purpose for their large and ever-increasing business. Courteous and prompt attention to customers, a large stock of well known brands of boots, shoes and rubbers is one of the reasons why so many people like to deal at Haines'. As this flooring is made by "Flooring Specialists" you are assured of both quality and service. Ford Cars, Phelps' Lighting Plant, Wesco Water Pumping System.

Paul & Smith, Exhibitors.

Ford Cars are so popular, better known all over the world than any other car, that it is difficult to find something new to say of them. They have for long been the subject of Jokes, have been sneared at, abused reviled, praised and appreciated, and notwithstanding all these trials and tribulations, has more friends than any other car. It is the car for real service. Messrs. Paul & Smith had some fine cars that were admired by thousands at the Fair and no doubt the local agents will in the near future sell many. Those on exhibition were the Ford Touring Car, Ford Coupe and Ford Sedan. They looked fine enough for anyone to be proud of. Other exhibits that this firm demonstrated were the Phelps Lighting Electric Plant and the Wesco Water Pumping System and they will be pleased to give further demonstration after the Fair at their garage and warerooms, Dundas St., Napanee.

Tiger Tires.

In the Automobile marquee much interest was shown in the exhibit of Tiger Tires, which are entirely Canadian made. A new, modern Tire Factory at Belleville, Ont. Equipped with the most up-to-date manufacturing machinery in Canada. Tiger Tire plant contains apparatus designed to improve the resiliency and durability of tires which no other factory in Canada contains. A tire proven by use and gruelling tests to have the splendid stamina, tough wearing quality and dependability which every car owner wants in a tire. Two reasons why Tiger Tires are the best tires in Canada:—Because made in the most modernly equipped tire factory in the Dominion. Because quota of rubber bought when the bottom fell out of the raw rubber market, at a cost of about one-third that of rubber now used in many factories. This low cost of raw rubber enables the makers of Tiger Tires to use more pure rubber; to put on heavier treads, giving more wear surface, and to build thicker sidewalls, giving greater strength.

The result is a longer wearing, more resilient tire—a tire that can take more air pressure and therefore decrease traction friction and save gasoline, while the thicker walls of pure rubber give greatest resiliency. When you drive on Tiger Tires you will know your car is cushioned on the most dependable tire that is made in Canada. Every size for every make of car. Every model for every car. If you have partly worn tires on your car now, buy a Tiger for a spare no matter what your convenience with tires been, you'll say you've never had tires that gave better satisfaction than Tiger Tires after you have used them. The Sales Office of the Company and Salesrooms are at 51 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, and the local agent is C. A. Wiseman.

Velie and Dodge Cars.

E. O. Ungar had fine exhibits of the popular Velie and Dodge Cars, and the visitors to the Fair expressed much interest in both makes of cars. The Dodge Touring Car, of which there was a fine specimen, was a great favorite with prospective buyers. The Dodge Coupe, however, attracted the most attention. An interesting point to intending purchasers of the Touring Car is the substantial out of $300 in the price and now this popular car is selling for $825. This should mean a very large increase in sales of this most capable, comfortable and economical car. All interested are invited to call at Mr. Ungar's Garage and have demonstration before buying a car of any make. Dodge Motor Trucks give satisfaction.

Chevrolet — C. A. Wiseman.

The exhibit of C. A. Wiseman of Chevrolet Cars was very attractive, and prospects look good for largely increased sales of these popular cars. The 490 Special Touring Car was shown for the first time, and was the centre of attraction and was greatly admired. This fine new Car has all the equipment of the big car, and the price delivered to your home is only $950. This new car will make an appeal to discriminating buyers who want an economical car equipped with every device for comfort, convenience, beauty and utility. At the close of the Fair this Car will be on exhibition at Mr. C. A. Wiseman's warerooms, and he will be pleased to give a practical demonstration to all interested.

McLaughlin Cars—C. A. Anderson & Son.

The McLaughlin Cars on exhibition at the Fair proved most attractive to those interested in getting the best there is in an automobile. The McLaughlin Buick Master Four, which is one of the most satisfactory cars on the market, has now proven its worth. It received the careful consideration of those who desire the finest of equipment, and a car that is thoroughly durable, in every convenience and comfort, and is economical in fuel. For wear and tear the McLaughlin has no equal and is economical in repairs. C. A. Anderson & Son will be pleased to give a demonstration of the good points of this fine car at any time.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SEA FISHES.

HERRING.

The quest for the herring constitutes one of the important branches of our extremely diversified fishing industry. More than 2,656,689 cwts. of herring were landed last year on our Atlantic and Pacific coasts, with a first hand value of $2,255,566, and a marketed value of $3,337,738. No other fish were captured in such abundance, the cod, generally believed to be the most prolific, falling some 75,000 cwts. short of the herring catch. From the standpoint of value it gave place only to salmon, lobster, cod and halibut.

The common herring (clupea harangus) is beyond question, says D. S. Jordon, the most important of food fishes in the Atlantic, if not in the world. Distributed as it is throughout the whole of the north Atlantic it affords occupation to many thousands of fishermen. An estimate made by Prof. Huxley places the world's annual catch at three billion fishes or half that number of pounds, and some authorities place it even higher. But even three billion is probably no greater than the number contained in a single shoal if it covers half a dozen square miles, and shoals of much greater size are recorded. Professor Huxley says that there must be scattered through the north and north Atlantic at one and the same time scores of shoals, any of which would go a long way to supplying the whole of man's present-day consumption of herring.

The herring is found in the colder waters of the north Atlantic. It has been caught on the American shore as far south as Cape Hatteras, but it seldom prvails in abundance south of New England. It very seldom takes to brackish water, and it spawns in the open sea, the female depositing from thirty to fifty thousand eggs. Unlike most fishes the herring is regarded as particularly delicious at spawning time and the most successful herring fishers are prosecuted when the fish are in full roe, that is, ripe in eggs and in milt.

On the American side of the Atlantic the herring fishery is entirely a shore fishery. With the exception of a few occasionally taken for bait by the line fishermen on the banks, our herring are all caught in the immediate vicinity of the shore. Although the fishery on this side of the ocean has not assumed the importance it has long held in Europe, there is no doubt that the species obtains in as great abundance immediately off our shores as in the North Sea and European Atlantic. Our fishermen, however, never found conditions sufficiently inducing to invest in special equipment to fish off shore. The Fisheries Department, Ottawa, conducted experiments in 1915 and 1916 which seemed to indicate the prodifiency of herring in the St. Lawrence and Atlantic, and of a class adapted to "Scotch" curing, which is popular in the American and other markets. Generally speaking, the inshore fish are not suited for this cure. The herring fishery on our Atlantic coast extends from Newfoundland to Cape Cod, while the stretch from the Bay of Fundy southward is practically a continuous fishing ground.

The fishery is carried on chiefly by means of brush-weirs, gillnets and torching. The brush-weir is a wall of brush which diverts the course of the fishes, and leads them into a pound. The torching method is most primitive, and is employed only after the water has become cool. An oil torch, formerly a birch bark torch, is fixed to the bow of the boat, which is rapidly rowed through the water. The fishes rise toward the light as long as the boat is in rapid motion, and a man standing at the bow scoops them in large quantities with a dip-net.

The herring food consists of small animal organisms, chiefly two small crustaceans, known in the vernacular as "red seed" and "shrimp". It has a great host of enemies, including cod, haddock, pollock, hake, dogfish, albacore, squid, porpoise, seal and the finbacked whale, each of which is very destructive.

Approximately two-thirds of our sea herring are produced on the Atlantic coast, where they are mostly pickled and smoked. The latter are known on the market as "kippered" herring or "bloaters", if they are unsalted and half dried in the smokehouse. A comparatively small quantity is canned.

On the Pacific coast there is another herring very similar (clupea pallasi) which prevails in great abudance about Vancouver Island. An indication of its prolificacy in this zone was brought to light in a recent case before the Admiralty Court at Vancouver. Ira C. Epperson, master of a boat, is declared to have stated that 150 tons—300,000 pounds or a good-sized fare for a steam trawler operating on the Grand Banks—had been taken in one haul of the seine on board the craft, and that frequently the catches were so heavy that one end of the net had to be released to dump one half the catch into the sea.

Pacific herring is mostly dry-salted and shipped in-bulk to the Orient where an extensive market has been developed for it. A small quantity is canned, but the preparation of the pack treated in this way is increasing each year.

It is very striking that exceedingly small amounts of the Atlantic and Pacific herrings are used fresh in this country, despite the fact that they rank high in food value and palatability. They are obtainable in abundance all the year round—from the Atlantic coast during the months of May, June, July, August and September; and from the Pacific coast during October, November, December, January, February and March.

The herring, in addition to being an important food in itself, is instrumental in the capture of other important sea fishes. It is the chief bait used for the capture of cod, haddock, lobsters and halibut on the Atlantic and halibut on the Pacific. Large quantities are put in cold storage each year to provide bait for the season when they are less readily available.

No reference has been made in this article to the young herring canned extensively along the Atlantic Coast as "sardine", nor to the fresh water herring of our lakes. Each of these is of sufficient interest to be considered separately.

When Professor Walter Raleigh was asked to lecture at Princeton College, Professor Root went down to the station to meet the distinguished visitor. Professor Root did not know Professor Raleigh, but walking up to a man whom he thought looked like him, he said:

"I beg your pardon, but am I addressing Walter Raleigh?"

The man looked at him for a moment, and, thinking he must be mad, replied:

"No, I am Christopher Columbus. Walter Raleigh is in the smoking room with Queen Elizabeth."

WENT AROUND WORLD

HISTORIC TRIP IN 16TH CENTURY TOOK THREE YEARS.

Leaky Little Tub Under Captain Del Cano Was Sole Survivor of the Magellan's Expeditions—Unimaginable Hardships and Dangers In Uncharted Oceans—Set Sail In August, 1519. Arrived Home In September, 1521.

JUAN SEBASTIAN DEL CANO, a Basque sailor, was the first man to be able to lay claim to the honor of having circumnavigated the globe.

Del Cano went to Seville, seeking employment, in 1518, and in the same year Fernando Magellan, an experienced Portuguese mariner, arrived in Spain with an offer to the Emperor, Charles V., to discover a westward route to the East Indies. The proposal was accepted, and a squadron of five vessels, the Trinidad, San Antonio, Victoria, Concepcion, and Santiago, the largest being only 120 tons, and the smallest of 60 tons was equipped. Del Cano being appointed master of the Concepcion. The fleet left Seville on August 10, 1519. The vessels kept to the coast of Africa, and soon encountered bad weather, "The body of St. Elmo appeared to us several times," says the journal, in describing the bad weather. "One night, when it was very dark, the saint appeared in the form of a fire, lighted on the main truck, which comforted us greatly, for we were in tears, only expecting the hour of perishing. When that light once descends upon a vessel she is never lost."

The fleet anchored in Port St. Julian, on the Patagonian coast, on March 31, 1520.

In the following May the smallest vessel, the Santiago, was driven on shore by a gale while exploring the coast to the southward, the crew being saved, reaching Port St. Julian by land after great hardships. The whole fleet then sailed, and on October 21 a cape was discovered and named Cape of the Eleven Thousand Virgins, this proving to be the entrance to the Straits which bear the name of Magellan. The fleet entered the straits on October 28, with provisions for three months, and in November the San Antonio was sent to explore what appeared to be another channel. As soon as the other vessels were out of sight the Spaniards among the crew mutinied, arrested the Portuguese captains, and set sail for home, leaving Magellan with only three vessels.

On November 27 the three ships emerged from the straits and entered the Pacific Ocean, the great South Sea which had so often been seen only eight years before, and for 98 days no land was seen. On March 6 the fleet sighted the Ladrone Islands, and in April reached Zebu, one of the Philippines. Magellan becoming friendly with the king of this island, to whom he commanded all neighboring islands to pay tribute. This demand was refused by the Chief of Matan, and Magellan, attacking them with a force of 60 men, was defeated and killed.

Following the death of Magellan, two of his Portuguese followers, Barbosa and Serrano, became joint commanders, but through treachery on the part of the King of Zebu, they and 28 men were slaughtered by the natives. It was found that there were not men enough left to man three ships, and the Concepcion was burnt, the Trinidad and Victoria making their way to Borneo in July. In August Gomez de Espinosa became the new commander of the Trinidad, Sebastian del Cano being made captain of the Victoria. In November the two ships reached Tidore, one of the Moluccas, and so accomplished the first object of the journey. Then the Trinidad set sail and was captured by the Portuguese.

Thus De Cano was left with his leaky vessel of 60 tons, a crew of 47 Europeans and 13 natives to complete the voyage. They were ill supplied with provisions, as they had no means of salting or preserving meat for the sea, and their perils were increased by the hostility of the Portuguese, whose ships alone navigated those seas. Sailing from Tidore on December 21, 1521, the Victoria eventually reached Timor, and there obtained fresh provision, and finally setting sail for the Cape on February 11.

The island since called Amsterdam, was discovered on March 18. Then followed nine weeks of great hardships in the open sea to the east of the Cape of Good Hope. On May 19 they doubled the Cape. The sailors were gradually becoming weaker, and deaths were of frequent occurrence, but Del Cano imagined them with hope on July 1, when they came in sight of Santiago, the largest of the Cape Verde Islands. With desperate courage they anchored in the Portuguese port, and the Portuguese, thinking they were returning from America, they were able to obtain some provisions.

After 28 days of incessant work at the pumps, Cape St. Vincent was sighted, the Victoria arriving at San Lucar, the port of Seville, on September 6. She had set sail from the same port almost three years before, had traversed, according to the ship's reckoning over 42,000 miles, and carried with her 18 of the 260 crew on board. Del Cano was rewarded with a pension of 500 ducats a year for life, and a coat of arms, with a globe for crest and the motto, "Tu Primus Circumdedisti me."

STELLA.

Threshing is just about completed on the Island. Grain turned out very well. Nearly all the farmers have their corn all cut, and those that have silos have them filled. Corn has been a good crop throughout the township.—Good prices were realized at Mrs. A. McConnell's credit sale of farm implements on Thursday last. The farm, situated on the front road, containing 118 acres, was also put up but no bids were received.—An ice cream social and dance was held on Tuesday evening last under the auspices of the Anglican Church in Victoria Hall and lawn. There was a good attendance. Walters' Orchestra, Napanee, furnished the music.—Tea funeral of the late John Weller, a former resident of the Island, who passed away at Winnipeg, Man., on Thursday, Sept. 1st, was held on Monday from Stella dock to Pentelton cemetery. Rev. J. C. Dixon conducted the service at the grave.—Mrs. E. Fleming, Mrs. W. G. Glenn, Hartley Fleming, R. E. Sanders, George T. Howard have been attending the Canadian National exhibition.—A good number of the campers on Stella Point are taking their departure.—The schools are re-opening again, after the summer vacation.—Miss Jessie Hitchins is taking charge of S. S. No. 3.—Miss Anna Filson, Montreal, Que., spent a few days here with relatives last week.

PLANTS FROM CUTTINGS

Plant Propagation as Described by a Master Hand.

The Young Developer of Geraniums—Light Pruning of Overlands Is Safe—The Barberry Hedge a Spreader of Rust In Grains.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Toward the end of the summer, the amateur flower grower often wonders how the stock of geraniums in the flower border can be increased and preserved by some other means than by taking up the old plants in the autumn; the last named method not having, perhaps, proved successful in his persons. By starting fairly early, toward the end of August, before cold chilly nights appear, a nice supply of young plants, more especially of all kinds of geraniums of the zonal variety, and of the fragrant leaved, or even the bronze or silver leaved kinds, can be had by starting cuttings or slips of these plants. First of all obtain a shallow box about three inches deep, ten or twelve inches wide, and from twelve to twenty-four inches in length; an empty baddie (fish box will do very well. It should have some small holes bored through the bottom for drainage. Pack this box firmly with moist, clean, gritty sand; sand that will not pack, or cake, after watering, should be used in this case. Then take the terminal or top part of the young growth of plants from four or five inches in length, each shoot or cutting having from four to six joints where leaves are produced. Make the base of the cutting just below one of these joints, making a clean cut with a sharp knife flat across. Cut off one of the lower leaves, leaving two or three leaves at the top. Cut off all bloom buds and blossoms where possible. Make a hole or drill in the wet sand deep enough to set fully the length of stem of cuttings in the sand. Water them well once, and keep the sand moist until cuttings are rooted, which should be in five or six weeks' time. The box can be set out of doors in partial shade until the first week in September when they can be taken into the window. When cuttings have roots about an inch in length dig them carefully from the sand without injuring the roots and pot them singly into small 2¼ inch pots or set them into two inches apart in well drained shallow boxes in a soil made up of one part sand, one part leaf mould, and about six parts of light loamy soil enriched with one part of dry pulverized cow manure from the pasture field. This last is one of the best possible fertilizers for soil for pot plants. Set the young plants in the window in a temperature of 60 to 70 degrees Fahr. an ordinary house temperature. Salvia, Ageratum, Lady Washington Geraniums, Fuchsias, Iresine, Lobelia and many other plants can be started from cuttings in this way.—The late Wm. Hunt, O. A. College, Guelph.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Journalist—I have an idea for a newspaper article that will strike a new note.

Editor—Good. Most newspaper articles merely note a new strike.

Corns cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

"The doctor made me show him my tongue and it cost me $5, but I got even."

"How?"

"In a poker game last night I made him show me his hand, and it cost him $5."

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Peter—Why do you want to marry that young Groucher? You don't like the same things; you haven't a taste in common.

Daughter—Oh, but we are most sympathetic. You can't imagine how many things there are we both dislike.

Miller's Worm Powders attack worms in the stomach and intestines at once, and no worm can come in contact with them and live. They alcorrect the unhealthy conditions in the digestive organs that invite and encourage worms, setting up reactions that are most beneficial to the growth of the child. They have attained their power in hundreds of cases and at all times are thoroughly trustworthy.

Not long ago a cotton man inquired at a large bank regarding his note, which the bank held for a sizable amount. "Yes," remarked an officer, "it falls due to-morrow and we expect it will be paid." The cotton man made no reply for a moment, then asked abruptly. "What is your business?" "Why, I am a banker," was the surprised reply. "Well," mused the cotton man, "to-morrow you are going to be a cotton merchant."

It Will Relieve a Cold.—Colds are the commonest ailments of mankind and if neglected may lead to serious conditions. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve the bronchial passages of inflammation speedily and thoroughly and will strengthen them against subsequent attack. And as it eases the inflammation it will stop the cough because it allays all irritation in the throat. Try it and prove it.

The time had come to dole out the day's rations, and in an Irish regiment the quartermaster and his assistant were portioning them out in preparation for distribution.

At last, just before the orderly men were due to arrive, the assistant turned to the quartermaster.

With a twinkle in his eye, Mike said:

"Av ye plaze, sorr, there's a loaf short. Who'll I give it to?"

"Keep it yourself, Mike," replied the quartermaster.

Cuts and Bruises Disappear.—When suffering from cuts, scratches, bruises, sprains, sore throat or chest and any similar ailment, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its healing power is well-known in every section of the community. A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil should be in every medicine chest ready for the emergencies that may always be anticipated.

Big Jewel Thefts.

Jewel thefts to the value of more than $2,000,000, which have puzzled the French police throughout the years on the Riviera and at Paris, have now been traced to the famous Surety General book band of expert international thieves led by a Spaniard named Youzez, who claims American nationality.

Among the robberies have been those to the value of $450,000 stolen at Nice from Mme. Bonnet, wife of the dressmaker; Mrs. James Robinson, robbed of $62,000, worth of jewels at Mentone, Palace Hotel, Paris; Mlle. Pelletier, robbed of a gold necklace worth $25,000; Lady Inshrick, robbed at Mentone of the contents of her safe, valued at $450,000; Mme. F. Hoda, robbed recently at Corinthe, Paris, of gems worth $25,000.

Youzez is believed to have fled to Spain.

Motoring In Italy.

The accidental hitting of a goose in Perugia, Italy, has resulted in the death of one man, the wounding of four and the arrestine of 19 others.

A military motor containing several Fascisti ran over a goose. The car was stopped immediately and on the appearance of the owner compensation was offered him as compensation for the loss of the goose. This he indignantly refused and became so angry that he stabbed the driver. More Fascisti appeared on the scene and in the subsequent quarrel the goose owner was shot. Then the police arrived and arrested nineteen of the Fascisti. They are now being held pending the result of investigation, but it is believed that they will be released, as they acted "in self-defence."

Fish that Fight Malaria.

A fish known as Gambusia affinis, which devours the larvae of the propagator of malaria, the Anopheles mosquito, has been acclimatized in Spain.

Attempts to acclimatize these fish in Britain, France, and Italy have failed.

The fish, which were imported into Spain by the American Red Cross, are being sent in large quantities to the malarial regions.

FRENCH THIRD DEGREE.

How Criminals Are Forced to Admit Their Guilt.

In this country every man is innocent until he has been proved guilty. The French, however, do these things differently: with them, if the evidence is strong enough to warrant a man's arrest, he is regarded as guilty, and it is for him to clear himself of the charge if he can.

The accused man is handed over to an official called the Judge d'Instruction, or Examining Magistrate, whose business is to obtain evidence for the prosecution.

The prisoner is visited daily by the judge, who seeks, by asking him sudden and unexpected questions, to obtain an unguarded answer that will serve to incriminate him.

Very few guilty persons can hold out for long against an inquiry of this kind. The innocent man is able to establish his innocence by the answers he gives; the criminal usually gives himself away.

Sometimes no amount of ordinary questioning will obtain an admission from the accused. When this happens a different method is employed. He is confronted with people believed to be his accomplices.

"I know how you got rid of the body, says the judge; "you and Charles Dubois threw it into the pond."

"I do not know Dubois," answers the prisoner.

The judge raises his hand; a door opens, and in a moment the accused is face to face with the man in question. If they know each other their faces are bound to show mutual recognition.

The prisoner, if guilty, is now on the horns of a dilemma; Dubois is certain to have been interrogated, and the accused has no means of knowing what kind of answers he has given. As a rule he will incriminate himself very quickly.

Hardened criminals, however, may pass successfully even through this ordeal. Then the judge calls to his aid the most powerful piece of legal procedure ever devised: he reconstructs the tragedy.

One day the prisoner receives an order to quit his cell and to accompany a police officer. He finds himself outside the house where the crime was committed.

He is taken to the room in which the victim was murdered. Outside the door the judge awaits him.

"I am going to show you," says he. "just how you killed Annette Lefevre. She was sitting at the table when you came in."

The door opens; at the table is sitting a girl.

"Watch," says the judge. A man enters made-up as the prisoner, and so like him that he cannot repress a start. He speaks a few words to the girl, and in a moment the two are engaged in a violent quarrel. The whole grim tragedy that he has tried so hard to forget is being enacted once more before the prisoner's horrified eyes.

Suddenly the mock criminal draws from his belt a knife—no other than the weapon with which the flood was done; there is a realistic struggle; the knife rises and falls; the victim screams and sinks in a heap upon the floor.

And what of the prisoner? From his lips pours a torrent of words. "Yes, yes," he cries, "I cannot keep it up. I am guilty. I killed her."

Though we may not like these methods, there can be no doubt that they are effective. It is a rash thing for a criminal to escape the consequences of his crime. The clever counsel will avail him nothing if his own conscience convicts him.

Number Seven.

It seems that the number seven has always had some peculiar significance. On the seventh day of the seventh month a holy observance was ordained to the children of Israel, who feasted seven day and remained seven days in tents. The seventh day was supposed to be a Sabbath, or rest day all, and at the end of seven times seven there was to be a jubilee. Jacob served seven years to win Rachael for his wife. Noah had seven days' warning of the flood. Nebuchadnezzar lived seven years as a beast. The Saviour spoke seven times from the cross on which he hung seven hours. In Scripture there are seven resurrections mentioned. In the Lord's Prayer there are seven petitions. There were seven mysteries of the apocalypse revealed in the seven churches in Asia. In Revelation there is described seven lambs before the seven spirits of God, seven golden candlesticks, a book with seven (Campbells, seven players, seven vials of wrath, seven kings, seven thunders, and a dragon with seven heads. —Columbus Dispatch.

Camels Make Butter.

Amongst some Arabian tribes camels are used as dairymaids to make their master's butter. This is how they travel along.

The milk is put in skins and hung on to the saddle, to be churned in the course by the rolling gait of the camel as it conveys its master on his journeys.

On the vast pampas of South America, a ranch hand fills a pottle with milk, which he fastens to his saddle by means of a long rope. Then he saddles about on his horse, with the skin bumping in tow behind him. The jerky motion produces the butter.

In some parts of the East the milk skins are suspended between two poles and swung backwards and forwards until the butter has formed.

Eating In Theatres.

Theatrical managers at Vienna have a new trouble, the upholstery in the seats being ruined by remnants of food dropped by members of the audience who bring their dinners and eat during the performances. The janitors frequently gather dozens of sardine cans, meat and cheese scraps from the seats when cleaning after the show.

WHO'S A BUM?

I make good money fixing shoes,
And making boots to measure;
And dinner take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task,
In fact we wouldn't try;
Stool pigeons only wish we would,
But we are fair too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any fool can polish that job
Is nothing but a dud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let your children shirk
And hang around among such hams
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—

We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is defined in our dictionary as a loose, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "liable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation, is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such dreadful, underhand lines.

So, be like us, and mix not with such folk, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

LEWIS—At his dwelling, Napanee, 3 Herman Ave., Toronto, on Tuesday, September 6th, 1921, Henry Alfred (Fred) Lewis, in his 61st year. Interment at Bath, Ontario.

In sad but loving memory of Mr. Alexander Howe, who departed this life September 14th, 1920.

Sweet was gone across the river
To the shores of ever green;
Here I long to see his dear face,
But the river flows between.
And my aching heart is calling,
To the shadows dim and grey.
For my dear one who left me
Just one year ago to-day.

OBITUARY.

H. A. Lewis.

The death occurred on Tuesday morning, Sept. 6th, 1921, of Henry Alfred (Fred.) Lewis, at the home of his daughter, 3 Herman avenue, Toronto, after an illness of only a few months' duration of heart and stomach trouble. All that medical skill and careful nursing could do was of no avail. Mr. Lewis was one of those gentle, kindly souls, who would not harm or injure one of the lowliest of God's creatures. It has been said "an honest man is the noblest work of God." He was that, and all that it implies. A loving husband, kind father and a good neighbor has left this life for the peace of Paradise. Deceased was a son of the late Albert Lewis, and was born at Bath, Oct. 10th, 1860, and spent his life in this vicinity. He leaves to mourn his loss a grief stricken wife, a daughter, Mrs. Herbert Huffman, and an aunt, Mrs. Miro Ham, Napanee. On Tuesday evening a brief service was conducted in Toronto by Rev. Dr. Scott, of Howard Park Methodist Church, prior to bringing the remains to his late home, where the funeral was held on Thursday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Nickle. The remains were laid to rest in Bath cemetery.—Kingston papers please copy.

Daniel McNeill.

On Saturday, Sept 3rd, 1921, at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. P. T. Manion, there passed peacefully out of this life Daniel McNeill, of Erinsville. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, gradually growing worse until the end came. His wife and sister tenderly cared for him. and in all his suffering was never heard to complain. He was perfectly resigned to God's will and died fortified with all the rights of his church. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the home of Mr. Manion to St. Patrick's Church, where a Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Father O'Connor. The remains were placed in the family plot at Napanee. The pall bearers were six friends of deceased, Messrs. Frank Sexsmith, James O'Hara, Shirley Lewis, Geo. Somers, Thos. Doyle and Edmond Manion. The casket was covered with spiritual offerings showing the esteem in which he was held. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, mother, and five sisters. May his soul rest in peace.

FORMALLY SPEAKING OUR OPENINGS ARE OVER. YET EACH DAY WE ARE receiving New Shipments of Fall Merchandise Which are Rapidly Rounding-Out the Stock in Our various Departments. We know of no Better Time to Buy than Now.
THE ROBINSON CO., LIMITED, Napanee.

You'll Need Furs This Winter. Why Not Choose Them Now?

Because of the extremely high prices which prevailed on Furs last season, many people decided not to buy until this year. Unquestionably this season Furs are lower in price, and it is our opinion, speaking generally, that Fur prices will not be much lower.
We have completed arrangements with a Canadian Manufacturer, and on Friday and Saturday (this week), he will make an exhibit of Furs in our Fur Department. This showing will especially feature Hudson Seal Coats. If you are interested in good merchandise at attractive prices, we especially urge you to come in and talk the matter over with us.

The Autumn Suit in Two Silhouettes. Tricotine, Gabardine, Velour Are The Materials

Every woman is lured to things artistic and beautiful, whether it be in a piece of merchandise, a famous painting, a piece of cut glass or a cabinet of silver.

The Autumn Suits are sure to awaken the desire to possess within you because of their unlimited beauty of cut and design. Fashion favors the long coat which comes nearly to the knee. This long graceful effect is most frequently broken with a narrow belt at waist line. Beautiful embroidery in harmonizing tones is used for ornamentation. Collars of Furs add much to their richness.

The second Silhouette of importance sponsors the loose box-back effect. One model is trimmed with Fur at the neck and around the bottom. Stitching in a darker shade than the suit itself is also used. All Suits this season are particularly well lined. Priced at Robinson's from $35.00 up.

Don't Overlook the Value of Good Corsets. Let Us Fit You Properly.

Every famous Paris dressmaker or garment maker especially emphasizes the value to be obtained by proper fitting Corsets. The styles in vogue this Fall demand that you shall wear Corsets that are becoming and that fit your figure. A proper fitting Corset is simply bound to give you a lot of solid Corset comfort. From experience we know they will give you much more wear. In our Corset Department, which is constantly stocked with the best makes of Corsets, we have experienced Corsetieres who will gladly assist you in making your Corset and Brassiere selections.

New Fall Curtain Materials Have Arrived to Assist You In Decorating Your Home for the Coming Months

The name of "John Brown" is famous among the makers of Curtain materials, famous because he makes the best grade of Scotch Madras that is obtainable. At all times we carry a complete range of styles, patterns and widths in this famous Curtain material. The new Fall prices are 60c., 75c., 95c. and $1.15 yard.

Scotch Fillet Net is extremely popular in the larger towns and cities. This is obtainable in White and Cream colorings. The thread is double and twisted and is bound to wear and wash satisfactorily. Priced 65c., $1.00, $1.25 per yard.

Marquisette still makes a most satisfactory window Curtain where plain effects are desired. This is procurable in White and Cream colorings with plain and fancy borders. This season the quality is greatly improved while prices are much lower. 36 inch widths are 40c., 50c., 65c. and 75c. per yard.

American Scrim is most frequently chosen when lower priced curtains are desired. This material is noticeably coarser than Marquisette, but will give splendid service. 32 inch wide is 15c. per yard, 36 inch width is 18½c. and 25c. per yard. These prices are 50 per cent less than last season.

Colored Madras are employed chiefly for over curtains, as its light weight drapes so satisfactorily and gives a transparent effect at the window. Obtainable in colors of Blue, Brown, Green and in numerous combinations. Comes 36 and 50 inches wide, and ranges from 90c. to $2.00 per yard in price.

YARKER.

Most of the wells are dry in this vicinity, owing to the continued dry weather. Many farmers are drawing water from the river to water their stock. The Ottawa-Toronto C. N. R. train met with a serious accident on Thursday morning when the engine left the rails at the west end of Yarker yard, turning completely over. Fortunately the train was moving very slowly at the time or there would have been considerable more damage done. The train was a heavy passenger train, made up of nine coaches and two baggage cars, but owing to the slow speed of the train only the engine and tender were derailed. The engineer and fireman both jumped when they saw what was going to happen. The fireman escaped unhurt, but the engineer was badly injured about the head. Dr. Oldham was called at once and attended to him, and the injured man was able to go to his home in Trenton on the same train. It required two auxiliaries with large cranes to lift the engine out of the ditch and replace it on the rails. The cause of the accident is thought to have been due to the D-rail not being in the right position. —A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage on Sept. 8th when Miss Myrtle Smith was united in marriage to Chas. Ottiss, both of this village. After the ceremony the happy couple took the C. N. R. train for Toronto and other western points. GRETNA.

Everyone who was fortunate enough to attend enjoyed the service here on Sunday evening. For the spirited song service a union choir of Anderson and Gretna were on hand, and all joined heartily in the singing of old favorites. Also an interesting and helpful sermon was delivered by our pastor. Despite the intense heat all were attentive and spent an enjoyable and beneficial hour. An invitation is extended to all in the community to attend the Anderson service next Sunday evening, when the choirs again unite.—Although times are busy and the season late when organized, the Farmers' Club is creating an interest and quite a few are making use of the Court. —The County Fair claimed the attention of this entire section of country, and was acclaimed a decided success.

—Since March last the cost of teas has shown a greater advance than has ever been registered during a like period in the past 40 years. Good average tea now costs 15 cents or 16 cents a pound more at the gardens than it did six months ago. There is no doubt that increased consumption in many countries, and the fact that Russia is now taking a large quantity of tea, has had something to do with this almost unprecedented rise in costs.

There had been a difference of opinion in the preacher's family, in which six-year-old Mary thought she got the worst of it.

So at prayer time she was unhappy and resentful toward the world in general and her own ministerial family in particular.

But she knelt at her mother's knee as usual, and went through her ordinary evening petitions. Finally she added:

"Oh, Lord, make all the bad people good!"

She paused for a moment, then, as an afterthought, concluded:

"And, if you can, please make all the good people nice!"

Cheap Living in Germany

AFTER reading an article by Max Lief in the New York Tribune we have arrived at the conclusion that if the Allies are determined upon winning the war they ought to move to Germany. There they will receive the fruits of victory. They will be able to get a fine meal for fifty cents, and for twelve dollars a year in Hamburg they will be able to have the same sort of accommodation that they will get in Canada and the United States for twelve dollars a week. A six-room bungalow with bath is to be had there for twelve dollars a year. It has been decreed by the authorities, and authorities in Germany are quite as authoritative as ever they were. It is true that it may be difficult to find the six-room bungalow with bath. When found it may be tenanted, and builders, terrified by the order, are not building six-room bungalows and bath with any great voluptuousness. Nevertheless, it is cheap and pleasant to live in Germany if one does not have to pay the engulfing German taxes, and if he is able to take real money with him.

Mr. Lief explains that whereas school children were taught that a German mark was worth twenty-five cents, so highly did the Germans esteem it, now it is possible to lay down an American dollar and receive from 67 to 71 marks for it. The Canadian dollar being somewhat less valuable internationally, though hotly sought in Canada, we may figure that a German mark is worth about two of our cents. For sixty or eighty cents one may have a dinner consisting of fish salad, potato soup, cutlets, fried potatoes, apple sauce and a large stein of fine beer. If you don't feel like eating you can still have the beer, which to many would seem an advantage. The disappointed waiter is said to expect a ten-cent tip, but we presume that by this time he has ceased to be an optimist, and after the meal is ready to call the incident closed if the guest doesn't kick him on the shins. Nevertheless, he lives on his tips. He receives no salary.

Milk remains a luxury in Germany. Coffee is not drunk as it was formerly because of the milk scarcity. Sugar is almost as it was in the good old days of the blockade, but Mr. Lief voices his astonishment at the fact that pies and cakes with huge coatings of sugar and candy are rife. He has failed to read the painstaking explanations of Canadian candy makers on the effect that all the candy manufactured in a year accounts for merely a decimal point of sugar. Mr. Lief says that he was frequently mistaken for an Englishman, a Spaniard or a Hungarian, but never for an American. If once we saw his name spent we should have read Sherlock Holmes for nothing, if we had confessed him with any of these nationalities. In all the misunderstandings by which he was flattered he found nothing but civility among the Germans. We infer that the war was a good thing for the Germans.

The writer was astonished by the German police system, and he suggests that by means of it Germany is trying to evade some of the conditions of the Peace of Versailles. Germany's army was cut down. It could hardly quell a beer garden riot. Germany's police, however, is a treggedous force, so far as numbers go. The regular police have been reinforced by a green uniformed body, composed chiefly of young and sturdy soldiers. There is a third body of plainclothesmen, practically all of them trained soldiers. Their salary is $10 a month with board thrown in, and whatever washing may occur to them. They work only every second day, and usually have some other line of business which they depend upon to make a living wage. One gathers from Mr. Lief that their favorite avocation is selling police dogs. He tells us that the daschunde is practically extinct. It seems that in the most desperate days of the war it was a choice between the German and the daschunde. With their characteristic blundering the Germans chose themselves.

We quote his concluding sentences:

My habitual question, everywhere I went, was: "Was denken Sie von den Kaiser?" Without any preliminary introduction I fired this question like a bolt from the blue sky at a middle-aged ticket-taker in a Berlin railroad station. He was not surprised at my boldness and answered placidly:

"We are well off as we are," he said. "Nobody is starving, and soon every one will have work. The militaristic regime has gone, and we are glad. The kaiser is better off where he is, and we are better off where we are."

The next four people I approached, a policeman, letter carrier, proprietor of a Frühstuck-Stube, and ship worker, expressed similar views. But the coachman who took us around Berlin shook his head. He wanted the kaiser back. He missed the old pomp and splendor and Hohenzollern ostentatiousness.

A graduate of the University of Berlin, disappointed with his position as clerk with the Hamburg-American Line, was frankly disgusted with the Ebert Government.

"The people are too much liberty these days," he said.

It May Suffice.

Patient—"How I wish you'd give me something to help my memory."

Doctor—"All right. I'll send you in a bill every month."

If you want work well done, select a busy man—the other kind has no time.

The Horse's Joke.

Have horses a sense of humor?

A South American doctor has one which is said to be fond of a practical joke.

Visiting a farmhouse, he tied the animal to a post near which hung a rope attached to a large bell used as a dinner signal for the workmen. Then he went in to see his patient.

A few minutes later the bell rang violently. The doctor looked out, but could see nothing. Again the bell rang. At the third ring the doctor concealed himself behind a tree in the yard and kept a watch on the bell-rope.

Then, to his astonishment, he saw his horse lift up its head, seize the rope between its teeth, and give it a violent pull. After that, the doctor sprang out and faced the animal, which put on a look of complete innocence.

Poking his nose into a basket in which a cat lay curled up, the same horse got a nasty scratch from pussy for his pains. The animal, taking careful aim, kicked cat and basket sky high and then trotted off with a low chuckle of glee.

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and several of my friends advised me to use it, and it surely put new life into me. Now I am quite able to do all my own work, and I would strongly advise every suffering woman to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."—Mrs. CHARLES WAKELIN, 272 Christie St., Toronto, Ont.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for more than forty years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

FADS OF FAMOUS MEN.

Likes and Dislikes of Writers Whose Names Are Immortal.

Bret Harte, when inspired, would hire a cab for the night, and drive through the darkness without stopping until he felt calm enough to write.

Bjornson kept his pockets full of the seeds of trees, scattering handfuls broadcast in his daily walks. He even tried to persuade his associates to do the same.

Robert Browning could not sit still. The constant shuffling of his feet wore holes in the carpet. Zola would never accept an invitation to dinner.

Sir A. Conan Doyle, even in the coldest weather, never wears an overcoat. He is a golf enthusiast, and spends as much time as possible on the links.

F. Marion Crawford carried his own stationery, pen, and ink, and never wrote with any other. He wrote every word of every novel with the same penholder.

Count Tolstoy went hatless the year round. He was fond of French perfumes, and kept his linen scented with sachet powder. There was always a flower on his desk as he wrote. Although very rich, he wore the cheapest of clothes.

Alexandre Dumas, the younger, bought a painting every time he had a new book published. Edgar Allan Poe slept with his cat. He was inordinately proud of his feet.

Disraeli wore corsets. The older he grew, the greater became his desire to dress like a young man. He had a pen stuck behind each ear when writing.

Dickens was fond of wearing flashy jewellery. Oliver Wendell Holmes used to carry a horse chestnut in one pocket and a potato in another to ward off rheumatism. He had a great fondness for trees, and always sat under one when he could.

Hawthorne always washed his hands before reading a letter from his wife. He delighted in poring over old advertisements in the newspaper files.

Thackeray used to lift his hat whenever he passed the house in which he wrote "Vanity Fair."

Sardou imagined he had a perpetual cold.

Darwin had no respect for books as books, and would cut a big volume in two for convenience in handling, or he would tear out the leaves he required for reference.

Washington Irving never mentioned the name of his fiancee after her death, and if anybody else did so he immediately left the room. Victor Hugo was little; his remarks usually were made in the form of questions.

Keats liked red pepper on his toast. Longfellow enjoyed walking only at sunset, and Goethe said he sublimest moods came upon him at these times.

Robert Louis Stevenson's favorite recreation was playing the flute, in order, he said, to tune up his ideas.

Corkscrew Wedding Ring.

At a recent wedding the bridegroom forgot the ring. The best man stepped forward and handed the clergyman a key, with the handle of which the bridal couple were formally "joined together."

Many bridegrooms have experienced the agony of discovering that they have lost the precious gold circlet, and in one London church the clergyman keeps a number of small brass rings for use in cases of emergency.

A well-known comedian was married with the aid of a baby's comforter, with which a nursemaid in the congregation came to the rescue. Anything in the form of a circle is legal substitute for a wedding ring, and the handle of the comforter served the purpose.

At a village wedding the bridegroom dropped the ring down a grating in the aisle. Appealed to for a substitute, the best man produced a screw-ring, used ordinarily for hanging pictures, and with this the marriage was solemnized.

A London registrar married a couple by lending them the rim of his spectacles, the lens of which he had removed. Another registrar performed a marriage ceremony in which the ring handle of a corkscrew did efficient duty.

Saved By a Loaf.

During the recent disturbances in Upper Silesia a party of Poles, armed to the teeth, made an attempt to force an entrance into the town of Kozel, which was garrisoned by Italian troops.

An Italian sentry opened fire as soon as the first insurgents tried to cross the bridge over the River Oder. The Poles replied, and their attack would have succeeded if it had not occurred to the sentry to seize his ration of bread and hurl it at his assailants.

So startled were they by this proceeding that they fled. Possibly they imagined that this projectile was some new sort of bomb. By the time they had recovered from their astonishment reinforcements put in an appearance and the situation was saved.

A Bamboo Clock.

Constanzo Risenzi, who recently arrived in New York from Naples, has constructed a clock after three years of effort, of which every scrap or material used was bamboo. Besides telling time, the clock tells days of the week and months of the years and rings every quarter hour, while at noon it fires a small cannon, blows a whistle, rings a bell and hoists a flag. It keeps time to the dot, not varying a second in eight days.

For an Hour or Two.

Father (sternly)—"That is all very well, young man, but can you support my daughter?"

Suitor—"Oh, yes, fairly well—that is to say, I can support her for an hour or two, but I begin to get tired after that. She's heavy, you know."

Daughter—I lunched with Mrs. Backbite this afternoon. My, but she is a dreadful gossip!

Mother—I'd rather you wouldn't associate with gossips, dear. Did she say anything about anyone we know?

FARM MANAGEMENT

A Brief Study of Some of Its Leading Problems.

Systematic Method Important — A Question of Quantity, Quality, Cost, and Proceeds — Inefficiency and Carelessness to Be Eliminated — Good Care Will Save Many Foals.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

We speak of uncontrollable factors. Nevertheless farm management means control. The word "uncontrollable" is used loosely, and some measure of control is possible or hoped for in every farmer's undertakings. Farm management as a science, as a study, or a planning system, is a study of the methods of control. Farm practice is the corresponding art. A farmer was invited to attend a meeting to discuss improved methods of farming. "Nothing doing," was his reply; "I know a lot more now than I can get done." A very natural point of view, for the limitations of time, the scarcity of labor, adverse weather, diseases and pests, prevent him from getting all those results which his plans and his labor deserve. Yet he must plan, and to plan intelligently he must be possessed of the best knowledge available. He must plan to produce the greatest possible quantity, the best quality, at the lowest possible cost, and then he must plan to sell his produce at prices which will bring to him sufficient encouragement and reward.

Problems of Farm Management.

These are the problems of farm management: Quantity, quality, cost, and proceeds; and since they are closely inter-related, they cannot be studied separately, but must be considered all together. For example, European farming and Canadian farming are often compared to the disadvantage of the latter. It is asserted, and it is doubtless true, that the European farmer produces more per acre than the Canadian farmer does, and that the European acre is increasing in yield, while the Canadian acre is diminishing in yield. On the other hand, the Canadian farmer produces from three to ten times as much per man as does the European farmer. In Europe, because of the dense population and the relative scarcity of land, production per acre is the measure of efficiency. In Canada, because of the scarcity of men on the land and the relative abundance of land, production per man is the measure of efficiency. In Canada the farmer has the option of applying more labor to the same area, and producing more per acre, or applying his labor to more acres. The law of diminishing returns speedily induces him to choose his option by working more acres. A low production per acre is the inevitable result of this choice.

Management Influenced by Returns.

The farmer's interest is served by adopting such a system of farm management as will give him the greatest returns for labor and capital expended. Unfortunately, that system invariably results, in a country where there is unoccupied land, in wasting soil fertility and diminishing yields. The nation, as distinct from the individual farmer, is concerned in conserving its natural resources and in producing the greatest possible amount of wealth; that is, in maintaining the soil fertility unimpaired and producing the maximum per acre. Thus the interest of the individual farmer and the interests of the nation are opposed, so long as the farmer can spread his available labor over more acres than he can work at maximum productiveness. Those interests will not be reconciled so long as economic conditions furnish the farmer with inefficient and costly labor, and costly fertilizers.

No Excuse for Slovenly Farming.

All this, however, does not excuse the careless and inefficient farmer. Two farmers live and work side by side. Both have the same number of acres, and the same amount of capital invested. To both the same knowledge of good methods is available. One of them directs his labor, arranges his crops, selects his stock, keeps them healthy and thrifty, keeps his land clean, maintains his soil fertility, sells his produce to advantage, and succeeds. The other is haphazard. He has no plans, or wrong plans. His stock are poor in quality, and ill-fed. His fences are broken down, and his land overrun with weeds. He is going behind year by year. We all know men of both types. The difference is a difference in farm management.—President Reynolds, O. A. College, Guelph.

Good Care Will Save Many Foals.

The best time to grow foals, and the time when they will make their largest gains is when they are being darried by their dams. Many farmers do not realize this, and begin feeding the mare a proper ration only after the foal is here. The brood mare, when in foal, should be fed a high protein ration, a ration which is rich in muscle and bone building material. This material is supplied in the form of oats, bran, and oil meal, as a concentrate, and clover or alfalfa hay as a roughage. As soon as the young foal arrives, see that he gets a good drink of his mother's first milk. This fore-milk or colostrum purifies the digestive tract, and will usually clear the foal's intestines of the excrement accumulated prior to birth. If the digestive tract is not cleaned by the fore-milk, give the foal a tablespoonful of castor oil and a warm water and soap rectal injection.

Watch out for navel infection. If pus and disease germs get inside the body through the opening of the umbilical cord, a local infection or 'joint ill" may develop and the foal be lost.

MORE PEOPLE READ BOOKS

There are five times as many people in England reading books as there were before the war, according to Sir Ernest Williams, one of the foremost publishers of London. He says war has taught the people there the value of books, and shown them the joy of reading. When air raids were numerous and all social activities stopped, there still remained the inner room, the light and books. There was a quick demand developed for light reading, but it has changed and grown so that now the best books are most in demand. When air raids were ended and lights and social activities were used again, the habit of reading was continued and has grown rapidly the past year.

There is an insistent demand, this publisher says, for books that deal with real life. It is his belief that out of the experiences of war has been born a deeper appreciation of and understanding of how tremendously worth living it is. On this new consciousness he bases the demand for books that deal sincerely with problems of life.—Ohio State Journal.

ISLAND SAVED BY WOMEN

How the Female Population of Helgoland Upset Calculations of Danish Admiral.

Helgoland, the naval wall flower during the World war, had its fate decided, upon one memorable occasion, by the women of the island, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society. About the time William Penn was settling Pennsylvania a Danish admiral captured the island's fishermen one night while they were placing their nets. He threatened to hold them as hostages until the island surrendered to Denmark. Wives, mothers and sisters arose and forced the Danish garrison to relinquish any claim upon Helgoland.

In the fifteenth and seventeenth centuries Helgoland was a center of the North sea herring fisheries. Then herring veered back to Scotland's coast and the islanders handed down a tale of the impiety by which they forfeited the boon. Until a few years ago horses were unknown to the island. One story has it that when an old woman saw the Englishman ride up the hills she dropped dead from the shock of what she believed was a supernatural creature.

He was an elderly son of the soil and he had all the farmer's savage hatred of taxes of every kind and description.

To add insult to injury a perky little collector called for taxes he had already paid. Unfortunately, the farmer could not find the receipt.

"I explained this to him," he explained to a friend of his later, "and, would you believe it, Bill, the feller began to abuse me!"

"Did he?" said Bill. "And what did you do?"

"Do! Well I remonstrated with him."

"You did—to what effect?"

"I dunno, exactly, but the shovel got broke."

Fritz Kreisler, our favorite violinist, has been fiddling in Detroit recently and this is how The Detroit News dresses up the situation:

"The Spaniards' 'Jota Navara' is sprightly enough and the nippy allspice of virtuosity, left-handed pizzicato, satiate bowing, and the rest, is not becoming."

We shall never forgive ourselves for having failed to be there. If there is anything we do do on it is saltato bowing. As to the left-handed pizzicato, we would not venture, as we never have tasted the southpaw variety.

ANNUAL FINANCIAL DISTRICT MEETING

The annual Financial District meeting of the Napanee District was held in Trinity Methodist Church, Napanee, on Monday, Sept. 12th, 1921. The Rev. E. B. Cook, Chairman of the District, presided, and Rev. J. W. Dowson acted as Secretary. The Ministerial and Lay Members were nearly all present. Rev. Mr. Manning, of the Mission Rooms, Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Ottawa, represented the Missionary and Social Service enterprises of the Church in timely and forceful addresses. On motion the General Board of Missions was requested to appropriate $4560.00 in support of the four Missions within the bounds of the District.

The Rev. A. J. Terrill presented a statement from the Educational Society, containing suggested amounts for each Pastor to raise for educational purposes, which statement was, by motion of Rev. Dr. Shorey and J. W. Down, placed on the table, with the suggestion that Pastors make local arrangements for educational meetings.

The Rev. W. H. Clark presented the report of the Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies on the District, and after some discussion it was resolved to hold at least three Institutes, for which the Secretary of Religious Education was instructed to make full arrangements.

The Social Service report was presented by Rev. R. C. Tait, and on motion it was resolved to hold a special Social and Spiritual Conference in Grace Church, Napanee, on Friday, Oct. 21st, to be followed by an Evangelistic campaign to be conducted by a Field Secretary, assisted by the Pastors and Lay Workers in the District.

Rev. H. J. Latimer, District Missionary Secretary, presented a report in relation to Missions and growing out of this report it was decided to accept the suggested financial objective of $10250.00 for the District, and that each Pastor arrange for his own Missionary Anniversary, which shall be held during the month of October. It was also recommended that each Pastor preach on the subject of Missions at least once every three months.

On motion of Revds. Latimer and Clark, it was resolved that this District express its sincere gratitude to Mr. G. W. Gibbard for his kindness in presenting a Lending Library to the ministers of the district.

On motion, it was decided to hold the next financial district meeting at Yarker.

By action of the meeting Rev. E. B. Cook, Rev. W. H. Clark and Mr. G. W. Gibbard were elected as a Committee to visit weak circuits and missions. All Pastors are urged to observe Par. 462 of Discipline, re Assessment for Super-fund.

A discussion took place regarding the very unusual spectacle presented on the streets of Napanee on Sunday, Sept. 11th, by the Sabbath desecration involved in the unloading and transportation of one of the side shows that came to exhibit during the Napanee fair. It was felt that as public sentiment in town and county is so strongly against such Sabbath desecration, the Directors of the Agricultural Society would surely protect the public against the recurrence of similar undesirable incidents.

BASEBALL.

In a friendly game of baseball at Adolphustown on Saturday afternoon the home team swamped Yarker by the score of 17 to 2. Smith pitched a good game for the home team, retiring the side in the first inning on the three pitched balls. Pollard secured a home run. The score was as follows:

Yarker.	H.	R.
H. Holland	1	0

A Pennsylvania weekly paper published this advertisement, according to a subscriber who thinks it may come to be regarded as a "classic" of its kind:

As my husband, L——H——, had me advertised in The Argus for leaving his bed and board. It is a mistake. The bed belongs to me and the board we got at my home. But for me to make any bills for him to pay I couldn't expect him to pay any for me now, as my. folks bought my clothes while we were living together.

Biliousness and Liver Diseases

May be the result of Constipation or may exist when the bowels are irregular. The liver is congested often giving rise to pain under the right shoulder, the complexion is yellow, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, slight fever, distress after eating, sometimes vomiting. Bile does not enter the bowels to digest the fats which decompose, forming gas, irritating the intestinal tract, often producing diarrhoea. A natural Liver Stimulant is required and DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS taken according to directions not only stimulates, but tones that organ.

years ago an ulcer appeared on my ankle," writes Mrs. Jeffrey, of Methuen, Mass. "In spite of all the remedies I used, it spread to my knee, and developed into an open sore. I had medical treatment for twenty-five years; but only got temporary relief. The pain I suffered was terrible, and for years I was unable to leave the house.

"One day I saw in a newspaper an account of a bad ulcer having been cured by Zam-Buk. Although I was skeptical, now, of anything curing me—having tried so many remedies in vain—I decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. I applied the balm freely every day and to my delight the sore soon showed some improvement. Gradually the inflammation was drawn out, the pain was ended, and, after thirty years of suffering, I realized I was on the road to recovery. With perseverance, the awful sore was finally completely healed, and, although that was three years ago, there has not been the slightest trace of the ulcer returning."

Zam-Buk is the best remedy, also, for eczema, boils, pimples, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts. All dealers, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Gould and Maisie,—We, your neighbours and friends, have gathered here to-night to express in a small way our appreciation of your lives and service in our community.

WOODBINE—WESTBROOK.

The Death Angel called at a well known home at Westbrook and called a beautiful young baby from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lockwood. The baby was only three months old and death was due to bronchial pneumonia. The little casket was beautifully bahked with bouquets of asters and wreaths of numerous flowers by friends and neighbors. Rev. Mr. Sisco, of Cataraqui, preached a very impressive sermon at the funeral. The hymns that were sung were "Jesus Loves Me", and "When He Cometh to Make up His Jewels". The remains were conveyed to Moscow for interment. There are left to mourn the loss of the dear baby, the father and mother and five sisters, of which Mrs. Ross Revell is the eldest. The others are Mary, Emma, Caroline and Nellie. The baby will be much missed by the parents and sisters and friends.

Rev. K. Blohm held his first service here last Sunday. Brown was a testy fellow, and if there was one thing more than another that he hated it was to be caught. As a consequence, he was very suspicious of any deed or word the exact meaning of which he could not grasp. Some time ago he visited a menagerie, where he had an interesting chat with one of the keepers.

As Brown was about to leave the keeper turned to him and said: "By the way, sir, have you seen our black-faced antelope?"

"Ah!" thought Brown, "he's trying to make a fool of me. No, sir," he replied, stiffly, "I have not. May I ask with whom it was your black-faced aunt eloped?"

"The doctor made me show him my tongue and it cost me $5, but I got even."

"How?"

"In a poker game last night I made him show me his hand, and it cost him $5."

OBITUARY.

James McKittrick.

On Tuesday morning, August 16th, 1921, at 6 o'clock, there passed peacefully away a noted personage in James McKittrick. On Thursday, January 13th, 1921, he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he never recovered, and death came as a release from all his earthly suffering, at the age of 63 years, 8 months and 3 days. While a farmer, he was a carpenter by trade, and many are his buildings and handiwork in Lennox and Addington. James was a self-made man. He was in cheese factory business in Marlbank for eleven years, Forest Mills two, and was Tax Collector for the Township of Richmond for twenty-one years, besides having been Councillor for one year and nine years as Township Clerk. He was in politics a Conservative and a confirmed member of St. John's Anglican Church, Selby, and one of the originators of Selby L. O. L. 2281, from which Order he was buried under, in St. John's Anglican cemetery, Selby, in the family plot. On Tuesday, May 22nd, 1888, he married Miss Matilda A. Cook, of Richmond Township, who survives him, and from that union were born five sons and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas L. Brown, of Leinster; Stanley Burton and Cronice O'Dell McKittrick, of Imperial, Saskatchewan; Bernice Grant, of Napanee; William James W., of Roblin, and George Harold, at home, and two grandchildren, James Grant McKittrick, of Napanee, and John Wilson Brown, of Leinster, besides one half-sister, Mrs. James H. Freeburn, of Mannville. The funeral was held on Thursday, August 18th, left his old home from where he was born and had always lived, at 10 o'clock a.m., thence to St. John's Church, Selby, where the Rev. Mr. R. W. Irvine, Pastor of the deceased, who had often visited him during his affliction, preached a very impressive sermon from St. John, 21st chapter and 19th verse. His brethern of Selby L. O. L. 2281 paid their respects to their brother by a beautiful floral wreath, and his pall bearers were all L. L. O. members and old time friends of his in Reeve A. C. Tummon, Councillors William S. Provins, John Schermerhorn, William Ballance, Arthur McKnight and Herbert Asselstine. The funeral was largely attended. And now, Lord, lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace; according to Thy word.

OBITUARY.

Ex-Warden Jas. Dryden.

The death at Mr. Jas. Dryden, Warden of Hastings for the year 1911, removed one of the outstanding municipal figures in County Municipal history. On his retirement from the Wardenship he left public life and devoted himself to his business interests. His death occurred Thursday, after a short illness of about two weeks' duration, and the funeral was held Monday afternoon to Deseronto cemetery. The obsequies were very impressive, the citizens of the town in private and representative capacity attending in large numbers to pay the last tribute to their ex-Reeve. The funeral was under the auspices of the Orange Order. The late James Dryden was born in Napanee, in the year 1855. At the age of ten years he removed with his parents to Deseronto, where he since resided. At the age of twenty-two years he entered business and continued in commerce until the time of his death. His business was the most important of its kind in the town—a general store. His training in this was an admirable preparation for his work as Warden. He was a young man of only 26 years when he stepped into public life, when he became a member of the Deseronto town council. He was chairman of finance for Deseronto. In 1896 he entered the County Council as Reeve of the town of his adoption. His business acumen led him to the office of finance chairman, and ultimately to the Wardenship. His year in the chair in Shire Hall was a memorable one. He was the unanimous choice of the Council for the office, no one being put in the field against him. He was a member of the Methodist church, and occupied a prominent position in the church. He was a man of probity and sterling worth in business and in private capacity. He was a staunch Conservative in politics and stood high in the counsels of the party. He was a man of great affability and possessed tact to a remarkable degree. Surviving are his widow (formerly Miss M. Irwin, and one daughter.

School Opening

In a few days the Schools will be opened and the young folks will require the new Book for the classes to which they have advanced. Until the last few days it looked as though the opening would find us without many of the Books on the lists of both the Public and High Schools; but we are pleased to state that, with the exception of three or four, we have every Book needed, and expect these by or before the first of September.

We will have the largest supply and greatest variety of Exercise and Scribbling Books, Note Books, Pencils, Crayons, Paints, Book Bags, Pencil Boxes, in fact every article that the Scholar will need that was ever assembled in one place in the town. We have bought these goods wherever we could get the best value and are confident no one can offer better values.

A great advantage to a Pupil is a smooth Writing Pen. There are none better than the Waterman. We sell them at as low a price as any other house.

OBITUARY.

Rowlin Hate Peters.

On August 23rd, the death occurred of Rowlin Hate Peters, at his late residence, 152 Victoria St., Kingston, in the 79th year of his seventy-fifth birthday. In 1868 he married Malissa Wagar, of Centreville, who died in 1900. In 1902 he married Mrs. Alice Remion, of Madoc, who survives him. For thirty-four years he conducted a general store in Enterprise, moving to Selby in 1898, and to Odessa, and on retiring from business ten years ago he bought his late residence in Kingston. He was a lifelong Methodist and a respected citizen. His one died in life was to help the community where he lived.

His Pastor, Rev. Mr. Waddell, of Princess Street Methodist Church, conducted the service at the house, in the presence of his family and old friends gathered to pay their last respects to a friend and neighbour. Rev. Mr. Waddell spoke with appreciation of the services rendered to the church in all its branches by the deceased, who would be greatly missed.

He is survived by his widow, and six children by the first wife, Mrs. S. A. Peters, Edmonton; Mrs. W. E. Peters, Detroit; Mrs. Wm. Barrowman and Nial D. Peters, Toronto; Mrs. Noble Peters, of Bellevoir, Sask. Mr. Leslie Peters, of Switzerville, and Mr. Cyrus Peters, of Kingston, were brothers.

Rev. Mr. Waddell and members of the "King's Own" Bible Class, motored to Centreville with the family, where the remains were placed in the family lot. The floral tributes were many and the flowers he loved in life covered his grave where he sleeps the sleep of the just.

Mrs. Margaret Thompson.

The death occurred on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 11th, 1921, of Margaret, Cornell Rogers, wife of the late George D. Thompson, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Reid, Shannonville. Mrs. Thompson was one of those kind and good disposition women who would not harm anyone. She was a life long Methodist. Her husband preceded her seventeen years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter and five sons, Mrs. Reid, Shannonville; Wilson G. Thompson, of Shannonville; Mrs. A. Reid, of Shannonville; Edward P. Thompson, of Manville, Alberta; Joseph C. Thompson, of New Westminster, B.C., and Ethelbert Thompson, Priest River, Idaho, U.S.A., and one sister, Mrs. E. H. Perry, Centreville. A very impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. E. Farmer, of Camnifton, the funeral being largely attended. The remains were placed in the family plot at Centreville.

Red Cross Scholarships In The University Course For Public Health Nurses.

The Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society announces the names of ten graduate nurses who have been selected to hold scholarships valued at $350.00 each, given by the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society in connection with the Public Health Course for Nurses in the University of Toronto, the expenses of which are also borne by the Ontario Division of the Red Cross. In awarding the scholarships preference was shown first to those nurses who, having reached the required standards in training, health and education, had also seen active service overseas during the war.

It is interesting to note that the first name on the list is that of Miss Mary Adams, a native of Hanover, Ontario, who served overseas in the first contingent of nurses sent out by the Canadian Red Cross Society in 1915. Miss Adams served in a British War Hospital at Malta, and No. 12 General Hospital, Rouen, and later was transferred to the Canadian Army Medical Corps, in which she served from 1918 to 1920. Miss Florence G. Conlin, a native of Toronto, and graduate from St. Michael's Hospital, went overseas in 1915, and served under the Canadian Army Medical Corps at Salonica, Basingstoke, England, and Christie Street Hospital, Toronto. Miss Daisy Dean, born at Sandhill, Ontario, went overseas in 1918, and served in France with No. 8 British General Hospital, and No. 4 Canadian General Hospital at Salonica, and was subsequently Matron at the College Street Military Hospital, Toronto. Miss Helen Latimer, born and educated at Carleton Place, Ontario, went overseas under the American Red Cross and transferred to the Canadian Army Medical Corps, in which she served in Serbia, France and England, and also on transport duty on the Hospital Ship, "Araguaya". Miss Marion E. Stevens who was born and educated at Napanee, Ontario, served with the Canadian Army Medical Corps from 1915 to 1919 in France, Egypt, and Bramshott, England.

The other recipients of scholarships are: Miss T. C. Huntley, educated at St. Joseph's High School, Toronto; Miss Bessie Jones, of Elora, who holds Junior Teachers' Certificate in addition to her nurses' Diploma; Miss Margaret B. Kettlewell, B.A., Toronto University, native of Norwich, Ontario; Miss Mildred Sudbury, born at Brussels, Ontario, and educated at Brockville Collegiate; Miss Mabel Sharp, educated in Orillia, Ontario, and a graduate of Toronto General Hospital.

The only condition imposed by the Red Cross upon the successful candidates for scholarships in this course is that they should serve in Public Health work in the Province of Ontario for at least one year after completing their course, and in view of this condition it is most satisfactory to note that, with one exception, all the selected candidates are natives of Ontario towns, and are, therefore, specially adapted for the work for which they are training.

Miss Russell, Director of the course, reports a most satisfactory registration for the class for the Public Health Course which opens at the University of Toronto on Monday next.

WM. FAWCETT DECLINES U. F. O. NOMINATION.

He Says He Has Definitely Refused to Enter the Contest.

William Fawcett, Wolfe Island, defeated U.F.O. candidate at the last provincial elections, has been urged to accept the nomination for the dominion parliament in the coming general elections. Several of the county leaders, who were intimately associated with him in the last campaign, and who appreciate his worth and the sacrifices he made for the farmers in that election, have approached him to stand once more, pledging every support. It will be remembered that Mr. Fawcett made a splendid vote, considering that he had to meet a three-cornered fight. He has declined, however, to stand for nomination, and has so intimated to his friends. Questioned by a representative of the Whig as to his answer to those calling upon him, he said that he had definitely declined to enter the contest.—Whig.

PENSION AND BENEFIT FUND.

the way Zam-Buk relieves the burning and irritation of eczema," writes Miss A. Gallant, of St. Nicholas, P.E.I. "For a year I suffered with this disease, and tried all kinds of remedies, but nothing helped me until I used Zam-Buk. The continued use of this herbal balm has completely cured me.

Although it is now two years since this cure was effected, there has been no return of the disease."

Zam-Buk is equally good for ringworm, scalp sores, pimples, boils, teething rash, "barber's rash," ulcers, old sores, abscesses, bad legs, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and chilblains. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

Studebaker Light Six

Economical

because of its Exclusive Internal Hot Spot and Light Weight—

The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX might well be called the "Economy Six", for every day in the hands of hundreds of owners it is averaging between 21 and 26 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Such low fuel consumption is due chiefly to its Internal Hot-Spot, an exclusive feature of the LIGHT-SIX motor, designed by Studebaker engineers.

The light, evenly-balanced weight of the LIGHT-SIX chassis further contributes to its low operating expense—not only with respect to fuel, but tires as well.

See the LIGHT-SIX, analyze its fine quality of construction and you will agree that it represents the maximum of automobile values.

Toronto Nurse Cured of Muscular Rheumatism

Miss Pearl Ennicks, Camden St., Toronto, says: "It is the greatest pleasure of my life to be able to give a testimonial in favor of DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS, for they have done wonders for me. I was nursing in one of the hospitals when I was taken sick with muscular rheumatism and had to go home. For three months I was unable to move one of my arms or even a finger and the pain that I suffered was something dreadful. I tried different kinds of treatments and remedies, without any results whatever. I was advised to try Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets and after using one box and part of another I was completely recovered from the trouble.
If you are suffering with Rheumatism, Constipation, Eczema, Kidney Liver and Nervous Complaints, get a box at once and see the results.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Winter Haven, Fla.,
Sept. 14th, 1921.

Editor of The Beaver,
Napanee, Ont.

Dear Mr. Editor,—It has been on my mind since my return from Canada to write and tell you how sorry I have felt to think I did not stay a day or two in Napanee instead of a couple of hours. But I had business in Toronto that needed my personal and immediate attention, so I only stayed long enough to get a good dinner at the Campbell House, some gas and water in my tin Lizzie and away I went. I have felt like telling you and your subscribers more about Florida as I have seen it during the summer season, but yesterday I read a letter in the Florida Chief, from a gentleman in California (think of it in California) that is so much better written than I could do in every particular that I am going to ask you to publish it, so that all who read The Beaver may know what a lovely country Florida is and will be.

Sincerely yours,
W. R. MEMBERY.

Dear old Florida! she's the tail that wags the dog; she is the finger on the map of the United States that points to prosperity; in the anatomy of states she is the thumb, the equal of all the rest combined, and without which thg glad hand of happiness would be a sorry thing indeed. Newest of all the sister states, in that she has recently arisen from the ocean, she is fairest and cleanest and loveliest. If scientists are right she is the baby of the family of states and allow me to say that as usual the baby is the flower of the flock and as yet unspoiled. But she is growing and developing, and capitalists from the frozen North and West are flirting with her; and young and able bodied are coming to Florida to grow up as she grows; the old and infirm from every state in the chilly North are going to Florida to spend their winters, little knowing that they are to fall in love with the state and stay on and on watching the sun come up out of its bed of glory in the great Atlantic, smile down on thousands of happy homes and myriad crystal lakes and orange groves and grapefruit and green cool forests, and drop regretfully down behind the palms into the placid waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Ah, Florida, how grateful am I that no upheaval of nature severed you from the galaxy of states! Poor indeed would we be without you! You are bound to us by a firmer and more enduring tie than that of mere earth; you you are bound to us by the ties of blood and kinship, the ties of love, the bonds of material and financial prosperity. Wonderful state, you little dream that you are to be the play ground of a tired and nerve-jaded country. Little think you now, that soon all of your lovely places are to be inhabited, and you may not know that the time is soon to come when people are to value you at something like your true worth, casting in their lot with you before it is too late. You have been modest, little sister, and you have not told your virtues; you have been the flower that bloomed in woodland solitudes, and I will say that if you had the press-agent organization of your distant sister on the Pacific coast, you could scarce entertain the people who would come to your shores. Do I love you Florida? You shouldn't ask me for you know I do. I've lived with nearly all your older sisters. Some were fatter, some leaner, some richer and many poorer. Some were longer and many were shorter. None gave me the thrill that you alone can give. Why do you know that before I met you, dear girl, I had become cynical and hardened and skeptical and wondered why I was on earth? I don't mind telling you this now that we are to cast in our lots together, now that our paths are to be one (an it were, but not as it was, for there is a difference, you must know). All true, Florida, this is, and when I think of you I think of rippling waves along the sandy beach where happy thousands laugh and play as children; I think of forests where the wild turkey lives and where the stately trees are bearded with gray moss; I think of giant palms and ferns and wild flowers; I think of Polk County with its thousand lakes sparkling under an azure sky, their sloping shores green and yellow with citrus trees and fruit of gold; I think of winding asphalt roads and happy homes and fair cotton headed children; I think of fern bordered brooks where lark the game fish waiting to be caught; and last of all perhaps when I think of you I think of those who know you not, and I am just a little sad, for they have missed one of the thrills of life. Many are they who have learned to love you in winter, but those who know you best love you even more in summer and through all the year.

I'm coming to you Florida, you sunkissed, ocean-bathed little sister and I'm never going to leave you. I'm going to build a little bungalow by one of your little lakes, and I'm going to set out some young trees of orange and of grape fruit near by; then I'm going to fish and hunt and motor and swim and watch the golden fruit ripen under your blue sky. And then I will watch the profits come in; and then the gold that was on the trees will blossom in the bank and bring in more gold. Gold, the thing men have risked their lives for in the far north; the precious metal sought for all over the world, and just think, it grows on the trees in Florida! Ah, Florida, you do not know how wonderful you are! And it is my regret that I can not do you justice. I can only say that I am for you and I'm coming to-you.

WHO'S A BUM?

I make good money fixing shoes,
And making boots to measure;
And sometimes take a nip of booze,
I find it quite a pleasure.

To make the stuff is quite a task,
In fact we wouldn't try;
Stool pigeons only wish we would,
But we are far too sly.

And if we did we know full well
Our chances would be good,
For any man that holds that job
Is nothing but a bud.

So, fathers, take a gentle hint,
Don't let your children shirk
And hang around among such bums
But get some honest work.

THE STOOL PIGEON.

Dear People:—
We often hear the remark, "He's Nothing But a Bum", but we do not take the word in any serious way. Perhaps it is too common, but nevertheless it comprises part of our language, and is defined in our dictionary as a loose, disorderly person. And we could improve on this by adding, "liable to develop into a stool pigeon", which, in our estimation, is the grand finale in respect to honest citizenship. So, far be it from us to train our sons along such drivelling, underhand lines.

So, be like us and mix not with such folks, only when it is entirely necessary, then fool them. Come again. Barn for rent.

WHERE THE APPLE PAYS

Soil, Location and Transportation to be Considered.

It Helps to Be Near Cities — The Labor Question Still a Serious Problem — How to Restore Damaged Pastures.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

This question will be discussed under four heads: Climate, Soil, Labor and Transportation.

The Factor of Climate.

So far as climate is concerned apples can be grown commercially in any part of Old Ontario, south of a line drawn from Parry Sound to Ottawa; in fact, there are commercial orchards producing fruit at a profit considerably farther north than this. Many people think of commercial apple orchards as being necessarily confined to the milder parts of the province, and to the lake districts, but the fact is worth emphasizing that we have varieties of apples suitable for commercial culture in every county of Old Ontario. The winter hardiness of the many varieties grown throughout Ontario is now very well established, and it is possible to select varieties which will be hardy for any district.

Late and Early Frosts.

The most serious climatic difficulty in the Province of Ontario is the occurrence of late frost in spring, and early frost in fall. Other difficulties of a climatic nature can be largely overcome by the selection of suitable varieties, or by careful discrimination with regard to soil, elevation, aspect, etc. It may be pointed out, however, that frosts are more common and more severe over large areas of flat country than where the topography is rolling or hilly. Large areas of some of the southern counties of Ontario are, therefore, more or less unsuited to commercial apple orchanding because of their flat character. A more rolling country is much to be preferred, so that orchards can be made safer from frost by the better drainage afforded.

Suitable Soil In Every County.

So far as soils are concerned, it may be stated that there is an abundance of land in every county suitable for apple growing. Well drained land is essential for successful orchanding, and there is plenty of soil of this type to be had in almost every district.

Summing up soil and climate, it may be said that no province or state in North America has so large an area so favorable in soil and climate for apple growing as has the Province of Ontario. The fact that a line drawn from Parry Sound to Ottawa; in fact, there are commercial orchards producing fruit at a profit considerably farther north than this. Many people think of commercial apple orchards as being necessarily confined to the milder parts of the province, and to the lake districts, but the fact is worth emphasizing that we have varieties of apples suitable for commercial culture in every county of Old Ontario. The winter hardiness of the many varieties grown throughout Ontario is now very well established, and it is possible to select varieties which will be hardy for any district.

Most Profitable Near Cities.

Transportation is the most important factor having to do with the distribution of commercial apple orchards in Ontario. In other words, the commercial apple orchards are located within reach of transportation facilities, and the better these facilities have been with relation to large cities and to the developing markets of the prairies the more rapid has been the development of commercial orchanding. A location near a large city may be desirable but if better soil and climate are to be found at a distance, the most important location is likely to be preferred, provided transportation facilities are good.

Some districts in Ontario possess excellent conditions of soils and climate, but are lacking in transportation facilities, and until facilities are available little development can take place in commercial orchanding.

The Labor Situation.

The labor situation for some years has been acute, but has become more normal during the present year. For commercial orchard operations on a stable basis, it is necessary to be within reach of a temporary supply of labor for apple picking. Otherwise, it becomes necessary to build dwellings for men and their families so that a supply of labor may be always available.

The difficulties of the labor situation at picking time can be lessened considerably by the planting of varieties which ripen in succession, and by taking care to get the right proportion of each. A large area of one variety ripening at one time is extremely difficult to handle.—J. W. Crow, O. A. College, Guelph.

Statue to Balboa.

Panama is to have a statue of Balboa, the discoverer of the Pacific ocean. The contract for the work has already been signed at Madrid, and the monument has been intrusted to the sculptor Bonilliere. That there is to be no undue haste in the matter is signified by the fact that the contract does not call for the delivery of the monument until two years after the signing of the agreement. The opportunities for a most effective piece of work are many, with the likeness of the man overlooking the ocean of his discovery. The sunshine setting would seem to call for a grandiose actor to dominate the scene, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Aviation in the Sahara.

The French do not regard airplanes as profitable for use in commerce over the Sahara desert; it costs too much to move the mineral wealth of the territory by airplane when pack mules and camels can be used instead. But to supplement the desert police and to maintain French prestige military aviators are well worth while. The Arab tribes have deep respect for them and take to their heels whenever an airplane arrives.

REFUSED TO ADMIT FAILURE

History Records Many Instances o Men Who Rose Superior to Adverse Circumstances.

Failure is not a pleasant word, and it is not a safe word to use, for you can never be sure. Many a man who has been called a failure even by his friends has turned out to be unusually successful, as the Rev. John T. Faris in the Christian Endeavor World, shows by the following example:

When Sir Henry Bessemer was a young man he perfected a plan for using revenue stamps that promised to save the British government large sums, and he was promised a comfortable position in the employ of the government. Then a flaw was revealed in his stamp plan, and the easy position slipped from his grasp. Although he had failed, he did not lose courage. Within a few years he invented the process of making steel that made his name famous and proved of incalculable benefit to the world.

When Stephen Girard was twenty-six years old, he was the successful captain of a merchant vessel sailing from French ports to the West Indies. But in May, 1776, storm and fog drove him into Delaware bay, and the British fleet prevented his escaping. He landed at Philadelphia, a captain without a ship, a seamen who could not leave the land. But within two years he was an American citizen, and within fifteen years he was the leading shipowner in Philadelphia. Thirty-six years later he became his country's bank during the war of 1812, and, when after the war only $20,000,000 was subscribed to a $5,000,000 loan, he stepped into the breach and subscribed for the rest.

Phillips Brooks' first work after graduating from Harvard college was school-teaching. He enjoyed it and dreamed of success; but he found that he was not able to control the lively boys under his charge. The difficulties grew, and he resigned his position. The head master, when speaking of the successor he hoped to secure, very ungraciously said that any change, no matter what, could hardly fail to be for the better. Six months after his resignation Brooks entered the theological seminary, and three years later he began his career in the pulpit that made him famous.

Failure succeeded failure in Abraham Lincoln's life; yet every one of the seeming failures had its part in making the man. When he failed as a shopkeeper, the failure brought out the deep-seated honesty that won for him the confidence and the affection of those who knew him. He thought of learning the blacksmith's trade, and even after he had committed himself to being a lawyer he thought he might perhaps do better as a carpenter. Several times he was defeated when he asked the favor of the people at the polls, but after each defeat he was stronger as a man and more popular with the voters.

Mistletoe Superstition.

Mistletoe is in many countries not admitted to the house before New Year's eve for fear of some dire disaster. This seems a relic of the religious ban long placed upon the Druidic plant, which by reason of its historic connection with heathenism has been excluded from the decoration of churches and from Christian sculpture. It appears in old English ecclesiastical art only at Bristol cathedral, where both leaf and berry are carved upon the remarkable tombs which were probably designed by some artist monk in the household of the Berkeleys. The association of the mistletoe with Christmas did not arise until long after the Reformation. Knowing nothing about the parasite—which is not native in Scotland, and is still rare there—Sir Walter Scott commits a terrible "howler" in his introduction to the sixth canto of "Marmion." Describing the delights of a medieval Christmas, he sends his "merry men" to gather mistletoe "in the wood," where they could not possibly have found it at that period.

Japanese Trade Expands.

Japan is ambitious to obtain a large share of the trade of the South Sea islands which is estimated at 2,000,000,000 yen a year. Of this Japanese exports amount to only 1½ per cent, but have increased rapidly since the war. Some Japanese commercial leaders are advising that in order to increase the sale of Japanese goods in the South seas Japan must import from the islands rubber, sugar, chemicals, foodstuffs and spices, in which these islands abound. President Kimura of the Singapore Japanese Emporium, urges that Japan establish direct trade agencies with Sumatra and Manila, for expansion of Japanese trade in Malaysia.

Relic of Bygone Days.

At the recent centennial tea, given by the Woman's Press Club of Indiana, the following was pinned on one of the quilts exhibited: "The blue-and-white blocks in this quilt were pieced by a maid of my grandmother's, a century ago. The quilt is not so remarkable, but the maid was—she lived with my grandmother for thirty years."

Many inquiries came to the donor to know whether any of the descendants of the woman were still in the land of the living.

MOUNTAIN IN SEA

Summit Known as Laura Ethel is the Highest.

Twenty Thousand Feet Above the Lowest Level of the Atlantic Basin —Approximate Location of "Davy Jones' Locker."

At the captain's table on an Atlantic liner a young woman idly inquired how far the ship was from the nearest land. Several passengers would have said offhand, "About eight hundred miles." But the captain turned the question over to a quiet gentleman who looked at his watch and at a chart and amazed his hearers by answering, "Just about seventy yards."

"The land I speak of is just thirty-six fathoms beneath this ship," continued the expert oceanographer. "It is the summit of the Laura Ethel mountain, which is 20,000 feet above the lowest level of the Atlantic basin. If it were some two hundred feet higher, or the sea were two hundred feet lower, you would call it an island.

In effect, the Atlantic is a huge continent boasting a superficial area of 25,000,000 square miles. It is 9,000 miles long and 2,700 miles broad. The depth of the water that covers it is by no means so considerable as people used to imagine. Oceanography as a science may be said to date only from about 1850, but—thanks chiefly to the labors of the cable-laying and cable-repairing ships—our knowledge of the configuration of the bed of the ocean grows greater every year.

The Laura Ethel mountain, discovered in 1878, is the uppermost peak of one of the most celebrated of the submarine elevations in the Atlantic, Mount Chauncer, at the eastward of it, was revealed to oceanographers in 1850. Saintbill, which is westward of both, has the honor to be the first mountain discovered in the Atlantic. It became known in 1822.

Prior to the laying of the first Atlantic cable Lieutenant Maury, United States navy, made it known that a wide plateau exists beneath the ocean, running from Ireland to Newfoundland. It seemed so admirably suited to the purpose of cable laying that he modestly called it Telegraphic plateau, but in most charts it bears the discoverer's name.

The location of "Davy Jones' Locker" might be said to have been established with the discovery of Saintbill. It has been estimated that at the base of this eminence the relics of not less than seven thousand wrecks lie scattered. Of one might speculate that greyssome distinction in the Farnsby hills, discovered in 1882 and lying between Mount Chaucer and Laura Ethel mountain. These will interest only ocean oceanographers for the amount of wreckage of which they are the monument.

There are cavernous depths, of course, in the Atlantic, as well as majestic heights. Four miles and a half may be taken to be the greatest. The average is probably about two miles. Heights and depths alike are full of wonder. This seems a relic of the religious ban long placed upon the Druidic plant, which by reason of its historic connection with heathenism has been excluded from the decoration of churches and from Christian sculpture. It appears in old English ecclesiastical art only at Bristol cathedral, where both leaf and berry are carved upon the remarkable tombs which were probably designed by some artist monk in the household of the Berkeleys. The association of the mistletoe with Christmas did not arise until long after the Reformation. Knowing nothing about the parasite—which is not native in Scotland, and is still rare there—Sir Walter Scott commits a terrible "howler" in his introduction to the sixth canto of "Marmion." Describing the delights of a medieval Christmas, he sends his "merry men" to gather mistletoe "in the wood," where they could not possibly have found it at that period.

Meantime comparatively few changes occur. Beneath the ocean there are no frosts, no lightnings, no glaciers, no meteorological agents at work. If it were not for the eddies and the destruction and accumulation of animal life, these Atlantic hills and vales might rest as immutable as the peaks and craters of the moon, where there is no atmosphere to cause decay.

How German Potash Is Mined.

Potash in Germany occurs in the form of a rock salt and runs in seams of 20 feet or more in thickness. As mined, it has about the same consistency as the common rock salt of commerce and its grinding is easy. It is ground to about the fineness of a coarse sand; in this form it is used for domestic agriculture and at the present time it is also mostly exported in this form. The depths at which the potash deposits are situated render it necessary to sink shafts leading to levels of as much as 2,000 feet below the surface. Horizontal cuttings extend up to two miles in length.

The miners themselves are, unlike coal miners, entirely free from the danger of fire damp. Occasionally danger arises from hydrogen, the blue flame of which may sometimes be seen flickering on the walls after a blasting operation in a newly opened mine. Sulphuretted hydrogen has caused the death of a few miners and carbonic acid gas renders suffocation possible.

Heavier Trucks Coming.

At a recent meeting of the Cleveland and Detroit sections of the Society of Automobile Engineers, P. D. Litchfield, a factory manager, expressed the belief that the heavy tonnage truck of the future would be some form of the multiple-wheel vehicle, just as the multiple-wheel freight car succeeded the single-truck type in the transportation of heavy loads. Experiments have been made with the six-wheeled truck or this description, and the results are said to be very gratifying, easier on both the tires and roads.

SMALLEST THINGS EVER SEEN.

New Wonder of Photograph Accomplished In England.

A new microscopic wonder has just been announced. Mr. J. E. Barnard, who is in charge of the British National Institute for Medical Research, has been able to photograph for the first time a living bacillus, and to reveal its structure.

Hitherto it has only been possible to photograph with any detail objects that had been magnified 1,000 diameters, or a million times their size or area. Beyond this, while it was possible still further to enlarge the objects by the microscope, the greater size did not give any more detail. The microscope began to break up the light itself, so that it was useless for revealing the texture of objects.

Now, by using violet and ultra-violet rays, which have a shorter wave-length than white light, Mr. Barnard has been able to perform the amazing wonder of photographing the living germs of anthrax, magnifying them 3,500 diameters, or over twelve million times their size, and showing their structure.

He is now experimenting with soft X-rays, a weak kind of X-ray, the wave-lengths of which are ten times shorter than those of the ultra-violet rays.

But, while there are great difficulties in the way of magnifying the details of objects beyond a certain point, and photographing them, amazing things have been done in the way of obtaining mere size, so that the minutest particles can be detected.

The ordinary microscope will, in favorable circumstances, magnify up to about 3,000 diameters, so as to render visible an object measuring only about one quarter-millionth of an inch across; but with the latest kind of instrument, known as the ultra-microscope, which magnifies up to 30,000 diameters, or 900 million times the size, objects can be distinguished that have a diameter of only one five-millionth of an inch.

Of course, no details of the structure of such minute objects are visible, but when suspended in water they are observed to be in a state of movement. They are so small that they pass through ordinary blotting-paper. For a long time the reason for the movement in the water was a mystery, but it is now believed to be due to the fact that the particles in suspension are pushed about by the water molecules round them.

To be more exact about in this way the particles must be almost infinitesimal in size, and it is believed that the movements they show are similar to the movements of the molecules themselves.

Shall we ever be able to get a microscope so powerful that it will show us a molecule? Science believes not. While the ultra-microscope enables us to detect an object as small as a five-millionth part of an inch in diameter—that is, the 2½-millionth of a square inch in size—a molecule of hydrogen is only one-thirtieth of this.

The principle of the ultra-microscope is simply that, instead of directing a powerful beam of light into the microscope through the liquid to be examined, it is sent horizontally into the liquid at right angles to the line of vision—from the side. Then, if the liquid is optically empty—if it has no floating particles—there is nothing to reflect the light, and the field of vision appears quite dark.

If, on the other hand, tiny particles are present in the liquid, the light is reflected, and the liquid so points of light stand out against the dark background, making the particle visible.

To insure their always being fresh, we buy our Chocolates and Chocolate Bars each week direct from the Nelson, Willard and Cowan factories. Just remember you'll always get fresh Chocolates at Wallace's.

GREATER THAN THE SPHINX

Statue of Buddha, in Western China, is Truly One of the Marvels of the World.

For many years it has been known that about fifty miles from Jah-ding, in western China, there is a very large and remarkable statue of Buddha, but it was not until a very few years ago that it was ever described by an occidental.

Dr. Sprague, an authority on things Chinese, visited it. At the end of two days' travel he reached the image and found it to be a colossus in size, although not so large as rumor had made it out. The upper half of the hillside consists of a sandstone cliff and in this a niche fifty feet broad has been cut leaving a central core of stone that is carved in the shape of a figure seated in European style, not cross-legged, as Buddha is so often represented. The traveler found the height of the image to be not less than one hundred feet.

When the doctor came within sight of the great Buddha he paused and rested from his journey at a point near one of the gates to the walled city that lies in the valley below. As his eyes turned to the great face, which has been gilded until it shines like metal, as the immense size and perfect preservation of the idol made their impression, the thought came to him that "this is more marvelous than many of the world's boasted wonders."

He thought of the colossi at Thebes and the Sphinx. Scarred and ruined and defaced by the hand of man and the effects of time, they are little better than lumps of battered rock. But far in the west of China sits this old Buddha, unnoticed and almost unknown, yet greater in size than the Egyptian colossi, with his proportions preserved intact, with temples about and below him, and with the priests in attendance to keep the incense burning at his feet. There he sits, grimly gazing out over the tiled roofs of the city that lies before him.

Consul.

The word consul is of Latin origin, being derived from the verb consulo, I consider. As the name of an office it also had its origin in Rome in the early days of the republic.

The constitution of that republic was democratic beyond anything we know today. The source of all power was the people. They elected the executive magistrates and the judges, and they enacted the laws, not through chosen representatives, but by direct action in an assembly of the whole people called the comitih. They had two chief executive officers of equal rank, elected each year, who were at the head of the work of governign. These were called consuls. In the end corruption and recurring periods of unrucly brake down the government, and an autocracy grew up, but which for years preserved many of the forms of the dead democracy. For five centuries under the empire there were consuls, but they were without any real power. As a title of an office the word consul is still in use. Today a consul is a representative, of his country's commercial interests in a foreign country. The political representative is the ambassador.

Getting at the Facts.

"I wish to marry your daughter," said the young man to the girl's father, according to the Detroit Free Press.

"Does she love you?" asked the father.

"Yes, sir. And I love her."

"Well, that, of course, is the first necessary condition, but there are a few more questions I must ask. Have you made any shopping tours with her lately?"

"No, sir."

"Ever been in a department store and asked the present price of women's suits and hats?"

"No, sir."

"Know anything at all about the cost of provisions?"

"Only that which I have learned from the talk of others."

"Well, young man, my advice to you is to make a trip of investigation. I don't know what your present income is, but after you've learned for yourself just what those clothes she wears are costing me, if you come back and say that you can support her in the style to which she has been accustomed lately, I'll give my consent."

The Eppo.

The Times of London announces the discovery by Captain Phillips in British Ituanda of a species of chicken. The natives know it as an eppo or empayi and regard it with a good deal of respect as the totem-beast of Mushaga, the now reigning chief of that country of Ituanda, the greater part of which the peace conference has placed under the tutelage of Belgium. The bamboo forest of Mount Sabino and other mountain forests provide the habitat of the eppo. In appearance the creature resembles a large goat and is a rufous black with a bright yellow stripe along about half its backbone. It has a stumpy tail, orbi horna, and marsh hoofs.

The Humble Check Book.

"I suppose," remarked the plaintive person, "that there are men in the world who can forget about their selves and rejoice in the success of others."

"I should hope so," replied Senator Sorghum. "That is what many a campaign contributor is expected to do after the election is over."

Negro Tells Interesting, If True, Story of a Porpoise.

A negro fisherman once told me a tale for which I will not vouch, but which I am prepared to accept, since I think it may be true. With another negro he was taking a scow through one of the smaller tideways that wind through the marshes of this coast—a narrow, sallow creek which went almost dry at low tide. A fair wind was blowing, and the men had rigged a square sail to help them as they poled their clumsy craft along against the ebbing tide. Suddenly, when they had reached a point where the creek was very narrow, they saw a porpoise in the water ahead of them. Tempted, no doubt, by the shrimp and mullet which swarm in incalculable myriads in the marsh waterways, this porpoise had remained far up the creek longer than was prudent, and now he was hurrying downstream with the ebb in order to reach the deeper waters below before the creek channel became too shoal. The scow blocked his way. On neither side was there enough water for him to pass by, and it was doubtful whether there was sufficient depth for the porpoise to dive and pass underneath. He increased his speed as he drew near the scow, until he was fairly flying through the water; and then, when he was still a few feet from the square bow of the craft, he launched himself up into the air. In a long, beautiful curve he passed clear over the forward deck of the scow, struck the sail head on, broke through it like a greyhound leaping through a paper hoop at a circus, and, with no apparent slackening of his momentum, cleared the scow's stern and plunged into the water behind it.

The scow was some twenty feet in length, according to the negro's story. This would imply a leap of at least twenty-four feet by the porpoise, and probably more, because these scows are generally high-sided craft, and the animal must have left the water several feet in front of the square bow in order to reach the elevation necessary to clear it. Perhaps the part of the story which seems most difficult to believe is the porpoise's plunge through the sail; yet this may not be a very serious obstacle, after all. The sails on most of the marsh negroes' boats are weird and ancient makeshifts, composed of many patches of different sorts of cloth sewed together; and a plunging porpoise might well go through one of these crazy quilts as easily as a six-inch shell penetrates a brick wall. I would not swear that the story just as the man told it is inaccurate; and, be that as it may, there are many other illustrations, less spectacular but no less impressive, of the porpoise's ability to travel as fast as, and probably faster, than any shark.—Herbert R. Sass in Harper's Magazine.

Compressed Air in Quarries.

Compressed air is being used, near Atlanta, Ga., is quarrying granite, and it has been found to have advantages over the more usual method when the granite rock is devoid of "joints," says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Two three-inch holes are drilled, a short distance apart and perpendicularly to the rock, to a depth of eight feet. After removing the drills, a spoonful of black blasting powder is dropped to the bottom of each hole, tamped with clay, and the holes wired so that they can be electrically fired. The effect of the explosion is to start cracks in the rocks at right angles to the holes. This operation is repeated a number of times, until it is certain that the cracks radiate from the bottom of the holes to a distance of about seventy-five feet. Into each hole, to slightly over half its depth, there is then inserted a one-inch pipe, and the space surrounding the pipes in the holes is filled with sand, tamped so as to seal it against air pressure. Connections are then made between the upper ends of the pipes and the quarry air compressor, which continues to pump air, at 100-pound pressure, into the holes until the block of rock above the cleavage already formed is torn from the surrounding rock.

Gossip of the Skies.

A blind boy of Worcester College, by eavesdropping on the gossip of the skies, is able to keep the rest of the college in touch with the news of the world.

He went blind two years ago at the age of fifteen, and at that time was keenly interested in wireless. A special wireless installation was erected on the top of the building to keep the boy interested in his hobby.

Wireless telephony gives him the news of the London-Paris flights daily, and many of the remarks exchanged between the pilots of the trans-Channel service cause considerable amusement among the boys.

Foldhu's news of arriving ships, Berlin's comments on the Silesian question, rapid-fire messages from the Eiffel Tower, and even New York's criticisms of Admiral Sims have been overheard by this boy, and retailed to his friends.

Lawns of Concrete.

Most people know the bother and expense attached to a grass lawn. It demands continual work, for it has to be watered regularly—not an easy task these days. In addition it must be rolled and cut, and bad patches must be made good.

All this trouble and expense can be avoided by a permanent laborsaving imitation of nature—a lawn made of concrete. Such lawns were tried last summer with more than ordinary success.

The concrete has to be laid down smoothly and then painted a natural-looking green. One coat every spring is sufficient, and if the work is well done the lawn appears, from across the road, like the genuine article.

Swatting Flies for a Living.

The swamps are the favorite breeding-place of a species of large black fly resembling the English bluebottle. The black mud harbors hordes of these insects.

The weapons of the hunter are a large, fine-meshed net and a bag to carry the "catch."

As soon as they are disturbed, the flies rise in dense masses. The hunter strikes right and left, and as quickly as he swings the net the flies are caught and transferred to the bag.

Hundreds of small boxes are arranged in a convenient spot, and as fast as the fly bags are brought in they are emptied into the boxes and the hunt is resumed. Each box is fitted with a wooden plunger. As the boxes are filled, the plunger is squeezed down and then subjected to heavy pressure.

Next day a solid, convealed cake of pressed flies is removed from the box, exposed for a time to the fierce sunshine, and the fly-cakes are then ready for packing and exportation to every part in the world as bird food.

Dodge That Jelly Fish.

It is difficult to imagine that the jelly fish—a mere mass of jelly which turns to water under the sun's rays—is capable of doing harm to anyone. But those who have experienced his sting know how formidable he can be.

When he is in the water the jelly fish looks like an inverted saucer. He contracts and expands his body alternately. Each movement brings a quantity of water through his mouth, from which he extracts the minute plants and animals that form his food.

The jelly fish cannot deal with living animals if they are of any size; to be of use to him they must be dead. For this reason he is provided with an amazing network of fine stinging threads, which hang down from the main sauser.

Each of these threads—they are often several feet in length — is armed with millions of tiny, stiff, sharp-pointed hairs. If they touch any living thing they penetrate its skin at once, and each discharges a minute drop of poisonous, irritating fluid. Small animals are killed at once, and the jelly fish's pump conveys them to the gaping mouth that awaits them.

On human beings a painful red spot appears wherever a hair has penetrated, and frequently the person stung suffers from cramp and sickness.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Pass the Critical Period Safely and Comfortably by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"I was going through Change of Life and suffered for two years with headache, nervousness, sleepless nights and general weakness. Some days I felt tired and unfit to do my work. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and found good results, and I also took it a very helpful Spring tonic and use it for constipation from which I suffer much. I recommended Vegetable Compound to several friends, and am willing you should publish this."—Mrs. MARTHA W. LONGSTAY, 884 Robinson St., Regina, Sask.

If you have warning symptoms such as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backache, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, insomnia, and dizziness, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin taking the medicine at once. We know it will help you as it did Mrs. Lindsay.
